THE MAILS, &c.

The P. and O. mail, bringing the above dates, was delivered, via Brindisi, this morning, its due date. The next inward mail (French), with dates, Yokohama Feb. 6, Shanghai Feb. 9, Hong Kong Feb. 15, Singapore Feb. 23, is due, via Marseilles, on Monday next, the 25th inst., but will probably reach London by Friday, the 22nd. The Pacific mail, from Yokohama, Jan. 23, was received, via San Francisco, on the 11th inst., but the advices had been anticipated.

Telegrams by the China Submarine and Red Sea Lines are being received with the usual regularity, occupying, allowing for difference of time, about five hours in transmission. A fracture reported last week in the Great Northern Company's cable between Shanghai and Nagasaki has been repaired, and this line is also in working order.

List of Passengers.

PASSENGERS INWARD.

By this mail to Brindisi, per P. and O. steamer Candia, arrived March 14.—From Hong Kong: Mr. J. D. Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. Sharp.

To Southampton, per P. and O. steamer Simla, expected to arrive March 25.—From Penang: Mr. Holst. From Galle: Mr. and Mrs. Hodgson, two servants, and three second-class passengers.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN.

YOKOHAMA.

The present P. and O. mail brings advices from this port to Jan. 30; the London mail of Dec. 1 had arrived out.

The Japan Mail publishes the following list of the names of the Japanese Embassy recently despatched to America and Europe:—The list is official, and the titles as given by the Japanese themselves. H.E.T. Ewakura, Ambassador; H.E.S.T. Kido, H.E.J.T. Okubo, H.E.J.H. Ito, H.E.J.M. Yamagutsi, Vice-Ambassadors; T. Tanabe, N. Ga, G. Foukoutsi, First Secretaries; Watanabe, S. Komats, T. Hayash, K. Nagano, K. Kawazi, Second Secretaries; M. Ikeda, 4th do.; T. Ando, 4th do.; Gov. Nakayama, Woutsumi, Yassuba, Nomura, Yashukawa, Kume, Attaches; T. Takassaki, Hon. Higashikuze, Itsutszi, Murata, Hon. Sasaki, Commissioners; Hiraka, Attache; Okawutsi, do.; Nakano, do.; F. Nagano, do.; General Yamada, Commissioner; Harada, Attache; Hon. Hida, Commissioner; Oshima, Attache; Wurio, do.; Hon. M. The following is the translation of a message of the Mikado to the nobles, giving permission to them to take the female members of their families abroad:—

"We are of opinion that the reputation for civilisation, wealth and strength possessed by the countries of the globe arises from nothing else than the power of industry and perseverance which characterise their populations; and the reason why the populations develop their knowledge, polish their talents, and give effect to their power of industry and perseverance, is that each individual does his best as a member of the nation. We have lately changed our ancient system and desire to run equally in the race with other countries. How can we hope to succeed unless the whole population unanimously exert to the full its power of industry and perseverance? The nobles in particular occupying, as they do, an honourable and important position and being the object of the observation of the whole people, are looked upon as models of action. Is it possible to dispense with an extraordinary degree of industry and perseverance on their part, such as will fit them to be the leaders in animating the people? Their responsibilities are indeed grave. In order to secure the result of industry and perseverance, nothing else is necessary but to develop knowledge and to polish the talents. In order to develop knowledge and polish the talents, nothing else is required but to fix the eyes upon the aspect of the civilisation of the world, to cultivate pursuits of actual utility, to go abroad for purposes of study in foreign countries, and to learn practically. It may suffice for those whose advanced age precludes their being able to remain and study, to make a tour abroad, to widen their circle of knowledge by seeing and hearing, and thus to improve their understanding.

"In consequence, too, of the want of a system of female education in our country, many women are deficient in intelligence. Besides, the education of children is a thing which is connected intimately with the instruction of their mothers, and is really a matter of the most absolute importance. There is, therefore, of course, not the slightest objection to those who go abroad taking their wives, daughters, or sisters with them, so that they may learn that the instruction of females in foreign countries has a good foundation, and may become acquainted with the right system of educating children. If you will, all of you, really give your attention to this question and exert your powers of industry and perseverance, there will be no difficulty for us in advancing in the region of civilisation, in laying the foundation of wealth and strength, and in running equally in the race with the other countries of the world. Do you therefore take well to heart our wishes, each of you do his best, and assist us in gaining the object of our hopes."

Eight new fire-engines have arrived from the well-known house of Shand and Mason, imported under the order of Mr. Thomas Davis for the Japanese Government. Each engine is intended to be worked by twenty-two men and is supplied with eighty feet of leather hose, and 500 feet of canvas hose. The engines looked well, their numbers being painted in gold Japanese characters on the side, and were otherwise neatly got up with lamps, buckets, &c., also a helmet and trumpets for the head fire men. After they had been inspected by the head of the Japanese fire department, who minutely examined each, one was taken and tried in the Saibansho Court-yard, and made capital practice, throwing a heavy stream 102 feet horizontally.

We learn that the communication from the Japanese Government to the foreign representatives respecting the export of rice is couched in the following terms:—"Leaving the prohibition against the export of rice as it exists, it is intended henceforward, when there is a surplus in the country, as circumstances may demand, that some of the rice stored by the Board of Finance shall be sold at the open ports by public tender to Japanese and foreigners for exportation. The date for sending tenders will be notified on each occasion at the open ports. On certain occasions the Government may export on its own account."

There is no other news of importance from this port.

HIOGO AND OSAKA.

The Pacific mail brings dates from these ports to the 18th January. The Pacific mail from New York Nov. 20 arrived out on the 1st, and the French mail from London Nov. 24 on the 17th Jan.; telegrams from London to Jan. 13 had been received. The following items of intelligence are from the Hiogo News:—

The guard-houses which have for so long dotted the outskirts of the concession and native town are tenantless at last. The abolition of these grievances began at Kanagawa—of which the present Chiji is, we believe, a man of enlightened and advanced views—and has since extended both to Hiogo and Osaka. There can be no doubt that if Treaty arrangements had been conscientiously carried out they would never have had any existence at all, for very little trouble had to be taken by even the most careless inquirer, in order for him to be satisfied that the only reason of their existence was to put pressure in the shape of a tax on those who returned from Kobe carrying purchases made from foreigners, which was a clear and unmistakable infringement of Treaty rights.

There has been quite a revolution on a small scale, in the local Government of Osaka, all the upper officials having retired. The late Chiji, Mr. Yotsusuji, the late Daisanji, Mr. Iwashita, and the late Gon-daisanji, Mr. Mori, are all summoned to Yedo; the late Shosanji, Mr. Doi, alone of the higher officers remaining in Osaka. It is said that there is to be no new Chiji appointed. The new Gonchiji, or Governor, is Mr. Watanabi, formerly Daisanji, and Mr. Fujimura, late Shosanji of Kioto-fu, is the new Sanji or Vice-Governor. The other appointments of the higher grades have not yet been filled up.

We hear that nearly all the telegraph posts between Hiogo and Simonosaki have been erected, and that the completion of the line will be pushed forward as rapidly as circumstances will permit. It is highly probable, therefore, that before the first year commenced has reached its meridian the line will be completed between Hiogo and Nagasaki, thus connecting the settlement with the telegraphic system of the world.

There has been launched at Hiogo the largest steamer yet built at the port. She has been named the Tamai Yoshi Maru, and her dimensions are as follows:—Length all over 125 feet; length of keel 116 feet; beam 18 feet; depth of hold 7 feet 6 inches; tonnage 160 tons. She is a twin screw, and her engines, which were made in England to order, are double, high pressure, and fifty H.P. She has been built to the order of Messrs. E. C. Kirby, and Co., of Yokohama and Hiogo.

A steamer has also been launched at Osaka; she has been named the Osaka-maru, and was built by Mr. P. Seger to the order of Messrs. Kniffler and Co. The following are the dimensions, &c.:—Length, 86 feet; breadth of beam, 15½ feet; tonnage, 45 tons; depth of cargo hold, 4½ feet; engines, 23-horse power, nominal; draught of water, 3¾ feet; will carry 250 passengers. The vessel, it is said, is intended to run in the Inland Sea.

The usual Christmas festivities have passed off at these ports in the old time-honoured manner. Dinners have been the usual channels which have been chosen for the manifestation of the sentiments which pervade to a greater or less extent all European society at this time, and whatever may be said theoretically as to the propriety of celebrating a great festival of the Christian Church by an enormous "feed," it is certain at least that it answers well the purpose which is supposed to underlie all the celebrations, in spreading goodwill amongst men.

For the first time since the port was opened, Osaka owns a club of its own. The new institution, which is to be opened on New Year's Day, is located in the house lately in the occupation of Messrs. Adrian and Co., No. 16, Foreign Concession. The Club contains a well lighted billiard-room, some forty-four feet by twenty, a comfortable reading room, and other conveniences.

Lot six of the Foreign Concession at Hiogo has been sold by auction. The lot and buildings, which are centrally situated on the Bund, were knocked down to Messrs. Lehmann, Hartmann, and Co. for the sum of Mex. $18,000. This is, we believe, something under the original cost, and shows a depreciation in the value of real estate.

NAGASAKI.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

NAGASAKI, Jan. 15, 1872, VIA SAN FRANCISCO.

My last usual monthly letter was despatched on the 15th ult.; since then the following mails have been delivered here, viz., 27th October, 3rd, 10th, and 17th November—the latter yesterday morning, fifty eight days from London.

The interval has been marked by fresh deportations of native Christians from the villages in the vicinity of the entrance to this port, but so secretly has it been done that reports appear to have reached Hiogo before any became public here. It is beyond doubt that some people have been removed, but the numbers stated range from sixty up to as high as 300, and the whole of them are men. In my first letter to you, despatched exactly two years ago, I had to convey similar intelligence to what this letter contains. At that time I was enabled to collect reliable and minute information regarding what was taking place, but at the present time everything is enveloped in deep mystery, or I should have written to you at once had I been able to give you particulars concerning the present raid. The missionaries here have been asked, but they are very guarded in their statements, and say that the publication of details, while not serving those already persecuted, would, in all probability, lead to more being suspected and becoming victims. Two years ago I could understand the Japanese authorities committing any barbarity, but at the present time such acts are incomprehensible, and are so contradictory to their recent policy in worldly matters.

It has been surmised by some that the deportation has a more political than a religious object, and that it is done with the view of colonising the island of Yesso; but, owing to its being carried out in such a paternal and secret manner, it has led to rumours getting afloat that it is a crusade against the Cross. This version may be the correct one, but one impossible to either contradict or confirm. As the Japanese Mission is likely to visit England shortly, they will perhaps be able to furnish the British Government with particulars of their actions, in order that the Foreign Minister in his turn may be able to give some satisfaction to any member of Parliament who might, in the interest of humanity, be led to ask what is the meaning of them. The red-hot Catholic journal of this place, the Nagasaki Gazette, has a furious article on the question; there is so much exaggeration in it, I do not send you clippings.

Of general news there is again but little to give. A cattle mania has been the prevailing topic here, and the natives have been purchasing and reselling amongst themselves at prices so absurd as to cause considerable doubts to exist as to whether the whole affair was not greatly exaggerated. By this steamer you will receive a Nagasaki Express giving a few particulars relating to it, which in some of the items is below the actual prices paid. In one instance as high as $800 was offered and refused for a very fine English pig, but nothing equal, I should imagine, to those taking prizes in England. After rapidly running its course and being the means of causing large importations, prices have declined very considerably, and will leave a very heavy loss to the foreign importers, who will have either to hold them and incur very heavy expenses for food, &c., or sell them to the Japanese for what they will realise. It is said that cattle is to be bred in Japan in future, and hence the excited demand which has been caused by speculators, who will now be able to purchase at their own prices and make foreigners pay for the excitement.

In re Glover and Co. a meeting has been held to confirm the appointment of Mr. J. J. van der Pol in succession to Mr. F. P. Tombrink. A report will be printed and issued as usual. The mine will be worked for the benefit of the creditors; which accounts for no dividend being declared yet, as the funds realised go to the account of working expenses.

Christmas-day at this place was as mild as spring in England, and quite out of order, as the climate at this time of year has closely resembled England of late years. Our harbour, which has been but scantily supplied with vessels, is now bare, and it is supposed that sailing vessels find more remunerative employment elsewhere—although the current rate for coals to Shanghai is $3½ to $3¾ per ton. H.B.M. gunboat Thistle left this morning for Hiogo. Vessels in harbour: Boyarin, Ermak, and Gornoslay, Russian. Exchange on London 4s. 6¼d. per dollar; Nebus 410 to 415 per $100.

CHINA.

SHANGHAI.

Dates extend to the 2nd February; the French mail from London Dec. 8 arrived out Jan. 26. The following summary is from the North China Herald:—

We are glad to learn that the port of Kiungchow in Hainan is to be opened to foreign trade. It was declared open by the treaties of Tientsin, but has never been claimed. Why this port has remained closed is not clear. Perhaps no one merchant has ever pressed his claim to settle there with sufficient energy, or perhaps our economical Government has shied at the cost of a house and Consul's salary. At last, however, the hesitation seems to have passed away, and there is every probability that Kiungchow will be opened in the spring.

In rather remarkable contrast to the rumours which our Tientsin correspondent has lately quoted of Imperialist reverses in Kansuh, the Peking Gazette of Dec. 20 describes a series of important victories. Which are we to believe? The places named are not marked on any map to which we have had access, so it is impossible to fix the exact scene of action. The only means of determining it approximately is the mention of the River Tao, which takes its rise in the southern extremity of Kansuh, at the foot of the Peh-ling range, and falls into the Yellow River at Lanchow. The probability is that the places referred to are in the south of the province, on the borders of Koko-nor.

Chung-how and his suite arrived on the 26th Jan., by the Messageries steamer Meikong. He has since paid official visits to the foreign Consuls and the Commissioner of Customs.

The prospectus is published of a "Shanghai and Pootung Foundry and Engineering Company." The company is formed, with a capital of Tls. 100,000 in 1,000 shares, to take over the business established by Mr. David Muirhead, and its directorate represents four large steamship interests.

The Woosung bar again! The steamer Malacca, which left on the 24th Jan., was unable to cross, and had to return to port and discharge a portion of her cargo. She then succeeded in getting over, on the 26th. In order to be able to get over the bar on the top of high water, the present mail steamer had to leave at 4 P.M. on the 1st Feb., and passengers and cargo had to follow. In consequence of the disreputable condition of this bar, the trade of the port is being seriously inconvenienced. It is high time the Chinese authorities did something; the harbour dues are carefully and punctually collected, and it is both just and necessary that out of this fund the approaches to the harbour and all connected with it should be kept in order.

In monopolies, the axe has been laid to the root of the tree; the establishment of a company to run boats on the Yangtsze is an acknowledged fact, and the million are about to derive advantages. For those immediately interested in the companies the position is at present uncertain; a fight will cost all so concerned much, but it seems to us that by avoiding war the companies may retain and secure a profitable trade, and the public a reasonable rate of freight. There are other monopolies which await the axe—not the least prominent, the Gas Company. This ought to be in the hands of the Municipal Council, which, instead of paying upwards of Tls. 10,000 per annum, would both light the place and derive a profit of considerable amount to go towards reduction of taxes.

The Chinese giant, Chang, continues to attract no slight curiosity alike from natives and foreigners. On the 30th Jan. he paid the Oriental Bank a visit, and a considerable crowd gathered in front of the building to obtain a sight of him, the numbers being constantly augmented by new arrivals, till a policeman found it necessary to require the Chinese portion to move on and not obstruct the side-walk. Chang's exit was delayed, and expectation satisfied itself for a few minutes with affecting to mistake for the giant several prominent members of the community, as they came out. In a short time Chang's tall figure really emerged, and the crowd were awed into silent observation as he walked away—the impression left by his appearance being that he was every inch a giant. Chang was dressed in foreign costume, including a "bell topper," and was accompanied by his foreign wife and a foreign-dressed Chinawoman. None of the party took any notice of the curiosity excited by their presence.

The annual meeting of subscribers to the British Church establishment was held at the British Consulate on the 29th Jan. The accounts, showing a balance of debt on the Church of Tls. 2,487.62, and on the parsonage of Tls. 2,441.64, were passed. A resolution to collect Tls. 11 extra from each seat-holder for the present year, for the purpose of wiping off the former amount, was carried. Messrs. J. Dent and A. A. Krauss were elected trustees, and Mr. F. R. Gamwell treasurer for the present year, and a vote of thanks was given to the subscribers to the Hobson memorial window.

Falls of snow occurred here more or less heavily from the 23rd to the 29th Jan. A heavy fall on the 31st put a stop to the usual weekly paper hunt. The snow did not, however, remain long on the ground, and all trace of it is now gone.

A Chinkiang correspondent writes on the 22nd Jan.:—The rice export continues unabated; the river is full of craft loading for the South. Another attempt is to be made to moor the hulks on the south side of the river; but rumour says a wharf is again talked of—and no place wants one more.

The Tientsin correspondent of the North China Daily News writes:—The people are dying in great numbers daily. A brother of one of my servants saw two people breaking open a child's coffin on the plain. This could hardly be for the clothes on it. He supposed they were going to eat the body. The authorities say, when speaking of the starving people, "there are too many people;" meaning too many to be fed by them, and it is impossible to avoid their dying of hunger."

Several failures connected with share operations have taken place.

A dividend of 10 per cent. has been declared by the French Gas Company.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 1.

Anticipating the publication of the Customs Gazette for the last quarter of 1871, which will include returns from all the Treaty ports, the Commissioner has issued a separate pamphlet giving the statistics of trade at Shanghai for the period. There is nothing either very interesting or very important in bare comparisons of figures for corresponding intervals of time in successive years, nor from such comparisons can any valuable inferences be drawn as to the increase or decadence of trade. The falling off or increase at one place may be more than balanced by an increase or falling off at some place in the immediate neighbourhood—Chinkiang or Ningpo, for example, if we were considering Shanghai alone. Then, again, a flood or a drought somewhere in the consuming or producing districts, fed by or feeding a port, will cause a temporary stagnation, which is no index at all to altered capacities in the port; or apprehension of political trouble at no distant date will stimulate trade temporarily, being followed, of course, by a corresponding reaction. An instance of this occurred at Tientsin shortly after the massacre. The Chinese for some months believed implicitly that war would be declared by one or several of the Western Powers, and that trade at the northern ports would be soon seriously interrupted. Accordingly during the six months following the massacre the native merchants imported most freely, trusting to get the goods into the interior before difficulties of transport should arise. So at Chefoo, in the third quarter of 1870 the dealers in foreign goods bought far in excess of their actual requirements, expecting (and no doubt devoutly hoping) that troubles at Tientsin would compel purchasers from the interior to resort to Chefoo, instead of to the more northern port. Thus the figures were temporarily inflated, but it is to be remarked that for many months the impression of impending war remained so vivid that large consignments of foreign goods continued to be daily sent into the interior from Chefoo. But it is both interesting and important to institute comparisons between two periods of considerable length separated by a long interval. Looking back to an old volume of returns I find that in 1861 the total value of the import and export trade of Shanghai was £22,853,537; namely, imports £10,403,972; opium $3,742,622; exports £8,706,943. No return has yet been made for 1871, but by a little calculation we can make an approach to what it will be. The total of duties, exclusive of tonnage dues, collected during the year by the foreign Customs was Hong Kong Tls. 3,119,361, or £1,039,787, and estimating the duties at 5 per cent. ad valorem all round, we arrive at a rough guess of £20,795,740 for the total value of foreign trade here for 1871. But a falling off to the amount of the difference would be most unfairly assumed, inasmuch as in 1861 a large proportion of what now goes direct to Ningpo came first to Shanghai, while the trade of Chinkiang, such as it was, was altogether absorbed by Shanghai. At any rate, a trade of 20¾ millions sterling per annum with Shanghai alone is not to be despised, and the great share of it which passes through British hands, and especially which comes from or goes to British possessions, entitles us, we think here, to a little more consideration than Her Majesty's Government seems inclined to accord to us. I have not the figures for Shanghai alone, but, putting all the ports together, the total value of the Chinese foreign trade during 1870 was Hong Kong Tls. 131 millions, out of which there was imported from and exported to Great Britain and British possessions produce to the value of Hong Kong Tls. 116½ millions, or, to put the matter more plainly, British possessions took whatever benefit was to be taken from almost eighty-nine out of every hundred parts into which the grand total of foreign trade in China can be divided.

It is curious to observe that in spite of the preponderance of British interests, American ways of living, eating, drinking, and even talking, are in the ascendant. Perhaps it is because Cousin Jonathan knows better than we do how to get the greatest amount of living out of an assigned period of life. A few years ago Shanghai was like a slice of England transported to the East; now, as I have said, it is more like a slice of Yankee-land. The daily papers are supplemented by "Expresses" flying about the settlement at all hours of the day, and announcing startling novelties in ladies' costume, lost dogs and bank notes, or oysters freshly arrived from Ningpo or Japan. Our quiet life is thus transformed into a perpetual hurry. American stoves have supplanted English fire-places; the American game of billiards has almost choked out the good, old-fashioned three ball game; "cocktails" reign supreme at the bar and at the side board; and those gifted with a curious talent for swearing import their expletives from New York and San Francisco. The surmise is not altogether to be scouted that some of this superabundance of the American element is due to the fact that our only very great local enterprise, the Shanghai Steam Navigation Company, is almost altogether "engineered" by Americans. What amount of preponderance the German element will eventually assume remains to be seen; but it is quite certain that the Teutonic part of the community is every year rising in importance. Germans work cheaper than Englishmen or Americans can or will, and the knowledge of this is not lost on the Chinese.

At the end of last year there was, without exaggeration, an average of one lottery establishment in every street of the settlement. Theoretically objectionable, it so happened that no instance of fraud by Chinese in foreign employ, perpetrated with a view to gambling at these establishments, was brought to light. But as the occurrence of such an event was only a question of time, and as the local Chinese authorities, on principle, objected to any enterprise of the kind from which they could not derive a squeeze, the Municipal Council and the mandarins for once agreed upon a course of action, and at their separate instance the Board of Consols decided upon putting down everything in the shape of a lottery that the police could lay their hands upon. Hence, many trials before the Courts, many protests, much ill feeling, and, I fear, much ruin among the owners (chiefly Macao Portuguese) of the lottery shops. Now that these outlets for gambling are closed the Manila Government will reap a great harvest, for its agency remains untouched, and gamble the Chinese will, whatever obstacles are thrown in their way.

The attempt to represent selections from Shakespeare on the Shanghai stage, to which I alluded in my last letter, was fairly successful, and we may hope that, encouraged by its reception, our local amateurs will make further and stronger efforts to acclimatise the legitimate drama. I mention this theatrical matter, not that I suppose it will very deeply interest your readers, but merely to aid them in realising the present appearance of the changing picture of Shanghai life.

HONG KONG.

Dates are to the 8th Feb. The London mail (French) of 22nd Dec. arrived out on the 3rd Feb. The following items are from the China Mail:—

In China politics are rather stagnant. Much talk is heard concerning the opening of Kiung Chow (Hainan), and a Consular agent for the United States is said to have been appointed; but little appears to be done as yet of a general character, and the fact does not appear to claim the attention which might naturally be expected.

The loss is reported of the well-known steamer Suwonada. She left this port on the 27th Jan., and struck on a sunken rock in Haitan Straits, near Foochow; attempt was made to run her ashore, but she subsequently slipped off into deep water. Fortunately all hands were saved. The rock, though right in the fair way, has never been touched before and was therefore entirely unknown.

We hear that the Hon. R. Rowett has sent in his resignation of his seat in the Legislative Council, as a preliminary to his well-earned holiday in Europe. We shall miss a good, earnest man in Mr. Rowett. It is doubtful who his successor in the Council is to be, but the person chosen will probably be one of the present Police Commission—either Mr. Locock or Mr. Lemann.

By the Ocean Company's steamer Sarpedon we note the arrival of a score of constables from the Edinburgh police, a corps which is acknowledged to be second only to the Irish Constabulary in discipline and efficiency. They are a fine, healthy, and stalwart body of men, and appear to be very fair specimens of the corps from which they have been selected. One of them appeared in the far-famed "garb of Old Gaul," and was an object of general remark and the greatest curiosity among the Celestial crowds who witnessed the landing and parade of the new contingent.

The Chinese authorities are taking stringent precautions to prevent the abduction of coolies to Macao. The steamer Feiloon is employed in overhauling all passage-boats leaving Canton for that place, and spies are at work, it is said, to discover the haunts of the coolie-brokers, who are supposed to decoy away a large number of victims from all parts of the province.

We are glad to learn that the services of Mr. Agostinho Guilherme Romano, Portuguese Vice-Consul in this colony, have been appreciated by his Sovereign, who has just made him a knight of the Order of Christ.

We hear from Canton, in connection with the numerous burglaries and robberies that have lately taken place at Fatshan, that the mandarins there have managed to arrest thirteen men, all of whom, we learn, have confessed their guilt, of course under pain of torture, except one man, who tenaciously held to a denial, even under the most excruciating pain. The men have been forwarded to Canton for trial.

An extraordinary general meeting of the China Trader's Insurance Company was held on Feb. 1 to pass certain special resolutions affecting the Articles of Association. The Chairman, having read the notice calling the meeting, explained that the changes proposed had been forced upon the Company by the changes which had been made in other companies. It was proposed that all contributors, whether shareholders or not, should receive their fair proportion of bonus to the extent of two-thirds, the other third to go as a dividend to shareholders; and that the interest on the capital of the Company, amounting to $25,000, should go to the reserve fund, until the latter reached the sum of $300,000. The Chairman then read the special resolutions, and concluded by proposing their adoption. A resolution was afterwards carried for the liquidation of the Company, but the question of the appointment of a liquidator was deferred to the next meeting, which was fixed for Feb. 14.

A special meeting of the Union Insurance Society of Canton has been held, for the purpose of proposing and passing special resolutions to the effect that from the 1st day of January, 1872, the profits of the society, instead of being divisible as provided by Clause No. 142 of the Articles of Association of the society, shall be divided amongst the shareholders in the manner following, viz.:—that the said profits shall be divided into three equal parts, that one-third part shall be payable to the shareholders generally by way of dividend in proportion to the number of shares held by each, and that the remaining two-thirds thereof shall be distributed amongst such of the shareholders as shall have contributed business to the society in proportion to their contributions. The resolutions were carried with only one dissentient.

At a meeting of the Hong Kong Hotel Company, the directors' report and accounts were adopted.

MANILA.

The following account of the military insurrection, which was reported by telegram a month since, is from the Daily Press:—

Manila was thrown into a great state of alarm and excitement in consequence of a serious outbreak among the natives, who suddenly rose up and took possession of the Cavite Arsenal and Fort, killing several of the Spaniards. But for the prompt manner in which the governor acted, the affair would have assumed most serious dimensions. It is said that a secret society has been formed, having for its object the entire expulsion of foreigners. Some thirty to forty people occupying good positions are in custody. The governor, on receiving the information, immediately went to the barracks, and ordered the native soldiers to march at once, and by this prompt action he gave them no time to set about doing otherwise. The rebels held Cavite from Saturday night until Monday morning, having full charge of the guns, stores, and in fact everything. The governor's orders were to shoot everyone they came across, and some two hundred were despatched, not, however, before they had killed twenty-nine Spaniards. A batch of thirty to forty are to be shot this morning. On Sunday morning the town presented quite a martial appearance, the troops passing to and fro in all directions, and on Monday there was a very uneasy feeling among the people. A cry of fire was raised, and crowds rushed about in all directions, but the alarm turned out to be false. After the arrest of the more important rioters, and the return of the troops, on Tuesday matters quieted down again, and we are now going on as usual One bad sign is that several priests are mixed up in the affair, but the Governor is not the man to be overruled by priests or any one else. One of them went to him on Tuesday, asking him to spare the prisoners who had been brought in. His answer was:—"I know my business; you go and attend to yours. I shall shoot the rebels; you can pray for their souls."

We have been favoured with the following translation of the official announcement concerning the above event, which appears in the Manila papers:—

ORDER OF THE DAY.

Manila, Jan. 22, 1872.

Soldiers and Sailors,—During the night of the 20th inst., some individuals of the battalion of Marine Infantry in charge of the arsenal of Cavite, uniting with the small detachment of artillerymen in charge of the Fort of St. Philip, and some sailors—whose combined strength barely reached two hundred men—relying on the strength of their positions, gave the cry of rebellion against Spain, assassinated the Commandant of the fort, wounded his wife, and killed several unprotected officers.

The flag of the rebels did not fly over that fort more than the precise time necessary for organising the columns of attack, which, commanded by the brave General Espinar, Lieut.-Governor of these islands and efficiently aided by the naval forces under the command of Captain Manuel Carballo, acting admiral of the station, with heroic valour took the fort by assault this morning at six o'clock, bayoneting every insurgent found defending it.

In the short time that this severe combat lasted you have given me another proof of your valour, of your discipline, and of your love for Spain. I am highly satisfied with you, and in the name of the King and of the Spanish nation I thank you.

RAFAEL DE YZQUIERDO,
Captain-General of the Philippines.

BORNEO.

LABUAN.

Admiral Shadwell and the Bishop arrived at this port and were entertained by the Governor, Mr. Bulwer. Before his departure, the Admiral, accompanied by the Governor, visited the coal mines, and was highly gratified with his visit. A large quantity of the coal was taken by the ships of war, and we hear that the engineers are pleased with its good appearance. We trust this good opinion will be confirmed by a practical trial. Admiral Shadwell entertained Governor Bulwer at a dejeunér on board the Iron Duke on the morning of her departure, and the band of the ship performed a selection of fine music during the repast. She left on Feb. 1 for Manila en route to Hong Kong. The Rinaldo had left two days before, immediately after the arrival of the Teazer, in which the Governor will proceed to Brunei to pay his respects to the Sultan.

We are very glad to learn that Governor Bulwer is actively promoting the drainage of the island, which will improve its sanitary condition. The houses and grounds at the "lines" have been quite transformed, and present a very neat and clean aspect at present. Government House has also undergone many necessary alterations and repairs, by which its appearance is greatly improved. Its aspect of gloom has almost disappeared. Indeed, from all we learn, Governor Bulwer takes a lively interest in everything tending to the welfare of the Colony, and has won the esteem of all classes by his kindness and courtesy.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

—o—

SINGAPORE.

Dates by this mail are to the 15th Feb. The P. and O. mail of the 12th Jan. arrived on the 13th Feb. The following summary of news is from the Straits Times :—

The Chinese New Year festivities, which began on the 9th Feb., and will last for a fortnight, are being kept by the Chinese community in the usual manner, the principal feature that presents itself to Europeans being the roar of crackers, street wayangs, and an almost total cessation of business. The season is, however, passing off more quietly than usual, and no event worthy of note has occurred in connection with it. Even the robberies and larcenies usually so common on the approach of and during the new year are less frequent this year, and appearances indicate, if not a better state of feeling among the lower classes of Chinese, at least more regard for law and order than they have hitherto shown.

The arrivals via the Suez Canal have been the Glaucus from Liverpool, and the Buena Ventura from Liverpool, via Cadiz and Barcelona, both on the 2nd inst. The departures homeward have been the Patroclus, on the 9th, and Coringa on the 12th, both for London.

The question of the colonial steamers appears about to be reopened, if we may judge from the report of the surveyors who have recently examined the Pluto's hull, boilers, and machinery, according to which she is in a deplorable state, and requires very extensive repairs and new boilers. It was stated when she first arrived that she had been flimsily constructed, but it would appear, also, that she has not been used with regard to economy, or to anything else save the whims of the Executive, and that she has been literally worn out in constant and for the most part unnecessary labour. Never was a steamer so belaboured as has been this one, and yet it is difficult to conceive what really good service she has performed. The wanton extravagance that has characterised the local Government, both in the purchase and in the use of its steamers, is a matter that calls for some more decided protest than has hitherto been made by the public, whose money is thus being spent to no advantage.

The appointment of Mr. Campbell, Inspector-general of Police at Ceylon, as Acting Lieutenant-governor of Penang during the absence on leave of Colonel Anson, has occasioned dissatisfaction in that Settlement, not through any objection to that gentleman personally—of whom they know comparatively nothing—but because the appointment entails the loss of the services of Mr. A. N. Birch, who now fills the office, and who has shown himself eminently fitted for the position, and winning highest esteem from all by the able, energetic, and courteous manner in which he has discharged his duties. His removal will be a loss to the colony not easily repaired. The dissatisfaction at Penang with the administration of the affairs of the colony is more general than we have hitherto been willing to believe.

The case of the colonial steamer Pluto is a very serious one, and should attract the attention of the public more than it appears to do. Here is a new steamer, especially selected for its fitness for our requirements by the Colonial-office, "bust up" in less than a year and a half. Here is a new vessel, costing the colony between eighty and a hundred thousand dollars, not eighteen months ago, in want of new boilers and heavy repairs, if we are to believe the mildest report which reaches us. It will be the duty of the unofficial members of the Legislative Council to inquire into this important subject when "Sir Harry Ord comes back," and the inquiry they should institute should not only show the treatment the vessel has received at the hands of the Executive, but in what manner the result might have been avoided or at least postponed.

We learn that Mr. Shephard, Assistant Colonial Engineer, has been appointed Acting Colonial Engineer during the absence on leave of Major McNair, and that A. W. V. Cousins, Esq., has been appointed Acting Controller of Convicts.

The Spanish steamer, Buena Ventura, Captain Echevaria, from Liverpool 1st December, via Cadiz, Barcelona, Suez Canal and Galle, arrived at Tanjong Pagar Wharf with fifty-seven passengers for Manila.

The circulation of the Banks is thus given :—Chartered Bank of India $357.917 ; Chartered Mercantile Bank $348,294 ; Oriental Bank $289,895.

The objections raised by the London and China Express against the construction of the Singapore Railway by the Government have not hit the true ground upon which the merchants here oppose the undertaking. Neither does the letter of "A Singapore Merchant," in that paper, represent the views of the majority, or even a large proportion, of the merchants of this place. There is no reason why the Government should not be able to construct the line as cheaply and as well as private enterprise could do it, especially here, where it has control of such a body of convict labeurers. But barring the misappropriation of the money required, the great fear is, that its management in Government hands will not be as satisfactory as it would be if worked by a joint-stock company ; and the fear is greatly strengthened by the manner in which many of the Government appointments are made and its departments managed. Having no direct interest in an economical and at the same time thoroughly satisfactory administration of the traffic, there is strong reason to apprehend that it will not only prove much more costly than in private hands, but, as it must derive its support mainly from the merchandise it conveys, the cost of that merchandise will, of course, be thereby advanced.

PENANG.

The following items are from the Penang Gazette :—

We hear that two engineers are coming out from England with H. E. Sir Harry Ord, for the Singapore Railway, as also three cadets for the Straits.

Captain Hatchell has obtained an extension of leave for six months. He will not therefore come out before the end of the year.

There is every prospect of the establishment of a Steam Ferry between the island and the opposite coast. Two steamboats capable of carrying 30 to 40 passengers have been ordered out, to ply between Penang and Butterworth, and may be looked for by the end of the year.

The introduction of gas is to be discussed with Mr. Wells, the manager of the Singapore Gas Company.

We hear that great preparations are being made at Tongkah to give a reception to the King of Siam upon his Majesty's expected visit there on his return from Calcutta. His Majesty will, we believe, pass through Tongkah in about forty days hence, and will then proceed to Quedah, whence he will travel overland to Bangkok.

Mr. Hogge has been reinstated in the office of Inspector in the police force of the island by the Inspector General. On the 1st January last his services were dispensed with by the Administrator, on the ground that he had been installed into office without the sanction of Government.

IMPORTS.

SHANGHAI.—The market had been quiet in view of the near approach of the China New Year. Grey Shirtings : Holders continued very firm, but there was little inquiry, and consequently few transactions of importance had taken place. Foreign speculators, however, had paid extreme rates for Dewhurst's Eagles, Tls. 2. 0. 2 to 2. 0. 5 had been the prevailing rates for distant clearance. White Shirtings : No change in the market. T-Cloths : Good demand for 6 lbs. and 7 lbs. Mexican qualities, but commoner counts not altogether neglected ; market for all kinds firm. Drills : Transactions in Dutch and English makes to extent of 20,000 pieces at last quotations ; American, no sale. Jeans : Unchanged. Sheetings : About 4,500 pieces English Sheetings placed at Tls. 3.5 to 3.30 for 14 lbs. to 15 lbs. Fancy Cottons : Little or no business doing. Woollens : Scarcely any inquiry, but market firm at last quotations. Metals.—Nailrod and Bar Iron : 29,000 bundles Nailrods bought on speculation, by both foreigners and natives at last quotations, and a further advance of 1 mace per picul subsequently effected. Lead : Improved demand had caused holders to advance rates to Tls. 5 for L.B. ; buyers at Tls. 4.85 to 4.90. Coal : Market dull and inactive.

HONG KONG.—Advices from the coast ports reported a cessation of demand for manufactures generally, but as dealers were barely supplied, a good inquiry was expected when the Chinese holidays should be finished. At this port a large business had been transacted in all classes of staples at gradually enhanced values. At the close trade was comparatively quiet, as the majority of dealers had supplied themselves, and until business in the country is fairly resumed and their purchases go into consumption, transactions were likely to be upon a restricted scale. Yarn: 16/24s taken to a good extent by foreigners and natives on speculative account, and a rise of $2 established on fine qualities; a few sales of 28/32s reported; good chops wanted at an advance upon last rates; 38/42s dull, without alteration in price. Grey Shirtings: Limited supplies of 7 lbs. led to a good inquiry at an improvement of 5 cents; 8.4 lbs. asked for at a rise of 2 to 3 cents; 9 to 10 lbs. also generally advanced. White Shirtings taken to small extent at an advance of about 5 cents in the lower reeds. T-Cloths: 6 lbs. common still scarce and tended upwards; 7 lbs. in good supply, but importers not anxious sellers; Mexicans 6 lbs. improved, but no sales effected; 7 lbs. Mexicans firmly held, and an advance expected; large sales of 8 lbs. at rather better values. Drills quiet. White Spots and White Brocades advanced 10 cents, but sales difficult to effect. Dyed Spots and Dyed Brocades in very small stock, and found buyers at last quotations. Dyed Damasks not wanted. Chintzes without alteration. Gentian Twills saleable to a limited extent. Velvets in small supply, but buyers not anxious to operate. All Woollen and Worsted Goods improving. Metals: Nail Rod Iron advancing slowly, and with firmness of importers a further improvement may be looked for; Bar, Hoop, and Round Iron all tended upwards; Lead in rather better request for long delivery, but importers were asking an advance upon current rates.

MANILA.—The market had been very quiet during the fortnight and little change in values had taken place. Sales during January had been considerably under the average amount, and very much less than those of January last year; Importers, however, as a rule, held their stocks firmly for fully last mail's rates, but a fractional advance on quotations at once checked business.

BATAVIA.—Messrs. Houghton and Co. report little alteration in the market. Telegraphic advices from Europe had made holders firmer in their demands, but not much improvement was looked for until the cessation of the wet monsoon.

SINGAPORE.—Messrs. Boustead and Co. report as follows:—Manchester Goods: With continued favourable advices from home holders keep very firm, and quotations for all descriptions show a further slight advance, but business has been limited, owing to the Chinese New Year. 39 inch Grey Shirtings: Sales of 6 lbs. at $1.95 to 2; 7 lbs. quiet at $2.27½ to 2.30; considerable sales of 8¼ lbs. at $2.65 to 2.67½, the bulk taken at the lower quotation, on speculation; 45 inch 9 lbs., quiet at $3.10; 8 lbs, nominal at $2.47½ to 2.50; 36-inch Grey Supers: Good demand for No. 1 at $2.07½ to 2.10; No. 2 and 3 in little inquiry: 36 inch White Shirtings: Fair demand for medium and fine at better prices, low, continue very dull at low rates; 45-inch: Inquiry limited at $3.50 to 3.52½; 45-in White Cambrics: There is still a good demand for 15/16s, with large sales at $31¾ to 32; 32-inch Grey T-Cloth: The advance asked has checked business; quotations 4 lbs. $1.15 to 1.17½, 4½ lbs. $1.22½ to 1.25, 5 lbs. $1.45 to 1.47½, 6 lbs. $1.70 to 1.72½ and 7 lbs. $1.95 to 1.97½; Grey Yarn: All counts firmly held; 40s in good demand, and advanced from $125 to 132½; 30s. very quiet, at $111; 18/24s met with some attention at $97½ to 107½; Woollens of all descriptions in very little demand, and no change in prices.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

YOKOHAMA.—A steady business done, and the market at the close was firmer, as stocks were becoming reduced, owing to limited receipts. For New York the Ada and Coulnakyle were loading.

HANKOW.—No further supplies had come in, and no transactions are reported.

KIUKIANG.—No settlements made, but five chops of Green and one of Black shipped to Shanghai during the interval.

SHANGHAI.—Black: Purchases had been very limited, and consisted almost entirely of Shuntaam produce. Prices showed no quotable change. The stock was reduced to about 2,800 chests, and further supplies, it was expected, would not exceed 3,000 chests. Green: Fair enquiry throughout the interval, and settlements exceeded those of the previous fortnight. Prices showed little change from those current on departure of last English mail, but towards the close holders had shown some anxiety to dispose of their stocks, in view of the approaching Chinese New Year. The following was the range of prices paid, excepting a parcel of Teenaki, of exceptional assortment, at Tls. 56, and a chop of Moyune at Tls. 46¾. Moyune, medium to fine, Tls. 36½ to 41; Moyune kind, medium, Tls. 34 to 36; common to fair medium, Tls. 29 to 32½; Teenkai, fine, Tls. 38¼ to 43¼; Pingsuey, Tls. 18 to 44; Local-packed, Tls. 28 to 29.

FOOCHOW.—The stock of Congou had become reduced to a very low point, and, as the Teas on offer were of poor quality, there was little or no inducement for purchasers to operate. The market had been almost entirely cleared of Oolongs, and although teamen had been ready sellers, they had succeeded in obtaining previous prices for their stocks. The total supply was said to have been received, and was slightly larger than was at first expected.

AMOY.—The season was over.

CANTON.—No business done in Scented Teas, and the only reported transactions had been in Greens, of which about 1,200 boxes had been taken for the Continent. With the departure of the single ship loading for England the export from the Canton waters for the season 1871-1872 was expected to come to an end.

SILK.

YOKOHAMA.—A steady inquiry had resulted in the settlement of about 1,000 bales, though at the close less business was doing, owing to the firmness of holders who had advanced their prices $20 to 30 per picul; stock about 800 bales.

SHANGHAI.—Messrs. C. J. Skeggs and Co.'s Circular says:—Business here has gone on quietly during the fortnight and aggregates at the close about 1,000 bales. Quotations can hardly be changed although for some lower descriptions, Tls. 5 to 10 may have been conceded by dealers anxious to realise before China New Year. A run of Chooping's chop has been settled at Tls. 585 for the "thirds," but with bad proportions of the other numbers; the Gold Lion Nos. 1 and 2 have also been sold at Tls. 560 and Tls. 540. Blue Elephants at Tls. 537½, and Red Peacocks at Tls. 522½. A good many Rereels and Yellow Silks have been taken at previous rates; stocks of the latter description are rather heavy, and natives are freely offering to ship them on joint account with foreigners.

CANTON.—Some small settlements had been made at about last rates, but the market at the close was very quiet and was expected to remain so until the native New Year holidays had passed.

PENANG.—The tone of the market was improving, prices generally showing an advancing tendency. Stocks had been reduced and holders supported by favourable advices from home were asking higher rates.

STRAITS PRODUCE.

SINGAPORE.—Tin: After the departure of last English mail about 900 piculs were taken at $36 to 36½, but the price had since declined, sales being reported of about 950 piculs at $35.62½ to 35.75; none at market at the close. Gambier: About 1,000 tons sold during the fortnight at $4.10 to 4.15. Black Pepper: Dealers refused to contract, except at a considerable advance in price; $11⅜ last paid. White Pepper in fair request at $17 to 17.75 per picul, according to quality. Pearl Sago wanted at $3.37½; manufacturers asking more. Sago Flour; Borneo and Sarawak $2.87½ to 2.90 per picul; Singapore $3.85 per picul. Tapioca in less demand and nominally worth $4.62½ per picul. Bontyne Coffee: Best quality worth $16½ per picul; none at market. Cow Hides very scarce and worth $17 to 17½ per picul. Buffalo Hides; Sales of No. 1 quality at $9 up to 11 per picul, and of No. 2 at $7½ to 8½ per picul; market cleared.

PENANG.—Business had been greatly restricted, owing to the China New Year holidays. There had, however, been few alterations in prices, all descriptions of Produce having been firm throughout the interval.

OPENING UP OF WESTERN CHINA.

LORD NORTHBROOK proceeds to India as Her MAJESTY'S representative under the most favourable auspices. It is most satisfactory to see practical business men—such as formed part of the deputation to his Lordship on the 11th inst.—come forward and congratulate him on the appointment, calling his attention at the same time to the vast interests which are now to be committed to his care, foremost among which, of course, we place the opening up of the route through Burmah to China, which has now engaged the attention of successive Governments for these ten years. Lord NORTHBROOK could not better signalise his administrative ability. A determined effort to tackle this long vexed and neglected matter would certainly yield the most important and satisfactory results. It would give such an enormous increase to the import of our cotton and woollen wares that Manchester, Bradford, and Leeds would for ever hold in grateful remembrance the appointment of Lord NORTHBROOK. We have over and over again demonstrated the advantages of this undertaking, and it is unnecessary to again go over the ground. It is well-known to all merchants engaged in the trade with China that for want of transit in the unknown and far off West, our manufactures are not taken to one tenth of the extent that they might be. The tapping of these mighty resources is well worthy of the first and best efforts of a new GOVERNOR GENERAL, and who more likely to have a zest and proper appreciation for such an undertaking than a BARING? We do therefore most earnestly trust that the question will now be vigorously pushed to a conclusion. It appears absolutely incredible that English merchants after trading with China for over a century should—in these developing days of steam and telegraph—be still confined to a few ports on the coast as the only means of introducing our manufactures into that vast Empire, while we have, by the possession of India, all the advantages and appliances necessary for supplying Yunnan and the other important provinces lying between Bengal and Peking. We may also expect a revival of the efforts made by Captain BLAKISTON to open a trade between the Yangztze and India. With proper encouragement no doubt this could be brought to a practicable and profitable conclusion.

MR. CALDWELL, OF HONG KONG.

WE are at a loss to understand why Mr. FOWLER, London banker and M.P. for Penryn, should trouble himself about the appointment of Mr. CALDWELL at Hong Kong. It is difficult to see the drift of such a question as he recently put to the UNDER-SECRETARY for the COLONIES, in Parliament. If Mr. FOWLER only knew the amount of dirt which has been swallowed in connection with this CALDWELL-ANSTEY affair and the Hong Kong Government of that day, he would have spared us the infliction of again dragging the matter to light. It seems that it has even frightened Mr. CALDWELL'S own brother to put a disclaimer in The Times that he is not the Mr. CALDWELL, fearing, we suppose, that any of the moral contamination should be fastened on him. We cannot help praising Mr. KNATCHBULL-HUGESSEN for the complete answer he gave to the question. We certainly compassionate the right honourable gentleman on his research into that Augean stable—Hong Kong affairs in 1858-60—and those who are acquainted with the matter will at once see how correctly he described the position of Mr. D. R. CALDWELL—his connection and dismissal from the Government service. It must have been a most irksome task, but if Mr. HUGESSEN takes similar pains to investigate all matters required to be answered by him, he is emphatically the right man in the right place, as Parliamentary Under-Secretary for the Colonies, and we can but hope that his colleagues will take a lesson from him.

THE NEGOTIATION OF OUR TREATY WITH JAPAN. OUR TROOPS AT YOKOHAMA.

WE are glad to see, by a letter (to be found in another column) from Sir HARRY PARKES, our Minister in Japan, who is now in London, that the manner in which we obtained our Treaty relations with Japan has been put in a proper light before the members of Parliament and the public generally. Mr. SINCLAIR AYTOUN may be pardoned for concluding that Japan forms no exception to the manner in which most of our Treaties have been obtained—not that it has been any disgrace to us, for we contend that on the whole we have conferred on the world infinitely more good than evil. Our relations with Japan have been singularly felicitous. The consummate pluck and skill of Captain SHERARD OSBORN, when he steamed up the Bay of Yedo in his frigate, with Lord ELGIN on board, was unique. Never could the motto Veni, vidi, vici, be more appropriately applied than to this act. By the tact and wisdom of two or three men, this country was saved an immense expenditure, and the Japanese also much loss of life and treasure. The success of our arms at Peking of course very considerably aided Lord ELGIN in obtaining the peaceful solution of his demands, but still it required great pluck to make prestige alone serve all purposes. Mr. AYTOUN is quite right in questioning the Government as to the English troops stationed in Japan. As he suggests, it is a most expensive and dangerous process to have to follow up our occupation by maintaining a military force on the spot. Of course he, like most home economists, looks to the increase in our military estimates in consequence, without taking into consideration the other side of the account, viz., the revenue this country derives from our trade with Japan. Some three years since, when nearly the whole of the 1st battalion of the 10th Regiment was stationed at Yokohama, we remonstrated against such a large force being kept there. At the present time the force consists of some 300 marines, and the time is fast approaching when these men can be dispensed with, as it must be understood that we do not require any force to protect our treaty rights as against the Japanese Government, but against the lawless acts of a certain sect of the Japanese people, who still believe in "improving us off the face of their land."

It is happily, however, every day more apparent that we shall steadily improve our position in Japan, and after the visit of the distinguished Ministers now on the way from Yedo to London, we shall no doubt cease to hear of the oppression of Christians or any other unsatisfactory proceedings. In reference to this mission, Mr. G. M. SPROAT writes to The Times from Salt Lake on the 14th Feb.:—

On my way to England, I am snow-bound at Salt Lake with a number of unfortunate railway travellers, among whom are the members of the Japanese Embassy. This is, perhaps, the most remarkable Embassy which has ever left an Asiatic country. The feudal system has lately been abolished in Japan, and the Embassy is sent to America and to Europe in order to study what we are accustomed to call "Western civilisation." Different members are instructed to examine the industrial, administrative, military, and educational systems of the countries which they visit. The party here consists of forty-nine officials, with five ladies, and servants and students, making a total of eighty-nine persons, all of whom are Japanese. The whole number will not go to Europe. The chief personages are of the highest official rank in Japan, which, I may remind some of your readers, has a population of thirty-five millions, who were organised as a nation, educated and civilised in many respects, before England was known in history. Some favourite theories of our "advanced political thinkers" were published ages ago by Japanese philosophers. The Embassy was well received in California, but there was an unseemly squabble in the Legislature about some hotel bills. As England is not famous for her manner of officially receiving strangers, I write to ask you to give timely notice to the public of the intended visit of these distinguished Japanese gentlemen, whose mission, I hope, may be useful to the world and to Japan. Several members of the Embassy speak English well, and their conversation shows them to be men of intelligence and culture.

WE are glad to see, by a telegram from Rome, that M. DE GEOFFROY, the new French Minister to Peking, has taken unto himself a wife, who will proceed with his Excellency to Peking. The lady is an American—a Miss RIGGS, of Washington. She will doubtless prove a great acquisition to the limited sphere of society at Peking. We fear that she will not be able to assist her husband in his diplomacy with the Chinese, as she will not be admitted to Court, as in other countries, unless, indeed, M. DE GEOFFROY accomplishes the Audience question, which, we believe, he is instructed by his Government to do. In that case, she may be presented to the Empress, and be the first foreign lady at the Chinese Court. This will indeed flatter the vanity of our American friends.

ACCORDING to our Shanghai correspondent, the Consular Staff appears to be in a considerable muddle. Mr. ALABASTER arrives out and finds no provision made for him to supersede Mr. DAVENPORT, his junior, as acting Consul—Mr. HEWLETT ordered up, and possibly Mr. HUGHES to follow. What is our Minister about that he does not marshal his forces better? On dit, Mr. FITTOCK, now in London on leave, goes out in October to Foochow, Mr. SINCLAIR coming home on leave. Mr. MONGAN leaves in May for Tientsin, when Mr. LAY goes to Chefoo, Mr. MAYERS coming home.

WE understand that the Directors of the submarine lines connected with India, from Falmouth to Bombay, have, after several meetings, decided to recommend to the shareholders an amalgamation of the three companies.

Foreign Intelligence.

HOLLAND.

ROTTERDAM, March 13.

The Bill rescinding the prohibition against workmen's coalitions has at last been discussed by the Second Chamber. The Conservatives have talked through no less than four sittings, speaking of the measure as a Bill which introduces the Commune; which encourages the Internationale; which incites the workmen to rob and plunder; a Bill which will be the downfall of the whole Fatherland! And what does this terrible Bill really enact? Only the rescinding of some illiberal stipulations of the Code Penal against the coalitions of workmen; as if they were not as free as other citizens. Our Constitution grants the right of coalition, but our workmen could not enjoy it. At last it was determined that these stipulations should be swept away, and I am happy to state that the Bill was carried by thirty-seven votes against thirty-four. As an eloquent illustration how superfluous the abolished articles were I may state that they were applied only twenty-three times in as many years.

After this important vote Mr. Heemskerk Az was permitted to interpellate the Ministry whether there was any intention of using force, in case the Elminois refused to recognise the English Protectorate, when the transfer of our Settlements on the West Coast of Africa to England is accomplished. I cannot say that our Minister of Foreign Affairs has made a favourable impression by his answer. There is something mysterious, not straightforward, in this political question. Of what value was the answer that the Government did not mean to use forcible means any more than England? And why send three men-of-war to the coast if there was no intention to use force? I am indeed of opinion that all this shifting, all these evasions of the Ministry, foretell that we shall yet hear some very strange stories from the African coast, that most probably there will be a war a outrance between the Fantynes and the Elminois, and a revolt of both these tribes against England.

The Minister of the Colonial Department has been interpellated by Mr. Mirandolle about the sugar law, and the last stipulations regulating the selling of opium. The sugar law dates, as you will remember, from June 21st, 1870. The Government culture is regulated by it for a number of years; the revenues accruing to the treasury are diminished, and the natives are to be indemnified for the disposal of their ground and their labour. This law was to be applied by a special notification of the Governor-General, and this was published in the Java Courant of the 27th December last. The working of the measure has not at all satisfied the Liberal party. The interests of the sugar-manufacturers were secured, the Treasury has had no cause to complain, but the interests of the natives have been totally neglected. There was, as Mr. Mirandolle stated, no question of an anticipated indemnification; a reasonable payment was put entirely aside, and he wished to know the opinion of the Minister. Mr. van Bosse was very prudent in his answer, and he mainly stated that all the reports were not yet in his possession, so that he was unable to give a complete reply, but he promised to publish all the documents when they are received. In a masterly and most eloquent speech the regulation of the selling of opium was then criticised by Mr. Mirandolle; and it is strange, but nevertheless true, that all the parties in the Chamber agreed with him, even the Minister, and, last not least, the ex-Governor-General, Mr. Myer, who has acknowledged that he was wrong in making the regulations. Indeed our Colonial policy seems now to be a series of misunderstandings and insincerities. The opium question has been under consideration by the Government for several years, and they at last came to the conviction that the best system was to sell the smallest possible quantity, for which the natives have had to pay enormous prices—the sale of opium being a monopoly of the State. It need not to be added that a great deal has been smuggled. The former Minister of the Colonial Department, the same who had at first advocated the principle of selling small quantities at high prices, abandoned his own policy and favoured, in order to prevent smuggling, the introduction of a liberal system; viz., to abandon the source of millions of revenue, and to augment the consumption of opium by 200 to 300 per cent. And Mr. Myer? He, who once called the use of opium most injurious and demoralising, followed this plan, in consequence of which prices have declined to such an extent that the use of the drug is enormously increasing. I am happy to state that the present Minister of the Colonial Department is inclined to make further regulations; and he assured the Chamber that Mr. Loudon will endeavour to improve the condition of affairs. The Second Chamber have carried by 66 against 1 vote, a Bill inflicting penalties for destroying vessels, the crime of barratry.

It has created much disappointment that the Chamber will not deal with the proposal to levy an income-tax before the Easter recess. It seems indeed that the Minister of Finance is afraid to bring the Bill under discussion. The War Minister has made some alterations in the Bill for the re-organisation of the militia. It is very strange that this occurred a few days after he had declared that he was not yet ready with it. This Bill could now be examined in the sections, but the Chamber has rejected a proposal to do so; the reason being that the members wish to be acquainted with the whole re-organisation scheme before giving an opinion about a detail of it.

I am glad to send you favourable news about the new waterway from Rotterdam to the North Sea. After very contradictory reports being spread about the undertaking, it is now certain that steamers have traversed the canal, so that there is indeed much chance that in a short time East Indiamen will find water enough to pass. With regard to the Amsterdam sea canal I have to mention that a Bill has been laid before Parliament to guarantee the payment of an interest of 4½ per cent. upon a loan of five and a half millions of guilders, on behalf of the Amsterdam Canal Company. It is hoped that this amount will complete the new canal.

The provincial States of Utrecht have elected member of the First Chamber of the States General Mr. W. Baron van Golstein, ex member of the Second Chamber.

The Count de Chambord has left our country, after having stayed a couple of weeks at Breda. The population did not take the least notice of him, notwithstanding the clerical papers did all they could to present him as a martyr. He has left for Cologne, and will proceed from there to Frohsdorf.

Rumours are again in circulation that the Secretary-General of the Department of War will be released from his duties. The report is, however, positively contradicted by the Utrechtsche Courant.

The whole country is making preparations for the national festival on the 1st of April. The King will lay the foundation stone of the monument of the Brielle.

De Vletter, the Rotterdam seditionary, has returned here, having been released from further imprisonment. His health is very bad.

In a few days some of the jewels of the Empress Eugenie, of France, will be sold at Amsterdam.

As evidence of the very high value of the old Japan vases, which are to be found in our country in large number, it is stated by a provincial paper that not less than 400 guilders have been paid for a couple of them. Of course they are Englishmen who pay these high prices.

A very interesting pamphlet was published to-day, referring to Padang and Sumatra. I will give a summary in my next.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

Business transactions continue on the whole limited, and prices of most of our leading articles of produce are mainly supported by the forbearance of holders to press for sales. The late advance in Tin continues to be well maintained, and has even made further progress.

COFFEE remains neglected, and transactions are of little note, which causes prices to tend downward. Sales have been closed of 93 bags Java ex Madura, 1,032 do. ex Stad Middelburg, 191 do. ex Noach III., 778 do. ex Sourabaya Packet. The March sale for account of the Netherlands Trading Company is to be held here on the 20th inst., and will comprise about 81,300 bags Java, Macassar, and Santos.

SUGAR remains dull, in anticipation of the coming public sale, but there is very little on offer. The ensuing March sale of 51,483 baskets Java, for account of the Netherlands Trading Company, taking place at Amsterdam on the 21st inst., contains the following assortment, to which I add the brokers' valuations of the Dutch standard, viz.:—

LITERATURE.

Mr. A. Russel Wallace's account of the Malay Archipelago, published by Macmillan and Co., has reached a third edition—a well merited tribute to its merits. As most of our readers are probably aware, Mr. Wallace divides the Archipelago into five groups of islands—the Malay Peninsula (with Singapore, Borneo, Java, and Sumatra); the Timor Group; the Celebes: the Moluccan Group; and the Papuan Group. The book abounds with interesting matter, especially for the natural historian, the ethnologist, and the botanist.

Art is admirable this month. "William Hogarth" is alone worth the price of the number—though we think it would have been in better taste if the letter-press had referred the reader to Dr. Truster's "Hogarth Moralised," rather than its faint reflex by Mr. Sala. "Titania Sleeping," from a bas relief by F. M. Miller, is a very beautiful study, but as little like a fairy as we can imagine. "The Little Devil's Bridge at Altorf," from I. M. W. Turner, is a good example of that artist's beauties and exaggerations. "Deeply Interested" is the portrait of a very beautiful woman, who would probably be more capable of being interested in something better than a nosegay, if she were a little more intellectual. The monthly part likewise comprises a "Madonna and Angels," after Titian, and a view of the New Law Courts, from a drawing by Mr. Street. Altogether it is the best number yet produced.

The Chronicle and Directory for China, Japan, and the Philippines for 1872, just issued from the Daily Press office, Hong Kong, is a most valuable work, which we trust will meet with the large sale that must be necessary to remunerate the proprietors for the great outlay required in its preparation. Several highly acceptable additions which were made to the usual contents of the preceding editions, such as maps of Hong Kong, Japan, and the Coast of China; the coloured code of signals used at the Peak; and a plate, also coloured, of private house flags are continued and elaborated. A statistical account of the Chinese Empire and various treaties and ordinances also contribute greatly to the value of the volume. The Saigon Directory, which was discontinued in last year's Directory, has been revived in view of the increasing importance of that Colony. The London agent for the "Chronicle and Directory" is Mr. F. Algar, of Clement's-lane.

MISCELLANEOUS.

BRITISH TROOPS IN JAPAN.

The following letter from Sir Harry Parkes has appeared in The Times:—

Sir,—I learn that in the course of his speech in the House on the previous evening on the subject of British troops in Japan, Mr. Sinclair Aytoun is reported to have said that when Lord Elgin proceeded to Japan in 1858 he was accompanied by a fleet, and that the treaty which he concluded was, in Mr. Aytoun's opinion, "exacted under pressure, in the presence of an overwhelming force." As these assertions are calculated to convey to those who are not familiar with the subject an entirely erroneous impression as to the circumstances under which our treaty intercourse with Japan was inaugurated, I beg to mention that when Lord Elgin visited that country in 1858 he was accompanied by only two ships of war, that his stay at Yedo was limited to a fortnight, and that owing to the good feeling which then prevailed, and which characterised the communications on both sides, he succeeded in concluding during that short interval a treaty which had for its sole object the establishment of friendly relations and of a mutually profitable commerce. Mr. Aytoun has probably mistaken the earlier proceedings of Commodore Perry for those of Lord Elgin. In 1854, as is well known, that distinguished officer negotiated the first treaty concluded by Japan with a Western Power, and on that occasion the United States' Government deemed it desirable to support their Envoy with a powerful fleet.

The following letter referring to Sir Harry Parkes's statements has also appeared in The Times, with the signature "John Chinaman. Sir,—"The contradiction by Sir Harry Parkes, published in your issue of the 12th inst., to the remarks made in the House by Mr. Sinclair Aytoun on the subject of British troops in Japan, correctly describes the actual circumstances under which Lord Elgin visited that country in 1858. But your correspondent seems to have forgotten that the roar of the salutes which heralded the conclusion of the Treaty of Tientsin had scarcely died away before American men-of-war left the scene of action, and, steaming across to Japan with the news of the capture of the Taku forts, and the compulsory Treaty entered into with China, supported their Consul in utilising the echoes of our cannonade by exacting similar concessions from the Japanese, a precedent which Lord Elgin found little difficulty in availing himself of, with an army and fleet known to be within hailing distance on the coast of China. Surely Sir Harry Parkes would not have the world believe that Lord Elgin's success in Japan would have been as immediate and as complete as it was had his appliances been confined to the two ships of war which actually accompanied him, or had not the tidings of his successful campaign in China immediately preceded him. The Japanese are doing wonders at this moment in the way of national and social reform, but I scarcely think they deserve credit for having become willing converts to it so far back as 1858."

RUSSIA AND CHINA.

The St. Petersburg Correspondent of the Morning Post communicates the following intelligence:—

Since the despatch of my last letter news has arrived from Turkestan which, if reliable, is of momentous importance. According to the Tashkent correspondent of the Bourse Gazette the Dounga insurgents of Western China, now waging open war with the Chinese Government, have attempted to strengthen themselves by an alliance with Yakoub Beg, the able and enterprising Sovereign of Kashgar, who bids fair to become the Mehemet Ali of Central Asia, without the political disadvantages which proved fatal to his great prototype. The combined Dounga and Kashgarian forces have defeated the Chinese in two great battles, driven them from the line of the Tien-shan, and become, for the time being, undisputed masters of the territory bordered by the western chain; while the insurgents, victorious thus far, are concentrating a force of 30,000 men upon the frontier of the neutral ground, in order to guard against any offensive movement on the part of Russia. This is a very unexpected complication. Yakoub Beg, an able general, a veteran statesman, a powerful ruler, with the whole resources of a large and wealthy Principality at his command, is just the man to become a formidable neutral or a dangerous enemy, and it is naturally rather annoying to Russia to see this unlooked-for deus ex machina coolly usurping the role which she undoubtedly intended to play sooner or later—viz., to "protect" the rebels against China by swallowing them whole herself. How is this new emergency to be met? Will she attempt to bear down Yakoub Beg by sheer force, or (as is much more probable) to outwit him by subtle diplomacy? Time will show; but, at all events, it is pretty clear that, between the Sultan of Kashgar on one side, and the Russian Government on the other, the Dounga are in a fair way to be "civilised" off the face of the earth. This is one of the phenomena which make me wish that some veteran Minister would devote his leisure to the compilation of a political dictionary containing all the new diplomatic euphemisms now in use. France suddenly attacks Germany, and announces herself as "resisting unjust aggression." Germany runs off with everything worth stealing in France, and calls it "levying contributions." Austria gets together several hundred thousand men, and says that she does so "to preserve peace." Russia knocks several thousand men on the head, sends three or four kings flying off their thrones, pockets half-a-dozen provinces, and styles these energetic amusements "a mission of civilisation."

TEA AND COFFEE DUTIES IN THE UNITED STATES.

A decided difference of opinion still exists among the importers and dealers in tea and coffee regarding the proposed removal of the duties on those articles, according to the Bill now pending in Congress. At a meeting of the Board of Trade, as stated in our last issue, a petition was drawn up, to be sent to Congress, urging that body to be quick in its action, inasmuch as delay paralysed trade, and also that any action, whatever it might be, should be made immediately operative. This petition was only adopted after a lengthy discussion, for many of the members present held that the rapid depreciation in the value of stocks, caused by a sudden abatement of duties, would prove ruinous to many. The importers, who have their goods in bond, and only pay the duties and withdraw them when they are required, are of the opinion that the trade would be benefited by immediate action. They hold that the present uncertainty regarding what may be done has a very depressing influence, which would only be continued if any time is allowed between the passage of the Act and its ultimate operation. The grocers, on the other hand, contend that most of them at present have heavy stocks on hand, upon which the duties are paid, and that even a partial abatement of the tariff would entail upon them a heavy loss. They also ask that Congress take prompt action, but that at least ninety days shall be allowed to intervene between the passage of the Act and the time it shall take effect. Agreeably to these opinions the grocers have prepared a separate petition, in which they urge that any sudden action would be to the advantage of a few at the expense of the many. This second petition states that the one adopted by the Board of Trade represents only the importers of New York, Baltimore, Boston, and New Orleans, whereas theirs has a national character, as it represents the grocery trade of the whole country.

RECEPTION OF THE JAPANESE EMBASSY BY THE PRESIDENT.

The Japanese Embassy have reached Washington, and on the 4th inst. the principal members, ten in number, were presented to the President. There were present the members of the Congressional Committees on Foreign Relations and Foreign Affairs, all the members of the Cabinet, and the heads of bureaus in the several Departments. Vice-President Colfax, Speaker Blaine, and Minister Delong were also present. Soon after noon the Ambassadors, accompanied by the Japanese Charge d'Affaires, Mr. Mori, arrived at the Executive Mansion. They were in complete court costume, of purple underskirts and rich black silk overskirts reaching to the knee, finely decorated. There were some variations in the costumes according to rank, the difference being more particularly noticeable in the style of hats worn by the officials. Each carried a heavy sword. They entered the White House according to their rank, and were met by Secretary Fish, by whom, after salutations were exchanged, they were escorted into the east room, and their credentials presented to the President. Iwakura addressed the President as follows:—

His Majesty the Emperor of Japan, our august Sovereign, has sought, since the achievement of our national reconstruction, to obtain a perfect organization in the administrative power of his government. He has studied with interest the results attained by Western nations. Having a sincere desire to establish permanent and friendly relations with foreign Powers on a still closer footing, he has commissioned us, his Ambassadors Extraordinary, to all Powers having treaties with Japan. Upon the soil of your country we first present our credentials, delivering to you personally the letter of our august Sovereign at this public official audience. The objects of the mission with which we are charged by our Government are somewhat set forth in this letter. We are authorised to consult with your Government on all international questions, directing our efforts to promote and develop wide commercial relations, and draw into closer bonds the strong friendship already existing between our respective peoples. Thus we hope to gain fresh impulse in the paths of progress, gaining good from every form of civilisation. This we shall aim to do while in the exercise of strict integrity to our own national interests, so trustingly confided to us by a generous Sovereign, and shall earnestly hope to receive your kind co-operation in facilitating the task assigned us by our Government. We gladly avail ourselves of this happy meeting to convey personally to your Excellency our sincere wishes for your continued prosperity and happiness, and as national representatives we extend the same wish to all the people of the United States.

The President responded as follows:—Gentlemen, I am gratified that this country and that my Administration will be distinguished in history as the first which has received an Embassy from the nation with which the United States were the first to establish diplomatic and commercial intercourse. The objects which you say have given rise to your mission do honour to the intelligence and wisdom of your Sovereign, and reflect credit on you in having been chosen as the instruments for carrying them into effect. The time must be regarded as gone, never to return, when any nation can keep apart from all others and expect to enjoy the prosperity and happiness which depend more or less upon the mutual adoption of improvements, not only in the science of government, but in those other sciences and arts which contribute to the dignity of mankind and to national wealth and power. Though Japan is one of the most ancient of organised communities, and the United States rank among the most recent, we flatter ourselves that we have made some improvements upon the political institutions of the nations from whom we are descended. Our experience leads us to believe that the wealth, the power, and the happiness of a people are advanced by their encouragement of trade and commercial intercourse with other Powers; by the elevation and dignity of labour; by the practical adaptation of science to the manufactures and the arts; by increased facilities of frequent and rapid communication between different parts of the country; by the encouragement of emigration, which brings with it the varied habits and diverse genius and industry of other lands; by a free press; by freedom of thought and of conscience, and a liberal toleration in matters of religion, not only to citizens, but to all foreigners resident among us. It will be a pleasure to us to enter upon that consultation upon international questions in which you say you are authorised to engage. The improvement of the commercial relations between our respective countries is important and desirable, and cannot fail to strengthen the bonds which unite us. I will heartily co-operate in so desirable an object. Your kind wishes for me personally, gentlemen, are cordially reciprocated. I trust that your abode with us may be agreeable to you, and may contribute to a more intimate acquaintance and intercourse between our respective peoples.

At the conclusion of these ceremonies the gentlemen who were with the President were introduced to the Ambassadors, bowing but not shaking hands. The members of the Embassy were then introduced to the ladies of the Executive Mansion and of the Cabinet officers' families, together with others who had been invited to be present. President Grant, with Iwakura on his arm, led the way, followed by the Cabinet officers escorting the other members of the Embassy.

At a subsequent period of the day the Japanese held a reception at their hotel, when they were visited by nearly all the foreign legations, Vice-President Colfax and Speaker Blaine, all the Cabinet officers and several Senators and Representatives. In the evening the Hon. James Brooks, of New York, gave a reception to the Ambassadors, which was largely attended. The Japanese entered socially into conversation, and expressed themselves delighted with the reception everywhere extended to them. At the supper-table cordial speeches were made by Mr. Brooks, Iwakura, Mr. Banks, Kido, Ito, Mr. De Long, and others.

The Embassy occupies about fifty rooms of the Arlington Hotel at Washington, including the entire portion of the building known as the Johnson House, and two entire buildings on the opposite side of the avenue.

CALIFORNIAN SILK.

A New York commercial newspaper states that the California Silk Manufacturing Company of South San Francisco have been for a considerable time past engaged in the successful manufacture of sewing silk, and their example shows what might be done in the larger field of this industry. Last year they used twenty bales, or 2,000 lbs. of raw silk. Of this only a fourth part, or 500 lbs., was Californian silk, but the company purchased all there was in the market. The balance was Chinese and Japanese raw silk, 1,000 lbs., or one-half of the whole amount used, being obtained from China, while 500 lbs., or an amount similar to that purchased in this State, was obtained from Japan. The California silk was much superior to all the rest and commanded a high price. California No. 1, one grade brought $9 per lb.; China, three grades brought, No. 3, Canton, $4; No. 1, from $4 to 7 per lb., and the brand known as Tsatlee, $8½ per lb., while one grade of Japanese, the only one in the market, brought only $6 per lb. The Union Pacific Manufacturing Company—we learn from the same journal—has filed articles of incorporation and will soon begin the manufacture of all kinds of ribbons, piece silks, trimmings, and silk goods generally in San Francisco. Capital stock $100,000.

PACIFIC MAIL SERVICE.

A Postal Committee of the Senate have reported in favour of doubling the Pacific steamship service at the existing monthly rate, with a proviso that the ships hereafter constructed shall be of 4,000 tons or more. "This action (says the New York Mercantile Gazette), concurrent with the probable appropriation of the half-million excess of the Chinese indemnity to founding an American college at Peking, the not remote Pacific cable, the steamship line to Australia and other contemplated movements there, promises to materially develop our general business. The struggle that is made by the Peninsular and Oriental and other existing lines of travel via Cape Good Hope and the Suez Canal, with probable furtherance, at no great future, by other Asiatic railways, seem to indicate the expediency of having a better class of ships than those now running." The Committee submit an estimate that in 1875 the Pacific Railroad will bring between 45,000,000 and 50,000,000 lb. of tea, 25,000 bales of silk, and $5,000,000 worth of silk-worms—freight which will pay the road at least $1,000,000 in coin.

ADMIRAL SIR JAMES SCOTT, K.C.B., died on the 8th inst. He entered the navy in 1803; became lieutenant in 1809; commander, 1814; captain, 1828; rear-admiral, 1854; vice-admiral, 1861; admiral, 1865; and was forced to retire by the compulsory measure of 1866. He served with distinction in the French, American, and Chinese wars; was wounded at the reduction of Martinique; and was present at Walcheren, the capture of Washington, and at the battles of Bladensburg and Baltimore, besides numerous engagements between the years 1812 and 1814. He commanded a division of a squadron in China, and in a series of operations from Macao to Canton destroyed five forts and captured 115 pieces of artillery and nine war junks. Sir James had been in upwards of a hundred different successful engagements, and gained every step in the service up to the rank of captain by war services. He was recommended twenty times and gazetted nine times, received the naval and army war medals and the Chinese medals; also the thanks of both Houses of Parliament. He was nominated C.B. in 1841, and created K.C.B. in 1862.

IT will be remembered that in January last Mr. Herbert Laurance delivered a lecture at the Alexandra Hall, Blackheath, on "China and the Chinese." So successful was Mr. Laurance in interesting his hearers, that he was induced to repeat the lecture on Thursday last at the same place. There was a good attendance, and as on the former occasion the aid of dissolving views was employed to assist the lecturer in presenting his audience with an idea of the manners and customs of the Celestials.

AMONG the passengers to Penang by the P. and O. steamer Malta, which left Southampton on the 14th was Captain Speedy, superintendent of police, Penang, who had charge of the son of King Theodore, of Abyssinia. Just before the vessel started a Queen's messenger arrived on board with a packet from the Queen for Captain Speedy. It contained a handsome gold watch and chain. On the watch was engraved "To Captain Speedy, from Victoria R."

HER MAJESTY held a levée at Buckingham Palace on Thursday. Among the gentlemen presented at the levée was Mr. Adolphus A. Annesley, Her Majesty's vice-consul at Hiogo and Osaka.

M. DE GEOFFROY, the new Minister of France in China, has been married at Rome to Miss Riggs, of Washington, U.S. The newly-married couple have been received at the Vatican, and left Rome on the 12th inst. to embark at Brindisi for China.

THE last accounts of the Japanese party record them as being on a visit to Chicago. They have presented the Mayor with a sum of $5,000 for the relief of the poor of that city.

DEPUTY INSPECTOR-GENERAL A. CROCKER is about to proceed to Hong Kong, to assume the duties of principal medical officer at that garrison.

The Board of Trade have received from the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs a translation of a notification issued by the Japanese Government, which provides, with reference to the complaint of a British firm of brewers respecting the imitation of their trade mark in Japan, that though the manufacture of beer is not prohibited in that country, it is wrong according to commercial law to imitate trade marks, and that henceforward persons whose business consists in brewing beer must apply for a licence, and send in a specimen of a trade mark not likely to be confused with others.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

—o—

TEA.

The quantity of Tea placed on the market during the past week has again been large, and the amount of business has been very small, dealers holding back in hope of a fall. Importers continue to give great support to the market by holding those kinds less in demand. The deliveries for the week have been 3,394,000 lbs., against 3,650,000 lbs. last year.

Black.—Red-leaf Congous: Siftings show no change. Broken-leaf kinds have been very firm; fair to good common have been well maintained at 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 1½d. per lb., owing to export orders. There have been sales of fair to good Kaisow kinds from 1s. 2d. to 1s. 5d., showing previous prices; fine to finest remain dull of sale. Pak Lin kinds show no alteration. Black-leaf kinds: Low quality still remains dull of sale at previous prices; several chops of recent arrival have been on offer without meeting purchasers; fair to good common have been more saleable at 11½d. to 1s. 1d. per lb.; fair to good medium have met with a ready sale at from 1s. 2d. to 1s. 5d. per lb., being previous prices; fine to finest show no change. Amoy kinds have been in demand for export. New-make Canton kinds: Sales have been made to a fair extent at the late heavy reduction in price. Oolongs: The demand is limited, and prices tending lower. In Souchongs and Flowery Pekoes there have been but few transactions. Scented Teas: Canton Capers remain much as before; also Foochow kinds. Orange Pekoes: Canton kinds, common, new-make sorts, have been difficult of sale. The long-leaf kinds have again sold at rather lower prices. Foochow kinds show no alteration. Uncoloured Japans: The low qualities have sold from 5d. to 6d. per lb.; fair to good at previous prices. Green: There has only been a moderate business; fine to finest kinds remain steady; the common to medium kinds have sold in some cases rather lower.

COFFEE.

The market has shown great dulness during the week; there has been scarcely any demand, and supplies have been withheld from the public sales, as importers still firmly resist any concession in prices. The business by private contract has also been very small. Prices in the absence of transactions must be regarded as nominal. At auction of 291 bags Native Ceylon offered 136 bags good ordinary Galle kind sold at 69s., the remainder, fine ordinary Ouvah, being bought in at 72s. 46 bags Manila sold, pale, at 70s., brownish, at 68s.

The Dutch Trading Company announce their next public sale to be held on the 20th inst., when 77,000 bags Java, &c., will be offered.

SUGAR.

The activity in the market noticed in our last report continued during the early part of this week, but within the past few days the tone has again become quiet; prices, however, remain steady, the slight improvement noted last week being maintained. The following are the particulars of the business done:—

Manila.—No public sales have been effected; privately 2,000 bags unclayed Taal old import have been quitted at 21s. 6d., and 100 tons good do., of recent import, at 22s. 6d.; the landed cargo, per Lake Constance, 28,500 bags Ilo Ilo unclayed, has been sold at 24s.

Penang.—In auction 750 baskets date sort sold at 23s. 6d. No private sales.

Java, China, &c.—No sales.

CHINA MATTING.—Of 315 rolls offered 265 rolls Gowqua's extra contract were bought in, 4s. 4d. check at 45s., 5s. 4d., and 6s. 4d., ditto at 52s. 6d. to 60s., of the remainder 10 rolls sold, inferior 4s. 4d., white at 20s.

COCOA-NUT OIL.—The market continues dull at last quoted rates; at public sale of 310 casks Ceylon offered only a few lots very fine in pipes sold at £38, the remainder being bought in at £37 to £38, hogsheads at £38 10s., at which price a small quantity has since been sold.

CAMPHOR.—An offer of 200 cases China afloat was taken at £4 5s. per cwt.

CUTCH continues dull, and all offers in public sale have been bought in. Privately 500 boxes very fine Elephant, mark Pegu, have been sold at 27s. per cwt.

GAMBIER.—But little business has been done; at public sale 1,300 mats good pale cubes were bought in at 25s. 9d., and 830 mats at 25s. 6d., 68 bags damaged being sold at 22s. 3d.; privately about 1,000 bags fine pale cubes have been sold at 26s., and 200 bales at 22s. 9d.

GALLS.—A large arrival, per steamer Nestor, has depressed the market, and prices are fully 7s. below those quoted for last mail. In auction on the 14th 204 cases China sold at 52s. 6d. to 55s., chiefly at 54s. to 55s. per cwt. No transactions in Japan.

GUMS.—Copal: A large quantity of Manila, amounting to 871 cases 1,436 bags offered in public sale, met only a limited demand, and the bulk was bought in, soft kind in block at 22s. to 24s.; dark hard, 30s.; fair clean hard, 35s., 350 cases finding buyers at easy rates; fine clean pale hard at 35s.; fine bold clean yellow, 36s.; chiefly good dusty soft yellow, 26s. 6d. to 27s. Gamboge: Of 56 cases and boxes offered, 17 packages sold, middling blocky to fair pipe at £15 10s. to £16 10s.; pickings, £13 15s.

HEMP.—The market for Manila is firm, with an upward tendency; the public sales have gone off with good spirit at fully former rates; of 1,794 bales offered, chiefly per Marlboro', 750 bales sold, mostly sea-damaged, fully fair current first-class at £49, sound good roping sold at £52, and white Quilot at £65 to £66 15s., the remainder being bought in at £51 for fully fair, and £46 for superior brown. An offer of 2 bales Java was quitted at £36 15s.

PEPPER.—Black: Market quiet, but prices steady; sales of Penang have been made at 6 3-16d. to 6¼d., damaged at 6d.; Singapore bought in at 6⅜d.; contracts for 2,000 bags (bear sales), April-May delivery, have been made at 6d. to a little under. White: A large supply has been offered by auction, and prices have further declined ¼d. per lb. Of 894 bags Singapore offered 550 bags dull and brownish sold at 10d. to 10½d., one lot 10⅜d.; a good part sea-damaged at 9¾d. to 9⅞d. for first-class.

PLUMBAGO.—Of 462 barrels Ceylon offered 130 barrels sold—good bright lump at 29s.; middling dull and small, 23s. 6d.; chips, 19s. 9d. to 21s. 6d.; low dust, 6s.; the remainder, chiefly low mixed of old import, being withdrawn.

RICE.—Market con inues quiet, and prices tend lower. Rather large transactions have taken place in yellow Bengal at easy rates, consisting of 5,500 bags Raree Ballam landed at 8s. 6d., 1,000 bags ditto at 8s. 7½d. landed terms, and 100 tons Soolie at 8s. 9d., quay terms. 600 bags middling white Bengal have been sold at 11s. to 11s. 3d., 1,195 bags Necransie Arrican from Algoa Bay at 9s. 6d. to 9s. 9d., about 9,000 bags Ballam, common to fine, 8s. 6d. to 9s. 6d., 5,000 bags Necransie at 9s. 6d., and 21,000 bags Rangoon, consisting of 14,000 bags sound, at 9s. 9d., and 7,000 bags sea damaged at 9s. 6d. for first class. For arrival 100 tons good white Bengal have been sold at 12s., also 400 tons middling white Bengal February-March shipment at 11s., quay terms.

SPICES.—Preserved Ginger: Of 400 cases China of fresh import offered 100 cases middling sold at 9½d., the remainder being bought in at 10½d. to 11d. per lb. Mace is dull of sale, 10 boxes Penang were bought in at 4s. 2d., and 108 cases Java at 3s. 9d. Nutmegs have met little demand, and 11 cases 32 boxes Penang at auction were nearly all withdrawn, only 3 cases average 70 nuts to the lb. slightly mouldy, being sold at 3s. 4d., and 18 cases ordinary limed 110's per land carriage at 2s. 8d. to 2s. 9d., 8 casks Java 106's and 95's were bought in at 3s. 2d. and 3s. 5d., 7 cases wild ditto being sold at 2s.

SAGO.—The market continues flat, and at auction 1,035 bags small pearl were all bought in at 17s. to 18s. Flour: 160 bags Singapore bought in at 16s. 6d.

SAPANWOOD.—At public sale 65 tons Manila were bought in at £12 10s., 17 tons Ceylon at £14 5s., and 25 tons Singapore at £14 10s., 13 tons indirect import being sold at £11.

TIN.—On the 13th inst. the Dutch Trading Company announced they would offer for sale on the 11th April 52,800 slabs Banca and 2,600 slabs Billiton. This being a smaller quantity than was generally expected, the market rose considerably, and Straits advanced to £149; a small parcel is reported sold at £150, but the price closes at £149. Banca is quoted at £150. In Holland the quotation is about 90 guilders.

CASUALTIES.

The Marie Elize, v. Deursen, from Batavia to Amsterdam, which vessel put into Table Bay, Jan. 4, with damage, having completed her repairs, would probably sail for her destination about 8th Feb. A portion of her cargo, consisting of 191 bags of coffee (damaged), had been sold.

Advices from New York, dated Feb. 26, state that the Orpheus, Smith, which arrived from Canton Feb. 25, had encountered N.E. gales from lat. 30, during which she sprang foretopsail-yard, and lost upper-maintopsail.

The Mariano, which arrived at Boston, Feb. 25, from Manila, reports having experienced a hurricane in lat. 21 S., long. 68 E., which lasted three days, and caused her to spring foremast, mizzenmast, and maintopmast.

Advices from New York, dated Feb. 26, state that, with the exception of about 2,000 bales of matting, the remainder of the cargo of the Robert Fletcher, from Hong Kong to New York, wrecked at East Moriches, washed out of her during a gale, Feb. 17; four schooners had been laden with matting saved from her.

The Banda, from Ilo Ilo to the Channel, is reported, by telegram received at Liverpool March 12. as having put into Batavia leaky.

A telegram received from Galle, dated March 11, states as follows:—The Prince v. Orange (str.), from Holland to Java, had arrived there with screw broken; accident supposed to have occurred in the Suez Canal; must discharge part of cargo to refit, and will be delayed ten days.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

AND PILLS.—UNWHOLESOME CHANGES.—The changeable weather is causing much sickness, and exerting the most deleterious influence in deranging the secretions of the body. Alternating chills and heats so derange the capillary circulation that the liver, stomach, or lungs must become disordered. Holloway's Ointment well rubbed over these organs twice a day proves the quickest, safest, and best corrective. It penetrates the skin, enters the deeper structures, purifies their blood, cleanses their substance, equalises their circulation, and renders their secretions abundant, without annoying, irritating, or exhausting the weakest or most delicate invalid. Colds, coughs, influenzas, and other chest complaints, originating in damp, variable seasons, are checked in their debilitating careers, and cured by Holloway's remedies.

JAPAN.

YOKOHAMA.

The present French mail brings advices from this port to the 6th February; the London mail of Dec. 8 arrived out Feb. 1, per Messageries Maritimes steamer Phase, and the following mail of Dec. 15 was due on the day this mail left. The following items of news are from the Japan Mail:—

The report presented at the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, which was held on the 30th Jan., is of considerable interest. We find that the value of the imports of 1871 was $11,750,128, that of the previous year being $6,216,547 in excess. This decrease, which may or may not be advantageous to the country and to the foreign merchants, has been occasioned, in a very great measure, by the decreased demand for foreign grown grain. In the year 1870 it may be said that there was almost a famine in the land, and we observe that the value of the pulse then imported amounted to $9,843,917. In 1871 the value of imported food had decreased to $4,235,667, a fact which, however unsatisfactory it may be for merchants here, is unquestionably of benefit to the country. This reduces the decrease in trade which may be considered as exercising, in a manner, a hurtful influence, to the sum of $1,980,830. This is comparatively but a small amount, and scarcely can be considered as of serious import to the welfare of the country. Turning to the exports, we find that trade has increased, and that the value of the export trade for 1871 exceeds that for 1870 by $3,655,870, the respective values being:—1871, $16,798 256; 1870, $13,142,387. Now, if we take both exports and imports together, we arrive, by a very simple contrast of figures, at the result that an improvement in favour of Japan has taken place to the extent of nearly ten million dollars.

The silk question, one of the most important matters that has been debated by the Chamber for a long time, is passed over with the observation that the report upon it, drawn up some time since, has been circulated. We learn nothing as to the effect it has had; we are told nothing of the reception which it has met with among the officials in the silk-growing districts; and though it may be very true that the members of the Chamber know all these matters, yet the public does not, and in publishing the report the Chamber lays itself open to the public. The revision of the treaties, too, is slurred over in a desultory manner, which is further evidence of the haste and want of care with which the report has been prepared. We are told that certain documents have been attached to the report, but the report has been published, and the documents have not. In addition, it would at least have been satisfactory to the meeting to hear what has been done with the address to the Ministers.

At the meeting the reports and accounts were passed, and the following officers for 1872 were elected:—Chairman, Mr. Marshall; Vice-Chairman, Mr. Wilkin—Mr. Hooper was first elected but declined; Committee, Messrs. J. A. Fraser, Atkinson, Thomas, Melhuish, Johnson, Greeven, and Hooper; Auditors, Mr. Baker and Mr. Jackson.

The Japanese Government has taken it in hand to examine all the claims of foreigners on the old territorial princes, with a view to their being paid up. During the last few years the princes have become largely indebted to foreign houses, either for loans, ships, or goods, against which they have given as security the seal of their han or province. The Government having deprived them of their old possessions, feels itself bound to see to the discharge of their just liabilities, and an official notification has been issued, calling on all foreigners to send in an account of their demands before the 6th instant, after which date no claims will be recognised. This is a measure which will relieve the late nobles who borrowed and the foreigners who trusted them from the altogether false position they were placed in by the conversion of the territories into Imperial domains.

The Government have established a daily post between Yedo and Nagasaki, charging very low rates of postage—for instance, about equal to a halfpenny on a newspaper between Yedo and Kobe, and 1½d. between Nagasaki and Yedo; and for letters between Yedo and Kobe under half an ounce, one penny. To Nagasaki from Yedo or Yokohama, the rate is quintupled. The time occupied between Nagasaki and Yedo is about four days, the distance being same 500 or 600 miles. This ought to be a great boon, but already we hear of several of the mail runners being attacked by highway robbers; in one or two instances with violence.

A smart shock of earthquake was felt on Feb. 2. The vibration of several buildings continued from forty-five to fifty-five seconds.

A foot paper hunt has taken place, the start being from the Camp, and Messrs. Sandwith and Wright, R.M., being the hares. The meet was fairly attended, and during the chase Messrs. Smythe, Hamilton, and Brent led alternately. As soon as the frost disappears and the banks are safe for jumping it is intended to have another paper hunt.

The curious in such matters may be interested in learning that H.M. the Mikado has given a sitting to a native artist for a photographic portrait.

NAGASAKI.

Advices are to the 3rd February; the P. and O. mail, with London dates to 1st Dec. arrived out Jan. 29. The following paragraphs are from the Nagasaki Express:—

A fire has occurred in a dwelling-house situated on Sagaramatz Creek, which resulted in the total destruction of the building. The premises were owned by Mr. Constantine Chiappopulus, and were uninhabited, being in charge of a native watchman, who at the time of the fire was absent. Four engines were in attendance but were unable to render any service, owing to there being but little water in the creek. Beyond throwing a little water on the surrounding buildings to prevent them from catching fire, most of those who assembled to render assistance had to content themselves by becoming spectators of the operations of the detachment of Russian sailors, who, accompanied by an officer, landed and confined the fire to the one building by pulling down the burning pile. Another fire, which consumed four houses and an outhouse, has occurred in the native town.

A meeting of subscribers to the Episcopal Church was held on the 31st Jan., when it was found that the Church Fund was to the good $21.87, and the Cemetery $53.67. An amount of $326 was, however, due, on account of the church, to the creditors of Glover and Co. It was resolved to ask that this claim be waived, and to raise for the next year's expenses of the church $300, part to be presented to the clergyman officiating.

We hear that it is the intention of some native capitalists to establish a brewery at Kurume. Hops are now grown in that locality: this, together with a plentiful supply of good water, is in favour of such an undertaking becoming successful.

A well-known native commission merchant at this port has stopped payment. The chief cause of his suspension, we hear, is a loss of about 4,000 rios incurred by sheep speculation.

The American schooner Spray and the British bark Serpent have both arrived during the week with live stock from Shanghai. The price of geese is now as low as thirty Mexican cents each.

We learn from the subscription list that over $600 have been subscribed by this communiiy for the relief of those who lost their clothing and effects by the burning of the steamer Orphan.

CHINA.

SHANGHAI.

Dates extend to the 9th February; the English mail from London, Dec. 15, arrived out on the 3rd, and the following French mail of Dec. 22 on the 8th February. We are indebted to the North China Herald for the following summary of the news:—

A meeting was held on the 5th, for the purpose of forming a society to take charge of the meteorological instruments recently imported by the Council. The Rev. Mr. Butcher took the chair, and there were present about a dozen gentlemen interested in the question of meteorological observations. Considerable discussion took place as to the advisability of having an independent society or uniting with the Asiatic Society, and it was ultimately decided to do the latter, as a Meteorological Section, with a distinct membership. It was arranged to distribute the instruments as follows, if practicable:—Regis., max., and min. thers. for shade and solar and terrestrial radiation, together with a rain gauge and hygrometer, in the Public Garden; max. and min. thers., a hygrometer, and rain gauge in the Church Compound; the barometer at the Central Police-station, the anemometer at Pootung, and the river thermometer on the police or Customs' hulk. Drs. Henderson and Jamieson and Messrs. Kaye and Bisset were appointed a committee.

A fall in the shares of the Shanghai Steam Navigation Company from Tls. 190 at the end of last year, to Tls. 150 now, has brought disaster in its train. In our last we noticed defalcation in taking up stock; further liabilities have followed, and the uncertainty hanging over the market is very great. It is the old story of people going in far beyond their means, and, necessarily, one defaulter makes many. Of course, to make anything on a rise of a few taels per share involves the dealing in a large number of shares, which is all well enough when "'tis here we go up, up, up;" but when the "down, down, down," comes, and that down is Tls. 40 in a month, the results are as described, and what many have foreseen and predicted. There is no room for such operations in a limited market like this, and the sooner heads of firms make a decided stand against it the better for all concerned. S.S.N. are quoted Tls. 150 cash; Hong Kong and Shanghai Banks, old, $65 prem., new, $63 prem.; Union Steam Navigation Company, Tls. 95; Shanghai and Hongkew Wharf, Tls. 160; Yangtsze Insurance Company, Tls. 825; Sailors' Home Debentures, par, Tls. 100.

The result of Tseng Kwo-fan's late tour of inspection—so far as military officers are concerned—is shown in an Imperial edict in the Peking Gazette of the 31st December, which runs as follows:—Cheng Yun-hsiang, colonel of the Wu-sung battalion, and 11 others belonging to different regiments, are to be promoted whenever vacancies occur, without regard to routine. Hwa Feng, lieut.-colonel of the Soochow and Sungkiang division, and two others are dismissed on account of old age and general infirmity, but not deprived of rank. Ting Jen-lin is degraded because of his physical weakness. Hsu Hsien-chuen, captain of the Kiang-yin battalion, is cashiered, but not deprived of rank, on account of his slowness and stupidity. Wang Wen, major of the Hung-hu battalion, and ten others belonging to different battalions, are dismissed on account of obstinacy, stupidity, laziness, or cupidity.

The Mih-ho-loongs have given their annual ball with as complete success as last year. The rooms were decorated with admirable taste, and every possible arrangement was made for the comfort of the guests; the supper was excellent, and dancing was kept up with spirit till an early hour. Great curiosity was excited by the figure of a dragon with a gorgeously dressed rider, which filled the end of the hall. The following is the interpretation—the Chinese say that rain is the work of dragons, caused by their drawing water from the sea in the shape of water-spouts, and filling the clouds. Dragons are confined in the palaces of the King of the Seas, and are governed by the King's third son—a prince of renowned strength and beauty, and who is alleged always to work wonders when he rides abroad on his dragon steed. The figure to which we refer was a representation of the Prince; and found a fitting place among the emblems of a corps whose name is founded on the legend. And as the dragon without the ballroom typified the prowess of the Mih-ho-loongs in their capacity as "Fire Destroyers," so a star of bayonets in the ballroom, with a prettily illuminated dragon in the centre, indicated the military side of their twofold character.

A meeting of shareholders in the French Gas Company was held on the 2nd Feb. The accounts show a profit on the year's work of Tls. 4,201.62, making, with the balance brought forward from last year, Tls. 4,745.59 available for distribution. It was resolved to declare a dividend of 10 per cent., which would absorb Tls. 3,800, and to carry Tls. 945.59 to reserve.

The Postmaster-General notifies that newspapers to England, via Brindisi, will in future be charged six instead of eight cents, and that postage on newspapers to America or to other places, that may be sent in transit through England, will also be reduced two cents.

We are on the eve of the Chinese New Year, and business is at a standstill in consequence. The next week will be a virtual holiday.

The Courier contains the following items:—

A number of young Chinamen are, we hear, being drilled and instructed in the use of Krupp's rifled guns at the Arsenal, under Mr. Schnell, a gentleman formerly in the Prussian Corps of Artillery, who has been brought out for the Chinese authorities by the agents in China for Krupp's Ordnance. On putting his pupils through their exercises before Tseng-kwo-fan, during his recent visit, Mr. Schnell was decorated by the Viceroy with a silver medal, in token of the satisfaction which the review afforded his Excellency. In a few months, this little corps, it is said, will proceed with their instructor to Tientsin, there to go through some target practice in the presence of Li Hung-chang, the Governor-General of Chili. This looks not unlike preparing for some warmer work than mere parade drill; but we are afraid they would find a mighty difference between living and dead targets.

We are informed that the Mandarin Feng, Superintendent of the Kaou-Chang-Meaou Arsenal, has recently sent home for a competent marine naval constructor, as also for a manager for the powder works to be shortly erected near the Lung-wha pagoda.

There is a trim little steamer on the stocks in Farnham and Company's building yard, intended to compete for a share of the towing business of this port. Her hull is built exclusively of teak and malava wood. She will be launched in a few days.

HONG KONG.

Our advices from this port extend to the 15th February; the P. and O. mail from London, Dec. 29, arrived out Feb. 10. The following items of intelligence are from the China Mail and Daily Press:—

The chief event has been the opening of the new Chinese hospital on the 14th Feb. The Chinese observed the event with great ceremony, consisting of a ceremonial sacrifice being offered to the God of Shan Nung, one of the three mythical emperors who are said to have attained the great age of ten thousand years, and who is recognised as the discoverer of medicines. The committee, some seventy or eighty in number, assembled at the Kung Sho (Public Meeting Hall) adjoining the Hollywood-road Joss-house, all dressed in the mandarin costume, some even with peacocks' feathers attached to their buttons. A procession, accompanied by a band of Chinese music and a staff of paraphernalia bearers, such as is usual on occasions of festivities, and headed by a pair of large lanterns bearing an inscription, "The formal opening of the Tung Wa Hospital," paraded the streets of the Chinese section of the town and stopped in front of the Kung Sho, where it was joined by the committee, and the whole body afterwards proceeded up the road leading to the hospital. Among those who took part in the ceremony were Leong On, compradore to Messrs. Gibb, Livingston, and Co., and he being the chairman of the Committee, took the most prominent part in the ceremony, bearing three incense sticks, which he carried with him during the whole tour of the procession. Three guns announced the arrival of the procession at the hospital, where the grand ceremony took place.

In the afternoon Sir Richard MacDonnell, accompanied by the Hon. J. G. Austin, the Hon. C. C. Smith, the Governor's private secretary, went to formally open the hospital. As the Governor and suite arrived, a salute of three guns was fired, and the band of Chinese musicians struck up an air. H.E. was received at the door by about thirty of the committee, who were all dressed in mandarin style, and formed into two rows; as H.E. passed they bowed to him and he returned their compliment. Ng Chook, Messrs. Jardine, Matheson, and Co.'s compradore, the oldest man of the committee, came forward and was presented to H.E., as was also Wong Shing, of the London Mission, who was introduced by the Hon. C. C. Smith. H.E. then went round the building accompanied by Chun Kum, Kwok Acheong, and Wong Shing. Great satisfaction was expressed in regard to the ventilation of the building. Having returned to the hall, H.E. addressed the committee, saying that it gave him extreme pleasure to have been able to be present to open this hospital, and it was a great satisfaction to him to have been permitted to come back to finish the project which he had started. The departure of Sir Richard brought the proceedings to a conclusion.

The following particulars have been published regarding the loss of the Suwonada:—Captain Clarke reports that in pursuing his voyage from Hong Kong for Shanghai, he entered the Haitan Straits, keeping the lead going as usual. All seemed to be going well, when the steamer suddenly struck on a rock not laid down in the charts, and began to fill so rapidly that he saw it necessary to beach her on a sandbank off Pass Island. The steamer was not long in this position when vast hordes of the native pirate fishermen began to gather round, evidently with hostile intent, and the twelve-pounder guns of the steamer, as well as all available small arms, had to be called into requisition to keep them off. Most providentially the firing of the large guns had the effect of attracting the attention of the Ashuelot, which was cruising in the neighbourhood, and at once bore down with assistance. Captain Clarke, with all his crew and passengers, took refuge on board of her. And not a moment too soon, for an enemy more dangerous than the Chinese was imperceptibly creeping up on the doomed steamer. In short, as the tide rose the Suwonada was lifted up from her resting-place on the bank and slipped down into ten fathoms, leaving only her masts above water. While the Ashuelot was intent on her friendly work, her rudder is said to have got entangled somehow, and was thus disabled. Some temporary substitute was, however, quickly rigged, and with it she succeeded, we hear, in reaching Foochow, which is only some fifty or sixty miles from the scene of the wreck. The Suwonada was fully insured, and as she had little cargo on board the loss to uninsured shippers will not be heavy. She was on her 101st trip between the two ports.

The long-cherished project of the Chinese Government to send youths to foreign countries to study has come to a head at last. An office for the selection and collection of boys has been established at Shanghai, and we understand that one or two deputies will visit Hong Kong shortly for the purpose of selecting boys. An official, who will with others accompany the pupils to America, was in the colony a few days ago, on his way to visit his native place prior to leaving China. He stated that the money allowed for each boy would be, on an average, about Tls. 400 a year, that is, we presume, Tls. 6,000 will be allowed for the fifteen years he will stay in America. The total number of boys is fixed at 120, to be sent away in four batches of 30 each. At present we learn that three only have been selected, owing, no doubt, to the reluctance which chinese parents have to part with their children.

The following appears in the Gazette:—Edmund Sharp, Esq., Crown Solicitor of the Colony of Hong Kong, having been granted six months' sick leave, his Excellency the Governor has been pleased to appoint William W. Toller, Esq., to be Acting Crown Solicitor, provisionally, and until further notice.

A meeting of shareholders in the Hong Kong Distillery Company was held on the 10th Feb., when some changes were made in the directorate, and other business was transacted. The company appears to have done fairly so far, and strong hopes are entertained that even greater success will attend it in the future. We wish it all success, as a purely local industry.

The Inspector-General of Customs, Mr. Hart, purposes making another visit to Shanghai, and will, it is said, be in that port in April. Whether the great foreign Haikwan intends to extend his tour to all the Treaty and Customs-collecting ports, we have not learnt; but there can be no question that there is ample room for his reforming presence at more than one port.

Inspector Grey, with the remainder of the police constables recruited from Edinburgh, has arrived in Holt's steamer Glaucus. They are a fine, intelligent-looking body of men.

The meeting of the shareholders in the Hong Kong Bank was to be held on the 15th Feb. The directors' report will appear in our next.

JAVA.

BATAVIA.

THE RECENT FLOODS.

The following account of the recent floods in Java, of which we lately received telegraphic reports, is from the New Batavia Handelsblad of Feb. 2:—

Batavia has lived to see a couple of fearful days. On the 25th January the floods reached a height unknown before within the recollection of the oldest inhabitant of the city. Everywhere the rivers overflowed their banks, flooded the roads, and laid houses under water. In some places the water stood from three to four feet deep inside the houses, and large holes appeared on the railway, part of which had already been made unfit for traffic, which had hence to be stopped. The service on the tramway was kept up as long as possible, but at last that, too, became impracticable. Carts then became the means of transport generally used. The natives made us see anew that they understand the law of supply and demand, for exorbitant prices were asked for carriages and every means of transport, while the price of rice rose to f.8 per picul. A number of Europeans had to fly from their houses into those of friends and acquaintances, or into hotels. The cavalry had to leave the barrack at Rijswijk. Thousands of natives saw their dwellings overflowed and destroyed.

The flood also laid under water the higher situated parts of the city; many offices in the lower town were shut at twelve o'clock, and continued so during the next day. The Government turned the Willems Church and the coffee storehouses near the Boom into places of refuge. On several points also sheds were run up for the fugitives, to whom food and a little money were doled out. Several private persons also threw open their houses and compounds to the fugitives. The water went down on the 26th with greater rapidity than it had risen. We had a couple of days of fair weather, and this contributed much to the flowing away of the water. The damage suffered is very great. No human lives were lost, but Chinese and natives, above all, have lost much. The Resident has called upon the Europeans to apply fearlessly either to him or the Assistant Resident if they are in want of help, and we are assured that they will obtain help without their feelings being hurt whenever possible. On the 27th Jan. the tramway resumed service, and on the 30th the railway also. Although the city is now for a great portion freed from water, the river at Tanahbang stands very high, owing to newly fallen rain. It is to be hoped that we have seen the worst; but February is above all a month for floods.

In the Tangerang, Kendal, and Demak districts, in Samarang, Krawang, Japara, and elsewhere, the rivers having also overflowed their banks with great violence, many breaches have been made in the dykes, and fields and campongs have been laid under water. The steep slopes of the neighbouring mountains expose the city always to floods, and those who look after such matters seem powerless to provide drainage channels. Plans have been been framed but none carried out. The state of things now is gloomier than ever. Thousands of natives are homeless, and the European population are collecting money for those needing help.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

Our advices by this mail extend to Feb. 23; the French mail with London dates Jan. 19, arrived out Feb. 21. The following items of news are from the Singapore Daily Times:—

The Criminal Session has closed. Two days—Feb. 19 and 20—were occupied with the trial of Captain Sachsze, of the British barque Burlington, charged with manslaughter in having caused the death, by shooting, of a native seaman named Seedin, while at anchor off Paknam. The Chief Justice, in summing up, laid down the law very clearly, and told the jury that the master of a ship at sea might be obliged, in order to enforce order and discipline on board his vessel, upon which depended the safety of the ship and cargo, and the life of those on board, to take the life of one or more of the men when other means failed. But the jury would have in the present case to consider whether sufficient means had been tried before resorting to the extremity of shooting the deceased man Seedin, or whether the ship itself, or the lives of the captain and the officers, were in such jeopardy as to justify that course. The jury failed to agree upon a verdict, and a second trial was ordered, but Captain Sachsze, after a new jury had been called, saved all further proceedings by pleading guilty; whereupon he was sentenced to eighteen months' imprisonment with hard labour.

The Chairman of the Penang Chamber of Commerce has replied to the articles regarding his speech at the close of the annual meeting of that body, and the Penang press have freely taken up he cudgels in defence of the position he assumed, advocating the establishment there of a local Legislative Council, or an entirely independent administration of the affairs of that Settlement. The arguments that have so far been urged in support of such a demand have not, however, been such as would have any weight with the Colonial-office authorities, or with Parliament, and the grievances complained of have been mainly municipal matters. The wish for a small steamer to put down petty piracy in the neighbourhood is one that, judging from our experience of the colonial steamers, is not likely, even if gratified, to effect the desired object; certainly, the presence of the steam launch Mata Mata in our harbour has not acted as a check upon this description of crime.

A meeting was being held the day the mail left, under the presidency of Mr. W. H. Read, to discuss the present position of the colony. The whole of the leading residents in the colony were present.

We are informed that the Right Reverend Dr. Chambers, the Lord Bishop of the Diocese, is looked for hourly from Labuan, where he has been holding his first visitation. His Lordship's stay in the Straits on this occasion will be a brief one, but before his return to Sarawak confirmations will be held at Singapore and Penang, if not also at Malacca.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

SHANGHAI.—The Piece Goods market, so far as transactions with natives are concerned, had been entirely neglected since last mail. Quotations were consequently nominally the same as those of our last issue. The tone of everything was depressed, partly by the holiday season, and materially by the collapse in the Share market. Metals.—Lead: Holders were very firm, asking Tls. 4.90 to Tls. 5.00, and looking for a further advance. Nailrod Iron: The near approach of the China New Year had caused a complete cessation of business, and there was not one transaction to record; quotations were unchanged, and the market remained very firm. Coals: Market very quiet, and no business was expected until the holidays were over.

HONG KONG.—Owing to the intervention of the China New Year holidays, there was nothing doing in the markets.

SAIGON.—The current rates were:—Grey Shirtings, 8¼ lbs., $2.57½ per piece; 7 lbs., $2.25; Supers, No. 1, $2.10; No. 2, $2.15; T-Cloths, 7 lbs., $1.80 to 1.85; 6 lbs., $1.70 to 1.75; 5 lbs., $1.37½ to 1.40 per piece; 4½ lbs., $1.20 to 1.25; 4 lbs., $1.10 to 1.15; Irish Linen, No. 150, $1.75; No. 120, $1.65.

SINGAPORE.—The market showed little or no change; the current rates were—Mule Twist, 40s, $132½. Grey Shirtings, 8¼ lbs., $2.65; 7 lbs., $2.30. T-Cloths, 5 lbs., $1.45; 6 lbs., $1.72½; 7 lbs., $1.92½.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

SHANGHAI.—Black: The only settlements had been 3 chops, 1,739 chests, common Shontams at Tls. 11½ to 12. Stock 750 chests. Green: Considerable purchases had been made for London at very full prices. There were no really fine Teas now remaining. Settlements had been 6,200 half-chests at Tls. 35 to 42 for Fychow Teenkai, &c., and Tls. 26½ to 29½ for Shanghai packed. Stock, 5,500 half-chests.

SILK.

SHANGHAI.—The market was quiet, and little had been done owing to the high rate of exchange. The settlements were estimated at 400 bales, viz., 250 bales for Europe and 150 bales for America, making total to date 45,800 bales. Owing to the approach of the China New Year, the Chinese had been rather anxious sellers, and Red Peacocks had been offered at Tls. 515, without finding buyers. The unsold stock was estimated at 1,500 bales.

THE advice we lately tendered—in view of the share panic at Shanghai—to bank managers and heads of mercantile firms in China to strictly prohibit any speculative dealings in shares on the part of their employés is, by a singular coincidence, repeated in almost the same words in the North China Herald received by this mail. In fact, so closely do the observations we made resemble those of our contemporary that we are constrained to assure our readers that they were not founded upon a special telegram received from the editor of the Herald. We may here repeat our warning against the evil of permitting subordinates entering into any such transactions.

WE learn by telegram from Washington that the Senate have amended the Tariff Bill as sent up from the House of Representatives in such a way as to rescind the duties on Tea and Coffee. The Senate has hitherto been opposed to this course, and some influence, of the nature of which we are not yet aware, must have been at work to induce the members to alter their determination.

JAPANESE STUDENTS IN AMERICA.

The Philadelphia Ledger says that the Japanese students at the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland, have been the subject of a recent report from Commodore John L. Worden, the superintendent of that institution, to the Secretary of the Navy. There are at present two Japanese students at Annapolis, Zun Zow Matzmulla, who entered in December, 1869, and Koroka Katz, who was admitted in June, 1871. The average standing of these young men is fair, and their conduct is excellent, and they do not interfere in any way with the discipline of the Academy. A third Japanese, Ise Sataro, was admitted to the Naval Academy in December, 1869, but in consequence of his imperfect knowledge of the English language he has recently left the institution for a private school, for the purpose of better fitting himself for the course. Matzmulla, during his second academic year, in a class of forty-five members, stood number eight in mathematics, eleven in chemistry, fifteen in French, forty-one in seamanship, thirty-three in geography, and twenty-six in the respective branches of drawing, history, and rhetoric. Koroka Katz, during the last three months, in a class of eighty nine members, stood number forty-one in mathematics, thirty-eight in seamanship, fifty-nine in grammar, and fifty-one in the respective branches of French and history. All charges for these students are paid by the Japanese Government, and they consequently add nothing to the expense of the Academy. The Japanese cadet-midshipmen are subject to the same rules and routine of duty as the other students, and they attend morning prayers and divine worship, exhibiting interest in the services, and paying respectful attention to religious instruction.

A FAR-FETCHED COMPARISON.—The Pall Mall Gazette attempts to draw a parallel between the conduct of the American Government with reference to the "Alabama Claims" and that of some British and American traders in Japan by quoting an anecdote mentioned by Professor Leone Levi in his "History of British Commerce." The Professor says:—Since, by the British Treaty with Japan of August 26, 1858, and by one precisely similar concluded between the United States and Japan, the Japanese Government bound themselves for one year to give Japanese coin in exchange for British or American, weight for weight, and they became bound to supply ichibus against dollars, it became a practice for the foreign merchants to take 100 dollars to the Custom-house, and to obtain for them token coins, weight for weight—namely, 311 ichibus. But with this money the foreign merchants could go to the market and obtain gold kobang, worth two to three times the intrinsic value of his dollars. He had, in fact, only to send kobang to Shanghai and have them converted into dollars to recommence the operation. The British and American traders took advantage of this opportunity and made demands on the Treasury for fabulous sums of Japanese silver coin in the names of fictitious persons, till the kobangs actually came to an end. One applicant to the Customs alone required ichibus for one sextillion, two hundred quintillions, six hundred and sixty-six quadrillions, seven hundred and seventy-seven trillions, eight hundred and eighty-eight billions, nine hundred and ninety-nine millions, two hundred and twenty-two thousand, three hundred and twenty-one.

FARMING IN JAPAN.—We hear from Chicago, United States, that the agent of Mr. Capron has now completed his stock of animals, &c., for Japan, and they would be despatched via San Francisco. They consist of four horses, four head of cattle, four hogs, and a number of sheep not defined. One of the horses, a large black stallion, six years of age, has trotted a mile in two minutes and thirty-nine seconds; there is another stallion of the Manibrino breed, and the remaining two are intended for harness. The oxen are Durhams, the sheep Lincolns, and the pigs Scotch and Suffolk. Mr. Capron and his staff left some months since, under engagement to the Japanese Government, and it is presumed will have a farm ready for this stock.

Lieutenant A. O. de B. Nepean, R.M.L.I., has been ordered to hold himself in readiness to proceed for service with the battalion of Royal Marines in Japan.

HAMBURG, March 19.

"The cry is still they come!" I had hoped that the subject of new joint-stock undertakings was exhausted, but the mania appears to be still as rabid as ever. Though the greater part of these mushrooms spring up over night in all parts of Germany—Berlin is the chief hotbed for producing them—yet I have to record some fresh ones to-day at Hamburg, one of which is the "Brokers' Union Bank for Funds and Merchandise," with a capital of three million thalers. It is founded for the avowed object of facilitating the sale and obtaining advances on the deposit of funds, shares, bonds, goods, and other marketable securities. At the general meeting of shareholders held here last week the bank was declared duly "constituted," and the following gentlemen were elected Members of the Council of Administration:—Messrs. W. Probst, of the Hamburg Branch of the Deutsche Bank; Julius Horwitz, of the Waaren Credit Anstalt; Consul Ed. Frege, of the firm of Frege and Co.; Leopold Jacoby, of the firm of L. Jacoby and Co.; August Herz; Alexander Schnars, of the firm of Brock and Schnars;

J. C. Warnecke, of the firm of Conrad Warnecke and Co.; and Berthold Cohnheim, of the firm of H. Cohnheim and Sons.

Then there is a new "Hanseatic Building Company," with a powerful capital of fifteen million thalers, for the purpose of building houses, villas, and warehouses; cutting through and making new streets, and anything else that may turn up in that line, for which there is an almost unlimited sphere of action among the labyrinth of tortuous streets and lanes that escaped the great conflagration of 1842. Among the promoters of this scheme are the Norddeutsche Bank, the International Bank, the Money changers' Bank, and the firms of L. Behrens and Sons, and J. D. Mutzenbecher and Sons. The company has not as yet declared itself "constituted."

And lastly—for to-day at least—there is another new bank in process of concoction, to be called the "United Brokers' Bank," which will also prove a useful undertaking if well conducted by gentlemen enjoying the confidence of the Exchange. I may add, however, that as a rule these new schemes are only lucrative to the original promoters, who issue the shares at a premium varying from five to ten or even fifteen per cent., pocket this premium, and then the shares fall to par. Of this system we have had several striking instances here of late, to cite one of which will suffice for them all. About three months ago the Hamburg South American Steam Company was brought out here, as described in my letters at the time, and the shares were offered to the public at par. There was such a wonderful thirst for these shares that the number subscribed was seventy-five times as many as were offered, and when the repartition was made only one share was allotted to those who had signed for 160 shares, and on the following day the shares commanded a premium of ten per cent. But now that the excitement is allayed, the premiums realised, and the public attention called to other new undertakings, the shares of the company —which I believe to be a perfectly safe investment, being founded on the natural requirements of a large and annually increasing trade between this port and South America, whilst the management is in the hands of wealthy and honourable firms above the breath of suspicion—have fallen to par, and the same is the case with the new Transatlantic Steam Company, the shares of which may even be had at 99 per cent.

Herr. G. A. Schon has been elected a member of the Council of Administration of the Anglo-German Bank of this city, vice Herr Simon Warburg, who has resigned to accept the appointment of Manager of the Provincial Discount Company of Hamburg.

Commander Klatt, of the Imperial Navy, has been appointed to the command of the naval station in the North Sea, but it is understood to be only a temporary arrangement, and that on the return of the German corvette Hertha, now on the China and Japan Station, the appointment will be definitely given to Captain Koehler, now in command of that ship.

COMMERCIAL.

There has been a considerable demand for Tea, and the following sales have been perfected:—For delivery on arrival, per J. H. Jessen, from Foochow, 1,454/4, 4,503/8, and 129/16 chests Congou, and 387/16 chests Souchong; ex warehouse, 803/4 chests Congou, per Ino, 56/8 chests Oolong, 44/8 chests Pekoe Congou, and 434/16 chests Gunpowder, per Sophie, and 108/4 chests Congou, per Lord of the Isles. At public sale 337/4 and 274/8 chests Congou, as well as 51/8 chests Souchong and 20/4 chests Pekoe, were all disposed of. There is no alteration in the prices, but the market is in a satisfactory condition. Of Rice two cargoes of Rangoon (17,500 bags) were sold to the millers, and two other cargoes (10,000 bags per Euterpe and 11,000 bags per Undine) were taken previous to arrival. Not much business has been done in cleaned grain, but the prices of all descriptions are firm. Cassia Lignea is steady at last quotations. Pepper commands more attention, and is rather higher, Singapore having been done at 7 sch. bco., and 6½ sch. bco. paid for Penang. The only transaction in Spelter was 500 centners in loco, which realised 15 marks bco.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.—Ino, from Foochow; Undine, Metis, Euterpe, and Melissa, from Rangoon.

SAILED.—Carl Ludwig and Dan, to Nicolayefsk.

ROTTERDAM, March 21.

Two important pamphlets have been published, dealing with affairs in Sumatra. The little book, of which I spoke in my last, refers to some measures by which the old prosperity of the colony might be revived. The author states that while much damage has been done by the epidemic amongst the cattle, the main cause of the poverty of the native population is the low rate of wages. It is impossible, he says, for a family to cultivate more than nine piculs coffee a year, for which he receives f.78, whilst his wants for rice alone are f.96 during the year for a family of three members. Year after year this does occur, and general poverty is the natural result. The author urges that the cultivation of coffee should be encouraged and increased; that the natives should be granted the right to dispose as they like of their own produce, and that the means of communication should be improved, by which the obstacles to the development of private industry would be removed. If the natives were thus freed, the author calculates that they would be able to make an annual income each by coffee planting of f.156, out of which he would have to pay a duty of only f.24. In this case the State would gain about f.400,000 more that its actual revenue from the coffee culture. The author further urges the necessity of promoting immigration and the construction of railways. The other pamphlet is written by Mr. A. P. Godon, a former resident of Mandelhing and Angikola, Sumatra, West Coast. It contains a strong and vigorous protest against military expeditions. His advice is not to rule matters, as now, by the sword, but by gentle and peaceable intervention. He is of opinion that functionaries who do all they can to prevent the shedding of blood ought to be more rewarded than those who, in a pompous report, are able to state that they have burned a kampong, or that their soldiers have killed a certain number of natives. Both these pamphlets deserve attention and consideration.

I am glad to see that several members of the Second Chamber, when examining the Bill in the sections, protested strongly against the differential duties of the Java tariff. Some of them, however, recommended that the abolition proposed by the Minister should be introduced gradually. The majority opposed the plan of Mr. van Bosse to levy an import duty of 10 per cent., by which they consider the foreign manufacturers would be encouraged at the expense of our own, who would not obtain the least advantage from the cessation of the differential duties. The Conservatives and Protectionists, who oppose the whole Bill, joined in this protest. The majority approved the proposed levying of tea duties according to the value. Some members proposed that the law should only come in force on the 1st Jan., 1874. One of the members—Mr. Bredius—protested in a special note against levying either import or export duties, the more because the financial condition of Java made it unnecessary.

The unfavourable news about the steamers of the Company Nederland has made a painful impression. Rumours are in circulation that this company will have to raise a new loan in order to build more steamers.

The King has appointed Mr. N. van Klaveren minister of the Protestant Church of Netherlands India.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

There is but little activity to record in our leading articles of Colonial produce. A dull tone generally prevails in the market, and, with the exception of Tin, which has further advanced, prices are barely supported.

COFFEE.—Very dull, and the ensuing Trading Company's public sale will have to establish the actual market value of the article. The brokers' valuations are based on a price of 43 cents for good ordinary Java. Sales have been closed of about 5,000 bags Java, ex Willem Kroonprins der Nederlanden, 700 bags ditto, ex Voorlichter, 2,000 bags ditto, ex Medea.

SUGAR remains quiet, in anticipation of the Trading Company's public sale, taking place to-morrow. No transactions whatever are reported.

TEA.—There is no alteration to report in the feature of the market. Our brokers have issued valuations of the 3,271/4, 3,084/12 chests Congou, and 177/4 chests Souchong, ex steamer Canton, from Foochow, via the Suez Canal, to be put up by public auction on the 27th inst.; they run from 85c. to 135c.

SPICES.—Some transactions have taken place at unaltered prices. Nutmegs have been in partial request at 195c. for No. 1, and 185c. for No. 2, but at these prices but little is to be met with. 314 casks Nutmegs of private importation, per Kaisow and Noach III., changed hands on secret terms. Mace and Cloves attract but little attention.

RICE.—The demand remains dull, and prices are but nominally supported. About 3,968 bags Indramayoe table, ex Henriette Gerardina Susanna, were sold by secret tender at Amsterdam yesterday.

TIN.—An animated demand has manifested itself for this article since the announcement of the Trading Company's spring sale. Banca has sold at from f.88 up to f.91 for usual prompt, and from f.88 up to f.92½ for delivery, ex the coming public sale, also at f.86 and f.86½ for delivery, ex the autumn sale of this year. Billiton has changed hands or arrival at f.87½ to f.91. The spring sale on account of the Netherlands Trading Company will be held here on the 11th proximo, and will comprise 52,800 slabs Banca, and 2,600 slabs Billiton stored in our different ports. No further quantities beyond these will be offered in the market for account of the Company until next autumn, nor will there be any Government public sales in the interim in Netherlands India.

HIDES.—Some parcels, ex County of Nairn, Veritas, and Fairwind, have changed hands.

RATTANS.—Sales have been closed here by private contract of 700 piculs, ex Noach III.; 90 piculs, ex Willem Kroonpins der Nederlanden. The Trading Company's public sale of about 61,353 bundles on the 14th inst. went off as follows:—Borneo sold at f.16.60 to f.18.80; Padang, f.15.20 to f.17.80; mixed parcels, f.15.60 to f.17.30.

TORTOISESHELL.—Out of 12 chests brought to the hammer, 11 chests found buyers at from f.6.50 to f.14.50, and 1 chest at 50c.

INDIGO.—But little business has been doing; prices continue to be well maintained. Only small lots of Java have been sold out of the late arrivals.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.—March 15, at Brouwershaven, from Batavia, Utrecht; at Hellevoet, from Samarang, Chloris; 16, at Brouwershaven, from Probolingo, Loch Awe; at Texel, from Batavia, Friedeburg; from Passaroean, Aboukir, Nieuwe, Waterweg II.; from Rangoon, Moss Rose, Chalmers; 18, at Brouwershaven, from Batavia, Henriette Adriana; 19, at Zierikzee, from Batavia, Catharina Maria.

DEPARTURES.—March 15, from Brouwershaven, for Hong Kong, Johanna.

PASSENGERS INWARD.—From Java, per Utrecht, Messrs. Monhennius, Randwyk, Romyn, Van der Meer and family; D. Brakel and family; Reineke and family; Monnich; Miss Dibbits.

CHINA MEDICAL REPORTS.

We have received the Medical Reports for the half-year ended Sept. 30th, 1871, the second of the series, published by order of the Inspector-General of Customs, Shanghai. The following is a résumé of the facts most likely to be interesting to the non-professional reader:—

PEKING.

Dr. Dudgeon reports that the water is sweet, soft, and exceedingly pure. In respect of wells Peking is probably unsurpassed by any city in the world; and in drainage she was formerly perfect, but many of the drains have been suffered to fall into ruins. Numerous public warm baths exist, the charge being one penny; but the Chinese seldom use them, generally washing in a tea-cup-full of warm water, and drying themselves with a handkerchief. Such was the bath in which the greasy Yeh indulged on his way to Calcutta. The Pekingese are quiet and methodical, doing everything without the slightest exertion or fuss. The conclusion of Dr. Dudgeon's Report has yet to appear.

HANKOW.

Dr. Reid reports the river Han as being very foul. The European population averages 110 adults. The death rate among them has been for the last two years less than 2 per cent. Dysentery appears annually with the rise of the temperature in May. The medicinal treatment of this disease is large doses of ipecacuanha—half a drachm at least—night and morning, with a previous full dose of laudanum to keep it down.

KIUKIANG.

Dr. Shearer reports some singular cases in connection with the habit of opium smoking. The daily consumption of the drug by habitual smokers ranges from half a drachm to three drachms daily. About one out of ten who applied to him to assist them in conquering the practice and the craving were cured. There were only two cases of small-pox, of which but one was fatal.

SHANGHAI.

Dr. Jamieson reports the Shanghai water as rather worse than that of the Thames, and says the river is liable to contamination on an alarming scale should any epidemic occur among the natives, or should any manure boats be capsized. So much the more pressing need for the projected water-works. According to the census of 1870 there were 1,982 foreign residents in Shanghai. The death rate was 52·47 per thousand per annum; but owing to the great proportion of violent deaths, the death-rate among healthy adults was only 30·27 per thousand.

FOOCHOW.

Dr. Somerville reports a more than usually healthy season. Boils are, however, exceedingly prevalent in hot weather. Persons with blue eyes and fair complexions are especially liable to them. Worms are the great pest of foreign children at this port. The water of the River Min, freed from organic impurities by precipitation with alum, or by proper filtration, is quite wholesome. There are no malarious influences to be dreaded, but it is necessary to guard against taking cold.

TAKOW AND TAIWAN-FOO.

Dr. Manson reports that it is seldom that rain falls in quantity for a continued period, but there is a supply of good water within easy access. The number of foreign residents was thirty; their general health was good, and there were no deaths. Over 1,200 natives were treated at the hospital; diseases of the eye are very common among them, owing to continual showers of very fine sand during the N.E. monsoon. Enlarged spleen, and chronic ulcers, are also frequent; and goître is common among the inhabitants of the lower range of hills at the foot of the mountains.

AMOY.

Drs. Müller and Manson report that, for Europeans, as they are now housed, the climate cannot be considered unhealthy. The bountiful supply of rain had a beneficial effect on the public health. Fevers were the most prevalent, and the class of disease alluded to above the next. Leprosy is very common in Amoy. The native doctors acknowledge their powerlessness to cope with it. Drs. Müller and Manson have found treatment by iodide of potassium and the bichloride of mercury, combined with local stimulants, very efficacious, especially at the commencement.

SWATOW.

Dr. Scott reports that zymotic diseases were the most prevalent, forming almost three-fourths of the total number of cases. Of this class ague stands first as to number. Next come those disorders which our own Contagious Diseases Act is intended to prevent, and Dr. Scott thinks that the co-operation of the Chinese Government might be solicited in favour of some such plan being carried out in China. Diarrhœa, dysentery, and boils are also very frequent. Cholera was not epidemic among the Chinese. Only one case of small-pox occurred among foreigners, which Dr. Scott cured, as he had cured many similar cases, by five-drop doses of carbolic acid every two hours, and the external application of nitrate of silver.

CANTON.

Dr. Wang reports the health of the foreign community as good. Their number is about 180; of these two died—one from being shot, and the other from drink. Nothing like an epidemic has occurred since 1858. Stone in the bladder is very common among the natives in this province, although it is not met by the establishment of mission hospitals, of which there are no less than six in other places—viz., at Amoy, Foochow, Shanghai, Ningpo, Hankow, and Peking—which are of the greatest benefit to the sufferers.

MR. DE LONG ON LEAVE FROM JAPAN.

The New York Herald has the following skit on Mr. De Long, which exhibits the minister in anything but a comfortable state in Washington. It indicates very distinctly that he tried to make political capital out of the Japanese mission:—

The position of Mr. De Long, United States Minister to Japan, is an anomalous and delicate one, and will require unusual ingenuity for his successful extrication. He finds himself in Washington, on the seat of his own government, and many thousands of miles from that of the government to which he is accredited, without the colour or shadow of authority for being here, other than six weeks' leave of absence obtained since his arrival from Secretary Fish, and, beyond all question, without the solicitation or even invitation of the high Embassy which he has assumed to have taken in his charge. From the day of landing in San Francisco to the day of arrival in Washington Mr. De Long has enjoyed a succession of cleverly contrived ovations on the route and in the press as the inspirator of the sending forth of the Embassy and contriver of the arguments which sent it first to the United States. Minister De Long has become known to his fellow citizens of the Pacific coast as the virtual creator of their magnificent commercial future, and is supposed to have earned not only their undying gratitude, to find its possible future expression in enduring monuments, but an immediate substantial reward in their suffrages, in the direction and to the extent that will carry him to the jester's stool of Senator Jim Nye. Little by little the facts have welled out, and have troubled with the roar of an almighty stream the ears of the present Senator from Nevada, who, though known to be somewhat indifferent to a continuance of Senator honours in a general way, has a particular aversion to even a suggestion that De Long, his former belted competitor, shall be his succe-sor. This is one source, and a great source, of danger to our Minister to Japan, and still greater is the probability that in the incidental explanations which the Ambassadors may feel it incumbent to make to the State Department concerning the origin and significance of their mission the claims of De Long to the honour and glory and the profit in part of our new relations with Japan will melt like snow, and his aspirations for higher office at home or continuance at a foreign Court, whose dignity and independence have been clouded by the pretensions set up in his behalf, at once be rendered impossible. Mr. De Long is under orders to return to his abandoned post at the expiration of the leave of absence he has received; and though such orders indicate that his absence is at least partly understood by Mr. Fish, it is not probable that the latter's information or the Minister's orders are as yet final and complete.

CHINESE EMIGRATION.

(NEW YORK TIMES.)

It is now almost two years since the experiment of introducing Chinese labourers to compete with skilled white artisans was first attempted in the Eastern States, and though there is every reason to think that the trial has proved in many ways a success, it is nevertheless true that the fears then entertained of an immense influx of Mongolians, who were to fill all branches of labour to the complete exclusion of their white rivals, have been found to be wholly groundless. Companies were formed for their importation, agents were sent from north, south, and east to urge them to come, but yet, with the exception of a few straggling bands in Mississippi, and an odd dozen or so individual members of the race in our immediate neighbourhood, nothing has come of it. The Chinese question has ceased to be a subject of debate in the meetings of working men's unions, and the vague alarm which it created in the minds of many seems wholly to have departed.

To those acquainted with the national traits of character of the Chinese, nothing could appear more causeless than this universal fear of "an invasion," which rose and vanished so suddenly. Never was there a race of men to whom the attractions of home are so strong. Those who have left China during the past twenty years have, with few exceptions, been enslaved and taken away by force, or compelled to leave in order to obtain the bare necessities of life. The religion of the Chinaman makes it necessary for his future welfare that his body should be in his native soil; and every social tradition conspires to render a life spent away from the Celestial Empire a source of ignominy both to the emigrant and to his relations. Under such circumstances, the offers held out to them by Eastern capitalists can hardly prove sufficient inducements for any large numbers of them to undertake so long and uncertain a journey.

In order to give full force to this statement, it is necessary to say a word or two concerning the condition of the State of California, which has been held up, very unjustly, as a proof of how easily the Chinese might be induced to leave their own country. Few seem to consider that at the time the Chinese immigration began, California, and the entire Pacific coast as well, offered inducements to men from all over the world, such as in all probability will never again be held out in any part of this country. Wages were exorbitantly high, and the results of mining, though comparatively small, from the careless manner in which it was then conducted, were of sufficient magnitude to attract the cupidity even of the Chinese. The voyage was easily made, and the success of those who first ventured was so great as to induce the subsequent emigration. Since that time, the means of intercommunication have been greatly increased; steamers have been running monthly, and at times fortnightly, between San Francisco and Hong Kong, and though the amount of merchandise imported and exported has been more than doubled in the four years that they have been running, there has been little or no increase in the number of emigrants. It is not difficult to discover the reason for this; the rate paid for labour has declined, and as Eastern competition becomes more and more felt, it will decline yet further; so that the Chinaman, whose object in emigrating is not to found a new home, but to make a fortune, so that he may live at ease in his native land, will be less inclined than ever to quit his ancestral roof.

We do not think that we are over-estimating the importance of the advantages once held out to these people, and which are now slowly declining, when we say that at the present day, if it were not for the colony of seventy or eighty thousand of them now in California, there would be no emigration at all; and that ten years hence, unless some tremendous political change takes place in China, we doubt whether ten thousand of them will be found in this country. As it is, there are now equal benefits proffered to both Japanese and Chinese, and if, as the past four years have proved, they are not of sufficient worth to excite desire in the restless mind of the former, we may be sure that their influence is waning in the attraction they have for the latter.

JAPAN.—THE NEW TREATY WITH RUSSIA, &c.

THE movements in connection with Japan continue to engage attention and increase in importance. From Berlin a telegram states that "the new Russo-Japanese Treaty provides that in the event of a difference between one of the "two contracting Powers and a third State, the other contracting Power shall mediate, and if this intercession proves "useless, close its harbours against the ships of the State "attacking its ally." This is a very important concession gained by the wily Russian diplomatist. It does not take a wizard to see which of the Powers will be the most likely to reap an enormous advantage in time of war—say, for example, a war between England and Russia, and all the Japanese ports closed against our ships! All we can say at present is, that we do not believe that such a clause in the treaty exists. If it does, we must simply get the same allowed to us under the favoured nation clause when the negotiations for our new treaty are taken in hand. But, in the meantime, our Foreign-Office should at once energetically protest against it, and by this means the ratification of it will, perhaps, be stopped. Prevention will assuredly be better than cure. A telegram from Paris announces that the French military instructors we lately noticed proceed by next French Mail from Marseilles to Yokohama. The next thing to notice is the reception of the Japanese Mission by the President of the United States at Washington, than which nothing could be more satisfactory. We trust that our Government will be prepared to do them similar honours. Our American cousins are evidently bidding for popularity and influence in Japan, and we are glad to see it, as it acts as a useful spur to our more undemonstrative and lethargic officials. Without the lead of American enterprise we should not have had a clipper ship afloat nor the telegraph across the Atlantic; but, once roused to action, we can hold our own in anything appertaining to trade, progress, or improvement. We may remark that the comments in the New York papers on the United States Minister, Mr. DE LONG, are not at all complimentary.

THE INSURRECTION IN THE PHILIPPINES.

BY the last mail we have received full accounts of the military rising in the Philippines, which was of more serious import than the telegrams announced. According to our advices from Madrid, the conspiracy was really intended to effect a complete deliverance of the Isles from the yoke of Spain. It is not remarkable that such should be the case. It is felt by all the inhabitants, both civil and military, that the Government of Spain is simply despotic and intolerable. The Government at Madrid has no real care for their interests, being too much engaged with internal troubles at home and in the nearer colony of Cuba, where the struggle still rages for independence of the Spanish Crown. They simply regard these Philippine possessions "as a lemon to be squeezed dry" for their own exclusive benefit. It is impossible for the Spaniards to send forth troops to cope with these outbreaks in Manila and the neighbouring provinces, which are certain to occur again, and the ultimate success of which is simply a matter of time. It is needless to disguise the wish that "the sooner the better." The magnificent resources of these islands have too long suffered; what has been done in the way of developing them has been done by Anglo-Saxons, who have been thwarted in every possible manner by the short-sighted and slothful ideas of the Spanish Government. As to their future government it is hopeless to induce our Government, or that of America, to accept the responsibility, and no other would be of benefit for carrying out the changes necessary for a proper development of its rich and beautiful productions. It will, therefore, be for the best interests of the inhabitants to establish their independence under a Republican form of government, availing themselves of some of the Anglo-Saxon blood now to be found amongst them. The local Government will act wisely not to oppose a peaceful revolution. That the separation will be brought about is inevitable. The power of Spain to govern far-off colonies is irretrievably gone for ever. We cannot, however, dismiss the subject without paying our tribute of respect to the gallant Governor and Captain-General. His manifesto, which we published in the last number of the London and China Telegraph, is worthy of any blood or nationality. He did his duty in putting down the rebellion, but he now finds that the spirit which moved it is hydra-headed.

CHINESE EMIGRATION TO THE UNITED STATES.

THE New York Times now admits that the attempt at introducing Chinese labourers into the cotton fields of the Southern States, or the domestic and manufacturing industry of the North, is a complete failure. Our readers who have any knowledge of the manner in which the Chinese Emigration to Cuba has been conducted will—like ourselves—not be in the least astonished. When our London papers were echoing the flaming accounts of the American papers we ventured to say that the calculations and expectations were all doomed to disappointment. Mr. KOOPMANSCHAPP, of San Francisco, might make any number of contracts to supply Chinese labourers, but we were quite certain that he was "counting on his chickens," &c. No; the unfortunate emigrants have suffered too much violence and injustice at the hands of Americans in California to induce them to go any further into their country. The Alpha and Omega of a Chinaman's thought is to "return to his native land." How such promises have been made and kept by foreign speculators and native Coolie-brokers we all know. Still, the excitement and demonstration made on the subject has, no doubt, served the purpose of masters in the States, who have made the most of it to scare their men into better discipline, and to shut their mouths against further demands for higher wages. No one knows so well as an American how to take a "rise" out of a thing. Their ingenuity and cuteness in this respect is not to be matched by any country in the world. The Chinese are shrewd and wily, but the Americans are too cute and smart even for them. The article to which we have alluded will be found in another column.

THE AUDIENCE QUESTION.

DURING the Parliamentary recess this question was fully discussed by the leading public journals; and all agreed that it should be settled at the earliest opportunity. In view of the approaching nuptials of the youthful Emperor of CHINA, the occasion is opportune for the representatives of the Treaty Powers at Peking to broach the subject to the Government, and ascertain the probability of the right of audience being conceded to them. As the exact day when the august ceremony is to take place has not yet transpired, it is just possible that any definite answer to the inquiries of the foreign envoys may be put off to the last moment. Meanwhile, the newly appointed French Minister, M. DE GEOFFROY, proceeds to Peking, armed with instructions not to send the reply of the French President on the Tientsin tragedy to the EMPEROR through any subordinate channel, but to deliver it only at a solemn audience of his MAJESTY. If this be granted without any demur, then the question will be settled, as under the favoured nation clause of the Treaty of Tientsin the other Powers are entitled to claim the same privileges and rights bestowed upon any separate nationality. Should it be refused, then it will be the duty of the foreign representatives to take united diplomatic action in urging on the contumacious Chinese Government the policy of according the right of audience to foreign Ministers, to avoid further political complications. In advocating this right, the British Plenipotentiary has only to cite Art. III. of the Treaty of Tientsin, as follows :—"His Majesty "the Emperor of CHINA hereby agrees that the Ambassador, "Minister or other Diplomatic Agent, so appointed by Her "Majesty the Queen of Great Britain, may reside, with his "family and establishment, permanently at the capital, or "may visit it occasionally at the option of the British Go- "vernment. He shall not be called upon to perform any "ceremony derogatory to him as representing the Sovereign "of an independent nation on a footing of equality with that "of China. On the other hand, he shall use the forms of "ceremony and respect to his Majesty the EMPEROR as em- "ployed by the Ambassadors, Ministers, or Diplomatic "Agents of Her MAJESTY towards the Sovereigns of inde- "pendent and equal European nations." Although the word "audience" does not occur in this article, yet it is clearly implied. It would be satisfactory, however, to learn what interpretation Earl GRANVILLE puts upon this clause, and whether any negotiations with foreign Governments have been entered into on the question. This might be elicited by any member of either House of Parliament asking for information on this head in the usual manner.

MR. ROBERT GRANT WATSON has been appointed Secretary to Her Majesty's Legation in Japan, in succession to Mr. ADAMS, promoted to Berlin. Mr. WATSON served for six years with the army in India, but, having quitted the military service, was appointed an Attache to the Embassy at Constantinople in 1859. In 1865, having been in the meantime promoted to the rank of Second Secretary, he was appointed a Captain in Her Majesty's Staff Corps, but resigned the commission upon being nominated to the post of Second Secretary at Constantinople. This appointment was, however cancelled, and Mr. WATSON was employed on home service at the Foreign-Office until 1867, when he was transferred to the Diplomatic Staff at Rio de Janeiro. From this place he was once more appointed to Constantinople, but in 1870 was removed to Athens, where he was promoted to be Secretary of Legation, and for some time acted as Chargé d'Affaires. His services in Greece have extended to the date of his present appointment.

SOME interesting details about the friendly alliance which has just been concluded between China and Japan reach us from St. Petersburg. The two States have treated each other on a footing of perfect equality, and the material preponderance of China is only perceivable in Art. VI. of the treaty, which stipulates that the Japanese Government shall make its official communications to China either in the Chinese language or accompanied by a Chinese translation. The treaty was concluded in the middle of November last. The treaty does not possess the character of an offensive and defensive alliance; the two Powers only pledge themselves that neither shall give any assistance to Europeans in a war against the other Power.

THE mania for the formation of new companies in Germany is now as mad as the career of those institutions in London in 1865-66. Our Hamburg correspondent points out in his letter—which will be found in another column—that Hamburg is now running a race against Berlin. He reports the formation of the "Hanseatic Building Company," "United Brokers' Bank," the "Brokers' Bank for Funds and Merchandise," of which Mr. WM. PROBST, late of China, is a Director.

WE understand that the directors of the P. and O. Co. have contracted with Messrs. DENNY and Co. (Dumbarton) for three more steamers of about 3,000 tons. They are also negotiating for the purchase of a steamer now on the stocks, of similar dimensions. These four vessels are specially intended for a direct service to China, via the Suez Canal. The four steamers now building on the Clyde for the company are in a forward state. The arrangements with the Italian Government for the Adriatic service are not yet finally completed.

MR. B. G. NORTHROPP, of Connecticut, U.S., an American Educational Commissioner, who is now on a visit to this country, is about to proceed to Japan, at the invitation of the Japanese Government, to assist in the establishment of a system of popular education in the Empire.

WE learn that the Rev. C. R. ALFORD, D.D., Bishop of Victoria, Hong Kong, has finally resigned his see, and has accepted a curacy at Bowden, Cheshire.

SIR EDMUND HORNBY, the Chief Judge of the Supreme Court of China and Japan, and Lady HORNBY will proceed to Shanghai by the French mail of the 14th April.

Monetary and Commercial.

The Directors of the Suez Canal Company have decided on increasing the rates charged on vessels passing the Canal. From the 1st July the rate will be ten francs on the gross register of every vessel. The difference will be of considerable importance to steamship owners, as many steamers now pass the Canal with only half cargoes. The effect will be to necessitate a higher scale of freight, and thus throw the cargo into the hands of sailing-ship owners, whose day, it is clear, is not yet over. The following is the official notification :—

1st. From the 1st July, 1872, the Universal Suez Canal Company will collect a special navigation duty of ten francs per ton on the real capacity of ships.

2nd. The gross tonnage recorded on the papers of ships measured by the English system actually in use will serve as basis for this collection.

3rd. The ships of all nations whose papers do not show the tonnage established by the above method, will be regulated according to the most recent system adopted by the International Lower Danube Commission, rectified and completed if needful.

4th. The ships which have no papers, or incomplete ones, will be measured by the Company's agents, according to the system in use in England for measuring laden ships.

5th. All spaces covered immovably or provisionally, not included in the official tonnage of the ship, will be measured by the Company's agents, according to the rule actually used in England. The obtained tonnage will be subject to the tax.

6th. Government vessels will be treated according to the rules applicable to merchant vessels for the collection of the Company's dues.

In adopting as basis for the collection of its dues the tonnage resulting from measurements according to the above-mentioned method, the Suez Canal Company does not renounce for the future to apply such a new rule of measurement as would offer more precision than the actual method in use.

The negotiations regarding the Inward Steam Bill of Lading have not yet been brought to a conclusion; there are points of difference between the merchants and steamship owners which prevent the settlement of the form to be adopted. The Committee of Underwriters appointed to consider the clauses in the Outward Bill of Lading which affect their interests has not yet come to any decision as to altering their policy forms.

The proposed duty of 4 per cent. on raw silk imported into France will shortly come into operation. The effect of this new impost will probably be to throw more business into the London market, but it is too small to have any appreciable effect on the manufacturers.

The annual meeting of the Chartered Bank of India, Australia, and China will be held on the 17th April.

The annual meeting of the Oriental Bank Corporation is called for the 18th April. A special meeting will also be held on the same day "to consider an application for an extension of the present charters of incorporation."

The ordinary meeting of the shareholders of the Agra Bank (Limited) will be held on the 27th inst. The directors' report says :—

The net profit for the year 1871 amounted to £44,510, out of which a dividend at the rate of 3 per cent. per annum has already been paid for the six months ending June last. It is now proposed to pay a dividend at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum for the half-year ending December, leaving £5,173 to be carried forward. The results of the business, it is added, would have been more profitable if all the branches of the bank had, as was expected, contributed to the general revenue. Some of them, however, have failed to cover their working expenses, and at Bombay, Kurrachee, and Hong Kong the deficiency arising from expenditure exceeding the earnings has been considerable. A distribution to the shareholders of the late Agra and Masterman's Bank, at the rate of £1 15s. per share, will be made on and after the 2nd of April.

Tenders for £600,000 in bills on India were received on the 20th inst. at the Bank of England. The amounts allotted were—To Calcutta, £398,000; to Bombay, £200,000; and to Madras, £2,000. The minimum price was fixed, as before, at 1s. 11d. on all the Presidencies. Tenders on Calcutta and Madras at 1s. 11⅛d. will receive about 43 per cent., and on Bombay at that price 71 per cent.; above in full. These results show a fresh diminution in the demand for the means of remittance to the East.

The market for Bar Silver is quiet; transactions during the last few days have taken place at 60 11-16d. to 60⅞d. per oz. standard. The supply of Mexican Dollars is very limited, and prices are firm at 59½d. per oz. for the new, and 61¼d. per oz. for the old coinage.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

There has been a quiet market during the week. The chief business has been in red-leaf Congous, from 1s. to 1s. 3d. per lb., which are relatively cheaper than black-leaf kinds at the same price. There has been scarcely any variation in prices to notice, the only weakness being in common black-leaf kinds, large supplies of which have recently come to hand, and which have been with difficulty saleable at from 9d. to 10d. per lb. The public sales of the 15th inst. comprised 2,776 packages, of which 2,320 packages were sold without reserve; those of the 20th inst. consisted of 9,461 packages, of which 8,873 packages were sold without reserve. The deliveries for the week have been 3,005,645 lbs., against 3,302,849 lbs. last year.

Black: Red-leaf kinds, siftings have not met with much demand Broken-leaf kinds have been steady at previous prices. Fair to good common have been in request at former rates. In the fair to good Kaisow kinds sales to some extent have been made at previous prices. Fine to finest show no change. Pak Lin kinds have been firm. Black-leaf kinds: Low quality has sold with difficulty from 8d. to 10d. per lb. Fair to good common show no change. Fair medium kinds are very scarce. Good medium have been sold at previous prices. In fine to finest but little has been doing. Amoy kinds show no change. Newmake Canton kinds: The supplies on offer continue large, and sales have been difficult to make at previous prices. Oolongs: Some sales have been made at public auction from 1s. 1d. to 1s. 6d. per lb., being previous prices. Souchongs: The sales made show no change. Flowery Pekoes: There have been but few sales. Scented Teas: Canton Capers, common kinds, have been dull; fair to good have sold rather lower. Foochow kinds sold in public sale at 1s. 3d. to 1s. 3¼d. per lb. Orange Pekoes: Canton kinds show no alteration; Foochow kinds have sold rather lower at public auction for good quality. Uncoloured Japans: Common kinds remain dull; fair to good in moderate request at previous prices. Green: The public sales of the 20th inst. comprised 1,068 packages Ping Suey Tea, which realised full prices. Privately the demand is moderate, without material change in prices; 4,500 packages ex Patroclus, chiefly Ping Suey kinds, are declared for sale on this day. Canton kinds show no alteration.

SILK.

The market is still very quiet, but there appear symptoms of an improving demand, and offers have been more freely made within the last day or two. Importers, as a rule, however, hold very firmly and generally resist business except at full rates. We make no alteration in quotations. Deliveries are fairly good, being from 12th to 20th inst.:—China, 1,783; Canton, 460; Japan, 473; Bengal, 192; total, 2,908 bales.

SUGAR.

The late improvement in the market has gained strength, a fairly active demand has prevailed during the week, and prices show an advance of 6d. per cwt. for all descriptions. The inquiry has been chiefly for Manila, and transactions to some extent have been entered into in that description at the advance noticed above. The following are the particulars of the business done :—

Manila.—At auction 3,686 bags grainy unclayed (duty 4s.) were bought in at 24s., but were subsequently taken privately at 23s. 6d. By private contract 3,000 bags Zebu unclayed have been sold at 22s. 6d., 8,000 packages soft Ilo Ilo indirect import from Mauritius with all faults at 23s., and 6,000 bags good clayed (duty 6s.) at 27s. 6d. The floating cargo per Glamorganshire, 850 tons unclayed Zebu arrived off coast, has been sold at 23s. duty paid for the United Kingdom.

Java, &c.—By private contract 250 baskets good Java (duty 5s. 3d.) have been sold at 36s. 6d., and 450 bags date Penang at 23s. 6d. per cwt.

COFFEE.

The depressed tone exhibited by the market during the past few weeks has been still further increased by the unfavourable result of the Dutch sale held on the 20th inst., at which a reduction of about 4s. per cwt. from the previous highest point was established. There is scarcely anything doing in the market, and in the absence of business we can give no reliable quotations for Ceylon. Now landing and for arrival about 200 tons Native have been sold at 69s. 6d. for guaranteed good ordinary quality. Of 93 bags Singapore offered, 41 bags mixed sold, sound at 66s. 6d., chiefly damaged at 64s. 6d.; 1,925 bags damaged Manila from the wreck of the Emiliano sold with all faults at 6s. 6d. to 9s. 6d. per cwt.

The Dutch Trading Company's public sale of 76,900 bags Java, held on the 20th inst. in Rotterdam, went off flatly at a general decline, prices being 1½c. below the valuations, or about 3c. lower than at the preceding sales; good ordinary brought 41½c. to 42c., against 44½c. to 44¾c. at the February sale, and 42c. in November last.

CAMPHOR.—China: The market has shown considerable irregularity; several lots of old importation have been sold at £4 6s. re-weight, and one lot of more recent import 1,000 cases at £4 7s. 6d., but at the close there is less demand, and £4 5s. is the current rate. Afloat 200 cases per Meteor have been quitted at £4 15s., but lower prices would now be accepted for floating parcels. Japan: No transactions.

CARDAMOMS.—No business in Ceylon.

CANTHARIDES.—No transactions; 10 cases China offered in public sale, and bought in at 3s. 6d.

COPRA.—Penang in good demand, but there is no supply.

CUBEBS.—No transactions during the fortnight.

CHINA ROOT.—No sales.

CHINA PRESERVES.—Of 503 cases Ginger, of fresh import, offered, 100 cases middling sold at 9½d., the remainder being bought in at 10½d. to 11d.; of 45 casks offered, 35 sold at 6d. per lb.

COCOA NUT OIL.—The large quantity afloat, about 5,622 tons Cochin and Ceylon, against 2,067 tons at the corresponding period last year, continues to exercise a depressing influence upon the market, and prices have again been irregular, with a declining tendency. At the public sales 310 casks Ceylon offered were partly sold at £38 for pipes and £38 10s. for hogsheads, 81 casks Cochin being bought in at £41 10s. to £43. Privately, business was done early in the week at £36 15s., but the closing rates are £37 5s. to £38 10s.

COIR GOODS. At the last sales the small supply of Yarn offered consisted wholly of well-made Ceylon, which sold at steady rates; Fibre also sold steadily; 244 bales Ceylon Yarn sold, good middling and good well-made at £34 to £35 10s.; also 35 tons in dholls, common, £28 10s.; low middling to middling at £29 to £31 10s.; good middling to good, £33 15s. to £36 5s.; 20 bales good Cochin Fibre sold at £30; 2 tons Ceylon at £23 15s.

COLOMBO ROOT.—Quiet; no sales reported.

CUTCH continues without improvement, and the parcels offered at auction have been all bought in, viz., 900 bags Calcutta at 28s. 6d. to 24s. 6d.; and 582 boxes 400 bags Pegu at 26s. 6d. to 27s. per cwt.

DRAGON'S-BLOOD continues quiet; of 17 cases at auction only one case was sold at £14 for very fine lump.

EBONY.—In request, but there is little or no supply, and high prices are obtainable.

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Anniseed very quiet, and declining. Cassia steady, but trade restricted at last quotation, 5s. 8d. per lb. Nutmeg quiet, and stocks increasing; 8 cases bought in at auction. Cinnamon very scarce, and wanted; 13 cases at auction retired. Citronelle rather better; about 50 cases sold privately up to 2½d. per oz.; of 37 cases at auction previously, part sold at 2d. Lemon Grass dull; 7 cases sold at 4d. to 4½d. per oz.

GALLS.—China: Sales have been effected at a further slight decline, making fully 8s. per cwt. during the past fortnight; there is very little doing. Japan: No business to report.

GAMBIER.—As only light quantities are offering on the spot, full prices have been obtained, but afloat business can only be transacted at lower rates. On the spot, privately, 200 bales block are reported sold at 22s. 9d., and 2,200 bags Cubes at 25s. to 26s. per cwt. At auction 2,140 mats and bags 892 baskets Cubes were bought in at 25s. to 25s. 9d. per cwt.

GUMS.—Benjamin: Siam quiet; large stock; 5 cases at auction bought in, Sumatra firm, and of 72 cases at auction, a few only sold, 2nds at fair to good, £8 5s. to £8 12s. 6d. Copal cheaper; of 4,318 packages offered, only a small proportion sold, good bright hard at 35s. to 36s.; soft, 26s. to 27s. Damar quiet; 92 cases, part sold at 60s. to 62s. 6d. Gamboge again cheaper, and of 130 cases at sale, half placed at £16 to £17 per cwt. for good to fine; middling to fair, £13 15s. to £15 10s.; pickings, low £10 10s.

GUTTA-PERCHA.—A fair amount of business has been transacted privately at steady rates, but the market is quiet. There have been no auctions.

HEMP.—Manila is firm at previously current rates, with private trade to a fair extent in fair and good roping at £50 to £52, brown at £40 to £45; 755 bales at auction were bought in at £50 to £51 10s. per ton.

HIDES.—The public sales of East India held on the 21st went off with unusual flatness, and although the supply was moderate, the demand both for home consumption and export was limited, and a large quantity was bought in or withdrawn. Prices of best qualities were irregular and show an average decline of ½d. per lb.; ordinary and medium kinds sold heavily at last sale's rates to ¼d. decline. Buffalo also met a limited demand, and previous rates were barely sustained. Ox and Cow: Of 25,152 dry Penang and Singapore 12,500 sold, first light 6⅝ to 7 lbs. at 11¾d. to 12d., second 10½d. to 11¼d., heavy and extra heavy 8½d. to 10d., thirds 7d. to 8d., fourths 5d. to 5½d. Buffalo: Of 4,772 Singapore and Penang 2,500 sold, heavy 5¼d. to 5¾d., second 5d. to 5¼d., light 6¼d. to 7⅛d.; 893 Manila withdrawn; of 2,240 Batavia 1,000 sold, best yellow 18⅛ lbs. at 8½d. to 8⅝d., light 8⅜d., ordinary 8⅛d.

INDIA-RUBBER.—Borneo and Singapore are scarce and in request.

JAPAN WAX.—Market continues quiet; a few cases were sold early in the interval at £4 10s.; yesterday 333 cases saucers lately arrived were offered in public sale, and 308 cases good saucers were quitted at £4 7s. 6d. to £4 8s.

MUSK.—In good demand, and scarce at higher prices; 14 caddies in public sale brought 39s. 6d. to 48s. for fair to superior selected pods, and 22s. to 23s. for good bally and bad shaped.

PEPPER.—Black: Steady; sales to fair extent of Penang reported, at from 6d. to 6¼d., and afloat, West Coast at 6⅜d., 800 bags Singapore at 6⅝d., and 1,000 bags Penang at 6d. White: Slightly recovered from last week's decline; at the auctions 1,491 bags offered and three-fourths sold at 9⅞d. to 10⅜d. per lb. for dingy small to fair.

PLUMBAGO.—Has met a steady demand at the improvement in value reported in our last; 1,287 barrels in public sale partly found buyers—fair, rather dull to fine bright lump, 20s. to 29s.; chips, 8s. 6d. to 21s. 6d.; dust, 6s. to 9s. per cwt. Privately 450 barrels low dust at 4s. 3d. per cwt.

RATTANS.—No business to report.

RHUBARB.—China continues to realise very high prices; of 140 chests at auction one-third sold at 1s. 2d. to 2s. 7d. per lb. for middling dull coated, middling break, to good bright pinky fracture, medium root.

RICE.—A fair amount of business has been transacted, at about former prices. Rangoon 9s. 9d., Necransie 9s. 6d., Ballam 8s. 3d. to 9s., Askoolie 11s. to 11s. 3d., and low broken to good middling white Bengal 9s. 6d. to 11s. 9d., fine 13s., ex quay. Afloat, a cargo of old Rangoon has been sold at 9s. 3d., ex ship; two cargoes of Bassein, at 9s. 9d., ex ship; 1,150 tons Bengal Askoolie 10s. 3d. to 10s. 6d., ex quay; and middling to good white Bengal at 11s. to 12s. 1½d., quay terms.

SAGO.—The market continues quiet; of 2,207 bags in public sale, about half sold at 17s. 6d. to 18s. per cwt. for good small, and 18s. 6d. to 19s. medium. Flour is firmly held, but quiet; 890 bags at auction retired.

SAPANWOOD.—Ceylon scarce, and no business done. Manila: 13 tons bright trimmed rooty ends sold at £11 per ton. Siam: 25 tons offered and retired.

SHELLS.—Nothing done since the last periodical sales reported on in our issue of the 11th inst.

SPICES.—Cinnamon: Since the quarterly sales only small transactions have taken place at a small advance. Chips are dull. Cassia Lignea: Market quiet; a parcel of unworked cleared off privately at 100s.; 990 cases at auction were retired, mostly afterwards sold at 95s. for fair unworked. Buds: Steady; 164 cases at auction retired, except 10, which sold at £7 2s. 6d. Cloves: Steady; of 13 cases Penang at auction, 12 sold at 1s. 2¾d. per lb. for good, 24 cases common being bought in at 6d.; 66 bags mothers sold at 1¾d. Nutmegs: Quiet and easier; 121 cases in auction were mostly bought in. Mace: Again cheaper, and difficult to sell; 194 cases in public sale partly sold at 3s. 9d. to 4s. per lb. for fair to good palish and reddish.

STAR ANISEEDS.—Quiet; no business reported.

SOY.—In good demand, but scarce.

STICKLAC.—Siam in short supply, and held for high quotations; a small parcel of fine quality reported sold at £4 14s. per cwt.

TAPIOCA.—The market continues very flat; at public sale 250 bags Singapore were retired. Flour steady, but little doing; 124 bags bought in at auction.

TURMERIC.—Java unsaleable.

TIN.—Straits maintains the strong position recently attained, and shows a further advance of 20s. since last mail, the current quotation on the spot and afloat being £150. Banca rules here at £153, and in Holland at 93½ guilders.

VERMILION.—We are still without supply of China, which is greatly in request, and would realise high prices.

CASUALTIES.

A telegram from Sourabaya, dated March 15, states as follows:—"The Henriette Gertruida (Dutch), almost loaded, for Amsterdam, 'strand leak Pasaroeang,' and returns here to discharge and be examined."

Advices from Amsterdam, dated March 15, state that the Prins Hendrik (str.), from Batavia, arrived at Aden, 14th, with loss of screw blades; she was towed the last 360 miles by the English war steamer Serapis.

A telegram from Batavia, dated March 18, states as follows:—"The Nyassa, Hutchinson, from Sarawak to London, with sago, antimony, and sundries, sprung a leak, and was run ashore on Klappa Island, near Anjer; all hands saved."

The Ottercaps, Le Pelley, which sailed from Shields March 14th, for Singapore, was in collision with a barque on the morning of the 19th, and lost cathead, rails, jib guys, and sundry iron work, which would be replaced at Deal.

Advices from New York, dated March 4th, state that an additional quantity of matting of about 1,800 bales had been recovered from the Robert Fletcher, from Hong Kong to that port, wrecked at East Moriches, together with her chains and cables, &c., which would be shipped to New York by lighter, when the state of the ice permits.

A telegram from Galle, dated 19th March, states as follows:—The Prins v. Orange (str.), from Holland to Java, reported 11th March as having arrived there with screw broken, had thoroughly completed repairs, and is beginning to reload her cargo.

MISCELLANEOUS.

At PORT SAID.—March 15, Lord of the Isles (str.), Blow, and left, 16, for Singapore, China, &c.; 9, Edith Emily (str.), Rait, and left for Galle.

According to intelligence received at Blankenese, March 16, the Dolphin (German schooner), Lilienthal, from Cronstadt to the River Amoor, which put into Valparaiso, Jan. 23, was in good order, and not leaky, as reported in our last issue.

NOTICES TO MARINERS.

JAPAN.

SIMONOSEKI STRAIT.—Fixed light on Rockuren Island.—The Japanese Government has given notice that a light is now exhibited from a lighthouse recently erected on Rockuren Island, western entrance to Simonoseki Strait. The light is a fixed white light, visible from S.E. ¾ S. round by south and west to N. by E. ½ E.; it is elevated 89 feet above the level of the sea, and in clear weather should be seen from a distance of 12 miles. The illuminating apparatus is of the fourth order. The tower, 25 feet high, is of granite. It is situated on the easternmost extreme of the island. Position, lat. 33 deg. 59 min. 15 sec. N., long. 130 deg. 52 min. 25 sec. E. The light, when first seen from the northward bearing S.E. ¾ S., leads half a mile from the shallow ground north of Ai-sima.—Hydrographic Office, Admiralty, March, 1872.

There has been launched from the shipbuilding-yard of Mr. John Key, at Kinghorn, N.B., a steamer named the Macgregor, built for Messrs. D. M'Gregor and Co., Leith, for the China trade, via Suez Canal. She is 2,060 tons register, 346 feet length over all, classed 100 A1 at Lloyd's, and her engines are of 300-horse power. She is now advertised for Shanghai, from Leith.

ART,

PICTORIAL AND INDUSTRIAL.

An Illustrated Magazine.

THIS Publication was commenced on July 1st, 1870, in the belief that an ample field existed for a high class monthly magazine devoted to Art; and already the result has fulfilled this expectation. 'ART' is produced in a form eminently adapted to the drawing-room table. It is handsomely printed on fine paper, in super-royal quarto, and each Number contains four or more Full-page Heliotype Illustrations, being reproductions of Ancient and Modern Pictures, Engravings, Designs, Sculpture, and objects of Industrial or Decorative Art.

MONTHLY, PRICE HALF-A-CROWN.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

AND PILLS.—RHEUMATISM AND NEURALGIA.—Though the former disease remorselessly attacks the young and the robust, and the latter ruthlessly selects its victims from the weak and delicate, the same medical treatment will infallibly cure both complaints. After the affected parts have been diligently fomented with hot brine, and the skin has been dried, Holloway's Ointment must well and perseveringly be rubbed in for a few minutes twice a day, and his Pills must be taken according to the printed directions wrapped round each box of his medicine. Both Ointment and Pills are accompanied by instructions designed for the public at large, and no invalid who attentively reads them can now be at any loss to doctor himself successfully.

BANKERS.

THE HONG KONG AND SHANGHAI BANKING CORPORATION.

The Shanghai and Pootung Foundry and Engineering Company has been formed to take over the business hitherto successfully carried on by Mr. David Muirhead, which is so well known to be the best and most complete establishment of its kind in China or Japan.

The terms of the transfer are that the Company acquires the whole of the extensive works, plant, property, contracts, and assets of the whole business, freed from all liabilities and encumbrances.

The property, including the goodwill of the business, to be transferred to this Company, is complete and perfect in every branch, and consists of a site of about fifty mow of land, situate on the Pootung side, immediately opposite to the English settlement, Shanghai, having a frontage to the river of 442 feet.

Upon this property are the following buildings:—

Boiler shop.
Pattern shop and Smithy.
Machine shop.
Foundry.
Office and store.
Assistant manager's house.
Manager's house.
Furnaces.
Wharf and shears capable of lifting forty tons.

The establishment is fitted up most completely with planing, punching, rolling, drilling, and screwing machines, with powerful lathes, boring mills, and steam hammers, foundries for manufacturing iron and brass castings, and smithy for forgings, such as are required for heavy engineering and other purposes.

With the view of arriving at a correct valuation of the property and plant, Mr. Coryell has made a careful estimate, which, after allowing liberally for depreciation, amounts to Tls. 100,000, particulars of which can be seen on application.

A satisfactory arrangement has been entered into with Mr. Muirhead for carrying on the undertaking with the present efficient staff, and Mr. Muirhead will retain a large interest in the company.

The profits of the business during the last seven years have averaged over Tls. 18,000 per annum, equal to 18 per cent. on the present proposed capital.

This property offers unequalled facilities for the carrying on with economy work of the above description, while the whole of the plant is in the best possible state, its perfect efficiency having been continuously and carefully maintained. The introduction of new interests in the working may confidently be expected to yield an extension of the business; and the adoption of the mutual system, which has been found to produce such satisfactory results in other companies, in the opinion of the Directors, cannot fail to have a corresponding effect in this. It must also be borne in mind that the carrying trade of the East is in a state of transition from wooden sailing vessels to iron steamers, and this will doubtless benefit the Company, more especially as Shanghai is daily increasing its steam traffic, and proving its suitability to be the terminal port in China. The present, therefore, seems a good opportunity to acquire a business in working order, which, by means of a Company, can be extended as circumstances may render necessary.

THE MAILS, &c.

The P. and O. mail, bringing the above dates, was delivered, via Brindisi, this morning, its due date. The next inward mail (French), with dates, Yokohama Feb 20, Shanghai Feb. 23, Hong Kong Feb. 29, Singapore March 8, is due, via Marseilles, on Monday next, the 8th inst.

Some anxiety has been manifested at the non-arrival at San Francisco of the Pacific Mail Company's steamer Great Republic. It is necessary to point out that the vessel was delayed on her last outward voyage, and would, therefore, probably be despatched from Yokohama six days late, and arrive at San Francisco on the 22nd instead of the 16th ult.

Telegrams by the China Submarine and Red Sea Lines are being received with the usual regularity, occupying, allowing for difference of time, about five hours in transmission.

Summary of News from the Far East.

CHINA.

SHANGHAI.

Dates extend to Feb. 16; there had been no mail arrival from London since that of the French mail of Dec. 22 on Feb. 8. We are indebted to the North China Herald for the following summary of the news:—

The past week has been one of complete holiday, on account of the Chinese New Year festivities, and business has hardly yet been resumed. The firing of crackers, however, is beginning to lull, and everything will soon resume its ordinary course. The squaring of accounts, which always takes place among Chinese at New Year time, has been accomplished with but few defaulters. The native population acknowledge that the past year has been a prosperous one for business generally, and specially because of the rice and cotton trade, rich crops of both of which they have now had during two successive years. Crops without a market, however, would simply have been embarrassing, or have led to a very homely and restricted prosperity; but through the improved facilities for transit, a vast number of people have been profitably employed in connection with the trade, and a still greater number incalculably benefited, in other districts, by having two prime necessaries placed within their reach cheaply in a time of scarcity.

A memorial of Li Hung-chang, published in the Peking Gazette of the 5th January, regarding the repair of the canals near Tientsin, is interesting and illustrative. A large sum is nominally allotted for these repairs, but it seems that only one-fourth of this sum is actually appropriated to that purpose. The consequence is that the canals are left to go to wreck. The summing-up at the close is very characteristic of Li Hung-chang. He boldly attributes the late destructive floods to the penny wise and pound foolish system which the Government has been pursuing of late years. Li never seems to mince matters, but says plainly what he has to say. The Gazette of the 9th January, however, contains an edict that contrasts strangely with the above. In the former Li boldly attributes the floods in Chihli to the diversion of the sum nominally allotted to repair the canal. Now he has begged the Emperor to bestow a tablet on the River God, whom all the Tientsin mandarins were so busily worshipping last autumn, under the guise of a snake. We can only infer that the one memorial was an expression of Li's common sense conviction, and that the other is intended as a sop to popular superstition. The Emperor of course accedes. He is always ready enough to give tablets. "During the summer and autumn of last year there was such a heavy fall of rain that the rivers and canals about Tientsin rose to an unusual height; but, through the gracious interposition of the River God, the weather cleared up, and the waters gradually decreased. This is a mercy which calls for the deepest gratitude, and the Hanlin College must prepare a suitable tablet and send it to Li Hung-chang, to be reverently placed in the Ta-wang's temple at Tientsin, in acknowledgment of Divine favour." There is nothing like expressing gratitude beforehand in order to secure goodwill; otherwise the Emperor might as well have waited till the great mercy he speaks of was actually accomplished. The water is not drained off yet.

The North-China branch of the Royal Asiatic Society has held one of its regular meetings. A paper by E. Solbé, Esq., H.B.M.'s Consul at Ningpo, entitled "Suggestions towards a Phonetic System of the Chinese Language," was read by Dr. Macgowan, and elicited considerable discussion, in which the president, Dr. S. Wells Williams and Messrs. Gardiner, Wylie, Thomas, and Stent took part. Mr. Kingsmill read an interesting paper on the Myths of the Chow dynasty. The proposition for the formation of a meteorological section of the society was recommended to the Council for adoption.

The Chinese Recorder for January opens with an interesting account of Mongol observances on New Year's day. The writer chanced to be guest in a Mongol household on the occasion, and describes pleasantly the visiting, feasting, and amusements that are indulged in. A paper on the "Origin of the Missionary Troubles" attributes the excitement which has been got up on this score to a fear that missionary residence in the interior would be made a plea for insisting on equal privileges for merchants. "Either all foreigners would have to be admitted into the interior, or all must be equally restricted to the open ports." They were determined to oppose the first alternative, and set to work to establish the latter for the sake of consistency and to destroy an awkward precedent. Dr. Dudgeon contributes his ninth and last chapter on "Russian intercourse with, and the Greek Church in, China;" and Mr. Edkins continues to discuss the connection of Chinese and Hebrew.

On the 12th Feb. a fire broke out in a Chinaman's premises, Kiangse-road. A quantity of fuel had been placed near the cooking-stove, to dry, and in the absence of the coolie caught fire, causing a formidable-looking but brief conflagration. The alarm was at once given, but in a few minutes the people about had extinguished the fire, and the damage done proved to be almost nothing. The fire brigade turned out with the usual alacrity, but their services were fortunately not required. A fire has also occurred in the dining-room of the Chartered Mercantile Bank; but it was suppressed before it could gather headway. As in the case of the British Consulate, it is presumed that the imperfect construction of the fireplace had permitted the heat to penetrate to and char the beams, and that the strong wind of the previous night fanned the smouldering wood into flame.

A special meeting of shareholders in the Racket Club has been held, to decide on the disposal of the surplus funds at credit of the club. It was resolved to create a reserve fund of Tls. 500, and to redeem scrip at market rates, to reduce the capital account.

By way of Peking we have received Newchwang letters to the 10th January. The weather had, so far, been milder than usual, but the river is frozen over, and the thermometer fell one night to 2 deg. Fahrenheit below zero. Business was quiet; 8¼ lbs. Grey Shirtings were nominally quoted Tls. 2.

SHANGHAI, FEB. 15.

Profound quiet reigns just at present in all affairs, both political and commercial. The Chinese New Year holidays have brought business to a standstill; but this stagnation is of course only temporary, and the native traders are congratulating themselves on the opening of a season which promises well. If there were any defalcations at the great settling day, they were very few and unimportant, a result due to the large cotton and rice crops of last year, and no less to the facilities for transmission afforded by foreign enterprise. Rice has been in great demand in the south, partly for exportation to the United States, the Pacific Mail steamers carrying large cargoes of this grain for consumption by the Chinese in San Francisco. It has not escaped the notice of the more astute native merchants that without the coast telegraph, and without foreign steamers, the overflowing rice supply of the Yangtzse provinces would this year have been of comparatively little use to anybody. But between the mercantile mind with its convictions, and the official mind with its prejudices, there is a great gulf fixed, so that the moral of the tale is quite lost upon the Government, although vast districts in the interior are every year ravaged by famine. To any person who has the faintest conception of Chinese resources it is perfectly evident that there is no district in the Empire which has not either the means of sustaining its inhabitants or the means of exchanging products of various kinds for the necessaries of life. But the State puts a double difficulty in the way of the growth of prosperity. It forbids the development of the resources of the soil—including mines—and forbids the extension of the means of transit. Hence, while over one area the population is starving amidst untellable mineral wealth, the grain of another area is depreciated in value for want of a sufficiently large market. The reason of the first stumbling block eludes even those who pretend to the keenest insight into native official character, for mining was prescribed long before foreigners were in the field to threaten seizing a share of the spoil. But as regards the steady opposition offered to increased means of transit from place to place in the interior, by the introduction of steam vessels and railways, there are doubtless many honest though near sighted persons who anticipate the greatest immediate misery for all the natives engaged in inland locomotion, should steam be introduced. The history of traffic on the Yangtzse, and along the coast has taught them nothing. By far the greatest part of the opposition arises, however, from a defined fear on the part of the officials, that wherever steam goes foreigners will go, and an undefined dread of anything whatsoever new being introduced to supplant any part of the system under which they thrive at the expense of the whole country. Without having learned it from the Gospels, they yet implicitly believe that no man should put "a piece of new cloth into an old garment, for that which is put in to fill it up taketh from the garment, and the rent is made worse." Ido not know, but I suspect that the Government, by which I mean the central Government at Peking, has a special reason for discouraging any attempt to make the transmission of intelligence from place to place rapid and certain. Many a difficulty is shelved in the course of voluminous correspondence, and the impossibility of obtaining speedy justice keeps people quiet when their matter for complaint is not very outrageous. The working of the entire governmental system, which to Chinese eyes it would be sacrilege to change, depends absolutely upon the semi-independence of the provincial viceroys, and obviously it would be both unjust to attempt, and impossible to carry out, any plan which, maintaining the general responsibility of the Governors for the good order of their jurisdiction, should render them liable to constant interference from Peking with the minutiæ of their administration. But it is quite as obvious that unless the empire is ruled from Peking—which it is not at present—the theory of holding the central Government alone responsible for everything that occurs in the provinces cannot with justice to all parties be rigorously carried into practice. After all the discussions which have taken place the real question lies in a nutshell, and it is this—For what is the provincial Government answerable, and over what does the Peking Government exercise absolute control? I merely state the case, and leave it to your leader-writer for discussion; but it is evident from the mere statement that to the growing needs of commerce we must look for the gradual regeneration of the Chinese system of government and political economy

So far as local news goes there is absolutely nothing to chronicle. The papers are more than usually dull, which is saying a great deal for the Shanghai papers. Amusements, public and domestic, are in full swing, and up-country the pheasant deer, and pig are having a hard time of it.

HONG KONG.

Dates by this opportunity extend to the 22nd Feb. The outward mail of Jan. 5 arrived on the 17th Feb. The news by this mail is very meagre.

The half-yearly meeting of shareholders in the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank was held in the City Hall on the 15th. Present: Messrs. R. Rowett (in the chair), T. C. Hayllar, Pyke, Greig, Belilios, Lemann, Joost, Menke, Melchers, Sassoon, Cope, Fairbairn, Budde, Detmering, Karberg, Grobein, Lyall, Dixwell, Sands, Newton, Minto, Anton, Walker, Russell, Deetjen, Just, Notley, Chater, Pereira, Beart, Erdmann, Dr. Legge, and others.—The chairman having read the notice convening the meeting, the report was taken as read. He then proposed that the report be adopted, which motion was seconded by Mr. Menke, and carried unanimously.—The chairman then stated that Messrs. Joost, Belilios and Sassoon retired from the board, in accordance with the deed of settlement, but offered themselves for re-election. These gentlemen were unanimously re-elected, as were also the auditors (the Hon P. Ryrie and F. W. Mitchell, Esq.)—The chairman congratulated every shareholder in this eminently successful concern on the satisfactory state in which the bank was at present. He was himself going home, but was glad to leave the interests of the Corporation in such good hands. It would be an interesting piece of news to know that the dividend would be payable tomorrow.—The meeting then separated.

The China Mail says:—We understand that the following changes take place in the Colonial Government consequent on Mr. Austin's departure for England:—

To be Colonial Secretary, Hon. C. C. Smith.
" Colonial Treasurer, Charles May, Esq.
" Registrar General, M. S. Tonnochy, Esq.
" Asst. Harbour Master, Alfred Lister, Esq.

Mr. Henry Lowcock succeeds Mr. Rowett as Unofficial Member of the Legislative Council. The other vacancy is not yet filled up. We may add to the foregoing that we learn by private home letters that Mr. Pauncefote will receive the appointment of Chief Justice, vice Judge Smale, retired. It is further rumoured, but we do not endorse the authority of the report, that Mr. Pollard will return to the colony, as Attorney-General hereof, when he is able to relieve himself of his brief in the Tichborne case.

We note the arrival of H.M.S. Iron Duke, with Rear-Admiral Shadwell, C.B., from Manila. The vessel is a fine specimen of naval architecture, and has a compliment of 501 men all told. She is a double-screw steamer of 800-horse power, and is armed with ten 12-ton guns, and four Armstrongs. As she steamed into the harbour, a salute to the Admiral was fired by the Princess Charlotte, followed by a similar compliment from the American, Russian, French, and Italian men-of-war, which was returned by the Iron Duke.

We are glad to have to record that our efficient Postmaster-General (Mr. F. W. Mitchell) has received the decoration from the Spanish Government, which we have already noticed, for services rendered towards providing postal facilities between this port and Manila. The decoration is called the Order of Charles III.

We hear that H.E. the Governor has recently issued orders to the effect that no fees whatsoever be charged for any ecclesiastical service connected with St. John's Cathedral. Such orders would seem to suggest that custom may have been apt to be looked upon as right, and we think the Governor is to be commended for at once removing the faintest suspicion of such a state of things resting upon the members of the profession in this colony.

We are sorry to have to record the loss of another steamer on the coast, viz., the Chukiang, one of the first steamers which came from England through the Suez Canal. She was on her way from Shanghai, or Chinkiang, and it appears that she ran ashore on Reef Island, during a dense fog, having been doubtless set in by a current too near the land. The island on which she struck is only about a score of miles from the scene of the Suwonada's misfortune, but lies outside of the Haitan archipelago—the unfortunate Chukiang having gone outside the islands, as vessels invariably do on the downward trip. Captain Hogg states that the immediate cause of the disaster was the breaking of the rudder chains.

The China Fire Insurance Company held their third ordinary meeting on the 20th, when the accounts to December 31st showed a sum of $140,000 to the company's credit. The Chairman, in congratulating the shareholders on the successful result of the year's business, noticed, with reference to some remarks which had been made as to the company not paying any bonus this year, that it was perhaps overlooked that, according to the articles of association, no bonus could be paid until the reserve fund amounted to $100,000. It was at present $60,000, and if no serious loss occurred this year, it was proposed to increase it by $40,000.

The Hong Kong Fire Insurance Company's annual meeting took place on the 20th. A dividend of $21.58 per share was declared, and the reserve fund, with the amount passed to it, stands at $268,498.

The Hong Kong and Whampoa Dock Company held their annual meeting on the 20th. The result of the re-opening of the Aberdeen Dock has been satisfactory. A dividend at the rate of 3 per cent. for the half-year was declared.

COCHIN CHINA.

SAIGON.

A correspondent of the Straits Times writes:—Miss Longworth—Mrs. Yelverton—Countess of Avonmore, is here now; she arrived in the Lizzie and Rosa, gave a "friendly" reading at the house of Consul Caswell, and is to give a public one in the godown of a firm. She is going to visit Kresser's sugar factory, and afterwards is to proceed to Cambodia to interview the King; she even meditates a journey from thence to Bangkok.

The Chinese New Year passed off very quietly after all, and the rumoured insurrection is still in the womb of time. Pere Roy remains in durance vile. The Governor, Dupré, leaves by this steamer. Rice is arriving daily in large quantities now. Ships are scarce. The sailor who shot the young woman has been sentenced to a four years' residence at Pulo Condore.

JAVA.

The heavy winds, storms, and rains that have been prevailing in Java have done great damage to the coffee plantations there, above all in Mid-Java; the prospect of a good crop this year is hence very small. The trees have suffered much, on the uplands mostly, the berries have been blown away in large quantities; in fact, in some districts the damage may be estimated at thousands of piculs. Calculating for the whole of Java, the damage done will be found to be very great. The weather has, on the whole, not been unfavourable for the young coffee plants. According to the last report on the Cinchona culture in Java (for the third quarter of 1871), the number of plants of all sorts, ages, and sizes amounted then to 1,380,011. 1,000 kilogrammes of bark were lying in store; the bark crop for 1871 amounted to about 7,600 kilogrammes. The culture of camomile was tried for the first time in 1868, and has since been continued on a small scale without much expense. Fully 50 kilogrammes of flowers of excellent quality prove conclusively now that the camomile flourises very well in Java. 788 Cinchona plants have been forwarded during the quarter on behalf of the state to various parts of Java and Sumatra. Inquiries for plants from private persons are steadily on the increase. Two gentlemen at Buitenzorg have obtained 2,000, and another at Samarang 140 Cinchona plants. Seeds have been continuously forwarded in masses to various places. The expenses of Cinchona culture during the past year amounted to f.45,106.17.

—o—

SINGAPORE.

Dates by this mail extend to the 29th Feb. The P. and O. mail of Jan. 26 arrived out on the 28th Feb. The following summary of news is from the Straits Times:—

The principal event of the fortnight has been the public meeting held at the Town Hall on the 23rd, to protest against the proposed construction of the Railway to New Harbour by the Government, and against the principle of the Colonial office overruling the decision of the Legislative Council, and directing the expenditure of the public money on local works in direct opposition to the expressed views of that body. The meeting was very fully attended by the mercantile community, and the speeches and resolutions show very conclusively the public feeling of the place on the matter, and should have weight in inducing the Secretary of State for the Colonies to change his decision. While fully admitting the general principle that railways for developing the resources and industry of a country should be constructed by Government, the public deprecate the application of that principle to undertakings promoted solely for the furtherance of certain private interests—especially when the prospects of the line paying by itself are so doubtful as the one contemplated. A copy of the resolutions was forwarded by the chairman to his Excellency the Administrator for transmission to the Secretary of State for the Colonies.

The expected arrival of the transport Orontes has kept the garrison here in a very unsettled condition for the past few days,—orders having been received ordering both the wing of the 10th Regiment and the battery of Artillery stationed here to proceed to China in that vessel, and the officers and men have got everything in readiness for their departure. Singapore being only a convenient military way station, the removal of our present European military force to Hong Kong proves it unadvisable to fill acting appointments in the police force from among the officers and men of the garrison. The offices of Superintendent of Police here and at Penang are at present held by military officers, and a number of non-commissioned officers are serving as sergeants and corporals of police; by their removal the police will lose two able officers who have just had time to get things fairly in train for working, and will also be denuded of a body of European subordinates who are just becoming accustomed to police duty.

A farewell entertainment, in the shape of a ball and supper, will be given in the Town Hall to-morrow night to Colonel Anson (the Administrator) and Mrs. Anson, who will shortly be leaving for Europe. During the next few weeks we shall also be losing, for a time at least, a good many of our old residents, who will take their departure for Europe during the next month. Among these are the Hon. Mr. Adamson, Mr. Mooyer, the Hon. Mr. Scott, Mr. Cameron, Capt. Caldbeck, and others who have already left, besides Colonel Phillips, Colonel Talbot, and other officers of the Artillery, who have been stationed here for many years.

The arrivals via the Suez Canal have been the Glenroy on the 19th and Vixen on the 25th from London, and the Ajax on the 26th from Liverpool. The only departure has been the Sarpedon on the 26th for London.

Minutes of the sixteenth ordinary general meeting of shareholders of the Tanjong Pagar Dock Company, (Limited), held at the company's office, present, Hon. T. Scott, in the chair; Hon. W. Adamson, Hon. J. J. Greenshields, Jasper Young, Esq., R. Padday, Esq., P. Joaquim, Esq., G. Mansfield, Esq., Dr. Little, S. Short, Esq., W. Mulholland, Esq., Joaq. D'Almeida, Esq., H. W. Wood, Esq., H. T. Powell, Esq., B. Rodyk, Esq, legal adviser to the company, and E. M. Smith, Esq., manager. Minutes of the fifteenth ordinary general meeting, and of the extraordinary general meeting, held on 12th October, 1871, read and confirmed. The directors' report, balance sheet, and profit and loss account, having been the prescribed time in the hands of the shareholders, were taken as read. The chairman stated in reply to a question by a shareholder, that paragraph 2 of the directors' report might be open to misconception by absent shareholders, but that a full explanation of any doubtful point would be found on a perusal of the profit and loss account. The gross result was considerably better than the previous half-year, but heavy extra expenses on the wharf and other exceptional charges had reduced the profits to the extent named in the report.

It was then proposed by S. Short, Esq.; seconded by Joaq. D'Almeida—That the directors' report and accounts, after the explanation offered by the chairman, be passed. Carried unanimously.

Proposed by the Hon. W. Adamson; seconded by R. Padday, Esq.—That a dividend for the half-year at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum on original shares, and of 9 per cent. per annum on preference shares be declared. Carried unanimously.

Proposed by H. W. Wood, Esq.; seconded by P. Joaquim, Esq.

—That Messrs. J. Young and R. Padday be re-elected. Carried unanimously.

Proposed by Jasper Young, Esq.; seconded by the Hon. W. Adamson—That Messrs. Powell and Willans be elected auditors for the ensuing year. Carried unanimously.

Proposed by S. Short, Esq.; seconded by P. Joaquim, Esq.—That, in consequence of the extra labour caused by the company's increased business, the remuneration for each auditor should be raised to $100. Carried unanimously. Jasper Young, Esq., gave notice that at the next half-yearly meeting he should call the attention of the shareholders to the great services rendered the company by the Hon. T. Scott as Chairman.

Proposed by S. Short, Esq.; seconded by Joaq. D'Almeida, Esq.—That the thanks of the meeting be given to the Chairman, Directors, and Manager for their zeal in promoting the interests of the company. Carried unanimously.

A correspondent writes us:—

The papers will convey to you an account of our meeting of the 23rd. With the exception of those who would have liked to have had their private property improved at the public expense, the whole of the meeting was with the resolution. In a free port founded on free trade we require as little interference as possible. Monopolies should be discountenanced and the short line, being likely to drift that way, was objectionable, and the Administrator and Council very properly negatived it, though Sir Harry Ord had secretly promised the concession. I have no sympathy with selfish views. My idea is that whatever company makes the railway they will have to reclaim Teluk Ayer from the corner of Collyer Quay to Tanjong Batu, build a sea wall across, buy a couple of hills close by to fill up, secure a good place for their terminus, which they can get nowhere else, and then have a line to the wharves, and one to Kranjie, following the Bukit Timah Road, where the large population chiefly congregate. There is no country to open worth anything. There is no necessity for any military connection with a country which does not belong to us, and Government has no excuse for interference except to protect the general interests.

PENANG.

The Municipal Commissioners have made final arrangements with the secretary and manager of the Singapore Gas Company to have Penang lighted with gas, and the boon is promised within a twelvemonth. The site for the gasworks has been fixed upon, and arrangements are being made for the purchase of the land required—in the vicinity of the Club-house. A better selection could not have been made, and Mr. Wells was right in declining the generous offer made to him by the Commissioners of a piece of ground on the Prangin. The great point in favour of the site decided upon in Northam-road is the sea frontage it possesses, which will afford facilities for the landing of plant and machinery required for the works.

Commercial Report.

(For dates see first page.)

IMPORTS.

HANKOW.—The advice of higher rates in Manchester had caused a considerable advance in most Plain Cottons. 8¼ lbs. Grey Shirtings had been dealt in to a fair extent, other weights being neglected; 64 to 66 reed White Shirtings had been sold at the higher quotations given below. There was a steady but not active demand for T-Cloths. Drills met with little attention, being out of season. In Fancy Cottons there had been only a small business. Woollens and Worsteds: Trifling sales only reported. Quotations:—7 lbs. Grey Shirtings, Tls. 1.7.6 to 1.8.0; 8¼ lbs., Tls. 1.9.5 to 2.0.4. White Shirtings, 56 to 60 reed, Tls. 1.7.5 to 2.0.0; 64 to 66 reed, Tls. 2.0.5 to 2.2.5. T-Cloths, 7 lbs. Ordinary, Tls. 1.4.8 to 1.5.5; 7 lbs. Mexicans, Tls. 1.6.3 to 1.6.8. Camlets, Tls. 14.2.0 to 14.8.0. Long Ells, HH Assorted, Tls. 5.2.5 to 5 3.0; Scarlet, Tls. 6.2.0.

SHANGHAI.—Cottons: The intervention of the native New-year holidays has restricted transactions to the smallest scale, and now that business is resumed there does not seem to be much eagerness on the part of dealers to enter the market. It is alleged that the very high rates of freight demanded for the first steamers to Tientsin will prevent many goods going forward to that market for a time. The stock of Grey Shirtings is now close on 3,000,000 pieces, altogether too large to admit of an advance in price commensurate with values in Manchester. A few small sales of 8¼ lbs. goods are reported at Tls. 1.9.2, for common makes, up to Tls. 2.0.5 for Dewhurst's best "Eagles." There is also some inquiry for heavy weights of Grey Shirtings, and for the lower counts of White Shirtings, but the business is too small to establish a market. Fancy Cottons, with the exception of a small inquiry for Chintzes, command no attention. Woollens: The demand, trifling as it is, seems confined to Scarlet Long Ells, certain patterns of Figured Orleans, and Black Lastings; but prices offered are much below the views of holders.

FOOCHOW.—No business to report.

HONG KONG.—Messrs. Olyphant and Co. report as follows:—Cotton Yarns: Importers having increased their asking rates, and the inquiry from the dealers having continued good, a steady business has been done latterly in Nos. 16 to 24, and holders are not now willing sellers at prices $2.50 per bale higher; Nos. 28 to 32 are in strong request for shipment to Japan, and a rise of $5 is being paid; Nos. 38 to 42 are not wanted, but are nominally $2.50 per bale dearer than last quoted. Piece Goods: Transactions have been comparatively small, as business has been materially interfered with by the annual native holidays which have been celebrated during the interval. No alteration is noticeable in values of Grey Shirtings, previous rates being well maintained; 7 lbs. goods have been moderately inquired for, but no sales of 8.4 lbs. have been made privately, as dealers have supplied themselves at public auction, some 18,000 pieces of spotted goods having been disposed of in this way at $2.40 to 2.44 per piece. Inquiry for White Shirtings has slackened somewhat, and all descriptions are slow of sale at previous figures. Drills are saleable at a rise of 5 to 10 cents per piece. Stocks of common 6 lbs. T-Cloths are light, but demand is strong, and at a slight concession from quotations a large business could be done; 6 lbs. Mexicans are not wanted; 7 lbs. goods are unchanged, but Mexicans are firm. Brocades, Spotted Shirtings, and Turkey Reds are all dearer, and are saleable. Chintzes are unchanged. Woollens: Long Ells have not been dealt in, but are steadily held at last figures. English Spanish Stripes have been quitted at a decline of 2 cents per yard, but German makes are unchanged. Blankets are saleable at former rates. Lastings and Crapes have not been asked for. English Camlets are firmly held, as stocks are comparatively small; Dutch find buyers more readily. Metals: Values of all articles under this head have improved, and the present position of the market is strong. Nail Rod Iron has further advanced 5 cents; Hoop is steady, and Bar is 5 to 10 cents per picul dearer. Wire, Steel, and Lead are up 5 and 10 cents, and Tin is 50 cents per picul higher. Tin Plates are wanted at advanced figures, and Quicksilver has suddenly risen $4 to 7 in price. Coal: The sales during the fortnight have been 1,500 tons of Australian at $15.50 to 16 "to arrive," 500 tons of English, on the spot, at $16.50, and 1,200 tons of the same at $14 to 14.50 "to arrive," 400 tons Cardiff, ex Godown, at $17.50, and 2,000 tons of the same at $15 to 15.50 "to arrive." The excitement previously reported subsided in a few days after the departure of last mail, and since then the market has become weaker, closing now very quiet. Coals on the spot, however, are still very scarce, and parties supplying their wants have to pay full prices, while for cargoes for distant arrival buyers cannot be found.

MANILA.—There had been more animation in the market during the interval, and on some plain staples an advance had been established, and stocks of them were more firmly held in view of the strong accounts from the home side, and also from the neighbouring markets. Coloured Goods were in fair demand, but the prices obtainable for them had not improved much, as stocks were still heavy, and importers were anxious to make as much progress with them as possible during the present season, which is now at its height.

SINGAPORE.—We take the following from Messrs. Boustead's Circular:—39-inch Grey Shirtings: Fair business done in 8¼ lbs. at $2.67½, but latterly demand slackened, and are offered at the lower quotation; 7 lbs. quiet, 6 lbs. light, fair demand at $2 to 2.02½; 45-inch 9 lbs. in limited request at $3.10 to 3.12½; 8 lbs. very dull; nothing doing in other weights. 32-inch Grey T-Cloth: Fair transactions in 6 lbs. and 7 lbs., which are firmly held; 5 lbs. offering freely at $1.45; in light weights little doing. Grey Madapollams: Moderate inquiry for 2¾ lbs. at $19¼ to 19½; 3 lbs. quiet at $20 to 20¼. Woollen Goods: Some inquiry for Scarlet Spanish Stripes, with moderate sales at about last quotations; Scarlet Long Ells 12 lbs. in demand, lighter weights not wanted. Camlets: No sales; small stock held for extreme rates. Brocaded Lustres in small demand at 19c. to 20c., and stock about cleared. Scarlet Bombazettes: Retail sales of 5 lbs. Scarlet at $3. Lastings without inquiry. Grey Yarn: After departure of last mail there was a good demand for 40's, which was supplied at $132½, and now there is little inquiry, stocks light; 30's very dull at $110 to 111; 18 to 24's in little request at present. Turkey Red more inquired for, and prices are rather higher; Imperial Red in limited request; Dark Green scarce and wanted. There has been little inquiry for metals.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

KIUKIANG.—Nothing had transpired.

HANKOW.—The season was over.

SHANGHAI.—Black: The settlements during the fortnight had been 1,750 chests country tea, which had found buyers at previous rates. There had been no arrivals from the country, and the stock on offer was very small. Green: A fair demand existed in the early part of the interval, principally for the English market, but latterly, on account of the native holidays, hardly any business had been transacted. There was no quotable change in values, though an easier tendency was discernible. The prices had been about as follows:—For Moyune, fine, Tls. 43½; good medium, Tls. 37 to 40; Moyune kind, fair medium to medium, Tls. 32 to 33½; common, Tls. 25; Local-packed, Tls. 26½ to 33.

FOOCHOW.—Some small settlements of Congou and Oolong had been made, reducing the stock of the former to but little upwards of 2,000 chests, and clearing the market of the latter, and as very few parcels of any kinds of Tea remained to come to market, transactions were very nearly at an end for the season.

AMOY.—The season was over.

CANTON.—No business had been transacted, and the season was considered at an end, although there was still in stock enough leaf to make upwards of 20,000 boxes of Scented Teas.

SILK.

SHANGHAI.—Messrs. Skeggs's Circular says:—The easier feeling reported in our last circular increased as the China New Year approached, and purchases early in the fortnight were made at fully Tls. 10 reduction. Little or nothing has been done since the holidays; no chop Silks have been settled, but Blue Elephants are offering at Tls. 525, and Red Peacocks are nominally quoted Tls. 510 to 515. The French mail on the 9th February took forward 390 bales, and the Sarpedon on the 13th 129 bales. The American and English mails have engaged 130 bales and 100 bales respectively, making a total for the fortnight of about 800 bales. The stock is estimated at about 1,800 bales, of which fully 500 bales are said to be Yellow Silk.

CANTON.—Some small purchases had been made, and there were few or none of the better classes of Silk on offer or likely to be until the new season's Silk comes in, and these arrivals were not looked for before the middle or end of May.

MCNEAR—On the 16th Feb., at Hong Kong, George W. McNear, late master of the American ship Sardis.

ROWE—On the 23rd March, from injuries caused by accidentally setting herself on fire, Frances Elizabeth Rowe, widow of the late Sir William Carpenter Rowe, formerly Chief Justice of Ceylon, and daughter of the late James Hamilton Story, Esq., of 17, Bryanston-square, London.

SHIPMAN—On the 26th March, at 49, St. Augustine's-road, Camden-square, N.W., in the 38th year of her age, Janet (Jessie), the dearly loved wife of William Shipman (formerly Manager of the Agra Bank), and eldest daughter of the late William Johnson, Esq., of St. Thomas's Hospital.

LITERATURE.

We are glad to find that the Phœnix has reached its twentieth monthly issue under the able conductorship of Dr. Summers. The most important matter in the present number is an article entitled "Remarks on Commerce," which is written by a Japanese, Kato Sukeichi, and has been translated by Mr. W. G. Aston. The writer details the advantages which have accrued from the introduction of foreigners in Japan, and recommends the extension of the relations of that country with Western nations. With regard to the statement that the presence of Europeans has created distress by a rise of prices, the author says:—

This is a great error. Some countries are peopled with good, others with inferior races, but foreigners are, after all, natives of the same universe as ourselves, and human nature is everywhere the same. But the rise in prices is not owing to foreigners; it is owing to the fall in value of gold and silver. For example, the coin we now call twelve cash was at one time current as one cash. But an article which now costs twelve cash would certainly have cost more than one cash formerly, perhaps four or five cash, so that as this article can now be bought with a coin which was once worth only one cash, we make a wonderfully cheap bargain. Prices are governed by natural laws. They depend on a comparison of one thing with another, and a decision that neither is inferior or superior in value to the other. Whether we say one cash or twelve cash, one rio or three rios, it is the same thing in reality, only the expression we make use of now is different from what we used formerly. If we say that a thing is dear because it now costs three rios, that it was cheap because it cost only one, we forget that if we put in one scale of the balance the present three rios, and in the other what was formerly called one rio, the latter will be found heavier by three fun and six rin. So it is only fair that we should have to pay three rios now for an article which once cost only one, and no rise in price has really taken place. Let these arguments be well considered, and the erroneous notion that the rise in prices is owing to foreigners be at once corrected; one rio, three rios, are mere names; if the real values of things are looked to, they will be found the same now as formerly.

The remaining contents of the number are of the usual interesting character.

The Colonial Directory of the Straits Settlements, including Sarawak, Labuan, and Saigon, 1872.—In this publication are renewed all those features of usefulness which have characterised it in former years; and besides there are several improvements introduced which add to its value as a work of reference to those having relations with the countries to which it refers.

A History of British Commerce, and of the Economic Progress of the British Nation from 1763 to 1870. By Leone Levi, F.S.A., F.S.S., &c. London: John Murray.—If we were asked to name the volume published during the present or last years which is likely to carry out Bentham's idea—the greatest good of the greatest number—there is not one that has come under our observation which we would place in advance of this. It would be idle for us to attempt to analyse,—or rather to describe—in the small space at our disposal, the great merits of Professor Levi's new work, of which, no doubt, our readers will not be slow to take an opportunity of judging for themselves. As the Professor tells us, "No history of British commerce for the last hundred years has as yet appeared, though the facts connected with it are replete with interest and instruction." The works of Macpherson, Anderson, and Locke, valuable as they unquestionably were and are, totally failed of this comprehensive object. It was reserved for Professor Levi to place before the world in an attractive as well as an authoritative form, a succinct account of their progress during the past century, and their present position. As authentic as a law report, yet as engrossing in its interest as a romance, Professor Levi's hope that his work may prove of practical utility, "as an account of one of the most important interests in the empire, as a repertoire of facts for the financier and economist, as a manual for the British trader all the world over, and as a class book for students of political and commercial economies," seems as certain of fulfilment as anything mundane can be. It is a book on which praise would be thrown away, because those who do not avail themselves of its statistics, and the author's deductions from them—in a word, those who do not place the work on their office shelves, will hardly be able to excuse themselves to themselves for losing an opportunity of acquiring a compendium of information so compact and lucid. To young merchants and others proceeding to the Far East it will be especially valuable, as being not only a review of the past century but an index of commerce at the present day, and a guide book for the future. Our trade with China and Japan is well represented.

HOLLAND.

ROTTERDAM, March 28.

At a stormy meeting of shareholders in the Steamship Company Nederland, held at Amsterdam to-day, the proposal of the managers to issue a loan of f.3,500,000, to increase the capital, for the purpose of building more steamers, was approved of by 334 against 27 votes. General indignation was expressed, because the managers had bound the company by contract with the firm of de Vries and Co., a partner in which, Mr. G. J. Boelen, was formerly one of the managers of the company. The Rotterdam members protested most energetically against such nepotism. A commission was appointed to co-operate with the managers in revising the statutes of the company.

A perfect dulness prevails in politics. The members of the Second Chamber have left the Hague for the Easter recess, and they will not meet again before the last week in April, when the Income-tax Bill will at once be brought forward. Several papers predict that this measure will bring about the fall of the Minister of the Financial Department, and that ultimately a general Ministerial crisis will result. Qui viva verra. That the party struggle will be a very hot one is quite certain, but it is somewhat premature to foretell that the measure will be rejected. A reorganisation of our taxation system is most urgent, especially if the several measures to be proposed by the Minister of the War Department are carried. They will swallow up so many millions that our Treasury will not be able to bear such heavy charges.

The last sitting of the Second Chamber was of some interest. The opium question was again brought forward. The Java papers had published a circular upon this matter, and Mr. Fransen van de Putte interpolated the Ministry with reference to that document. Strangely enough, the Minister was alleged to state that he did not know anything of the circular. The interpolation, however, had this good result, that the Minister promised to lay several documents before the members. The First Chamber will meet on the 4th prox.

A very voluminous report has been published upon the construction of railways in Java. Some weeks ago I sent you full particulars of the plan of the Minister, as examined in the Section. Of course many remarks and observations were made by the members, but the majority approved warmly of the plan, which will provide the colony with a complete railway net. Some members suggested that it was also necessary to construct railways in Sumatra, by which the industry and wealth of that productive island might be greatly increased.

The spirit and enthusiasm with which the approaching national festival is regarded continues, and I am glad to state that the Catholics have almost ceased from their opposition. Nevertheless, strong fears prevail that in some towns or villages disturbances will take place between the Catholics fanatics and the enthusiast Protestants. In Nymegen some troubles have already occurred, but they were not of a serious character. The priests have been so prudent as to warn their people against excesses.

The King has approved the appointment of Mr. L. Polano as consul for Denmark, and he has granted permission to Mr. M. van der Tak to wear the insignia of the Knighthood of the Wasa Order.

The King has forwarded f.3,000 to the commission appointed to collect money in behalf of the victims of the late inundations in Java.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

The late dulness in our markets for coffee has been increased by the result of the public sale, held last week, which went off at reduced rates. The sugar sale on the other hand has been attended with a satisfactory result, the quantity put up having been quitted at full prices, compared with the brokers' valuations. A firm tone prevails for both articles, although but little business has been doing, owing mainly to the reservedness of holders. Hardly any change has occurred in the market for other articles of produce, the demand for most of the same continuing to be confined to the requirements for consumption, which causes the market to exhibit upon the whole a quiet appearance. The 3418/4 and 3084/12 chests China tea imported from Foochow were partly sold at the following prices:—Fine new seasons Kaisow Congou at 82c. to 84c.; superfine, 86c. to 90c.; extra fine, 90c. to 97c.; finest, 92c. to 96c.; extra finest, 92c. to 100c.; choice, 96c. 101c.; extra choice, 106c. to 107c.; choicest, 100c. to 107c.; extra choicest, Lapsang Souchong, 8150c.

PORTUGAL.

LISBON, March 23.

The rumours to which I referred in my last letter about threatened public disturbances against the Government have turned out to be correct. Correspondents from Oporto say that it is generally known that there are clubs in that town where men of various politics and rank are holding private meetings. Those associations will not achieve any success, for the people of Portugal generally are thoroughly with the present situation, and those persons who, at home and abroad, are endeavouring to destroy this popular feeling are utterly mistaken. In the meanwhile they annoy the Government, and the public are excited, to the prejudice of the commerce and credit of the country.

At present the debates in the Cortes are upon the taxes on wines, oil, rice, and all kinds of liquors. These articles have been always taxed, but now an additional impost upon them has been proposed by the Minister of Finance. The revenue from this additional impost is estimated at £50,000. In a short time the Bill will be decided upon.

The treaty of commerce between Portugal and the Austro-Hungarian Empire has been approved of by the Cortes in private session.

On the 11th inst. there was a slight earthquake felt in Evora, province of Alemago.

As I told you lately, Senor Sant Anna e Vasconcellos has been appointed to the post of Consul in Peru. It seems that he has received some private instructions from Government with reference to the emigration to that country from Macao. Up to now the Minister for Foreign Affairs has not replied to the interpellation on this subject, though I know by private information that he intends to reply to Senor Barros e Cunha, Deputy for Algarve, who called his attention both to the coolie trade and to the debate in the English Parliament on the matter. The Minister has been ill, but he has reappeared in Parliament, and it is probable that his reply will not be long delayed.

Senor M. da Cunha, deputy for Macao, has called the attention of Government to the subject of public education in that settlement. He said that the last reforms effected by the Marquis Sa'da Bandeira, in the college of S. José, have produced excellent results. The governor of the bishopric, Antonio Luiz de Carvalho, the professors of the college, the canon, Augusto de Vasconcellos, and the professors, Mello Gouveia, Magalhaes, and Ribeiro Carvalho, are especially worthy of eulogy. Senor Cunha showed that it is necessary to send two more professors to Macao—one to teach philosophy, and the other theology—and the minister has promised to appoint them. At the same time, the minister introduced the subject of the female professors, and stated that he expects to examine all the documents concerning that subject, and very soon to give an account of what is necessary to be done in the matter.

THE PORT OF KIUNGCHOW.

In the House of Commons on the 25th ult. Mr. White asked the Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs whether the port of Kiungchow in the island of Hainan (access to which was stipulated for by the Treaty of Tientsin) would, as reported, be opened this spring to foreign trade.

Lord Enfield said: The most trustworthy information I can give to the hon. gentleman will be found in an extract from a despatch dated Peking, Dec. 31, in which Mr. Wade says:—"An American merchant being ready to run steamers between Kiungchow and Hong Kong, I have, at the request of Mr. Low, joined him and the rest of my colleagues in an application to the Prince of Kung to open the port. Should his Imperial Highness consent, I shall send a competent interpreter to act as Vice-Consul under the authority of the Consul at Canton."

An action has been raised in the Edinburgh Court of Session, at the instance of Miss Jex Blake and other lady medical students, against the Senatus Academicus of the University of Edinburgh and the Chancellor thereof for the purpose of obtaining privileges to which they consider they have a legal claim, and which have been denied them. The names of the plaintiffs are Sophia Louisa Jex-Blake, Mary Edith Pechey, Emily Bovell, Anne Dahms, Elizabeth Ireland Walker, Annie Reay Barker, Sophy Jane Massingberd Mundy, Jane Russell Rorison, Rose Anne Shedlock, and Mrs. Isabel Jane Thorne, wife of Joseph Thorne, merchant, Shanghai.

Mr. Pope Hennessy, who was lately appointed Governor of the British Possessions on the West Coast of Africa, and was formerly Governor of Labuan, has just been presented by his friends in the County Wexford with a handsome service of plate to commemorate the Parliamentary contest of 1866. The service comprises tea and coffee-pots, cream jug and sugar basin, a handsome épergne, and a large salver, on which are engraved his Excellency's name and the date of the contest which the gift is intended to commemorate.

THE OPENING OF KIUNGCHOW.

LORD ENFIELD'S reply to the question addressed to him on the 25th ult. by Mr. WHITE as to the Port of Kiungchow, in Hainan—which will be found in full in another column—was so far satisfactory that we learn from it that efforts are being made by foreign Ministers at Peking to request the Chinese Government to open it to foreign trade. The necessity for this measure has been long apparent, and has at different times been urged upon our Government by the mercantile communities in China, more especially that of Hong Kong. The coast line from Macao to Hainan affords promise of a very considerable trade, which, if properly regulated, would tend to a further distribution of our manufactures throughout the Southern province. It is inconceivable why our Government should have so long delayed the opening of this place; it is to be feared that the cause is to be found in the outlay necessary for the establishment of a Consulate. The traffic at present existing is carried on by junks, and is chiefly contraband. The remedy for this state of things is plainly the opening of a port on the seaboard, by which a legitimate trade might be encouraged under official auspices. In all respects Kiungchow appears to be the port best fitted for this purpose, and, besides, it is the place especially agreed upon in the Treaty. The opposition on the part of our own Government has been so far overcome that they have expressed themselves willing to comply with the request of the mercantile communities. It is to be regretted, however, that, having made up their minds to open the port, they should not allow it to rank as a Consulate, or at least as an independent Vice-Consulate. To place it under the jurisdiction of the Consul at Canton, who is separated from it by upwards of three hundred miles of sea, can hardly be conducive to the development of the new port. This, we suppose, is also for economical reasons. We have another exception to take. In the despatch of Mr. WADE, our Minister at Peking, quoted by Lord ENFIELD, it is stated "If his Imperial Highness (Prince KUNG) consents." Now, according to the terms of our Treaty we are entitled to the opening of this port without any such process as obtaining consent. It is, of course, very much to our astonishment, and will probably be much more so to our readers in China, that our Minister at Peking should send such a despatch to the Foreign-office. He must know well enough—at least we cannot believe him to be so utterly unmindful of his duties as not to know—that although Sir RUTHERFORD ALCOCK stipulated in his never-to-be-forgotten Convention that the port of Kiung Chow should be surrendered in exchange for another, that this proposition fell to the ground owing to the protest made by the China merchants and others interested in the trade, against the ratification of this Convention; consequently it has no sort of existence, official or otherwise. If Mr. WADE permits such treatment of our interests and rights, it is hopeless to expect that we can make any advance in our relations with China, at least so long as he remains our representative at Peking. We quote Article XI. of the Tientsin Treaty, which relates to our right to trade at Kiung Chow:—

"In addition to the cities and towns of Canton, Amoy, "Foochow, Ningpo, and Shanghai, opened by the Treaty of "Nanking, it is agreed that British subjects may frequent the "cities and ports of New-Chwang, Tung-Chow, Tai-wan "(Formosa), Chan-Chow (Swatow), and Kiung-Chow (Hainan). "They are permitted to carry on trade with whomsoever they "please, and to proceed to and from at pleasure with their "vessels and merchandise. They shall enjoy the same privi- "leges, advantages, and immunities at the said towns and "ports as they enjoy at the ports already opened to trade, "including the right of residence, of buying or renting "houses, of leasing land therein, and of building churches, "hospitals, and cemeteries.

THE SAIGON CONSULATE.

THE report of Mr. CASWELL, H.M.'s Consul at Saigon, for the past year, which has now been published by the Foreign-office, and which will be found in another column, shows very distinctly the urgent necessity of a paid Consul being appointed to the port, according to the representations lately urged by Mr. WHITE in the House of Commons. It will be remembered that Lord ENFIELD, the Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, on that occasion stated that, as the whole question of the Diplomatic and Consular Services was under inquiry by a Committee of the House, it was not considered desirable to move in the matter. When we expostulated against this decision we were not in possession of the Consul's report, but Lord ENFIELD was! And yet with this document in the Foreign-office, he is instructed by his chief to say that the settlement of the matter must be delayed. Now, is it possible for any man of common sense—be he merchant or otherwise—after reading the report, to say that the matter is not most urgent, and, considering the amount of British trade, highly important? Mr. CASWELL says most distinctly that he cannot remain after March, and yet the Foreign-office will not appoint a successor, and he coolly leaves our interests there to take their chance. The whole affair is simply a matter of £1,000 a year, and the fees could be increased to cover even a part of that. But we disagree with Mr. CASWELL'S suggestion that "tonnage fees" should be levied; an actual tax on British tonnage, whether the master employed the services of the Consul or not, would be objectionable. No; but let those captains and crews who use the time of the Consulate pay a much higher scale than at present.

THE agent of the Union Pacific Railway, who last year visited the principal Indian ports, and came on to London and other cities of Europe, has now completed arrangements with the various companies, and announces, through the London agents, Messrs. STARR and Co., that they are prepared to grant "round the world" tickets, via China and Japan, or Australia and New Zealand. One-half the trouble of travelling round the world has been the uncertainty of the cost, currency, conveyance, &c. Now all difficulties are solved, for the tourist pays down £200, and there is an end of the matter. He can leave London and be brought back to it in three months; but we recommend six months as much more likely to give lasting pleasure and add to one's store of useful knowledge.

A JAPANESE now resident in London writes us in regard to the reports of the persecution of native Christians in Japan; that the new criminal code in Japan, framed since the MIKADO came into power, abolishes torture; that the reference to IWAKURA, now in America, is a pure invention; and that the Prince of SAGA has been out of Japan since November, travelling in Europe. This completely confirms the discredit we threw on the statements at the time of their circulation.

SIR JAMES ELPHINSTONE, M.P., has, we understand, addressed a letter to the Secretary of State for India, once more detailing the works necessary for cutting the Paumben Channel, as a communication between Ceylon and India, and again the Governor of Ceylon has been requested, in conjunction with Mr. ROBERTSON, to see into the matter. We trust that the carrying out of this work will be one of the first things by which Mr. GREGORY, the new Governor, will gain his laurels.

THE CIVIL SERVICE ESTIMATES.—CHINA, JAPAN, AND THE FAR EAST.

The Civil Service Estimates for the financial year commencing on the 31st ult., and ending with March, 1873, have been issued. The grand total of these Estimates, inclusive of the amount required for the Post-office Packet and Telegraph Services, is £17,517,046, being less by £143,641 than those for the year just closing, which amounted to £17,660,687. This decrease is considerably smaller than that shown by the last issued Estimates, which were something beyond half-a-million lower than those for 1870 71. Among the specialities charged in the present Estimates Mr. Eyre's defence figures for £4,133, the purchase of Abyssinian spoils and presents to Prince Kassae for £3,100; Thanksgiving Day is found to have cost £4,000, and the Princess Louise's wedding is put down at £1,200. The items under the head of Colonial and Consular Services give a total of £544,297, a decrease of £58,607; and the Diplomatic Service figures for £203,326, being less by £31,050.

Turning from the general summary of the figures presented to those which specially refer to the Far East, and commencing with the Diplomatic Service, we find votes of £6,000 for the Minister Plenipotentiary in China, of £800 for the Secretary of Legation, and of a similar amount for the Chinese Secretary; Assistant Chinese Secretary, £600; assistant and accountant, £400; and surgeon, £600; these votes are the same as for last year. As regards Japan, the figures present totals of £4,000 for the Minister, £800 for the Secretary of Legation, and £700 for the Japanese Secretary. These amounts differ in no respect from those for the past year. The salaries of the assistants, &c., are included under one total for all Legations.

We come next to the Consular Services, which, as regards China, figure for the following amounts:—

Canton	£1,600	Newchwang	£900
Shanghai	1,500	Ningpo	900
Foochow	1,300	Amoy	900
Hankow	1,000	Chefoo	800
Tientsin	900	Swatow	800
Do.	*200	Taiwan	800

The total is £11,600, showing a decrease of £100, which is obtained by a reduction at Chefoo of that amount.

The total required for Vice-Consuls is the same as in the last Estimates, viz., £4,050, the details being Shanghai, Kiukiang, and Whampoa each £750, Canton, £700, Pagoda Island, Foochow, £600, and Taku £500.

The remaining charges for the China Consular Service may be thus summed up:—Assistants £6,900—namely, six first-class at £400, a like number of second-class at £350, and eight third-class at £300 each, there being no change under this head. The amount required for interpreters is also the same, £5,500. Writers and Linguists figure for £2,522, an increase of £26; Student Interpreters for £3,150, a decrease of £150; teachers for Student Interpreters for £459, and Shipping Clerk at Shanghai for £400; the two last-named items standing precisely as in the previous estimates. Passing on we find an estimated amount required for "Wages and Allowances to Gaolers, Constables, Watchmen, Boatmen, Porters, Coolies, and others employed in public services" of £4,640, an increase of £51 on the last estimate, which was £4,589.

The estimated cost of the Japan Consular Service presents a total of £6,864, an increase of £308, arising chiefly from a difference in the number and standing of the Assistants employed. The amount required for Consuls is, as before, £4,200, viz., Hiogo £1,000, Nagasaki £900, Hakodadi £800, Nee-e-gata £800, and Kanagawa £700. The Vice-Consulate at Yedo is set down for £500, and that at Osaka for £600, showing no change. Four first-class Assistants, one at £500 and three at £400, figure for £1,700; four second-class Assistants, at £300 each, for £1,200; Student Interpreters for £900, while a sum of £500 (£300 more than before) appears as Interpreters' allowances to Assistants; the sum total under this head is £4,300, an increase of £300. Writers are charged £484, and Gaolers, Watchmen, Coolies, &c., £2,080.

The estimate for the Supreme Court of China and Japan presents a total of £8,076, against £7,957, an increase of £119, the Law Clerk receiving £700 instead of £675, and the Clerk for Civil Causes £400 in lieu of £306. The remaining charges under this head present no variation, being as follows:—Judge, £3,500; Deputy Judge, £1,200; Law Secretary, £750; Chief Clerk, £350; Criminal Clerk and Assistant Clerk, each £306; Chief Usher, £300; Chief Constable, £164, and Messengers, &c., £200. No special item appears for the salaries of Mr. Hannen, the acting deputy judge, and assistants at Yokohama, who, we presume, are provided for out of the above.

* Allowance to Consul for expenses incurred in entertaining British and foreign officials en route to and from Peking.

The differences existing between the present and the last Estimates in the expenditure upon the Consular Services in China, Japan, and Siam may be readily appreciated from the following recapitulation of the figures:—Salaries, Allowances, and Wages are charged £65,789, against £65,517—increase £272; Incidental Expenses £5,700, against £6,975—decrease £1,275; Maintenance of Prisoners and other Prison Expenses £1,500, against £1,200—increase £300; Legation Guards £2,883, against £4,500—decrease £1,617. Outfit and Travelling Allowances £4,250, against £5,000—decrease £750. The following items figure for the same amounts as in the last Estimates:—Printing and Stationery £700, Postage £700, Chapels and Chaplains £600, Medical Attendance £1,400, and Relief of Distressed British Subjects £250. The total of the Estimates for the Consular Services in the Far East for the year is £80,835, showing a reduction of £6,071, the total of the last Estimates having been £86,906.

The special expenditure set down for the Siam Consulate gives the following items:—Consul General, £1,200; Interpreter, £500; First Assistant, £400; Second Assistant, £350; Medical Attendant, £400; two Student Interpreters, at £200 each, £400; total, £3,250. The last Estimates were the same in amount.

Other places in the Far East figure for the following sums:—Manila Consul, £1,100; Vice-Consul, £300; Allowance for Rent, Office Expenses, &c, £200; Vice-Consul, Sual, £400; Batavia Consul, £200; Borneo, Consul-General, £300; Allowance, £200. There is no sum allowed for a paid Consul at Saigon, but an amount of £150 appears as an allowance for Office Expenses, &c., which was not taken in the last Estimates.

CONSULAR BUILDINGS, &c.

The sums required this year on account of Consular buildings in China and Japan, amount to £41,886, being for building £28,325, repairs and contingencies £4,000, rent of Legation and Consular buildings, £5,700 (£2,125 China, £3,575 Japan), allowances for house rent to officers of the Supreme Court £1,861, and salaries, office expenses and travelling £2,000. This is £799 less than the Estimate for 1871,72, which was £42,685. Although for this year, as above stated, £28,325 is taken in the Estimates for buildings, it is not expected that the expenditure will exceed £21,925, which will make the entire sum expended £151,512 out of £171,453 voted in 1867, leaving £19,941 to be laid out in future years. Nothing is specially stated in regard to the Shanghai Consulate, which was burned.

SAIGON CONSULAR REPORT.

Mr. Consul Caswell reports to the Foreign-office from Saigon on the 22nd Nov., 1871, as follows:—

Statement of British Commerce in 1871.

	No. of Vessels.	Tonnage.	Value of Exports.
Steamers ...	... 52	... 35,302	... £294,180
Sailing ...	... 196	... 85,416	... 711,800
Total ...	... 248	... 120,718	... £1,005,980

The duties of this Consulate are decidedly increasing, owing to the extension of British trade in the East, this port being situated between the great emporiums, Singapore and Hong Kong. There are now six British steamers plying regularly between China and Singapore, making Saigon their intermediate port. The following is an approximate statement of what is further required:—

Number of despatches received from and forwarded to Foreign-office and Board of Trade in 1871	46
Ditto Singapore and Hong Kong	18
Ditto to various private individuals with reference to deceased friends, &c.	25
Local correspondence with Government relating to sailors and imprisonments, &c.	144
Number of seamen shipped and discharged, &c.... ...	140
Number of protests executed	16

I consider the present scale of fees far too low. British vessels are the most troublesome of any, both masters and sailors being ever ready to fight and quarrel, and lay their grievances before their Consul, whom they look upon as a public servant created for their special benefit. If they were compelled to pay a fee for the adjustment of their petty differences they would be less ready to apply for the Consul's interference. Considering the many advantages shipmasters derive ftom the presence of a British Consul, and the assistance he is compelled to afford them, I am of opinion that a tonnage fee should be levied upon every British vessel, and that the additional fees which exist at present should be doubled.

In conclusion, I have to call the attention of the Committee to the fact of my having just resigned my appointment, in consequence of my intended departure from the colony, and I avail of the occasion to repeat the reasons submitted by me to his Lordship, the Minister for Foreign Affairs, which render it necessary that an independent officer in Her Majesty's service should be appointed to replace me at this port.

It will be impossible for me to defer my departure beyond March next, and there being no person on the spot whom I can recommend to fill the appointment, I have to call attention to the necessity of appointing from home an officer in Her Majesty's service. Even were it practicable I would still submit that the re-appointment of a merchant Consul is unadvisable, the great increase in British interests in this growing colony rendering it almost imperative that an independent officer of Her Majesty's Government be appointed. I would further add that (after considerable experience) I have arrived at the conclusion that no mercantile man can give the requisite attention to the multiplicity of duties which appertain to the office. Independent of these important facts, I would most respectfully take the liberty to give it as my opinion that, considering the great importance which the French (not without reason) now attach to these possessions, it would be more appropriate if the colony were favoured with the honour of having a British Consul unconnected with trade, the more so as the representatives of France at the adjacent British colonies are all officers of the Government service.

VISIT OF THE JAPANESE EMBASSY TO CONGRESS.

The members of the Japanese Embassy paid a visit to the House of Representatives at Washington on the 7th ult. Through the gallantry of Mr. Cox, of New York, the ladies were admitted to the House. At eleven o'clock the procession arrived and passed through the main door and down the aisle in front of the Speaker's desk, where they took their places. Iwakura was escorted by General Banks. They, with the other members of the committee, each with one of the Japs in charge, took their places directly in front of the Speaker's desk, the rest of the delegation filling the semi-circle. They were all in conventional black, with white kid gloves.

General Banks addressed the Speaker as follows:—"Introducing the embassy the committee of the House of Representatives assigned to that duty, according to its instructions, now have the honour to present to you and to the House Iwakura and their Excellencies Kido, Okubo and Ito, Ambassador-in-Chief and Assistant Ambassadors of the Government of Japan; the honourable Secretaries of the Embassy, and the honourable Commissioners of the principal departments of Japan, with their attaches."

The Speaker then addressed the distinguished visitors as follows:—"Your Excellencies—On behalf of the House of Representatives I welcome your Imperial Embassy to this Hall. The reception which is thus extended to you so unanimously and so cordially by the members of this body is significant of the interest which our whole people feel in the rapidly developing relations between the Japanese empire and the American republic. The course of migration for the human race has for many centuries been steadily westward, a course always marked by conquest, and too often by rapine. Reaching the boundary of our Continent we encounter a returning tide from your country setting eastward, seeking not the trophies of war, but the more shining victories of peace; and these two currents of population appropriately meet and mingle on the shores of the great Pacific Sea. It will be my pleasure to present to you personally the representatives of the people, and I beg to assure you, for them and for myself, that during your stay at our capital you will be at all times welcome to the privileges and courtesies of the floor.

To this Iwakura replied by reading from a manuscript in Japanese. When the Ambassador finished reading General Banks read a translation, as follows:—"Mr. Speaker and Honourable Members of the House of Representatives of the United States,—On behalf of the Ambassadors of Japan, our Sovereign, and the people whom we represent, we tender to you our sincere thanks and warmest friendship. We fully appreciate the distinguished honour which places us face to face in the presence of that mighty power which rules the great American Republic. Governments are strong when built upon the hearts of an enlightened people. We came for enlightenment and gladly find it here. Journeying eastward from the Empire of the Sunrise toward the sunrising, we daily behold a new sunrise beyond the one we before enjoyed. New knowledge rises daily before us, and when a completed trip shall have passed in review of an encircled globe, we shall gather together our treasures of knowledge, remembering that, however we have advanced towards the sources of light, each onward move has revealed a further step beyond. The Government of Japan already appreciates the value of an enlightened policy towards itself and all nations, but our united assurance on our return will confirm to the people at large the friendliness of feeling so frequently expressed heretofore, and now so generously exhibited to this Embassy. In the future an extended commerce will unite our national interests in a thousand forms, as drops of water commingle flowing from our several rivers to that common ocean that divides our countries. Let us express the hope that our national friendship may be as difficult to sunder or estrange as to divide the once blended drops composing our common Pacific Ocean."

The Embassy were then presented individually to the members of the House, Mr. Mori standing near Iwakura, and signifying to him the relative importance of the persons introduced.

NEW JAPANESE AND CHINESE TREATY.

(PALL MALL GAZETTE.)

The treaty recently entered into between China and Japan is significant as an indication of policy in regard to both. That two nations inhabiting countries so near to each other as China and Japan—both of Asiatic race and with many features in common—should for more than 2,000 years have maintained a policy of isolation towards each other, and now suddenly enter into a close alliance, signing a treaty of reciprocity and equality, is a striking demonstration of the irresistible influence of modern intercourse and civilisation in breaking down all barriers of race or religion. Since the days of the great Mongol conqueror, Kublai Khan—who twice in the thirteenth century sent forth a great armada for its conquest, from which few ever lived to return—the only intercourse between the two nations, after a long series of reprisals on the Corean coast from Japan, has been of the most restricted kind. A small colony of Chinese traders permitted to reside at Nagasaki, but carefully locked up every night within the wards of their settlement, and the admission of two or three Japanese junks at one, or sometimes two, ports in China, has been all the communication allowed for the last five centuries. And this is th more remarkable, since the Japanese a thousand years before had borrowed from the Chinese not only their written character, but their religion and philosophy, with such cultivation of their language and literature as Europe in the Middle Ages kept up with respect to the Greek and Roman classics. Now, each nation, abandoning their lofty pretensions of unapproachable dignity and isolation, have freely entered into relations of peace and commerce on a footing of perfect equality. This, as regards all such pretensions, must be the beginning of the end; and in that, perhaps, lies its chief significance for Western Powers. With the Japanese it seems but the natural consequence of all the other startling innovations which have marked their national life during the past ten years. But it is different with China, which has neither accepted railroads and telegraphs as necessary to the national progress and development, nor admitted in practice the nullity of their pretensions to supremacy in the governing hierarchy of the world. The settlement of the audience question must soon, however, tear away the last shred of this worn-out mantle of universal dominion; and it is a question the solution of which cannot much longer be deferred, either in their interest or in ours, since delay tends to damage the position of foreign Powers, and to falsify the policy of the Chinese Government to their own peril. A new Russo-Japanese Treaty has been announced in the telegraphic notices from Berlin, and appeared in The Times of the 20th inst. We have reason to believe, however, that the correspondent has simply blundered in his intelligence, and mistaken a treaty concluded between China and Japan for one which has no existence with Russia. It is bad enough for the Japanese to have entered into something very like an alliance offensive and defensive with China, in a clumsy attempt to transfer to their treaty the Chinese version of the article in the American treaty, by which it is stipulated that, in the event of a war with any third Power, the good offices of America should be accepted. As between two countries like China and Japan, such mediation of the one on behalf of the other would have no meaning when a Western Power was in the field. And if, as the apocryphal summary from Berlin would indicate, there is any engagement for China and Japan to close their ports respectively to any Western belligerent making war on either, it is pretty sure to involve the neutral so acting in the quarrel, without possible benefit to one or the other, but much and certain damage.

THE AGRA BANK.

The ordinary general meeting of the proprietors of this bank was held on the 27th ult.; Mr. J. Thomson in the chair.

The report of the directors showed, after deduction of the intermediate dividend declared in September last, a surplus of £29,706 10s. 2d., which will admit of payment of a dividend to the shareholders for the half-year ending 31st December last at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, leaving a balance of £5,173 11s. 8d. to be carried forward. The results of the business would have been more profitable if all the branches of the bank had, as was expected from them, contributed to the general revenue. Some of them, however, had failed to cover their working expenses, and with three the deficiency arising from expenditure exceeding the earnings had been considerable. At the profitable branches the returns have yielded 9 1-5 per cent. upon three-fourths of the bank's capital, being the amount employed at these branches, or sufficient to provide a dividend at the rate of nearly 7 per cent. to the shareholders on the total capital for the whole year. Referring to the statement showing the position of the estate of the Agra and Masterman's Bank on the 31st December, 1871, the directors would observe that fair progress has been made during the year in further realisations of the outstanding assets. The out-turn of the last indigo season in the Bengal Presidency, though much less favourable than was at one time expected, from the effect of serious and most unprecedented inundations, has left a satisfactory profit on the expenses of working, and the better prospects now offering for the growth and manufacture of this important staple have enabled the directors to effect a sale of a portion of the factories in which the late bank was interested. Since the beginning of the year other assets have been realised, which enables the directors to make a distribution to the shareholders of the late Agra and Masterman's Bank at the rate per share of £1 15s. This instalment will be payable to the holders of cash or scrip certificates on or after the 2nd April.

The Chairman, in moving the adoption of the report, said that the accounts, were, so to speak, a compound of what was good, and what was not good, showing profits at some branches, and the reverse at others. In London, Calcutta, and Madras the result of the working of the branches had been satisfactory, and if the other branches had been as good they would have been able to declare a dividend of 11 per cent., besides placing £20,000 to the reserve. The development of their business, however, must be a gradual process, and from the growing connection at the main establishments they were assured that they would become more valuable year by year. As to the unprofitable branches, he said that in some instances the failure must be attributable to the local management, but the board intended to have a staff of competent managers. Hitherto their great difficulty had been Bombay. Anyone would say that if there was a field for banking business anywhere it must be there. That was no doubt so, but the failure to develop that business had been the fault of the management. They had changed the management, but it would take time to recover their position. The Kurrachee branch had also disappointed the directors, but looking to the improvement in the place, and its former success, the board had determined to give it another trial under new management. Hong Kong had also been unprofitable, but that was not to be attributed to any fault on the part of the management. The accounts generally showed a satisfactory increase upon the business of last year. This was the case, not only in the aggregate, but with the individual branches. For bad debts or bills out of order, up to the end of last year, ample provision had been made, and as a whole the future of the bank was very promising. Referring to the Agra and Masterman's Bank he said it was proposed to declare a further instalment out of the surplus assets of £1 15s., making with the £1 5s. already paid, £3 per share. The remaining assets were more difficult to deal with. Some of them were involved in legal proceedings, and others were of that complicated nature which rendered it necessary to wait the issue of events. Ultimately, however, he expected to realise the full amount of the price that was paid for the shares. The Hon. Colonel Dalzell seconded the motion.

After some discussion the Chairman, in reply to questions, said, with regard to the capital, there was a balance due upon the allotted shares of £2,449, upon which interest was paid, and there were 1,240 not allotted. They were gradually reducing their deposit interest, and hoped further to do so without injury to the deposits. The bank had had great difficulty in obtaining an inspector, who was a very necessary officer, and the gentleman who occupied that office at the present time was qualified for the post. As to the position which he held, he said that the greatest favour which the shareholders could confer upon him was to say that they did not want him any longer. When, however, he ceased to be manager he would cease to be chairman.

The report was unanimously adopted, and the dividend therein recommended declared.

Monetary and Commercial.

The Committee of the Privy Council for Trade have received from the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs the following translation of a note addressed to Her Majesty's Chargé d'Affaires at Yedo by the Japanese Government respecting the export of rice:—

Leaving the prohibition against the export of rice as it exists, it is intended henceforward, when there is a surplus in the country, as circumstances may demand, that some of the rice stored by the Board of Finance shall be sold at the open ports by public tender to Japanese and foreigners for exportation. The date for sending tenders will be notified on each occasion at the open ports. On certain occasions the Government may export on its own account.

We understand that the liquidators of the Commercial Bank of India have just completed the payment of the loan made by the London Joint-Stock Bank, and, with some trifling exceptions, the whole of the debts are now paid off. The calls made on the shareholders since the stoppage amount to £14 per share. There is a probability of a return of £1 or £2.

Notice is given that the transfer books of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation will be closed from the 27th March to the 5th April, both days inclusive, for the purpose of paying a dividend for the half-year ending 31st Dec. last. The present mail brings us a report of the meeting held at Hong Kong on the 15th Feb. The report and balance-sheet will appear in our next issue.

At the meeting of the Agra Bank a dividend was declared at the rate of 5 per cent. for the past six months, making a total distribution of 4 per cent. for the year. A report of the proceedings will be found in another column.

The directors of the British Indian Extension Telegraph Company (Limited) have declared a dividend of 2 per cent., making, with the interim distribution, a total of 8 per cent. for the year ending 31st December last.

Amongst the joint-stock companies recently registered has been the Colombo Wharf and Warehouse Company (Limited), with a capital of £50,000, in 5,000 shares of £10. This Company proposes to erect bonded or other warehouses at Colombo, or elsewhere in Ceylon, and to carry on business as wharfingers and coal factors. The subscribers (who take one share each) are—H. G. Dunlop, 9A, New Broad-street; George Dunlop, 6, Canute-road, Southampton; J. H. Blow, 9A, New Broad-street; E. A. Flinders, 4, Great Winchester-street-buildings; S. J. Cook, 8, St. Mary Axe; J. B. Marsh, 182, Blackfriars-road; and G. B. Leechman, 92A, Piccadilly.

Mr. J. C. Stenning, late of Calcutta, has become a partner in the firm of Lloyd and Cheshire, tea brokers, of Mincing-lane.

The market for Bar Silver is rather firmer, and we quote the price 5s. 0¾d. to 5s. 0¾d., within which limits there is a moderate demand for the Continent, and to a slight degree also for the East. The supply is very small at present, so that the rate will probably be maintained. There is no supply of Mexican Dollars, either of the old or the new coinage, and as both kinds are in good demand it is anticipated that those expected shortly to arrive will realise at least the last rates, viz., old, 5s. 1½d.; new, 4s. 11½d. per oz.

The amount of bullion by the P. and O. Company's steamer Delta, which left Southampton on the 28th inst., was in gold, to Ceylon, £10,400; to Bombay, £10,000; to Madras, £4,184; in silver, to Singapore, £6,940; to Hong Kong, £8,800; to Shanghai, £3,930.

The ordinary general meeting of the Great Northern Telegraph Company will be held at Copenhagen on the 30th inst, when the accounts of the company, and of the China and Japan Extension Company—now amalgamated with it—for the year 1871 will be submitted to the shareholders. The accounts will be open for inspection after the 15th inst. at the company's offices, both in Copenhagen and London.

At the meeting of the Oriental Bank, on the 18th ult., the directors will propose the usual dividend, at the rate of 12 per cent. per annum, for the half-year ended 31st December last.

At a meeting of the shareholders of the Bank of Hindustan (in liquidation), held on the 28th ult., Mr. Alderman Allen in the chair, the following resolutions were, after some discussion and explanations from the chair, unanimously passed:—

"That the report and accounts of the liquidators now presented be received and adopted." "That this meeting is of opinion that the liquidators should apply to the Court of Chancery for liberty to distribute forthwith amongst the shareholders the assets now in hand and capable of early realisation, and that the liquidators are hereby requested to continue their efforts on behalf of the bank, and to close the liquidation as speedily as the circumstances will permit." "That Dr. Paton, Mr. Muttlebury, and Mr. Courtenay be and they are hereby appointed a committee to confer with the liquidators as to the expediency of carrying out the arrangements suggested in the report for selling or transferring the remaining assets; and, if it should be found expedient so to do, to apply to the Court of Chancery, in conjunction with the liquidators, for the necessary directions to give effect to that part of the report."

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

The Produce markets have, owing to the occurrence of the Easter holidays, maintained a quiet tone during the week, the only noticeable change being a slight recovery of Coffee from its recent condition of inactivity. The duty upon this article, after remaining 28s. per cwt. for many years past, has been proposed by the Chancellor of the Exchequer to be reduced by one-half, making it 14s. per cwt., being the only alteration contained in the Budget directly affecting commercial affairs.

TEA.

The market continues quiet, and prices for some descriptions show a slight deline upon last week's quotations.

At public sale on the 22nd ult. 5,724 packages China were offered, of which 5,664 packages were sold. The quantity sold consisted almost entirely of Moyune and Pingsuey Green, 4,510 packages, ex Patroclus (ss.), from Shanghai, offered without reserve, on account of the importers. There was a fair attendance of buyers, but the sale opened flatly, and coarse Moyunes went at a decline of 1d. to 2d. per lb. The Pingsuey Teas sold irregularly, and more often rather under the valuations. Moyune Gunpowder No. 1 sold at 2s. 10d., Young Hyson No. 1 at 2s. 3¾d. to 2s. 4d., Pingsuey Gunpowder No. 1 fine to superior at 3s. 2d. to 3s. 4d., Young Hyson at 2s. 3d. per lb.

Further public sales were held on the 26th and 27th ult. The total quantity offered amounted to 6,854 packages, the whole of which was offered and sold without reserve, chiefly on importers' account. The Congou consisted chiefly of Canton, new make, in faulty condition, of which 2,760 boxes were sold at 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 1½d., Foochow red leaf fannings at 5¾d. to 7d. 550 half-chests uncoloured Japan, import 1869 and 1871, sold on importers' account at 3½d. to 4d. Green Teas again sold irregularly, Moyunes being easier, whilst Ping Suey brought firmer prices. Moyune No. 1 Gunpowder medium to fine sold at 2s. 10½d. to 3s. 6½d., Young Hyson No. 1 at 2s. 2½d. to 2s. 9½d., Ping Suey Gunpowder No. 1 at 3s. 4d., Young Hyson 2s. 4d. per lb.

SILK.

The market is without alteration.

COFFEE.

The reduction in the duty has not influenced the state of the market, which remains inactive, at the same time a firmer tone is observable, which may be attributed to the increased firmness of holders. At the close the market is steady without activity, and prices of Plantation Ceylon are about 1s. above the recent depression. Other kinds are also firmer, and small supplies of triage and ordinary at public sale have gone off with more spirit. The latest realised have been, Plantation triage 67s., unclean ditto 47s. 6d. to 51s., Native chips 53s. to 53s. 6d., ordinary ditto 44s 6d., brown garblings 52s. to 52s. 6d., brown and black 48s. to 48s. 6d., low black 31s. 6d., one lot good ordinary 68s. 6d.; privately about 3,200 bags Native have been sold at 68s. 6d. per cwt.

SUGAR.

Although a fairly active demand has been maintained during the week at the improvement noted in our last report, business has been restricted by the smallness of supplies. In East India descriptions the only transactions to note consist in the sales of 64 bags soft yellow Penang at auction at 30s. 6d. to 31s.; bright, 35s.; and 368 baskets date privately at 24s.; also of 150 baskets Java (duty 5s. 3d.) at 35s. 3d. per cwt.

CUTCH is improving; at auction 512 cases fine Pegu were offered and bought in at 27s. per cwt.; privately 600 boxes fine Pegu have been sold at 26s. 9d., and 800 boxes do. at 27s.

COCOA-NUT OIL.—Without change; at public sale 25 pipes fine Ceylon sold at £37 per ton.

COIR GOODS.—At the last sales a moderate supply of Yarn was nearly all disposed of at the previous rates. The supply of Fibre consisted of old and second-hand parcels, which were withdrawn. Of Yarn 45 bales good middling Ceylon sold at £33 to £33 10s.; 46 tons in dholls ditto, common to good common at £28 5s. to £29; medium, £30 10s.; good medium, £33. Of Fibre 21 tons Ceylon were withdrawn, except 2 tons bristle, which sold at £36 5s.; 32 bales low coarse mattress, indiret, sold at £16 per ton.

ESSENTIAL OILS.—We note the sale of 4 cases Citronelle at 2½d. and 4 cases Cinnamon at 5d.

GAMBIER.—Little doing; in public sale 350 bales pressed cubes of fresh import sold cheaper at 23s., with a few lots 23s. 3d., also 2,026 mats good pale cubes at 25s.

HEMP.—The market for all descriptions is quieter. The supply of Manila at the auctions consisted chiefly of brown qualities, which are only in moderate demand, and nearly the whole was bought in. Of 2,137 bales offered only 200 bales sold, brown £41 10s. to £42 5s., mixed £45 5s., the remainder being bought in, brown £43 10s. to £45, good roping £51, white Quilot (287 bales) at £67.

PEPPER—Black: Early in the week there was a speculative demand and a further advance was established for Penang, about 4,000 bags changing hands privately, commencing at 6¼d. and closing at 6⅞d. Since then but little business has been doing at 6⅞d. to 6¾d.; 500 bags have been sold at 6¼d., for delivery in April at sellers' option. There has been no business in Singapore. At auction 1,490 bags Penang were bought in at 7d., but have since been sold at 6 15-16d. For delivery in May and June 500 bags Singapore sold at 7d., and 400 bags Penang April delivery at 6¾d. White has been in increased inquiry, and private sales of Singapore have been effected at gradually advancing rates, reaching 12d. at the close; 236 bags Penang were offered by auction, of which 120 bags sold, indirect import at 11½d. to 11⅝d., fresh and direct at 1s., the remainder, fine bold, being bought in at 1s. 1d.

RICE.—There has been but little doing on the spot, but there is more demand for floating cargoes of soft grain, and several have changed hands, comprising four or five cargoes of the new crop of Burmah, together about 5,000 tons—1 of Rangoon at 10s 3d., 1 of Bassein at 9s. 10½d., 1 of Necransie Arracan at 9s. 9d., 1 of ditto Larong at 9s. 6d., all open charter or 1¼d. less if ex ship London.

SPICES.—Cassia: Of 27 cases 461 bundles ordinary, of fresh import from Singapore, only 80 bundles sold at 32s. to 36s. 6d. Buds: 28 boxes of old import were bought in at £7 10s. Cinnamon: 50 bales ordinary Ceylon sold, first sort, 2s. 1d. to 2s. 2d.; second, 1s. 6d. to 1s. 8d.; third, 10d.; fourth, 9d.; and 13 boxes broken at 1s. 4d. Cloves: 19 cases old Penang bought in at 1s. 4d. Nutmegs: Of 17 cases Penang offered, 8 cases sold, 82 to 80's at 3s. 1d. to 3s. 3d. Mace: Of 34 cases fresh Java, of ordinary quality offered, 14 cases sold at 3s. 6d to 3s. 7d.

TIN.—Straits is in steady demand for consumption, and last week's quotation, £150 per ton, is firmly maintained. Banca has advanced 40s. during the week, being quoted at £155 per ton.

TOBACCO.—We note sales of 669 bales Japan at 6¼d. to 9½d., 469 bales ditto country damaged 3¼d. to 8¼d., 31 bales ditto sea damaged 3¾d. to 8d., one lot 10½d., and 5 bales ditto grease damaged 5d. to 8¼d., also of 10 bales Java at 6¾d.; 158 bales Manila leaf sold—1870 crop, Cayagan, 1s, at 41¾d. to 42d.; 1a Ysabella, 42d. to 42½d., two lots sea-damaged 41¾d.; 1869 crop, 1a Ysabella, at 39¾d. to 40d.; 1868 crop, 2a Cagayan, 1s. to 1s. 0½d.; 3a do. at 9¾d. to 10¼d.; 2a Ysabella, 1s. 0½d to 1s. 0¾d., the first lot 11¾d.; 3a do. 9¾d. to 10d.; and 1 case China at 3¼d.

THE TANJONG PAGAR DOCK COMPANY

(LIMITED).

REPORT OF THE DIRECTORS.

Your Directors congratulate you on the continued prosperity of the Company, and have much pleasure in feeling themselves in a position to recommend your declaring dividends for the past half-year similar in amount to those of the previous one. The gross earnings of the Company for the period in question have been $85,940.86 against $79,813.87 of the previous half-year, showing an increase of $6,056.99, but with the exception of $41.25 this increase has been absorbed by the payment of the arrears due to contributing Shareholders for three half-years namely June 1870, December 1870, and June 1871, $2,232 69;—of two instalments of your Donation of $2,500 to the Company's London Agents, amounting to $1,667, and by an increase in cost of repairs to the Wharf, Godowns, Coal Sheds, &c., over that of last half-year of $2,116.05.

For the future, however, each half-year will bear its own proportion of payment under Clause 72 of the Articles of Association, and it is anticipated that the charges for Wharf repairs will be much smaller, as the greater proportion of the old soft wood planking has already been replaced by good hard wood.

The amount available for dividend is $29,143.45, consisting of a balance brought forward of $7,276.05, and the profit of the half-year's working, $21,867.40. Your Directors therefore suggest that you should declare the highest dividends permitted under existing arrangements with preference Shareholders, being at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum on original shares, and of 9 per cent. per annum on preference shares, which will expend $13,511.50, leaving a balance in reserve of $15,631.95. Of this reserve balance, however, about $1,500 is due to contributing Shareholders for the last half-year under the above-mentioned clause 72 of the Articles of Association, therefore the actual amount to be carried forward will be about $14,000.

As instructed at your last meeting your Directors are providing the funds necessary for the additions to the works by the issue of a fifth series of Debentures limited in amount to $80,000 and bearing interest at 7 per cent. per annum.

The Wharf has been extended to the westward a distance of 475 feet, the greater part of which length has been planked and is already in use by vessels; and the proposed 200 feet of new Wharf to the eastward of the Dock entrance, intended for the accommodation of vessels under repair and to erect the Boiler Shears on, is in progress.

A Brick building near the head of the graving Dock intended for the Company's Stores, Engineer's and Storekeeper's offices, will be commenced immediately, and the foundation of a Brick Godown is being laid at the back of the new Wharf to the westward, where the ground, being solid, admits of its construction, and another Godown to be built on piles between the present No. 1 and No. 2 Godowns, and of a similar construction to that of No. 3, namely, plank floor and sides and tiled roof, has just been commenced and it is intended to hurry on the completion of the two last named buildings, as from the increased traffic more accommodation for goods is imperatively required. As anticipated, a marked improvement has taken place in the earnings of the Machine Shop, and your Directors have found it necessary to add to its efficiency by engaging from home three European workmen.

Some difficulties have been discovered by the Company's legal adviser since your last Meeting in dealing with the question of preference shares, but your Directors have taken the earliest opportunity of obtaining the best Opinion from Home on the subject, and are now waiting a reply before bringing the matter again to your notice.

During the half-year there have been berthed at the Wharf—146 Steamers of a tonnage of 123,352 tons.; 47 Sailing Vessels 25,646 tons; and the graving Dock has accommodated 9 Steamers of a tonnage of 6,613 tons; 9 Sailing Vessels of a tonnage of 4,584 tons. Of general Cargo there has been landed at and shipped from the Wharf—exclusive of Stiffening 54,044 tons; and of Coals 47,216 tons. The quantity of Coals stored on account of Constituents was on 31st December 15,899 tons.

Your plant and staff has during the half-year been maintained in its usual efficiency.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

ENFEEBLED EXISTENCE.—This medicine embraces every attribute required in a general and domestic remedy; it overturns the foundations of disease laid by defective food and impure air. In obstructions or congestions of the liver, lungs, bowels, or any other organs, these Pills are especially serviceable and eminently successful. They should be kept in readiness in every family, being a medicine of incomparable utility for young persons and those of feeble constitutions. They never cause pain or irritate the most sensitive nerves or most tender bowels. Holloway's Pills are the best known purifiers of the blood, the most active promoters of absorption and secretion, whereby all poisonous and obnoxious particles are removed from both solids and fluids.

MANAGER.

Mr. DAVID MUIRHEAD.

SOLICITOR.

WILLIAM HARWOOD, Esq.

BANKERS.

THE HONG KONG AND SHANGHAI BANKING CORPORATION.

The Shanghai and Pootung Foundry and Engineering Company has been formed to take over the business hitherto successfully carried on by Mr. David Muirhead, which is so well known to be the best and most complete establishment of its kind in China or Japan.

The terms of the transfer are that the Company acquires the whole of the extensive works, plant, property, contracts, and assets of the whole business, freed from all liabilities and encumbrances.

The property, including the goodwill of the business, to be transferred to this Company, is complete and perfect in every branch, and consists of a site of about fifty mow of land, situate on the Pootung side, immediately opposite to the English settlement, Shanghai, having a frontage to the river of 412 feet.

Upon this property are the following buildings:—

Boiler shop.
Pattern shop and Smithy.
Machine shop.
Foundry.
Office and store.
Assistant manager's house.
Manager's house.
Furnaces.
Wharf and shears capable of lifting forty tons.

The establishment is fitted up most completely with planing, punching, rolling, drilling, and screwing machines, with powerful lathes, boring mills, and steam hammers, foundries for manufacturing iron and brass castings, and smithy for forgings, such as are required for heavy engineering and other purposes.

With the view of arriving at a correct valuation of the property and plant, Mr. Coryell has made a careful estimate, which, after allowing liberally for depreciation, amounts to Tls. 100,000, particulars of which can be seen on application.

A satisfactory arrangement has been entered into with Mr. Muirhead for carrying on the undertaking with the present efficient staff, and Mr. Muirhead will retain a large interest in the company.

The profits of the business during the last seven years have averaged over Tls. 18,000 per annum, equal to 18 per cent. on the present proposed capital.

This property offers unequalled facilities for the carrying on with economy work of the above description, while the whole of the plant is in the best possible state, its perfect efficiency having been continuously and carefully maintained. The introduction of new interests in the working may confidently be expected to yield an extension of the business; and the adoption of the mutual system, which has been found to produce such satisfactory results in other companies, in the opinion of the Directors, cannot fail to have a corresponding effect in this. It must also be borne in mind that the carrying trade of the East is in a state of transition from wooden sailing vessels to iron steamers, and this will doubtless benefit the Company, more especially as Shanghai is daily increasing its steam traffic, and proving its suitability to be the terminal port in China. The present, therefore, seems a good opportunity to acquire a business in working order, which, by means of a Company, can be extended as circumstances may render necessary.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN.

YOKOHAMA.

The present (French) mail brings advices from this port to the 20th February. The Pacific mail steamer Great Republic, with dates to the 28th February, arrived at San Francisco on the 23rd ult., seven days late. The news by both opportunities has already been given in our recent issues.

NAGASAKI.

The Commissioner for Foreign Affairs at Nagasaki officially denies that the alleged persecution of Christians has taken place at Simabara. He has fully inquired into the matter, "and finds that many people guilty of counterfeiting paper money were punished on the 16th December last, and this has undoubtedly given rise to the report that severity was being used towards the Christians."

The barque Britain's Pride had put in to repair damages sustained during her passage from Chefoo to Kobe.

CHINA.

SHANGHAI.

Our advices by this mail extend to the 23rd February; the P. and O. mail of Dec. 29 arrived out Feb. 17. The North China Herald contains the following summary of the news:—

The Peking Gazette contains a suggestive memorial from Tsang-kwo-Fan and Futai, reporting their action for the relief of the sufferers in Chihli. The Emperor ordered them to send 20,000 piculs of rice, but Li Hung-chang wrote that he would rather have the money. The Northern people didn't care for rice, but if he had its value he could buy food better suited to them! So Tseng-kwo-Fan sent him Tls. 50,000. The misfortune is that, judging from our correspondent's letters, no adequate effort was made to procure from Newchwang food well suited to the palates of the Chihli-men, and that the cry is raised of dearth of supply, even in Tientsin itself. There is no room at all for doubt, as Tseng-kwo-Fan suggests, whether 20,000 piculs of rice could have been sent up if measures had been taken promptly; but we do fear whether the Tls. 50,000 reached Li in time to be expended. We suspect the starving people would rather have had rice, after all, if they had been consulted.

The Governor of Kweichow reports further successes over the Miaotsze in his province; but they do not betoken very rapid progress towards the restoration of order. The capture of the cities of Pachai and Sanchio was mentioned in the Gazette of the 1st July. Now we learn that the rebels immediately besieged the Imperial garrison, and the desperate fighting referred to in the present edict is the result of an effort to raise the siege. The first memorial spoke of assistance received from friendly Miaotsze in capturing these cities, and we expressed our suspicion at the time that this meant bribery and treachery. The edict which we publish to-day confirms our suspicion. The Chinese no doubt bought their way into Pachia and Sanchio, and the Miaotsze fell upon these cities with large forces directly they heard of the mishap. The garrison, however, were able to hold their own; and with the aid of a force which the Imperial Commander-in-Chief brought to their aid, were able to raise the siege. But this only leaves them where they were six months ago, and we cannot help asking, for the hundred-and-first time, what becomes of all the munitions of war turned out from the different factories. Miaotsze could never stand against men armed with breech-loaders, and having a few howitzers.

A meeting of shareholders in the Shanghai Steam Navigation Company has been held. The report showed a net profit of Tls. 410,402, after paying a 12 per cent. dividend and carrying Tls. 247,320 to insurance and depreciation account. It was resolved to convert the 20 per cent. scrip dividend issued last year into stock, raising the capital to Tls. 2,250,000. The purchase of property to the value of Tls. 26,000 in the neighbourhood of the Company's premises in Hongkew and the French Settlement was sanctioned. Messrs. H. H. Warden (President), Porter, Dent, Forbes, and Condit, were elected Directors for the ensuing year.

At a meeting of the Shanghai Tug and Lighter Company a seven per cent. dividend was declared, besides returning a bonus of five per cent. on business contributed. Messrs. F. B. Forbes, E. C. Smith, and John Anderson were re-elected Directors.

The Nouvelliste publishes minutes of a meeting of the French Municipal Council. The bad condition of the bridge over the Yang-king-pang at the end of Kiangsi Road was brought up, and the inconvenience caused by pedlars taking up their places on it, was pointed out. The similar inconvenience felt by the market people taking stand, in the morning, on the Honan Road bridge, was also referred to; and the Secretary was ordered to communicate with the English Council on these points. The other proceedings were chiefly formal and uninteresting.

A meeting was held on the 21st Feb. for the purpose of reconstituting the Shanghai Chess Club. It was explained that the library were willing to provide free quarters, if the Chess Club would introdnce fifteen new subscribing members to the library. This number has been obtained, and resolutions were passed agreeing to the proposal, agreeing to a yearly subscription of $1 to the Chess Club to meet any casual expenses, and appointing Messrs. Alabaster, Zimmern, Curjel, Gottburg, and E George, a committee.

We are glad to learn that the missing boat from the Chukiang, containing the second officer and six men, which went towards the Haitan Straits in search of aid when the steamer was wrecked, had been met with by the screw-steamer Formosa, and the men, all well, taken to Amoy.

A correspondent writes, with reference to the loss of the Suwonada, that the Haitan Straits are still imperfectly surveyed, and that the Admiralty chart is by no means a safe guide. He suggests that some of the war-vessels on the coast might do valuable service by making a complete survey of the passage.

The 22nd February was the anniversary of the birthday of George Washington. The Monocacy fired a salute of twenty-one guns at noon, in honour of the day.

We are glad to see that another parade of the Shanghai Volunteer Corps is announced. We hope the marines and blue jackets will again join in the excursion.

A handicap paper hunt is to come off on or about the 29th Feb. This, we believe, will be the last of the season; the crops are now getting too high.

The following intelligence is from the Courier:—

Letters received from Peking report that H.E. T. F. Wade, H.B.M. Minister, has been assailed with opprobrious epithets by a mob of Pekingese youth, and struck with a stick by one of them; but fortunately no particular injury has been sustained by his Excellency. The affray could have had nothing of a political character, or the members of the Tsung-li-yamen would have been aware of it, and would have informed Mr. Wade of the fact. The truth is that Mr. Wade, walking in plain clothes along one of the leading thoroughfares of Peking, and passing the end of one of the narrow lanes that debouch on the main street, was assailed by a crowd of youths shouting after him the usual insulting epithet, "Foreign devil," and on his remonstrating, one of the oldest of them hit him across the head with a stick. They seem to have mistaken him for some of the foreign rowdies who are said from time to time to insinuate themselves into the sacred capital, in spite of the vigilance of its diplomatic guardians, of whom Mr. Wade is, or was, the chief. Hence the attack was really made, not on the British Minister at all, but on some other individual whom for the moment Mr. Wade personated in the eyes of the crowd. This is too obvious to require proof.

The inconvenience which the innocent Minister was thus made to suffer is much to be regretted; but the occurrence having arisen through a mistake, his Excellency is happily relieved from the necessity of making it a diplomatic question. As for seeking to have the delinquents punished, Mr. Wade is, perhaps, the last man who would consent to any harsh procedure, and although Pao, of the Tsung-li-yamen, happening to come up immediately after the assault, and learning what had occurred, had the young man who committed the assault arrested and brought before the Yamen, the offender was let off with a mild sentence of cangue—a punishment which was also extended to three or four policemen, who, the high officers of the Yamen held, ought to have been on the spot to protect Mr. Wade from the indignities he had suffered.

We learn that the Customs' tender Quay-Sing has been placed at the disposal of the Great Northern Telegraph Company, to enable their operatives to repair the damage done to the cable. The break has been ascertained to be about two miles outside Gutzlaff, in fourteen fathoms water.

In regard to Chinkiang the News says:—

The rapid progress in prosperity made by this port has this season been stimulated by an immense trade in rice, resulting from an unusually heavy rice crop in all the surrounding districts, and the failure of that crop in a large part of the province of Kwangtung. The consequence has been that for two months foreign ships and steamers have been coming and going almost daily, to the great benefit of all concerned.

HONG KONG.

The London mail of 12th Jan. (P. and O.) arrived out on the 23rd Feb. Dates extend to the 29th.

The Daily Press has the following on the appointments to the Legislative Council made by Sir Richard MacDonnell:—We hear that Mr. Lowcock, of Messrs. Gibb, Livingston, and Co., and Mr. Greig, manager of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank, were sworn in as members of the Legislative Council. The appointment of the first-named gentleman was generally anticipated, and fully approved of by the community, but that of the latter has caused some little surprise. As an individual, Mr. Greig enjoys considerable popularity, and his abilities are such as will doubtless be of service to the public, but it cannot but be considered a little strange that the manager of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank should be chosen, and the chairman a gentleman of high commercial position, of lengthened experience in China, and commanding general confidence and esteem, should be overlooked. It was certainly very generally imagined that the choice for the second member of Council would lie between Mr. Pyke and Mr. Lemann, and we cannot help thinking that the views of the public are entirely overlooked in the appointment which has been made. In saying this, we do not wish for a moment to underrate Mr. Greig's qualifications as an individual, but taking all matters into account, it must be obvious that it is somewhat invidious to raise the manager of an institution constituted like the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank above the directors, especially when the chairman is, apart from his connection with the bank, in every way eligible for the appointment. However, the movements of governors are more than ordinary mortals can measure; and we can only trust that Sir Richard has good reasons for thus going counter to the general feeling.

The Japanese troupe, who are performing at Shameen, are doing remarkably well. A Chinaman has paid to the troupe $3 500 for performing for a month, that is to say, over and above that sum of the troupe's earnings, goes to the Chinaman. A fight is going on between two villages in the vicinity of Whampoa. The casus belli is stated to be this:—The inhabitants of one of the villages have given permission to some country people to build houses outside the village's boundary. This privilege to the country people does not seem to have met the views of the inhabitants of the adjacent village, who are consequently determined to resist it vi et armis. Powder is in demand at Whampoa.

Mr. Glover has come up and awaits instructions from the Plenipo. It is supposed in some quarters that he will proceed to Shanghai, while others are so sure of his resuming the post of Commissioner here as to set themselves to the work of composing a street ballad of condolence, to be dedicated to our departing poet. The conspiracy case, not of paktowqui but of the Hoikwan gent's servants, who conspired to defraud the revenue, has been disposed of. The proceeds of the two balls of opium having been recovered from them, they were discharged from durance vile.

The second ordinary meeting of shareholders in the Victoria Fire Insurance Company was held on the 26th, to pass the report and accounts, &c. Present:—Messrs. G. Overbeck (in the chair), G. F. Weller, S. D. Sassoon, A. H. Chinoy, E. J. Sage, H. N. Mody, G. B. Dixwell, J. F. Buxey, J. Robinson, Gomes, Figueiredo, Noronha, Leveroy, Grobien, Mitchell, H. Melchers, W. H. Bell, Sherwood, Coxon, and W. R. Landstein.

The Chairman proposed the adoption of the report and accounts, which was seconded by Mr. Sassoon, and carried unanimously. The Chairman next proposed, and Mr. Sage seconded, that Messrs. Melchers and Sassoon be re-elected on the Board; which proposition was unanimously approved of by the meeting. Messrs. Mitchell and Boyd were also unanimously re-elected as auditors.

The Chairman congratulated the shareholders on the satisfactory working of the company so far, and on its present position; if it continued the report would be equally congratulatory next year. The bonus divisible amongst shareholders would be 30½ per cent.

Mr. W. H. Bell remarked that, in view of the very creditable account presented, they might well thank the general agents and those under their instructions, and to show their appreciation of their services they could not do better than follow the example of the oldest fire office in the colony, and vote a gratuity of $1,000 to Mr. Wood, who conducted the business of the company. He would with the greatest pleasure also propose a vote of thanks to the general agents. At the suggestion of the Chairman the vote of a gratuity was first taken, having been seconded by Mr. Sassoon (and Mr. Robinson also). This having been unanimously carried, the next vote (of thanks) was seconded by Mr. Sage and also carried.

MANILA.

A correspondent writes as follows :—

Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, the 24th, 25th, and 26th January, seem to have been spent trying several of the prisoners by court-martial, for nine were shot at Manila and four at Cavite on the following morning, Saturday. Those shot here were taken to the camp of Bagumbayan, tied by a cord, and told to kneel down with their backs to them ; the troops of the garrison were formed in open square. The firing party being called forward, some fifty or sixty advanced to within some nine or ten paces, and fired point blank at them, evidently not killing all, for they called two more men from the ranks, and two more single shots were fired. Upon inspecting the bodies afterwards, several were found to have three and four wounds. A great many more were sentenced to death, but the Governor commuted it to transportation for life ; of these the worst were picked out as a warning to what others might expect in case they played the same dangerous game.

Courts martial are still the order of the day, and others have been arrested. Saturday, Feb. 17, four more were garroted, a soldier and three priests. They were confined in some barracks close at hand. The procession was formed about 7 A.M. ; they had to walk some 500 to 600 yards ; they all seemed to be very much affected. The soldier and two of the priests were put to death quickly, but the other, when put in the chair, jumped up again two or three times. About this time the people seemed to be excited, for there was a surge amongst the crowd, as if to attempt a rescue, but the order was given, the iron put into its place, a turn given to the wheel, and all was over with him. Had there been any disturbance every preparation had been made, for which we have to thank the Governor, who is, without the least doubt, "The right man in the right place."

Thursday, 22nd, the races commenced, and the course was guarded by troops, but all passed off quietly ; but in the evening, about eight o'clock, reports were circulated that a fire was in progress, which proved to be a tobacco manufactory adjoining the prison, where are confined a great many political prisoners. A great part of it was burnt down, but, fortunately, it did not communicate to the prison ; here we also noticed that there were not wanting troops to keep order. It is rumoured that we are to have a large reinforcement of Spanish troops at once.

JAVA.

The latest news from the Siak expedition states that the object the troops were sent out for has been attained without bloodshed, the insurgent campong headmen having surrendered themselves without fighting. The troops will speedily return to Java. One officer of the expedition has had the ill luck to be carried off by an alligator, either whilst bathing or owing to his falling out of a praha.

The company formed to cultivate waste lands at Deli (Sumatra), having failed to turn to proper account the Chinese coolies engaged by them, are now looking out and beating up for more manageable labourers in the neighbourhood of Samarang ; one of the local journals thus sets forth the result:—Some time ago an agent of the well known Deli Company came here to engage labourers for the agricultural operations this company has on foot at Deli. This man, with the help of a native recruiting agent, has persuaded 150 men to go along with him, together with their wives and children. The person bringing them gets f.10 for every workman supplied. No advances are made to those engaged until their wives and children, who have to go, are on board the vessel.

The Peruvian ship Clotilde, N. G. Garcia, passed Anjer on a voyage from Macao to Havannah, with Chinese coolies on board. The first Padang coffee auction this year will take place in the second half of March. On the 23rd March 2,784 piculs of Government sapanwood will be sold by auction at Batavia. On the 8th April 7,800 piculs of Billiton tin will be sold by auction at the same place. Concerning the origin of the forged bank notes prepared, it was supposed, at Singapore, which were lately in circulation in mid and west Java, and caused much anxiety, nothing further has been learnt ; at the time a great stir was made amongst the Batavia police, and the head of the police there sent some one to Samarang, Cheribon, and Singapore to make inquiries, it was said, with the result above stated.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

—o—

SINGAPORE.

The outward French mail of Feb. 2 arrived on March 5 ; dates extend to the morning of the 8th. The following is the summary of the week's news :—

The Newa, when near the Northwatcher Island, about sixty miles from Batavia, picked up two boats, containing the captain and crew of the French ship Marie Therese, from Bordeaux, bound to Saigon, with general cargo, which was wrecked in Gaspar Straits. The boats contained fourteen persons, viz, Pierre Moure, captain ; Julius Tanguy, mate ; N. Belbeach, second mate ; Mr. Tonsales, passenger ; Jules Merlet, carpenter ; Jules Hector, cook ; Alain Leminter, Louis Duval, Joseph Petel, L. de Rident, T. Delornee, and Baptiste Brossard, seamen ; Martin Gabriel, ordinary seaman ; and one apprentice. They had been sixty hours in the boats, during which time they had experienced very boisterous weather, losing two men.

Among the passengers by the French mail is Admiral Duprè, Admiral Governor of Cochin China, who goes home on leave, his duties being fulfilled during his absence by General D. Arbaud. We notice also the return to this colony of the Hon. J. W. W. Birch, Colonial Secretary.

A farewell dinner was given by the Singapore Club to the following members about to leave for Europe. Mr. R. B. Read (late chairman of the club), Mr. Cameron (late honorary secretary of the club), the Hon. Mr. Scott, the Hon. Mr. Adamson, Mr. Mooyer, Mr. M. Little, and Mr. Dennis. About seventy persons sat down to table ; the band of H.I.G.M.S. Hertha was in attendance, and played during dinner and in the intervals between the toasts. Mr. W. H. Read occupied the chair.

The British steamer Tanah Merah, Captain Kirk, arrived from Glasgow via Suez Canal. The Tanah Merah is to run regularly between this and Bangkok. Another new steamer is being built on the Clyde for the same line.

Colonel Anson (the Administrator) and Mrs. Anson, who are about to return to Europe, were entertained at a ball and supper in the Town Hall. The principal residents and the military and naval officers on the station were present. At supper Mr. W. H. Read occupied the chair, and in proposing the toast of the evening —the health of Colonel and Mrs. and Miss Anson—he spoke of the thoroughly good accord which had prevailed between them and the community during their residence here, and wished them on behalf of those present a speedy and prosperous voyage home. The toast was received with enthusiastic cheers.

PENANG.

We find the following items in the Penang Gazette :—

Tunku Kudin arrived here with General Pennefather and leaves for Tongkah to meet H.M. the King of Spain. We have been requested to say that Tunku Kudin has not been ejected from Salengore, but is firmly established, having a large force there to support him.

The village of Bali Pulo was burnt down on Sunday last. The fire commenced about eight o'clock, and in a short time it got complete possession of the buildings. The police made some efforts to stay its course, without avail, and house after house was consumed, till all the shops, stores, barns and stables were destroyed. About one hundred buildings have been burnt, and the amount of losses is estimated at 30,000 dollars. It is not known how the fire originated, whether at the hand of an incendiary or from accident.

A great riot has broken out amongst the Chinese at the Laroot tin mines, and hundreds of them have been killed by their brethren. It appears the quarrel originated in a dispute between two Chinese as to a small plot of ground. Gradually the rival tribes of Sin Leng, Koey Pin and Yin Pin took up the question, and ended by coming to blows with the tribe of Cheng Seang. It is an ill wind that blows nobody any good, and we find the adage exemplified by the success of the steamer Deli, which has made several trips between Perak and this, bringing away as many Chinese as she can carry, being of course well remunerated each voyage. The Perak authorities seem to be paralysed, and so the rival clans must fight out the battle till there's nothing left but their tails ! Trade is at a standstill, and it will be some time ere the tin mining will be resumed. The village of Laroot has been burnt by the rioters, the Tunku Mantri is besieged in his palace there, and about thirty of his police have been killed.

1.88 per piece; 60 R., Tls. 1.92 to 1.98 per piece; 64 R., Tls. 2.07 to 2.10 per piece; and 66 R., Tls. 2.20 per piece. T-Cloths: The dealers are directing their attention to Mexican qualities, but the lower counts also receive some notice. Demands of holders, however, had checked trade; 14 by 14 count 6 lbs. sold at Tls. 1.25; Mexicans at Tls. 1.43 to 1.47½; but favourite chops of both qualities held for much higher rates. 7 lb. changed hands at Tls. 1.44-47 and Tls. 1.61-68 per piece respectively; quotations for 8 lbs., Tls. 1.83 to 1.90; sales of fine at the last named figure, 25,000 pieces. Drills: Firm position, few best English obtainable at Tls. 3.10; finest Dutch, Tls. 3.12. American Cloth: Nothing done. Jeans and Sheetings: No transaction. Fancy cottons: Chintzes, Tls. 1.75; Gentian Shirtings, Tls. 2.50; Best Turkey Red Shirtings, Tls. 2.60 per piece. Woollens: Season scarcely commenced, but a few parcels had been settled:—C P H Long Ells, Tls. 5.65; C P H Camlets, Tls. 14.60; Ordinary Camlets, Black (old), Tls. 11.00; C P H Spanish Stripes assorted, Tls. 0.60 per yard; Medium Cloths assorted, Tls. 0.88. Figured Orleans: Tls. 4.10 for ordinary, Tls. 4.20 to 4.40 for diagonals. Scarlet and Black Long Ells enquired for, but prices asked beyond the ideas of buyers.

HONG KONG AND SINGAPORE.—There is no alteration to report in the markets at these ports.

SAIGON.—There was not much business doing, holders of Cotton Goods holding out for the here undermentioned high rates:—Grey Shirtings, 8¼ lbs., $2.70 per piece; do., 7 lbs., $2.35; T-Cloths, 6 lbs., $1.75; do., 5 lbs., $1.45; do., 4½ lbs., $1.35; do., 4 lbs., $1.18; White Irishes, $1.80.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

SHANGHI.—Black: No transactions are reported; stock, 1,000 chests. Green: Settlements during the week, 2,300 half-chests Fychow and Moyune of common quality, and nearly all for the English market. Prices had ranged from Tls. 24½ to 40½ per picul. Stock, 2,700 half-chests.

SILK.

SHANGHAI.—There had been a fairly active market, a slight fall in exchange, with rather lower prices, inducing business. Settlements were estimated at 400 bales, making a total for the season of 46,500 bales. Chop Silks showed a decline of Tls. 5 per picul; white market Tsatlees were Tls. 15.20 lower. We may mention settlements of Koofong Sing, Chop 3, at Tls. 585; "King John," at Tls. 572½; "Cat" Chop, at Tls. 535; "Grasshopper," at Tls. 530; "Blue Elephant," at Tls. 510; "Green Elephant," at Tls. 480; and other market Tsatlees at Tls. 510 to 515 for No. 4, and Tls. 480 to 490 for No. 4½. Stock estimated at 1,300 bales.

ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION OF THE MIKADO OF JAPAN.

HONG KONG, APRIL 5.—On the 26th ult. an attempt was made by twelve conspirators at Yedo to assassinate the Mikado of Japan, but failed. Two of the conspirators were captured, but the rest escaped. It is thought that the attempt is part of the old wide-spread conspiracy against the Mikado. The Japanese authorities are uneasy, and have warned foreigners not to go beyond the city limits.

THE SINGAPORE RAILWAY.

(To the Editor of the London and China Telegraph.)

SIR,—In a letter which you were good enough to publish some weeks ago I set forth what seemed to me conclusive reasons against the construction and working, by the Straits Government, of the line of railway by which it has been proposed to connect the wharves and docks in New Harbour with the town of Singapore. These reasons had then to be taken for what they seemed worth, and as an expression of mere individual opinion; but, to show those interested in the question that what was then advanced had a solid foundation in facts, I would ask the further favour of your publishing the accompanying resolutions, passed, by majorities of three to one, at a large and influential meeting of the inhabitants of Singapore on the 23rd February last. These resolutions place it beyond question that, in entertaining the idea of instructing the Government of the Straits Settlements, against the deliberate decision of the Legislative Council, to undertake the construction of this railway, the Colonial-office is also going directly in opposition to the wishes and convictions of the inhabitants of Singapore.

One of two things, therefore, must be clear. Either the proposed Railway is likely to be remunerative, and the local Government is to retain for itself the profit on an undertaking which a private company was ready to carry out, or the proposed Railway is not likely to be profitable, and the local Government is to be required to undertake a work of an essentially private character, against the wishes of the people of the Colony, and at their expense.

There seems to be no escape from this dilemma, except by withdrawing from a false step, and leaving the railway to be undertaken by the company which applied for the concession, and which was represented as waiting only for that authorisation to carry out the work.—I am, Sir, &c.,

London, 4th April, 1872. S. GILFILLAN.

RESOLUTIONS.

(1.) That the expenditure of public money on a Railway is unwarrantable, looking to the position of the Colony and the claims on the Government for the prosecution of works of the utmost importance to the welfare of these Settlements.

(2.) That this meeting has no confidence that the working of the Railway in the hands of the Government will prove efficient and satisfactory to the public, or sufficiently economical to prevent its becoming a charge on the Colonial revenues.

(3.) That this meeting views with alarm and regret that the Secretary of State should, after having specially called for the opinion of the Legislative Council on the Railway question, seen fit to act in direct opposition to the decision of that body, arrived at after a lengthened enquiry and by a large majority.

(4.) That this meeting protests respectfully but firmly against the principle involved in the Colonial office entering upon any scheme entailing large expenditure of the revenue of the Colony without the sanction of the Local Legislature.

(5.) That the chairman be requested to forward a copy of the Resolutions passed at this Meeting to H. E. the Administrator, for transmission to the Right Honourable the Secretary of State.

THE CONDITION OF JAVA NATIVES.

We (Morning Post) have received from the Foreign-office the following copy of a memorandum by Her Majesty's Consul at Batavia, upon an article in the Morning Post of November 9, 1871:—

"Although the condition of the natives of Java is by no means perfect, yet I believe it can safely bear a comparison with that of the natives of other colonial possessions, it being certain that in no other colony does the care for his individual well-being go so far; of a crushing serfdom there is not the least shadow. Taxes are raised in money and in labour, the latter being called 'heerendienst,' or labour enforced by Government, and both are mainly based on the property of the soil. This 'heerendienst' is at present limited to a maximum of one day at 11 hours per week for constructing works of public use, such as roads, bridges, dams, dykes, &c., and for rendering domestic services to native chiefs. All labour which may be enforced is definitely stated, and every year a diminution is effected therein, and no building materials or other goods may be demanded from the population, ever where payment is offered.

"The native is further obliged to cultivate sugar-cane as an indemnity for the soil ceded to him, payment for such being given him. From 1878 the extent of soil under 'heerendienst' cultivation is to be yearly reduced by one-twelfth, so that in 1890 this obligation, so far as sugar is concerned, will have ceased.

"Coffee is also raised by 'heerendienst' labour, the crop being delivered to Government at thirteen per picul, which price is not much less (expenses of providing capital not included) than its cultivation would cost a private planter. The native planter pays no ground rent for the soil cultivated with sugar-cane and coffee. It is exceedingly unjust to say that the native is delivered over to the arbitrariness of native tyrants, to a degenerate priesthood, and to rapacious laws and institutions.

"The Mahommedan priest has no authority over the population other than the influence exercised by ecclesiastics in all countries, and abuses of this influence are carefully watched and severely punished.

"The administration is in the hands of Dutch officials, who however, in their intercourse with the native population, are obliged to use the intervention of the native chiefs. All their acts are under supervision and regulated according to fixed instructions.

"In nearly all the provinces there are native hospitals, and, on the breaking out of epidemic diseases, Dutch physicians are sent to the villages to attend to the sick.

"Missionaries are freely admitted, being first, however, obliged to furnish proof of being able to speak the vernacular. They live quietly in the midst of the Mahommedan population, who respect them if they deserve it, but whose attachment to their present doctrine does not appear to give much scope to the Christian religion.

"The Government holds itself entirely neutral on the point of religion, watching only against excesses of whatever nature or from whichever sect. It is utterly untrue that the excessive enforcement of the laws of 'heerendienst' labour have led to massacres, suicides, &c.

"In conclusion, it may be asked, if the system of government works so badly as stated in this article, how can it be accounted for that the native population is rapidly increasing, and that in their food, clothing, and residence a steady improvement goes on?

(Signed) "N. M'LEAN,
Her Britannic Majesty's Consul.

"Batavia, Feb. 7, 1872."

MR. SINCLAIR ON THE TEA TRADE.

In a letter to The Times Mr. Sinclair, M.P., in commenting on the Budget, starts some queer notions on the tea trade which are scarcely worth the trouble of criticising. He says:—

Under the discouragement and difficulty of addressing an impatient and unsympathetic audience, in addition to the remarks which you have reported, I said that the working classes would be equally astonished and disappointed that while three millions were taken off the payers of income tax, the manual labour class only received a doubtful benefit in the shape of a peddling reduction in the coffee duties; that we were bound in honour, in the face of the country and the world, to do justice to the majority of the population not represented in Parliament, but that the Budget was entirely in favour of the rich; that if the working classes only paid their fair share in 1871, then half the deficiency of £3,000,000 should have been placed on their shoulders; but if, as the Chancellor of the Exchequer's course proves, they ought not to have borne this extra burden, when it was removed they should have obtained their proportionate share of the remission of taxation; that America is about to grant the free breakfast table, and that the aristocratic and plutocratic House of Commons should be ashamed to be less liberal to the poor than the Democratic House of Representatives of the United States; that tea, sugar and coffee are necessaries because they are universally given in workhouses and gaols; that it is contrary to the Constitution to tax those who are not represented for necessaries; that a large proportion of the poor are even excused local rates; that the profit and expenses connected with the duties on the breakfast table involved a cost to the consumers of ten millions, though only yielding £6 300,000 to Government, independently of cost of collection; that the export and transit duties on tea in China amounted to 4d. per pound, while by Treaty they should only be 1½d. per pound, and, adding 2d. of profit on those dues, the consumer lost another 6d. per pound, all of which might be saved by compelling the Chinese to observe the Treaty and abolishing our import duty as an ample equivalent for the export duty, and thus tea might be sold retail at 6d. to 8d. per pound which now costs 2s.; that the saving to the people of England by buying tea at 6d. instead of 2s. would be nine millions sterling, and if the consumption doubles, as it probably would, eighteen millions sterling; that, as the Chinese population is about 460,000,000, and as they drink about 10 pounds per head, if we doubled our consumption it would only be about 2¼ per cent. on the production, and would probably not enhance, perceptibly, the price received by the grower.

THE SUEZ CANAL.

The following observations upon the present condition of the Suez Canal are from the Daily News:—

The testimony of those who have recently passed through the Suez Canal forms an agreeable contrast to the dissatisfaction expressed the other day by shareholders who are disappointed that its dividends do not augment more rapidly. There have been countless improvements in the administration, and in the condition of the Canal itself, since the last independent report was published in England. The system of signalling is described as perfect. The side-stations, which only existed at Kantara and at Lake Timsah at the time of opening, have been multiplied, and the result of these two improvements is that all danger of ships meeting or of overtaking each other in the narrow portions of the Canal is at an end. A couple of months since the Edinburgh, one of the vessels which has been engaged on the work of cable-laying in the East, passed through the Canal without difficulty while drawing twenty-three feet on an even keel, and the Nebraska is said to have performed the journey about the same time while drawing more than twenty-four feet. These figures by no means represent the limits of the Canal's capacity, but are significant when taken in conjunction with the satisfaction expressed by sailors responsible for their vessel's safety. It is on record that, subsequently to the Canal being declared ready for traffic, ships stuck fast in it of far less draught than those just quoted; and when a month after the opening day, the Prussian man-of war, the Hertha, while drawing only sixteen feet and a-half, was detained for forty hours near Ismailia, the people who had all along predicted failure saw in this incident a realisation of their forebodings. "The Canal was silting up already; it would in a few years be as dry as the desert round it; and the international congratulations and thanksgivings had all been premature." So ran the story. The action of the Mediterranean at Port Said, and the formidable deposit left there by each tide, were also put forward as fatal obstacles to the permanence of the Canal; and the vast army of dredging machines which would be kept constantly and fruitlessly at work formed part of the dismal picture drawn by those who would not believe. A satisfactory answer to these misgivings is furnished by the experience of those on board the Edinburgh the other day; for these gentlemen only saw one dredging machine from one end of the Canal to the other, and this, with a similar machine outside the Port Said entrance, seemed to represent the labour employed in keeping this maritime highway in working order. Other travellers report passages which have been made in large steamers from the Gulf of Suez to the Mediterranean in nine and ten hours respectively; and it is impossible to doubt that at this time the Suez Canal has, as an engineering triumph, fulfilled the most sanguine opinions passed upon it on its opening day.

THE ANGLO-FRENCH COMMERCIAL TREATY.

The following memorial of the directors of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce, by their chairman, has been transmitted to Lord Granville:—

"That your memorialists venture again to address your lordship in reference to the Anglo-French Treaty of 1860, now that formal notice has been given by the French Government to withdraw from it in March, 1873. That in the despatch of the French Foreign Minister your lordship is reported to have said 'on two occasions' that 'you have no absolute objection to any proposal for slightly protective duties.' Your memorialists sincerely hope that your lordship has been misunderstood, and that such an unsound economical sentiment has never been officially addressed by you to the French Government. That your memorialists beg to renew their most earnest protest (made in their last memorial, which they addressed to your lordship), against the slightest movement of a retrograde character, the Treaty of 1860 having been negotiated as initiatory to the expected adoption of Free Trade principles in France, and as opposed to her previous policy of protection or prohibition. Your memorialists regret that, after twelve years' experience of the operation of the Treaty resulting in an extraordinary development of French commerce with this country, by which the vine-grower, the silk-weaver, and the peasant farmer of France have largely benefited (French exports to this country having increased from £13,000,000 sterling in 1853 to £37,000,000 in 1870), the French Government should return to a system of protection which will inevitably cripple their commerce, and check its further expansion. Your memorialists hope that during the year to come your lordship will use every effort to induce the French Government to go forward in the path of unrestricted freedom of commerce; and especially that you will assure the French Government that you will not be a party to the adoption of retaliatory legislation on French imports, or to the imposition of export duties. And your memorialists will ever pray, &c."

THE BANK OF BOMBAY.

Mr. George Gregory, M.P. for East Sussex, has given notice of his intention to bring before the House of Commons the circumstances attending the failure of the old Bank of Bombay, and, in anticipation of this motion, the committee of shareholders have issued a statement of their case for the use of members of Parliament. It contains a recapitulation of all the facts that led up to the disaster, as brought out in the evidence taken before the commission of inquiry, and cites the various grounds on which the shareholders claim compensation from the Indian Government. Among the points named as proving the liability of the Government are its laches in passing the Act of 1863; its neglect in not having used its power to enforce an audit of the accounts; the permission it gave the directors to advance on promissory notes, whereby the shareholders sustained a loss of £801,073; the loss of £247,369 by the failure of Premchund; the illegal opening of a branch bank in Bombay; the last point being the Government's "general blindness to the signs of the times," its "acceptance of false returns and statements," and generally its "indifference, neglect, and supineness." The case admits that the shareholders have no legal remedy, but concludes by saying that they throw themselves on the intelligent, liberal consideration of Parliament, and its sense of fair dealing and justice.

Colonial Bishops.—The Right Rev. Dr. Alford, who recently resigned the Bishopric of Victoria, Hong Kong, has become curate of Bowden, Cheshire. The Right Rev. Dr. Staley, late Bishop of Honolulu, has become curate of Croxall, near Tamworth. Some of the retired colonial bishops have been more fortunate. The Right Rev. Dr. Jenner did not give up the living of Preston, in Kent, while he was Bishop of Dunedin, and still holds it. The Right Rev. Dr. Beckles, on retiring from the Bishopric of Sierra Leone, became minister of Berkeley Chapel, Mayfair, and some time since was presented to the rectory of Wootton, near Canterbury. The Right Rev. Dr. Chapman, on retiring from the Bishopric of Colombo, became rector of Wootton Courtenay, Somerset, a Fellow of Eton College, and a Prebendary of Wells Cathedral. The Right Rev. Dr. M'Dougall, on retiring from the Bishopric of Labuan, became vicar of Godmanchester and Archdeacon of Huntingdon. The Right Rev. Dr. Claughton, on retiring from the Bishopric of Colombo, became Archdeacon of London and a Canon of St. Paul's. The Right Rev. Dr. Ryan, on retiring from the Bishopric of the Mauritius, became an Archdeacon in the diocese of Norwich, then rector of St. Nicholas, Guildford, and then vicar of Bradford. The Right Rev. Dr. Abraham, on resigning the Bishopric of Wellington, New Zealand, became Coadjutor Bishop of Lichfield (with Dr. Selwyn, formerly Bishop of New Zealand); and the Right Rev. Dr. Hobhouse, formerly Bishop of Nelson, New Zealand, is also an assistant to Bishop Selwyn, and has the living of Edlaston, Derbyshire, to which Bishop Selwyn presented him in 1869. The Right Rev. Dr. Trower, formerly Bishop of Gibraltar, is sub-dean of Exeter Cathedral. The Right Rev. Dr. Henry Cotterell, formerly Bishop of Grahamstown, has become Coadjutor Bishop of Edinburgh. The Right Rev. Dr. Anderson, on retiring from the Bishopric of Rupert's Land, became assistant to Dr. Tait, Bishop of London, and was appointed to the Vicarage of Clifton; all these gentlemen retain their appointments. The Rev. Dr. Nixon, on retiring from the Bishopric of Tasmania, was presented to the Vicarage of Bolton Percy, a rich Yorkshire living, but was obliged to resign it on account of enfeebled health.

Narrow Escape of the Indian Mail.—The Indian Mail, which left London on the 29th ult., was very near meeting with a serious accident. While being whirled along by a special train in the direction of Modane, there was suddenly heard a rushing sound, like the sweep of a tempest through the trees, and then a thundering crash that made the ground tremble. It was an immense pile of rock which overhung a precipice, along the base of which the railway runs between St. Michele and Modane, that had given way, and, plunging down the side of the mountain, fell upon the road, destroying a bridge and blocking up the entire way with great masses of stone. Assistance was telegraphed for to Modane, and, after a short time, an engine with carriages and a number of men arrived from that town at the scene of the event. The officer in charge of the Indian Mail, to avoid a delay of it, at least, a day till the road was cleared, gave orders to have the mail, consisting of 106 bags, carried on men's shoulders over the piles of broken rock and placed in the van attached to the engine from Modane. This in the thick darkness of the night proved an arduous and difficult task, requiring the most active vigilance on the part of the officer in charge. At length the work was accomplished and the engine, with a van containing the Indian Mail, started in the direction of Mont Cenis. At Modane the officer carefully inspected the Indian Mail to see that it had not suffered in transmission from one train to the other, and the result being satisfactory, started with his charge by special train for Brindisi.

A Colonial View of our Colonial Policy.—Mr. Joseph Howe, a Cabinet Minister in Canada, has delivered a "strong" lecture to the Young Men's Christian Association of Ottawa on the conduct of the mother country. He declared that the Dominion, with only four millions of people in it, had to govern half a continent and face a people of forty millions; that it could not tolerate a laggard or a coward; that in any war with the Union it would be five times as completely overborne as France was by Germany; that a new policy had been developed at home, and Great Britain was to retain her troops and surround herself with ironclads, and the Britons across the Atlantic were to be abandoned. On the eve of most serious negotiations Canada had been stripped of every soldier, and the thirty millions were "to hoard their rascal counters in two small islands," and let the Empire go. Mr. Howe is not the most trustworthy of politicians, but he always tells his audiences what they like to hear, and his speech is useful as showing what is thought in the Colonies of our centripetal policy. It is considered, as our foreign policy is considered on the Continent,—purely selfish.

The West Indian Coolie Traffic.—In the House of Commons this evening Mr. Tom Hughes will ask the Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs if the Government have received notice of an order lately issued by General Ferrer, in the absence of Captain-General Valmaseda, in the Island of Cuba, prohibiting Chinese from passing from one place to another, and from leaving the island; whether it is true that the British Consul, in conjunction with the Consuls of France, Italy, Holland, Belgium, and Denmark, have protested against this and previous orders, as practically reducing the Chinese to a state of slavery; and if he will lay any communications the Government may have received on this subject upon the table of the House.

The American Secretary of the Treasury has received from the Japanese Government a box containing a set of specimens of new Japanese coin, to be forwarded to the United States Mint. They are of gold and silver, similar in weight and size to the American $20 gold piece and $1 silver piece, together with gold and silver coins of lesser denominations.

The "Widow and Orphan Chamber" of Padang notify that all persons owing any debts to, or having any claim on the estate of the late Rev. Nathaniel Moore Ward, who died intestate at Padang, on Dec. 23 last, are to make payment of those debts or send their claims to the Chamber or their agent at Rotterdam, Mr. A. van Hoboken.

Some friends of the late Sir James Brooke, Rajah of Sarawak, have promised £25 towards a window in his memory in Sheepstor Church Devonshire, and further subscriptions are invited to complete the work the cost of which will be about £100.

The executors of the late Mr. William Hogarth, merchant, of Aberdeen, are advertising for the present whereabouts of Mr. George Hogarth, his son, formerly of Shanghai, who is entitled to a legacy under the will of the first named.

Prince Surawongse, of Siam, has been attached to the 22nd regiment of foot for instruction. After rendering himself thoroughly competent as a field-officer, he will return to Siam, and take over the duties of Commander-in-Chief of the royal army.

The Army and Navy Gazette says that the Ceylon Government talks of proposing the disbandment of the Ceylon Rifle Regiment, at a saving to the island of £50,000 per annum.

Lieut. J. H. Sandwith, Royal Marine Light Infantry, has been appointed Adjutant of the Battalion on service in Japan, vice Capt. A. Hill, promoted.

The first tea ship which has entered the port of Philadelphia direct from China for thirty years arrived there on the 26th ult., with a cargo of 14,000 packages.

The Erl King and Enterprise, now on the passage to China, have been sold, the former to Liverpool owners and the latter to a Hamburg Company.

HAMBURG, April 3.

The new steamer Atalanta, 1,700 tons, Captain Rieck, belonging to the German Steam Company recently formed here, is advertised to leave this port on the 11th of May, via the Suez Canal, for Singapore, Hong Kong, and Shanghai, and takes out cargo at the following rates of freight:—To Singapore, 50s.; to Hong Kong, 55s.; and to Shanghai, 60s.—all per ton measurement of 40 cubic feet, with 10 per cent. primage. The company have greatly increased their capital by the issue of new shares, and ordered several new steamers in Scotland, with the intention of running them eventually, on certain fixed days, to the Far East; and this is the pioneer of the company. At the late general meeting of the shareholders the chairman announced that all the steamers of the company were to be named after the little planets revolving between the orbits of Mars and Jupiter. As more than a hundred of these planetary asteroids have been discovered and named, there is a large field for the extension of the company's future fleet of steamers.

In addition to the German Consul-General at Yokohama, there has hitherto been also an unpaid Mercantile Consul, subordinate to him. The latter having resigned the appointment, as the fulfilment of its official duties obliged him to neglect his own private interests, and as none of the other German merchants there were found willing to undertake the office, it became necessary to send out a temporary salaried agent, who has now become a fixture, with a salary of $4,000 (of which $2,800 are for local expenses), which sum now figures in the Budget for Consulates in 1872. The same course of proceeding had to be pursued with the German Consulate at Singapore.

The Hamburg Waaren-Credit-Anstalt have taken into their management the execution of a project which, if successful, may cause a great alteration in the mode of doing business in this city. It is to sell cargoes of produce on their arrival by means of public auction. At their suggestion, and in furtherance of this scheme, they have induced some importers to make the experiment, and the first public sale is advertised to be held in the Exchange Rooms on the 9th inst., when 594 serons of guatemala and 176 ditto of Caracas indigo will be offered to public competition. For some time past there have been periodical (monthly) public sales of mahogany, rosewood, walnut, and other descriptions of woods for furniture, which have proved a decided success; and it is to be hoped, in the facilitation of commerce, that the system may be extended with similar good effect to other articles of produce. I may add that I notice in the advertising columns of the local papers other announcements of public sales, such as "Teas per Falke from Shanghai," "Cinnamon from Colombo direct," and others, but whether they are under the patronage of the above useful institution or not I am unable to say.

One of your daily contemporaries having last week warmed up as a piece of news the proposed plan of a universal reduced postage, of which I gave your readers some particulars more than a month ago, I think it right to state that nothing more has been done in the case, and that the chances are much against its execution. Since the date of my letter above referred to the German Postmaster-General has been to Paris, and succeeded in concluding a treaty with France placing the rates of postage nearly as they were before the war; and in the dreadful state of impecuniosity in which the French finances are at present involved it is not likely that the rulers in that country should be willing to consent to what is, after all, only an experiment, and, I may add, one that will probably prove to be a rather expensive one, especially for the first few years. One of the semi-official Berlin papers, in noticing the article alluded to, states that in the preliminary conversations opened at Berlin the English Government was evidently indisposed to give its consent to any further reduction of postage.

The coining of the new twenty-mark gold pieces is going on as rapidly as possible, and at the end of March had reached the sum of sixty millions of new marks; but as this is scarcely one tenth of the amount required for the currency of the country, many more months will obviously pass before the present heavy silver dollars can be called in and put out of circulation, to be replaced by the new gold coinage.

We learn from Bremen that the Burgerschaft of that city have had the courage to vote two millions and a half of dollars for the construction of a third floating dock at Bremerhaven. It certainly required some moral courage to vote such a large sum when their State debt already amounts to thirteen millions, and five millions more have recently been voted for a new railway station and other local improvements, so that their whole indebtedness is swelled to more that twenty millions—rather a large sum for a state containing 80,000 inhabitants.

Now that joint-stock banks are established in almost every town with a population of 5,000 or 6,000 souls, and even less, the mania has turned to the formation of building societies, and it cannot be denied that a great scope is offered for their utility.

Herr Theodor Christopher Heuck, hitherto honorary North-German Consul at Honolulu, is appointed Consul at that port for the Empire of Germany.

COMMERCIAL.

The Easter holidays have interfered with the regular course of business, and most articles have been quiet, though prices are not appreciably lower. The only transactions worth recording are 1,000 centners of Spelter, special marks, at 15½ marks banco; 15,000 bags of Necransie rice, per Lady Balleau, for delivery on arrival, at secret prices; 1,000 chests Cassia Lignea, ex Bertha, from Hong Kong, at 10½ schillings banco; and 300 chests of Star Annis, which went rather in favour of buyers. Within the last few days a speculative demand has set in for pepper, and a good many parcels have been taken at higher prices, 7½ schillings banco being paid for Singapore, and 6¾ to 6⅞ for Penang.

ROTTERDAM, April 3.

We have had a magnificent and enthusiastic national festival, in commemoration of the foundation of our liberty 300 years ago, when the Watergeuzen delivered the town of Brielle from the power of the hated Spaniards, who had oppressed us for eighty years. The festival was universally observed throughout the country, except in Lemburg and North Brabant, where the Catholics are in the majority. The orange colours of our Royal House were worn everywhere. Despite the vehement antagonism of the Catholic papers, the whole country (except the two provinces I have named), adorned itself with the beloved hue. Orange liquors, orange cakes, orange chocolate, orange caps, orange trousers, orange hats, men and women dressed from head to foot in orange; not only was every person decorated with orange, but horses and dogs, cattle and cats, all were made to wear in some shape or form the national colours. It is asserted that never in one day have so many carrots been eaten as on the 1st of April, because the population desired to develop inwardly as well as outwardly as much orange colour as was possible. Every house was of course illuminated in the evening of that memorable day; and so much tallow was burned in commemoration of the historical event, that the price of that article went up enormously—at least one of our witty papers came to this conclusion, notwithstanding that the commercial reports give other reasons for the advance. Everywhere the greatest enthusiasm prevailed; there was not one town or even village in the whole country, excepting the Catholic provinces, where arrangements were not made—of course more or less extensive—for the festival. In Amsterdam and in this town splendid processions were organised, and I am glad to state that they were highly successful. The weather in the morning was somewhat rainy, but for the other part of the day "Heaven was with us." Of course it is impossible to give you a complete description of these historical processions; I should occupy too much space, and even then I could give but an imperfect idea of the perfectness of the numbers who marched through our streets in the midst of an enthusiastic crowd, with the greatest order, and without the assistance of a single policeman or soldier being required. Nowhere have disorders taken place, except in those communities where the Ultramontanes—who still regard the overmastering of Brielle as a defeat of their party, and of their religion—hindered and opposed the demonstrations of the Liberals.

The extent of the preparations which were made for this national rejoicing, and the enthusiasm which was displayed on the occasion, confirm my former statement that if the Catholics, or rather the Ultramontanes, had not protested so vigorously against the festival the nation would not have subscribed so large an amount for the erection of an asylum for old seamen, and of a monument at Brielle, of which the King, amidst the cheers of an enthusiastic crowd, laid the foundation stone. The 1st of April has indeed become a memorable day for the whole population of Holland. It is a fact worth notice that whilst our Flemish brethren took part with us, the Belgian Ministry protested against our festival by refusing to give leave to the band of the Guides of Brussels to proceed to Rotterdam, to play our National Hymns.

I think it is quite superfluous to state that politics have come to a standstill. The public has for the present ceased to care for them, and but very little notice has been taken of the fact, published by our official paper, that according to the latest advices from the West Coast of Africa the transfer of our Settlements to England will be unattended by any difficulties. The same paper has stated that our diplomatic relations with Venezuela have been restored, and that Mr. Lucio Pulido has been acknowledged by our King as the Minister Plenipotentiary of that country.

Mr. Motley, the famous author of the "Rise of the Dutch Republic," has received a great many ovations from the public, and has received an honorary degree from the University of Leyden.

The Noach III. has been chartered as a troopship to convey a military detachment to Java.

In financial circles rumours are current that the dividend of the Commanditaire Bankvereeming will be 10 per cent.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

On account of the Easter holidays and the national festival there has been but little stirring in our Produce market, and no changes of note have occurred in any of the leading articles.

COPPER exhibits a firm but quiet appearance. Holders are not inclined to sell, unless at some advance upon the prices of the late public sale, which checks the demand, and purchases are consequently confined to the most pressing wants. No sales are reported from first hands. Total stock in Holland 745,100 bags, floating 91,000 bags.

TEA.—Part of the portion bought in of the cargo ex Canton, offered for sale last week, has been disposed of by private contract, in all 794/4 and 856/12 chests. Stock 3,300/4 chests.

SUGAR.—No change to be noticed in the market. Both holders and buyers keep on the reserve.

JAVA TOBACCO.—Sales have been closed by secret tender at Amsterdam of the undermentioned parcels—590 bales J.S., 218 bales B., 541 bales P., 480 bales O., 365 bales H., 500 bales Tripa Kawi, 225 bales D/Kawi, 70 bales B.D., 80 bales H. and A. Blitar, 370 bales T.G., 68 bales K.K. Stock 2,037 bales Java, 317 bales Sumatra.

SPICES.—In the absence of any recent sales of note, either of Nutmegs, Mace, or Cloves, quotations of these articles are nominally maintained. Stock on warrants in the Trading Company's stores: Nutmegs, 2,280 casks; Mace, 270 casks; Cloves, 2,510 casks.

RICE remains neglected, and prices are barely supported.

RATTANS.—Sales have been closed at steady prices of 100 piculs, ex Chloris, 188 piculs, ex County of Lancaster.

TIN.—Banca keeps firm, and has sold as follows, viz., usual prompt at f.93; for delivery, ex the coming spring sale, at f.93¼ to f.93½; and for delivery, ex the autumn sale of 1872, at f.86½ to f.87. Billiton has changed hands afloat at f.91. Stock on warrants of the Trading Company:—Banca, 12,200 slabs. Unsold stock:—Banca, 58,437 slabs; floating to Holland, 13,750 slabs.

PASSENGERS OUTWARD.—For Java, per Hebe. Messrs. B. L. W. Eybach and family; L. van der Haar; P. Cock van Leeuwen.

PASSENGERS INWARD.—From Java, per Jacob van Lennep, Mrs. erest and family; Messrs. Schreiner and van der Water.

UNITED STATES.

A New York commercial newspaper says that the Secretary of the Treasury has, after careful consideration, allowed a drawback of three cents a pound upon refined crystalline sugar, the product of imported sugars, when exported. This will not only stimulate the product of our sugar refineries, and the importation of sugars to supply them, but it will furnish freights for export. Formerly a large and profitable business was done in sending refined sugar to South America and other ports. This branch of trade has been cut off, because sufficient drawback was not allowed. It will probably revive under the new and liberal allowance.

The Tariff Bill, which was recently amended by the Senate, in such a form as to rescind the duties upon tea and coffee, has been thrown out by the House of Representatives.

REFUSAL OF THE PACIFIC MAIL SUBSIDY.

On the 13th ult. the House of Representatives went into committee on the Post-office Appropriation Bill, the pending question being the amendment increasing the subsidy to the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, for its China line, from $500 000 to $1,000,000 a-year, and making the service fortnightly in-tead of monthly. Mr. Farnsworth brought forward an amendment reducing the subsidy to $500,000, provided that the Pacific Mail Steamship Company shall perform the service semi-monthly, and may perform it in ships of foreign construction. He desired to test the sense of the House as to whether it was not better to let this company purchase its steamers abroad than to pay $500,000 out of the Treasury for the sentimental privilege of seeing the United States flag flying on the Pacific Ocean. He held that this increased subsidy was on the principle of robbing Peter to pay Paul—paying subsidies with one hand, and keeping up protection with the other.—Mr. Morgan also opposed the increased subsidy, and referred to a statement made to him by Mr. Collins, when he got his first subsidy of $300,000, that it had cost him more than that to get it. He would not charge corrupt practices on members, but they all knew that the lobbies were packed with plunderers. This scheme was not republican, it was not democratic; but would not the country believe it was a scheme of plunder devoid of shame? He denounced it as a conspiracy against the Treasury and against the people.—Mr. Brooks, of New York, replied to Mr. Morgan, and reminded him of the great men of both parties who had voted for the Collins' subsidy. He asked him whether he dared to insinuate corrupt motives against Clay and Webster and Crittenden.—Mr. Morgan replied: I dare do anything that is right. I dare to say that this scheme is a scheme of plunder—that it taints the atmosphere. The gentleman may make the most of my remarks.—Mr. Brooks, with a display of great feeling, said: I will go down to posterity with Clay and Webster and Crittenden for that appropriation to support the flag of our country on the ocean. I have before me the record of the distinguished men of both the Whig and the Democratic party who supported that appropriation from 1848 to 1855. This is no new question; it has been agitated twenty years ago. The Collins' line was unfortunate, but its misfortune was due, not to the want of support on the part of the people, but to the bad management of the company, and to the subsequent extraordinary efforts of Great Britain in subsidising the Cunard line.—Eventually the matter was adjourned for a week without any decision being arrived at.

The debate was accordingly renewed on the 20th ult. There was again a great display of feeling, and the speeches were of a similar character to those delivered at the previous sitting. A division was first taken upon Mr. Farnsworth's amendment, which, as above stated, would permit of the Pacific Mail Company's service being performed in foreign-built steamers. The amendment was rejected by 95 against 65 votes. The votes were then taken—amid great excitement—upon the original question of increasing the company's subsidy to $1,000,000, which was ultimately rejected by a majority of five, the numbers being—87 ayes and 92 n ves.

In commenting upon the action of the Committee, the New York Shipping and Commercial List says:—As this measure has been regarded as a sort of test subsidy question, the defeat of other Bills of a similar character would seem to be assured. Although we are opposed on principle to subsidies, we believe that, in the case of the China line, the Government might with propriety have extended to the line the aid sought. Here is a line already in operation in a field in which, as yet, we have no competitors, which has done much to create commerce in a new field, and to sustain which, it is claimed, the fostering care of Government is absolutely essential to make it as efficient as it ought to be. Take Great Britain and France as an example. The former has paid, and, we believe, still pays, the Peninsular and Oriental Company a subsidy large enough to afford a virtual guarantee of six per cent. dividends annually, equivalent to twelve per cent. in the United States, considering the difference in the rates of interest there and here. The French Government has been even more generous. To create a commerce which did not exist, the Government loaned the Messageries Imperiales Company the entire cost of fitting out the monthly line to India and China for twelve years without interest, virtually making a free gift of the fleet. When it seemed desirable to have a fortnightly instead of a monthly service, the Government, in addition to heavy advances on similar terms for construction, guaranteed dividends of five per cent. on the entire capital after deducting insurance and depreciation. These are illustrations of a policy to which these nations owe in great part whatever commercial triumphs they have won in the East. In the light of such examples as these, it would seem that the Government might well have departed, in this instance, from its apparently settled policy to ignore ocean steamship subsidies.

NEW YORK MARKET REPORT.—MARCH 23.

TEA.

The following is from Messrs. Beebe's report:—Transactions in Tea have been very much restricted by the unsettled question of duty. Sales reported from first hands include 11,000 half-chests Green, 9,000 half-chests Japan, 3,600 half-chests Oolong, and 1,200 half-chests Souchong. These have been effected at prices showing no material change in values, though at somewhat irregular figures. We revise quotations, remarking, however, that at the moment there are few sellers at this scale of prices. The market closes without animation, the demand being limited to supplying immediate wants.

The following are the current quotations (in gold, duty 15c. paid):—Greens (Moyune, Teenki and Fychow, in chops): Gunpowder, first quality, 100c. to 110c.; second, 75c. to 82c.; Imperial, first, 80c. to 85c.; second, 67c. to 72c.; third, 50c. to 55c.; Young Hyson, first, 88c. to 95c.; second, 70c. to 80c.; third, 55c. to 60c.; Hyson, first, 80c. to 85c.; second, 65c. to 70c.; third, 48c. to 55c.; Hyson Skin, 33c. to 40c.; Foochow Oolongs, common and good, 40c. to 47c.; superior and fine, 50c. to 65c.; finest, 70c. to 100c.; Amoy Oolongs, common and good, 40c. to 51c.; superior and fine, 53c. to 63c.; finest, 67c. to 75c.; Souchong and Congou, common and good, 25c. to 36c.; superior and fine, 43c. to 55c.; finest, 60c. to 70c.; Japans, common, nominal; medium, 47c. to 49c.; good medium, 51c. to 54c.; fine and finest, 57c. to 70c.; choice, 75c. to 85c.

The total receipts of Tea from China and Japan at the port of New York from Jan. 1 to March 13, 1872, were as follows:—Greens, 6,957,124 lbs.; Japans, 2,993,083 lbs.; Souchongs, 2,180,834 lbs.; Oolongs, 4,880,676 lbs.; other sorts, 83,397 lbs.; total, 17,095,114 lbs. The stock on Jan. 1 was 19,708,564 lbs.; which, added to the above total, gives a result of 36,803,678 lbs. as the total supply. Subtracting from this total the exports from Jan. 1 to March 13, 1,424,578 lbs., and the withdrawals for home consumption during that period, 8,259,287 lbs., there remains a total of 27,119,813 lbs., representing the stock on the last-named date. The receipts from Feb. 12 to March 13 amounted to 7,426,611 lbs.; the withdrawals for home consumption to 2,281,803 lbs.; and the exports to 94,365 lbs.

SILK.

The following remarks are from Mr. O'Donoghue's Circular:—The market for Raw Silk has continued moderately active. The arrival on the 1st inst. of the delayed parcels gave a slight impetus to business, and all the most desirable lines were taken at full prices immediately upon their arrival. Re-reeled Hainin and Tsatlees of good qualities are in fair request; there is still a dearth of the medium grades. The demand for usual Reel Tsatlee and Taysaam of best grades continues good; the prices realised, however, are not satisfactory. In Re-reeled Cantons a good business has been done, and some large lines of No. 1 Cumchook have been sold to arrive. Extra fine grades are still extremely scarce, and sales have been made at an advance of 50 cents per lb. on last quotations. In Japan Silks our market is almost bare of stock, and we have nothing upon which to base quotations.

Prices current for China and Japan Silks (currency prices, six months' terms):—Tsatlee, No. 1, $8.75; No. 2, $8 50; No. 3, $8.25; No. 4 to 5, none. Taysaam, No. 1, $7.75; No. 2, $7 to 7.25; No. 3, none. Canton, re-reeled, no stock. Mahang and Hongtang, none. Tsatlee: re-reeled, best, $8.50 to 8.62½; fair, $8.25 to 8 37½. Taysaam, re-reeled, fair, $7.50. Haineen, re-reeled, best, $8 75; fair, $8.25 to 8.50. Japans: no stock.

COFFEE.—The market for East India kinds is quiet at the following rates: Java (Government bags), 22c. to 23c.; Java (Grass mats), 23c. to 24c.; Singapore, 18c. to 19c.; Ceylon, 18c. to 20c.; Manila, 18c. to 19c. gold.

CAMPHOR.—China is quoted 17c. to 18c. gold (in bond).

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed is quoted $3; Cassia, $2.25 gold (duty paid).

FIRE CRACKERS are quiet, and the stock is held at $1.7½ to 1.10 gold in bond; 3,000 boxes have been sold on the spot, and 4,000 boxes to arrive on private terms.

GAMBIER.—The current quotation is 5c. gold; the market is firm.

HEMP.—Sales have been made privately of Manila to the extent of 2,870 bales on the spot, and 2,150 afloat, the prices paid being kept secret. In the open market there is little doing, the current quotations being 12¾c. to 13c. gold.

INDIGO.—Manila quiet, at 95c. to $1 05c. currency.

RICE.—The market is fairly active, and prices are showing an advancing tendency. Rangoon stands at $6.80 to 7.12½ currency on the spot, and $3 25 to 3 50 gold in bond.

SUGAR.—There are no transactions in East India descriptions to report.

SPICES.—The market is quiet, the invoices afloat being generally held above the prices now current. Cloves are firm at an advance, and rule at 16c. gold, duty paid, and 11c. in bond, with considerable business at these figures. Pepper is firm at previous rates. Cassia is dull. Mace is neglected. Nutmegs also are dull and weak, and prices are declining. The distributing demand has improved somewhat, though the market cannot be written active. Sales have been made to the trade of Mace at $1.25 for prime; Nutmegs, 95c. to 97½c.; Cassia, 29c. to 30c.; prime Batavia, 32c.; Cassia Vera, out of stock; Pepper, 17c. to 17½c. for Sumatra, and 18c. to 18½c. for Singapore; Cloves, 16c., all gold.

TIN.—Some excitement has been displayed, owing to a considerable speculative inquiry for Straits, and a large business has been done during the past fortnight at gradually advancing rates, commencing at 39½c. and rising to 40½c. gold, which is the closing quotation.

THE CONSULAR SERVICE.

THE Civil Service Estimates, which include the allowances for the Diplomatic and Consular Service in China, Japan, &c., have been issued for the forthcoming year, and were detailed in our last issue. The total amount estimated is some £6,000 less than last year, being £80,835, showing a further tendency on the part of our present Government to curtail that useful body—the Consular Staff. The paring down system, we suppose, will be suffered to go on until some fine day we shall find in the representatives of Great Britain a class of men similar to those who at one time represented the American flag. There is another danger which threatens, consequent upon this dreadful spirit of economy. It seems that, with a view of carrying out these ideas, the suggestions of one of the Consular Staff to effect a saving have been listened to and acted upon by the Foreign-office. The case alluded to is this. The late Consul at Kiukiang, Mr. PATRICK HUGHES, finding that the trade of the place had decreased very considerably, made an offer to the Foreign-office that he would undertake the entire charge of all the Yangtsze ports, residing himself at Hankow, and making occasional visits to Kiukiang and Chinkiang, for a "lump sum." This proposal seems to have been jumped at by the Foreign-office, and the Consul's salary at Hankow reduced from £1,300 to £1,000. The port of Kiukiang being fixed with a Vice-Consul at £750, and for Chinkiang there is no provision at all beyond an item of £50 for a writer, although it will be seen by our Shanghai news in another column that the trade has vastly increased. But this is by no means the whole of the injury inflicted on the Consular Staff by this arrangement. There are five senior Consuls to Mr. HUGHES, receiving £800 to £900, who were justly entitled to be promoted to the Hankow Consulate before him, and what Mr. HUGHES has done to entitle him to be thus put over their heads we are not aware, unless especial merit is due to him for finding out this brilliant idea of feathering his own nest to the detriment of his brother Consuls. The service at one time could boast of an esprit de corps, but those days are, we suppose, now past.

The action of the Foreign-office must, we think, have been guided by the representations of our Minister at Peking. It is of course no secret that Mr. WADE obtained his own appointment in consequence of his economical and peace-at-any-price views, exactly suiting the parsimonious and miserable ideas of our present Government. But Mr. WADE should certainly have protected these senior Consuls from such a gross injustice, more especially as the appointment of Mr. HUGHES drives Mr. CAINE from Hankow—where he has been for over three years—back to Swatow, on a salary of £800. Taking this latter feature into account it is the most outrageous piece of injustice ever perpetrated. That Mr. CAINE has a large family to support adds very much to the hardship of the case, but of course the Foreign-office cannot be expected to be mindful of these private affairs; but a generous chief would have taken care that this circumstance was represented. So much for the reductions on the Yangtsze. The next reduction is that of Chefoo, to which Mr. LAY has lately been gazetted, in succession to Mr. MARKHAM, deceased. But Mr. LAY is informed that the Lords of the Treasury have reduced the pay of this Consulate from £900 to £800. Here is a gentleman who has been in the service for some twenty years—and who, moreover, distinguished himself, while Acting Consul at Tientsin, during the time of the dreadful missionary murders—who finds, when "promoted," that this is the manner of promotion adopted. Again, the post of Chinese Secretary at Peking has been conferred on Mr. MAYERS, a very proper tribute to this gentleman's well-known and acknowledged ability as a Chinese scholar; but the salary of the office has been reduced from £1,000 to £800!—equal only to the pay of the smallest consular port. Certainly a scholar like Mr. MAYERS deserved more consideration than this. With such treatment, what other feelings can prevail in the service than those of disgust, coupled with a decision to do as little as possible in return. The salary of £1,600 at Canton, which is out of all proportion to other ports, will of course be cut down when vacated by Mr. ROBERTSON, the Senior Consul.

We cannot understand why the Consul at Yokohama—or Kanagawa, as our officials persist in calling it—should be paid £700, or £100 less than any other port in Japan. We are aware that the Consul there is relieved of the judicial duties of the port, as there is at Yokohama a deputy judge, an officer connected with the Supreme Court of China and Japan. Mr. HANNEN now holds that appointment, which does not, by the way, appear in the Foreign-office List for the present year. We have been compelled to content ourselves by noticing the most glaring pieces of injustice, but other posts could be noticed, such as the Secretaries of Legation at Peking and Yedo, which should be at least £1,000 per annum.

THE SINGAPORE RAILWAY.

THE SECRETARY of STATE for the COLONIES is now in possession of the views of the community at Singapore in reference to the proposed railway to be constructed by Government. These views, contained in a series of resolutions proposed and carried at a meeting held at the Town Hall, have been transmitted to Lord KIMBERLEY. What will he do with them? We cannot but believe that his Lordship will be astounded at the formidable array of public opinion exhibited in the resolutions passed at the meeting. The meeting was one of the most effectual and best conducted ever held in the Far East. It is not to be surprised at that his Lordship saw no prospect of the rival interests ever being conciliated; we have seen them over and over again upset, when just on the point of signing, sealing, and delivering. But does this justify the Home Government in ordering the appropriation of the local revenue for the purpose of constructing the line, while such works of vital importance as the waterworks remain uncompleted? Unquestionably this vital necessity for the health and comfort of the entire population should have priority. Building railways out of the surplus revenue of a colony is an unprecedented and incomprehensible transaction. If the finances of the place are so flourishing, some of the imposts which bear heavily on the tax-payers—and probably on the proper development of trade—should be abolished. Such an enterprise as a colonial railway should have its own special manner of yielding a return on the capital laid out in its construction. We understand that the STRAITS ASSOCIATION do not intend holding any meeting on the matter, but in some shape we shall no doubt ascertain the course intended to be adopted by Lord KIMBERLEY previous to the departure of next mail. A letter on this subject from Mr. GILFILLAN will be found in another column.

THE CEYLON HARBOURS.

WE are glad to observe that the new Governor of Ceylon received a cordial and unanimous welcome from the whole population of the colony, non-official as well as official, immediately on his arrival amongst them. Among the first manifestations of this feeling was the address of the Chamber of Commerce, to which Mr. GREGORY replied in feeling and earnest terms, in which those who have watched his Excellency's career at home will see the sure indications of an independent, liberal, and progressive policy. With great good taste the Chamber did not encumber their first address of congratulation and welcome with any subject of local importance other than the one which must be uppermost in the minds of all—the improvement of the harbour accommodation of the island. Other reforms and improvements will no doubt be suggested in due time, and receive the attention which the new Governor has promised to give to this crying want. We cannot but regret, however, that on this occasion the recommendation of the Chamber assumed so one-sided an appearance in urging the construction of the new works at Colombo, without even referring to the claims and advantages of Galle. To take a new Governor—if not by surprise, at least by anticipation—in an act which may prove the most important under his term of office, is, to say the least, undignified. For our own part, we remain of the opinion we have always maintained, that Galle is essentially the mail port of Ceylon. The shallow roadstead of Colombo can never be made to accommodate vessels of the burden that can ride safely at Galle, if the projected improvements are made there. The importance of the Paumben Channel, too, as a communication between Ceylon and India—intimately bearing on the present question—was unaccountably left out of the Ceylon Chamber's first "platform." This seems rather uncandid, but we have no doubt that Mr. GREGORY will not decide in haste against the claims of Galle, which have long been apparent to the most experienced residents in Ceylon, to be the mail port, par excellence, of the island.

OUR New York Correspondent informs us that considerable excitement was caused in the House of Representatives during the debate on the Bill for an increased subsidy to the Pacific Mail Steam Company to run a fortnightly line between San Francisco, Japan and China. After a sharp struggle the Bill was lost by a majority of five votes. It is rather singular that while we record this we have at the same time to record the establishment of a British Steam Company to run from a Pacific port to Japan and China.

THE members of the Japanese Mission keep moving. We hear that they visited Philadelphia, and made a tour through the iron, coal, and petroleum districts. We understand that Messrs. BOWLES and Co., American bankers, have been appointed financial agents in London, and have ordered to be prepared for them a map of London, marked in Japanese.

FOLLOWING the rules laid down for both home and foreign appointments under the Foreign-office, we understand that an examination for three Student Interpreters for China will take place on May 28. The Parliamentary Committee of Inquiry on the Diplomatic and Consular Service resume their duties on the 11th inst.

Monetary and Commercial.

A new Steam Company has been registered, styled the "Trans-Pacific Steam Navigation Company," for the purpose of running a line of steamers between the ports of China and Japan, and to a port on the Pacific connecting with the American system of railways. The capital is fixed at £750,000, a large portion of which has been subscribed by the directors and their friends. The directors are influential and practical men in steamboat enterprise, and consist of E. H. Green, banker, London; Gilson Homan, merchant, Bradford; W. J. Alt, London, and late of Japan; William Nicol, shipowner, Liverpool; William Malcolm, ironmaster, Wilts; and W. Wetmore Cryder, merchant, London. The managers of the company are to be Malcolm, Hudson, and Co., London, and Hudson, Malcolm, and Co., Japan, with power to appoint sub-agents.

The Montevidean and Brazilian Telegraph Company has been brought forward, with a capital of £135,000, in shares of £10 each 11,800 of which are offered for subscription. The company proposes to connect Monte Video, and the system of telegraphs at present terminating there, with the Brazilian frontier, by a submarine cable and by land lines communicating with the principal towns of Uruguay. The concessions are for the periods of fifty and forty years respectively; and, by the completion of this link in the chain of communication, Valparaiso and Santiago in Chili, Buenos Ayres, and the other important cities in the Argentine Republic, and Monte Video, will be brought into closer correspondence with Europe, the East, and the United States by five days. The price to be paid for these concessions is £7,000 in cash, and £17,000 in fully paid-up shares, of which £12,000 (being the ordinary share capital of the company) will receive no dividend until 10 per cent. is paid on the rest of the capital. The contract for carrying out these lines has been made with Messrs. Reid Brothers, who will erect the land lines while the cable is being manufactured and will be laid by Mr. W. T. Henley, of North Woolwich. The cable will be despatched from England by the first week in June, and communication between Monte Video and Brazil will, it is expected, be established by the end of July. The prospectus in full appears in our advertising columns.

The directors of the British Indian Extension Telegraph Company (Limited) have issued their report preparatory to the meeting to be held on the 17th April. It states that the gross revenue has amounted to £61,065, and the expenses to £12,827, showing a balance of £48,237, which, after the deduction of income-tax and interest on debentures, leaves a net profit of £45,418. The directors have already paid two interim dividends, equivalent to 6 per cent. per annum, and they now declare a further dividend of 2 per cent., making a total of 8 per cent. for the year, carrying forward £4,218 to reserve. The debenture debt of the company, which at the commencement of the year amounted to £24,000, on account of the change of terminus from Galle to Madras, and the purchase of the maintenance ship Agnes, was reduced prior to the end of the year to £16,500; a further reduction of £8,000 has since been made by the employment of £4,400 from the earnings of the year, and £3 600 from the surplus capital, leaving a sum of £8,500 to be paid off hereafter.

The traffic for the month of March on the Great Northern Telegraph Company's amalgamated lines has been as follows:—On the European lines, 34,294 telegrams, with revenue 99,884 francs; on the China and Japan lines, 2,832 telegrams, with revenue 99,000 francs. In March, 1871, the traffic receipts were larger but the Continental holidays before Easter did not occur during that month, as was the case this year.

The fourteenth annual general meeting of the Chartered Mercantile Bank of India, London, and China will be held on the 16th inst. A dividend of four per cent. for the half-year ended 30th December, 1871, will be payable to the shareholders on the 13th inst.

The report and accounts of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation will be found in the advertisment pages of our present issue.

Considerable discrepancies prevail as to the export of Shirtings to Shanghai for March. They are variously stated at from 30,000,000 to 40,000,000 yards, but we believe the latter figures will be found nearer the truth.

The market for Bar Silver is quiet at 5s. 0¾d. to 5s. 0⅞d. There is a good inquiry for Mexican Dollars for China, and the current rates are 5s. for the new, and 5s. 1¼d. for the old coinage.

The Mexican Government have notified that the export duty of 8 per cent. on dollars will be taken off on the 1st July, and that the transmission of bar silver from Mexico after that date will be allowed free of duty. Hitherto the exportation of the former only has been permitted by the authorities. It is anticipated that the effect of the new regulation will be the shipment of large amounts of bullion to this country in the place of coin, and that the supply of the latter in this market will eventually become very small. With a continuance, therefore, of the demand for China, much higher prices will probably be quoted here for Mexican dollars.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

The market has again been quiet; the arrivals have been heavy, largely in excess of the deliveries, which compare unfavourably with last year, the decrease in quantity exported being considerable. Prices have, however, been fairly maintained, importers giving great support to the market, the quantity afloat being reduced to a small compass, whilst the total export from China and India for the season is likely to be below deliveries. The Export trade continues quiet, that to the Continent being still on a small scale; to Canada the few orders appear to be filled up. The deliveries do not compare so favourably as before; Imports for the first three months prove exceptionally large, being over 60,000,000 lbs.

SILK.

The market has continued quiet throughout the week. China Silk has remained fairly steady as regards prices, there being very little inquiry, and only a limited business for home wants. Japan Silk of recent arrival has met with some inquiry, and some fair business has been doing of late in desirable parcels of clean Mybash; other sorts, however, do not find favour with manufacturers. Deliveries of all but Bengals were fairly good last month, being—of China, 2,418; Canton, 974; Japan, 763; and Bengal, 285; total, 4,440 bales.

According to Messrs. Arles Dufour and Co., of Lyons, the silk markets of that city are dull, especially as regards low sorts, which are abundant. The impulse given by the opening of the spring season and the renewed apprehension of the duty on imported silk have, however, given some stimulus to business, and prevented any permanent reduction in quotations.

COFFEE.

There has been little disposition to operate, and but little business can be reported. Importers are unwilling to accept present prices, and therefore refrain from offering parcels for public sale; no business of importance has been transacted privately. At Thursday's sales (the first since the holidays) 146 casks 67 tierces 1 barrel 34 bags Plantation Ceylon sold—triage 65s. to 68s., small 73s. to 74s. 6d., low middling 75s. to 75s. 6d.; middling 76s. to 77s. 6d., good middling bold 79s. 6d. to 80s., peaberry 89s. 6d. to 91s. 6d.; 451 bags Native Ceylon black garblings sold—sound at 42s. to 43s.; 75 bags small greenish Singapore sold at 67s.

SUGAR.

Supplies of all kinds are small, and the stock is much reduced; the demand has been limited, and sales are, therefore, very scanty, prices being, however, firmly sustained. There has been a moderate inquiry for Manila, and sales have been made at firm rates, including about 350 tons unclayed Ilo Ilo at 24s. per cwt. Privately 300 bags fine Penang have been sold at 35s. 6d.

CAMPHOR.—The market for both China and Japan is very dull, and there is some pressure to sell at last quoted rates, viz., £4 5s. on the spot, £4 7s. 6d. afloat, which are hardly obtainable at the close. The stock is 5,118 packages, against 11,261 at corresponding date last year, the deliveries for the first twelve weeks of this year being 1,374 packages. Afloat, the quantity for London is at present very small.

CHINA GRASS.—There have been no transactions; sales are only practicable at lower rates than the current quotation, £55 per ton, which holders firmly resist.

CANTHARIDES.—No transactions in China.

CHINA ROOT.—Out of inquiry; 40 bags at public sale withdrawn at 25s.

CHINA PRESERVES.—At public sale 200 cases Ginger, per Chin Chin, were sold at 8d., one lot at 8¼d., 20 cases dry do. being bought in at 11d.

COCOA-NUT OIL.—There is little or nothing doing in this import; the nominal quotations are Ceylon, £37 to £37 10s.; Cochin, £42 to £44 per ton.

COIR GOODS.—No sales during the week.

COLOMBO ROOT.—In public sale 50 bags middling quality were retired at 40s.; ordinary quality has been sold at 23s. to 25s.; fine bold fresh root is scarce.

COPRA.—No Penang on offer.

CUBEBS.—Market dull; no business doing.

CUTCH.—The market has re-opened with a good demand, and an advance of 6d. per cwt. has been paid upon the prices current for last mail; on the spot about 100 tons fine Pegu have been sold at 27s. 6d.; afloat 50 tons fine Pegu were quitted at 27s. 6d.; and 27s. 3d. was offered and refused for a parcel of 200 tons; 1,000 boxes now landing have been sold at 27s. 6d.

DIVI DIVI.—About 1,000 bags have been sold by private contract at £16 10s. to £17 per ton.

DRAGON'S-BLOOD.—At auction 6 cases fine pure block have been sold at £11 to £14 per cwt., and very good at £8. These prices could not be obtained for large lots, but they prove that fine quality is scarce and much wanted. Average quality is dull, and the whole of 58 packages offered were bought in at £5 to £6 10s., according to quality.

EBONY.—Ceylon continues in request, but there is still little or no supply here, and high prices are obtainable.

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed continues very dull, but about 40 cases have been sold at 10s. 6d. Cassia is steady, but trade is restricted at last quotation, viz., 5s. 8d. Nutmeg: Steady, but stocks increasing; 5 cases sold at 7¼d. to 7⅜d. per oz. Cinnamon: Very scarce and wanted; of 6 cases at auction, 2 sold at 1s. for inferior, remainder at 2d. to 5d. for leaf. Citronelle: Improving; about 10 cases sold at auction at 2¼d., and about 50 cases privately at the same figure, and some afloat at 2½d. Lemon Grass: Firm, and in few hands; sales effected at 4½d. to 4¾d., and no more sellers at those quotations.

GAMBIER.—The market continues very quiet, and there have been no transactions since our last report; block is nominally quoted 22s. 6d. to 23s. per cwt.

GALLS.—China: The market shows some signs of recovery from the recent depression; there have been no public sales, but private business to small extent has been done within the past few days at prices slightly over the current rates of a fortnight since. Japan: No transactions.

GUMS.—Benjamin: Siam steady; large stock; of 17 cases at auction, half sold at £9 17s. 6d. to £10s. 2s. 6d. per cwt. for middling 2nds; Sumatra firm; and of 15 cases offered, half sold, 2nds middling at £7 15s. Copal steady but quiet. Damar quiet; of 150 cases Batavia at sale few only sold, middling at 58s. to 59s.; 81 cases Singapore sold at 44s. to 46s. 6d. for middling with dark pieces intermixed. Gamboge steady; fair private trade at full rates; 12 cases at sale bought in.

GUTTA-PERCHA.—Market firm, with large business privately at steady prices. At auction 480 baskets were offered and half sold, fine genuine at 3s.; fair mixed at 1s. 10d. to 2s.; reboiled common to middling white at 1s. 1⅝d. to 1s. 4d.

HEMP.—Manila is quiet, but there is no pressure to sell, and former prices are well supported; there have been no public sales, but private transactions to small extent are being entered into at £50 10s. for fully fair roping; £41 10s. to £42 5s. for brown; and £45 5s. for mixed quality.

HIDES AND HORNS.—No sales have been made since the 21st ult.

INDIA-RUBBER.—There is an absence of supply of Borneo and Singapore, which are in good request.

JAPAN WAX.—There have been large arrivals during the past fortnight, and importers are in consequence showing a desire to quit their stocks.

MUSK is in good demand at advanced rates, being scarce at public sale; 33 caddies were offered, of which two-thirds sold; fine selected well-shaped pods at 47s. to 48s. per oz.; middling 37s. to 39s. 6d.; rough and bally good 20s. 6d. to 21s.; middling wormy ditto 15s. to 17s.; very inferior 6s. 6d.; good grain 56s. per oz.

PEPPER.—There has been but little business doing, but the market shows an advancing tendency. Black: Small sales are reported of Penang at 6 15-16d., and of Singapore at 7¼d. per lb.; for forward delivery 2,000 bags Penang, April-May, have changed hands at 7d.; also 1,000 bags, May delivery, at 7 1-16d. For arrival 100 tons Penang, distant shipment, have been sold at 6¾d. White: Transactions to a limited extent have been effected in Singapore at advancing rates, closing at 12½d. per lb. For arrival 10 tons Singapore, April-May shipment, have been sold at 12⅝d., and 160 bags, March shipment, at 12¼d. for sound and first-class sea-damaged together.

PLUMBAGO.—The market continues steady at higher prices, especially for the better qualities; of 1,165 barrels offered in auction, two-thirds sold—lump, fine at 31s. 6d. to 32s. 6d., middling to very good 21s. to 28s. 6d., inferior and ordinary 17s. to 19s. 6d.; chips, good and fine, 18s. to 20s. 6d.; dust, ordinary to good, 6s. to 9s. per cwt.

RATTANS.—Prices have advanced, £25 per ton being paid for 20 tons in private sale, and 26,125 bundles offered in public sale, being quitted at full rates.

RHUBARB.—Prices have further improved during the fortnight, and should shipments cease for any length of period from China, prices would almost certainly advance for good quality sun dried root very considerably, this description being already somewhat scarce. In auction 142 cases have been sold. Very good, but small sun dried, at 2s. 9d. to 2s. 10d., 1 lot 3s. 2d. per lb.; fair to good, 2s. to 2s. 6d. good middling, 1s. 8d. to 1s. 11d.; middling, 1s. 1d. to 1s. 4d.; ordinary, 9d.; low and very ordinary, 3½d. to 4¼d.

RICE.—A steady tone prevails in the market, and business has been effected in floating cargoes of soft grain at firm prices. The floating cargo, per Peeress, 715 tons Rangoon arrived, has been sold at 9s. 9d. quay terms; also, one of about 1,000 tons Bassein of new crop, March-April shipment, at 10s. Continental terms; and one of about 1,200 tons new crop Bassein, April-May shipment, at 9s. 10½d., open charter. On the spot about 8,000 bags Bassein have been sold at 9s. 7½d.

SAGO.—Market dull; of 907 bags in sale, about half sold at 17s. to 17s. 6d. per cwt. for fair small. Flour steady, but quiet; 192 bags retired.

SAPAN WOOD.—Manila and Siam: Stocks small, and holders very firm; 80 tons Siam sold at auction at £12 to £12 10s. Ceylon is scarce, and offers would bring high prices.

STAR ANNISEEDS.—Very little business has been done; the last price paid was £6 5s. per cwt.

SHELLS.—No transactions.

SPICES.—Cinnamon: Business limited, without change in the range of prices. Cassia Lignea steady, but rather quiet; of 500 cases at auction bought in a few subsequently sold at 97s. 6d. for fair unworked. Buds quiet; 20 cases at auction retired. Cloves quiet, but prices steady. Nutmegs quiet and again cheaper; 19 cases in auction mostly sold—80's to 84's, 3s. 3d. to 3s. 1d.; 125's, 2s. 10d. 45 bags Penang in the shell sold at 2s. 6d. Mace cheaper and difficult to sell; of 39 packages Batavia in public sale about half sold at 3s. 6d. to 3s. 7d. per lb. for good reddish.

SOY.—No transactions have occurred. The Chin Chin has arrived with 300 casks China; nominal value 2s. 6d. per gallon.

STICKLAC.—In request at advancing prices; supply short.

TURMERIC.—Java unsaleable.

TAPIOCA.—Market quiet. At public sale 185 bags Pearl sold at 23s. 6d., and 34 bags bought in. Flour steady, but little doing; 278 bags sold at public sale at 1⅝d. to 1¾d. per lb. for fair and good, and 2¼d. for fine bright white.

TIN.—The demand continues unabated. The English smelters are compelled to advance their prices for English Common to £157 for Blocks, and £158 for Bars. In Holland the price of Banca is 94 guilders, and is not obtainable but in small quantities at this rate. The sale in Rotterdam for the 11th inst. is expected to realise a very high figure. The letters from the Straits confirm the reports forwarded by wire of the disturbances in the mining districts, and consequent diminution in the supplies. If the demand continues as great as it has been lately, prices must at least be maintained, and will probably still further advance. The price of Straits to-day is £151 on the spot; £151 to £152 afloat; Banca, £156.

JAPAN.

Kiusiu—Inland Sea.—Fixed Light on Isaki.—The Japanese Government has given notice that a light is now exhibited from a lighthouse recently erected on Isaki, south point of the western entrance of Simonoseki Strait. The light is a fixed light, showing red from E. by S. round by south and west to N.W. ¾ W., and white from the latter bearing to N. ½ E.; it is elevated 122 feet, and in clear weather should be seen from a distance of 17 miles. The tower, of granite, is 31 feet high, and is situated on the north-east extreme of the point. Position, lat. 33 deg. 58 min. N., long. 131 deg. 1 min. E. The junction of the red and white lights bearing N.W. ¾ W. clear the shoals off Motovama. [All bearings are magnetic. Variation 4 deg. westerly in 1872.]—Admiralty, 29th March, 1872.

JAVA.

Fixed Light on Duiven Island.—The Netherlands Government has given notice that a lighthouse is in course of erection on Duiven or Gilboa Island (Pigeon Island), north entrance of Baly Strait, from which a fixed white light will be exhibited, elevated 55 feet above the level of high water springs, and in clear weather should be seen from a distance of 15 miles. The tower is open ironwork, and is 30 feet high. Position, lat. 8 deg. 2 min. 30 sec. S., long. 114 deg. 27 min. E.

Fixed Harbour Light at Samarang.—Also, that on the completion of the harbour works at Samarang, north coast of Java, a fixed white light of the sixth order, which should be seen 8 miles, will be exhibited from an iron pillar.

Revolving Light on Boompjes Islands.—Also, that a lighthouse is in course of erection on the south-east point of Rackit, the southernmost of the Boompjes Islands, north coast of Java, from which a revolving white light will be exhibited, elevated 175 feet above the level of high water springs, and in clear weather should be seen from a distance of 23 miles. The tower is open ironwork, 164 feet high. Position, lat. 5 deg. 54 min. S., long. 108 deg. 20 min. E.—Admiralty, 29th March, 1872.

THE STEAMER "CHIH-LI."—This vessel has taken her official trial trip, and on the mean of a series of runs at the measured mile attained a speed of 10½ knots per hour. The Chih-li is 217 feet by 33½ feet by 27 feet, fitted with compound surface condensing engines of 160-horse power nominal, embracing all the recent improvements for economy of fuel. She was built and engined by Messrs. A. and J. Inglis, Glasgow, under the superintendence of Capt. W. F. Lewis, late of China, and is the property of the Shanghai Steam Navigation Company, and will be employed in their Tientsin trade. She has sailed for China via the Suez Canal in command of Captain Horatio N. Gray, who is well-known in the China trade.

NEW STEAMER FOR THE STRAITS TRADE.—On the 1st inst. a new steamer, the Bon-Yong-Seng, went down the Clyde to the Gareloch to have her compasses adjusted. She afterwards went on a trial trip, and sailed on her maiden voyage the same day. The Bon-Yong-Seng is a vessel of 500 tons, and is fitted up with compound engines of 80-horse power. She was built by Messrs. John Fullarton and Co., Paisley, and has been purchased by the firm of Messrs. Guthrie and Co., Singapore, who purpose employing her in the Borneo traffic. She goes direct to the Red Sea, where she will take on board 400 pilgrims from Mecca, who are at present awaiting her arrival, and afterwards go on to Singapore.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

The slightest indisposition, so that it may not rapidly run its disastrous course from bad to worse, should engage the immediate attention of the afflicted of all classes. A few doses of these thoroughly purifying and strengthening Pills will always be beneficial when the least disorder reigns, or when nervous fears oppress. Two or three Pills at bedtime have the happiest effect in promoting perfect digestion, whereby the muscles are rendered more vigorous, the spirits more buoyant, and the entire frame more hardy. Holloway's medicine increases the quantity of nutriment derivable from a given quantity of food, and so the quality of the blood is improved, the tone of every fibre throughout the body is heightened, and the disposition to fall into disease is reduced to a minimum.

PROSPECTUS.

This Company has acquired the exclusive Concessions for connecting Monte Video, and the important system of Telegraphs at present terminating there (Monte Video being now in direct Telegraphic communication with Chili by the New Trans-Andine Route) with the Brazilian frontier, by a Submarine Cable, and by Land Lines communicating with the principal towns of the Republic of Uruguay.

The Concessions are for the periods of 50 and 40 years respectively; and, by the completion of this link in the chain of communication, Valparaiso and Santiago in Chili, Buenos Ayres, and the other important Cities in the Argentine Republic, and Monte Video, will be brought into closer correspondence with Europe, the East, and the United States by five days.

The River Plate Telegraph Company, which will be in correspondence with this Company, has been in successful operation for more than five years between Buenos Ayres and Monte Video, the tariff being 3 dollars (12s. 6d.) a message of 10 words. Its system is similar to that of this Company, being partly Land Lines and partly Submarine Cable, and the results on an equal mileage capital are most satisfactory, the last dividend, for the half-year ending 30th June, 1871, being at the rate of 28 per cent. per annum. At the above tariff, comparatively high for the distance, the daily average number of messages is now about 115, and the net annual revenue over £17,000.

The price to be paid for these Concessions is £7,000 in cash and £17,000 in fully paid-up Shares, of which £12,000 (being the Ordinary Share Capital of the Company) will receive no dividend until 10 per cent. is paid on the rest of the Capital.

The contract for carrying out these Lines, which consist of nearly 400 miles of Land Line and 230 miles of Submarine Cable, has been made with Messrs. Reid Brothers, who will erect the Land Lines while the Cable is being manufactured and will be laid by Mr. W. T. Henley, of North Woolwich, who manufactured and laid the River Plate Telegraph Company's Cable. The whole work is to be handed over to the Company complete in good working order, as certified by the Company's Engineers, and with sufficient instruments of the most approved principle, for the sum of £105,750.

Taking the tariff of this Company at 4 dollars, or about 16s. 6d. per message of 10 words, and the number of messages at 115 a day, the result would be in gross revenue per annum, with 300 working days in the year ... £28,463

Deduct for working expenses	... £5,500
„ for reserve	3,000
There would remain		£19,963

available for dividend, being about 15 per cent. on the Capital of the Company.

It is almost unnecessary to point out the important position these Lines will assume when the Telegraphic communication now in progress is established between Europe and Brazil, and which, when accomplished, will add very considerably to the receipts of this Company.

The Cable will be despatched from England by the first week in June, and communication between Monte Video and Brazil, will, it is expected, be established by the end of July.

Applications for Shares must be made to the Bankers, on the form enclosed herewith, accompanied by the deposit of £1 per Share. Should no Allotment be made, the amount paid will be returned forthwith, without deduction.

Prospectuses and Forms of Application for Shares can be had of the Bankers and the Solicitors of the Company, and at the Company's Offices.

The following Contracts have been executed :—

An Indenture, dated the 3rd April, 1872, between JAMES REID of the first part, CAMILO CARASCO, Junior, of the second part, and the COMPANY of the third part.

An Indenture, dated the 3rd April, 1872, between JAMES REID of the first part, ARTURO DE MARCOARTU of the second part, and the COMPANY of the third part.

A Contract, dated the 3rd April, 1872, between ROBERT NICOL REID and JAMES REID of the first part, and the COMPANY of the second part.

The above contracts, the Documents constituting the Concessions above referred to, and also the Memorandum and Articles of Association of the Company, may be inspected at the Offices of the Company's Solicitors.

THIRTEENTH REPORT

Of the Court of Directors to the ORDINARY YEARLY MEETING of Shareholders, held at the CITY HALL, HONG KONG, on THURSDAY, the 15th February, 1872.

TO THE PROPRIETORS OF THE HONG KONG AND SHANGHAI BANKING CORPORATION.

GENTLEMEN,—The Directors have now to submit to you a General Statement of the affairs of the Corporation, and Balance Sheet for the half-year ending on 30th December last.

The net profits for that period, including $31,331.04 brought forward from last account, after paying all charges and deducting interest paid and due, and making full provision for all bad and doubtful debts, amount to $399,577.92, of which after taking out Rebate on Bills not yet due, and remuneration to Directors, there remains for appropriation $388,340.18.

From this sum the Directors recommend the distribution of a Dividend of $7.50 per share on the Paid-up Shares, and of $6 per share on the New Shares, being equivalent to Six per Cent. for the half-year; this will absorb $270,000, and of the balance the Directors propose carrying $100,000 to the Reserve Fund (thus raising it to $1,000,000), and $18,340.18 to the credit of New Profit and Loss Account.

If this appropriation of profits be confirmed by the Meeting, the Shareholders will have received as Dividend for the year 1871, the sum of $510,000 (Twelve per cent. on the paid-up Capital), the Reserve Fund will have been increased by $200,000, leaving $18,340.18 of undivided profits to be carried forward.

The Proprietors may be congratulated on the continued prosperity of the Bank at all points. Its Deposits continue to increase and its business generally progresses successfully in proportion with the increase of its Paid-up Capital.

CALLS.

The fifth and last call of $25 per Share on the New Shares in the Capital of the Corporation will fall due on the 1st July next.

DIRECTORS.

Mr. G. J. HELLAND resigned his seat at the Board on leaving the Colony, and Mr. HERMANN MELCHERS has been elected in his stead.

Mr. THOMAS PYKE has been appointed Chairman of the Corporation for the year 1872, vice the Hon. R. ROWETT, whose term of office now expires, and Mr. S. D. SASSOON has been elected Deputy-Chairman.

According to the provisions of the Deed of Settlement, three Members of the Court, Messrs. E. R. BELILIOS, A. JOOST, and S. D. SASSOON, retire from the Direction, but they are eligible for re-election, and offer themselves accordingly.

AUDITORS.

The Accounts have been Audited by the Hon. PHINEAS RYRIE and Mr. F. W. MITCHELL, the latter having been appointed by the Directors in the room of Mr. J. M. VICKERS, who has left the Colony, and the Directors have much pleasure in recommending the re-election of these gentlemen as Auditors for the year 1872.

Hong Kong, 9th February, 1872.

VICTORIA DOCK, SINGAPORE.

This Company's Granite DRY DOCK, 450 feet in length, 65 feet width of entrance, and 20 feet depth of water on the sill, was OPENED on the 17th October, 1868. In the high tides of the North-East Monsoon there is a foot to eighteen inches more water.

In connection with the Dock is a complete range of workshops, fitted with steam machinery, driving all descriptions of engineers' tools required in the construction and repair of vessels and machinery, and a foundry for iron and brass castings.

The Company's extensive Wharves and Godowns for receiving and storing cargo immediately adjoin the Dock.

Having an efficient European staff in each department, the Company is in a position to guarantee the best workmanship, executed with every possible despatch, as well as low rates of charges.

These advantages, and the great facilities which the proximity of the Dock to the town offers for the transport of materials, &c., enable this Company to adopt a very low scale of charges for ships' work of all classes.

Summary of News from the Far East.

CHINA.

PEKING AND TIENTSIN.

The details of the assault committed on Mr. Wade, H.M.'s Minister, by some street rowdies in Peking, according to information officially conveyed, are, that Mr. Wade, being called bad names by some youths in the street, remonstrated with them, when the offence was repeated, and one of the oldest of them at length went so far as to commit an assault on Mr. Wade, for which he was apprehended and punished.

On the 12th Feb. an entertainment was given by the Comte de Rochechouart, in his reception rooms, to the foreign society of Peking, at which the members of the British Legation played the two farces entitled "He's a Lunatic" and "Ici on parle Francais." The parts were sustained throughout with great spirit, the dresses and acting exciting great applause. It is stated that much of the success of the performance was due to the exertions and unflagging energy of Mr. McLeavy Brown, in his capacity of stage manager. At the close of the proceedings a supper was provided, and among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Wade, General Vlangaly, Hon. F. Low, M. Annecke, Mr. and Mrs. Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Bismarck, Mr. and Mrs. McLeavy Brown, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Pirkis, the Rev. and Mrs. Edkins, Dr. and Mrs. Dudgeon and numerous others, making in all about 60 persons.

A fund has been established by the foreign community of Tientsin for the relief of the native population. The amount subscribed has been distributed among the neighbouring villages, the distributing committee being accompanied by a Chinese official appointed by the Viceroy for the purpose. The river was open off the settlement on the 12th, but it was closed from Kokoo to the sea, chiefly through easterly winds having blown ice from the head of the Gulf into the mouth of the Peiho.

The foreign residents of Tientsin have been greatly alarmed by a severe gunpowder explosion. It appears that a quantity of gunpowder and live shells, which were stored in a high building—a kind of watch or guard house just above the arch of the north gate—had exploded; the building itself was blown away; some eighty houses adjoining the north gate, in the main street inside the gate, were blown down; a number of the inhabitants living in the houses, and people walking at the time in the adjoining streets, were killed or more or less injured, and some Chinese soldiers, who were stationed at the building on the archway, were also killed or wounded.

SHANGHAI.

Our advices by this mail extend to the 1st March; the French mail of Jan. 5 arrived out on the 23rd, and the following P. and O. mail of Jan. 12 on the 28th February. The North China Herald contains the following summary of the news:—

An important despatch from the French Government to Prince Kung, closing the Tientsin negotiation, and Chung How's embassy, has been published. It explains M. Thiers's first refusal to receive Chung How, on the ground that the French representative is not received by the Emperor, and his subsequent departure from this resolve, on the receipt of further despatches from Prince Kung, which persuaded him of the good intention of the Chinese Government. Throughout the despatch this question of right of audience is strongly dwelt on, and we believe Chung How left Europe with a full conviction that it would have to be granted.

A meeting of shareholders in the Hongkew Wharf Company has been held. The accounts show a net profit on the nine months during which the company had been working, up to Dec. 31, of Tls. 18,355. A dividend at the rate of 12 per cent. per annum, and a further bonus of Tls. 1.50 per share, was declared, besides returning 20 per cent. of the net profits to contributors. Tls. 1,000 were voted as remuneration to the retiring directors. Messrs. Michie, Miller, Harrison, Nissen, and Barnes were elected directors for the current year.

A meeting of the rowing club was held on the 26th Feb. The accounts show a balance in hand of Tls. 235. Some alterations were made in the rules of the club. Messrs. Little (captain), Bird, Clarke, Lindsley, and Schuffenhauer were elected a committee for the current year.

A meeting of members of the race club was held on the 27th Feb. The accounts showed a balance in hand of Tls. 3,467. It was resolved to reduce Mr. Keswick's loan by the payment of Tls. 1,000 out of this sum. Messrs. C. J. King, G. W. Coutts, Dallas, Ringer, Nissen, and Kaye were elected stewards for 1872.

A case has been tried in the Supreme Court, "The P. and O. Company v. E. J. Deslandes, having reference to the detention of a chest of Malwa opium, and claiming $600 as its value, with a further sum of $50 for its detention. The plaintiffs' case was in brief as follows:—The defendant is the master of the receiving ship or opium hulk, Emily Jane. The P. and O. steamer Madras arrived at Shanghai from Hong Kong, having on board, amongst other cargo, 314 chests Malwa opium, consigned to Messrs. E. D. Sassoon and Co., and the defendant took delivery of the same from the Madras. Amongst the said chests of opium was a chest belonging to another consignee, which was by mistake also delivered to the defendant, who thus received 315 instead of 314 chests. The plaintiffs, on discovering their error, applied to the defendant for the return of the chest, but the defendant refused, and in his reply to the plaintiffs' case denied that he had received it on board among the other chests as alleged.

The trial occupied the whole of two days, and the report takes up nearly seventeen columns of the Herald. In the end the jury found a verdict for the plaintiffs, with damages $50. It was understood also that the verdict carried with it the return of the opium claimed, or its value. The Courier says the general impression seems to be that, though the verdict could hardly have been otherwise than it was, yet the decision involves great hardship to Captain Deslandes, who is universally acquitted of any knowledge of the missing chest of opium. To add to his misfortune, it appears that the Customs' authorities propose to take action against him on the ground that the chest which the jury's verdict pronounces him to have received in excess paid no duty, and was consequently smuggled. A number of his friends have set on foot a subscription to assist him to pay the amount in which he has been condemned by the Court.

A general parade of the Volunteers was to take place the day the mail left, with a view, we believe, to a more complete sham fight than we have yet had. The Marines and Blue Jackets from the Juno and Curlew are to join in the excursion, and will form the attacking force. The programme has not yet been made public, but we hear of a probable attack by boats coming down the Soochow Creek, which the Volunteers will be called on to repel—and of peace being made over substantial refreshment in the end.

There has been a small riot in Chinkeang, about a new tax lately imposed by the Chehsien; and hardly had this been quieted by the withdrawal of the obnoxious impost, when a new excitement arose in consequence of Mr. Salter, the agent of the S. S. N. Co. at Chinkeang turning off some squatters from land lately purchased by him on the river bank. A mob assembled and pelted the S. S. N. hulk, &c.; the Consuls called on the Chinese authorities to take measures for repressing the disturbance and protecting the Settlement, and a guard of soldiers was posted for the purpose. We believe the disturbances are over, and that there is no cause for further alarm.

The present mail steamer was compelled to leave the anchorage on the 28th February instead of the 1st March, and the passengers and cargo had to be sent down afterwards. All this additional trouble was due to there being, as usual, an insufficiency of water on the Woosung bar.

It is intended that the first steamers for Tientsin shall be despatched on the 3rd March.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 29.

There is no doubt now of the establishment on the Yangtsze of a new line of steamers to run in connection with the Holt Ocean line. The Shanghai Steam Navigation Company has done marvellously well for its shareholders, yet it is by no means a popular institution. At all events the depreciation in the value of its shares, consequent on the announcement of a formidable opposition, has been received by the outside public with a hardly suppressed chuckle. However, shareholders who have invested at any fairly reasonable rate need not be troubled. The Yangtsze trade is expansive enough to supply in process of time sufficient work for double the fleet now engaged in it, and it is forgotten that the additional steamers will by themselves create a demand for carriage. Doubtless somebody will suffer at first, but there is no question of the near future of a trade with which the S.S.N. and the "Union," as at present constituted, could not cope.

I told you in my last letter that the foreign community was, luckily for itself, as dull as ditch-water at the time of writing, and knowing that you would expect something under the head of "Shanghai," I looked forward to this mail with some apprehension of having to disappoint you. At the last moment an incident has turned up which is unimportant in itself, but which may or may not be turned to good or bad account. Two or three Chinese gunboats, built after the foreign model at one or other of the native arsenals, have for some months lain in the river opposite or a little above the settlements. They gave no annoyance to anybody, except by saluting violently at all sorts of hours, whenever an unusually dirty mandarin visited them or left them. Latterly, however, there have been one or two complaints of high-handed procedure on the part of the sailors and officers (all Chinese), who, honouring Chinese taverns and other places of low resort with their presence, have declined to pay for whatever entertainment they received. Rows were, of course, the immediate consequence, and on one occasion at least the culprits were brought before the Mixed Court, and mulcted in various penalties. These were small matters, but this afternoon a party landed on the French side, and meeting two sergeants of police, forthwith fell upon them and seriously wounded them. One man is said to had his face gashed across, and the other to have been cut down by a sabre-stroke on the back of his head. The French Consul-General made a demonstration on the bund by marching all the police with fixed bayonets to the spot, but, so far as I can learn, the matter rests there at present. This, I presume, is diplomacy, but somehow one would think that if Count Mejean had carried his police on board one of the vessels, hauled down the Chinese flag, and hoisted the tri-colour pending the pacific arrangement of the question so rudely raised, more would have been heard about it, and that of a more satisfactory character than anything we need now expect. Your readers will remember the old story of Sir Francis Drake explaining to Queen Elizabeth that there were two ways of facing an enemy—the one to stand off and cry, "Do that again, and I'll strike thee;" the other to strike him first, and say, "Try that at all, and I'll strike thee again." This sort of thing is out of date, no doubt, but a spice of it would much enliven the palavers which now-a-days cause every difficult question in China to exhale in a bottle of smoke. I might go farther, and say that such an utterance as Macaulay's spirited peroration—"The lives and liberties "of Englishmen are at stake, and it is fit that all nations, civilised "and uncivilised, should know that wherever the Englishman may "wander he is followed by the eye and guarded by the power of "England"—is, though only thirty years old, as antiquated and unsuited to the taste of any Western legislative body as Burke's dagger or Mr. Gladstone's packages of tea. The mere nationality makes little difference, for we may take it for granted that in any outrage it is the foreigner, and not the Englishman, Frenchman, or American, who is attacked, while any decided step on the part of one foreign Power would be equally assuring to the subjects of all.

HONG KONG.

The dates extend to the 7th March. The outward mail of 19th Jan. arrived out on the 3rd March.

Mr. Charles Saint, the proprietor of the China Mail, retires in favour of Mr. Bain, who has been for some years associated with him, and Mr. N. B. Dennys resumes the editorship, which he left some two years since to visit Europe.

The Supreme Court has resumed its sitting, after the long vacation of one month. G. W. Snelling, a bankrupt, obtained his discharge, there being no opposition. In the case of an unknown deceased Chinaman, the administration of his estate was granted to the official administrator; and in re George Davidson, deceased, letters of administration were granted to Alexander Morrison upon his own petition. In the matter of the three writs of foreign attachment against Essa Ahmed and others, the Canton silk merchants entered into bonds to proceed with the trial.

In re F. S. Huffam, official assignee in the bankruptcy of Lyall, Still and Co. v. Jardine, and others, his Lordship delivered judgment. The Court was of opinion that there was such a mutual credit within the meaning of the ordinance between the bankrupts and the defendants as to entitle the latter to retain the sums of money received by them since the 22nd day of December, 1866; in respect of the shares owned by bankrupts in the Triton and Canton Insurance Companies, and that the defendants are not bound to pay such sums over to the assignee. The costs of the suit to be paid to the defendants out of the estate. His Lordship based his decision on the ruling of Lord Chief Justice Tindal in the case of Gibson v. Bell, and in the judgment in Nowrojee v. the Chartered Bank of India.

The Race meeting opened under the most favourable auspices; the weather was lovely, not too hot, yet pleasantly cool, with a cloudy sky; the course was in good condition, and though there did not appear to be that absorbing interest which the more important races of former years imparted to the meetings hitherto, still the numerous holiday-makers surrendered themselves to the day's enjoyment with all the more zest that the events did not possess the character of "sure things" in any marked degree. There did not at first seem to be a full attendance at either of the stands, on the course, or at the Black Rock; but the pleasure-seekers gathered in force as the saddling-bell began to call to business. The usual attendant features were present—the band of H.M.'s 10th Regt. discoursed sweet music, the ever present booths were alive with visitors, and the usual mixed congregation of spectators and stalls swarmed in or dotted the middle of the course.

We (China Mail) observe that the fourth volume of the Rev. Dr. Legge's "Chinese Classics" (The She King) has been already reviewed in the Shanghai Courier. The critique is somewhat premature, as the book is not yet ready for sale, and the appearance of the review may be apt to put the reverend author in a false position with his readers and reviewers generally. If the fourth volume of the "Classics," however, comes up (as we believe it does) to the standard of the author's previous portions of the same great work, it will stand against all the combined critical learning of both the East and the West. It must be a source of gratulation, not only to the doctor's personal friends but to all interested in China, that his health at present augurs well for the completion of the herculean task to which he has devoted the greater portion of his life.

We learn that it is contemplated by certain capitalists at Canton to establish a Wai Sing lottery office at Kowloong city, where it is expected that communication would be made with this colony for the indirect sale of tickets and distribution of prizes. So far as we have heard, the scheme is a well-planned one, and the business would be so conducted that the Colonial laws could not touch those who are engaged in traffic, the sanction of the Chinese Government, which prohibits all other forms of gambling except Wai Sing, having been first obtained.

Thanks were returned in St. John's Cathedral for the restoration of the Prince of Wales to health, a subject upon which the Colonial Chaplain touched also in the course of his sermon.

News from Manila to 27th Feb. advices the insurrection completely stamped out. On that day a number, some nine or twelve persons, implicated in the affair were shot in presence of the whole garrison. Two priests and a well known lawyer were still in custody awaiting trial. It is stated that three priests implicated in the insurrection at Manila have been executed there by the authorities. The movement must, therefore, have been an unusually serious one, and it is strange that no clear explanation has ever yet been given of its origin.

March 7.

The two subjects which at the present moment most fully occupy the minds of those given to thinking are—the approaching departure of Sir Richard MacDonnell, and the nomination of Messrs. Lowcock and Greig as members of the Legislative Council. To take the latter subject first, it may be stated that the new members are essentially unlike. The head of the house of Gibb, Livingston and Co. is scarcely "popular" in the ordinary sense of the term; that is to say, he is brusque in manner and emphatic in his dislikes. But his selection has nevertheless given considerable satisfaction, as no man in the colony is less likely to be influenced by fear, favour, or affection. He was unwilling to accept the honour (?) but gave way like a sensible man when he was clearly shown that it was something very like a duty. Mr. Greig, on the other hand, is very popular, his kindly warm-hearted manner showing through the necessary reserve and profound business-like air of a bank manager. Still, his nomination took every one by surprise, there being others in the colony whose claims to the position are doubtless superior. The head of Birley and Co. is, for instance, chairman of the very bank which Mr. Greig conducts, and to pass him over was a slight which is in some quarters much resented. I don't think he would have accepted the position, but the offer would have been courteous. Others again say a great deal about the slight shown to Mr. Sassoon, and the local papers (with very questionable wisdom I think) have given insertion to letters which draw comparisons almost invidious. My own impression is that if we might have got a better man than Mr. Greig we might very certainly have got a worse one. Mr. Lemann I should have told you is out of the running. He was decidedly the most eligible, and had the first offer; but Messrs. Gilman and Co's. business requires his absence (whether temporary or permanent is uncertain), so he declined.

Speculation is of course rife as to the personal characteristics of Sir Richard Macdonnell's successor, Sir A. Kennedy. Nobody seems to know much about him, but all hope that whatever he may be he will have an opinion of his own. The Colony has just tried a year or two of milk-and-water administration, and is unanimous in preferring the strong hand of our present Governor, even if its strength be sometimes exerted against the views of the community. It is better to have something to kick at than to find a mere shadow before one through which your foot goes, leaving it unmoved, like some baleful ghost. There can be no doubt that Sir Richard, with all his faults (numerous enough, if our papers speak truth), is a clear-headed man, and that his administration has, upon the whole, been a success. His opponents admit this, and a little more conciliation on his part to the leading merchants would have turned the somewhat grudging admission into a frank recognition of the fact. He is not perfect, but he has rescued the colony from lawlessness, and maintained its dignity in Chinese eyes—two very important achievements, even if he has the gambling farm to answer for.

The new Shanghai Bank has not yet selected its Hong Kong committee, one paper which imprudently published the names from hearsay getting a severe wigging from two of those so mentioned. I notice that the proprietor of the China Mail has sold the business to a gentleman long connected with him, and that it will be again edited by Mr. Dennys. This brings back the German community, who, having taken offence at some remarks made by Mr. Saint, had unanimously withdrawn their subscriptions and support.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

—o—

SINGAPORE.

The present mail brings advices to the 14th March; the P. and O. mail, with London date Feb. 9, arrived out March 11. The Straits Times contains the following summary of the news:—

During the interval nothing of local interest has occurred to disturb the monotony of the place. The railway question remains in abeyance, though considerable anxiety is felt to learn what action Earl Kimberley will take with reference to the strong protest of the merchants of this place, at the public meeting held for the purpose at the Town Hall on the 23rd Feb. The only thing new that has cropped up in regard to it is the letter of Colonel Collyer, former Civil Engineer for these settlements, to the promoters of the Singapore and New Harbour Railway. It is mainly a reply to the strictures of Major McNair, the present Colonial Engineer, upon the original scheme and estimates of Colonel Collyer. There are, however, some points in the letter that are liable to mislead persons unacquainted with the place. The assertion that the merchants will demand the extension of the New Harbour Railway to Johore via Tanglin, for their own convenience and for the improvement of their property, is entirely fallacious, and we must confess to some surprise at seeing it seriously put forward by Colonel Collyer, who ought to know better than to suppose the residents of Tanglin would avail themselves of a railway circuit of five or six miles to accomplish a journey that they can more comfortably go over in fifteen minutes in their own carriages. Again, the suggested extension to Johore is supported by the amount of produce that territory supplies to the Singapore market; but the railway is to terminate opposite New Johore, while nearly all the produce comes from the region of the Johore river, some miles away, and can be more conveniently shipped in boats direct to Singapore, thus saving the trouble and cost of transhipment.

The Salangore disturbances are, it is said, likely to crop up again. Rajah Mahdie, one of the turbulent chiefs who was driven out by H.M.S. Rinaldo, after his ill-judged attack upon that vessel, has, we learn, been in Singapore procuring supplies and men to enable him to renew his petty war against Tunku dia Oodin, the ruler appointed by the Sultan in the presence of the Colonial Secretary and Captain Blomfield, of H.M.S. Teazer. We understand H.M.S. Zebra, now on this station, will visit the native States to the westward after the arrival of H.M.S. Hornet, and should she visit Klang may succeed in preventing Mahdie from carrying out his intention—a result certainly to be desired, as a very brisk trade is being opened up with Klang and Salangore under Tunku dia Oodin's rule, which would be paralysed by a renewal of the strife.

The steamers of the Dutch expedition to Siak have passed through the Straits on their return. One of the steamers (the Java) anchored in the roads for about an hour. The object of the expedition, as already announced, was accomplished without fighting. The leader of the insurrectionary movement was arrested and put in irons. We understand it is the intention of the N.I. Government to station a second steamer on the N.E. coast of Sumatra, to assist in maintaining order, and to check the piratical tendencies of the native chiefs.

There seems to be a mania at present prevalent amongst the European residents of this little island for a trip home to the old country. The Ocean Company's steamer Glaucus, which left for London on the 12th March, took from Singapore several well known residents, among whom was the Honourable W. Adamson, member of the Legislative Council. How Mr. Adamson discharged his duties in the Council Chamber must be well known to all our readers. His long experience of the place, his knowledge of the native character, his clear head and gifts of speech, made him a valuable member of the Council, and makes his departure a sensible loss to the public,—even although Sir Harry Ord may find himself as lucky as his Royal namesake of the old ballad, in being able to replace him with a man as good. Mr. Cameron, the editor of the Straits Times was also a homeward passenger by the same vessel.

The Malacca Criminal Session was held by the Chief Justice, who went down in the Pluto on the 5th instant, and returned here on the 12th, having disposed of all the criminal and civil cases. There were no trials for the heavier crimes, and the session was over in three days, after which the civil sittings were held, lasting only one day.

The gambling houses continue to keep up their business, in spite of the stringent gambling ordinance and the heavy fines imposed—from which it would appear that the houses must yield great profit. A few evenings since, Captain Dunlop, and a party of police, went to a notorious gambling house in Carpenter-street, where there were about twenty Chinese at play. The doors were barricaded, and before they could gain admittance most of the gamblers had escaped over the roofs of the adjoining houses. They succeeded in arresting only two, but secured all the gambling implements. The same evening the officers went to another noted gambling house, and here also surprised a number of Chinese at play. Most of the gamblers escaped; only four were caught inside, but the gambling materials and the gamblers' shoes were found on the floor.

The French Consul has held an inquiry into the loss of the Marie Therese, reported by last mail.

Commercial Report.

(For dates see first page.)

IMPORTS.

HANKOW.—Cottons: Holders being firm and the demand limited transactions had been only on a moderate scale. Woollens: Scarlet Long Ells were quoted one mace higher, but with limited demand. Camlets and Spanish Stripes had been more dealt in at former prices, at which sales were not easy to effect. Quotations:—8¼ lbs. Grey Shirtings, Tls. 1.9.8 to 2.0.5. White Shirtings, 56 to 60 reed, Tls. 1.7.5 to 1.9.5; 64 to 66 reed, Tls. 2.0.5 to 2.2.5. T-Cloths, 7 lbs. Mexicans, Tls. 1.6 0 to 1.6.8. Drills, unchanged and dull. In Fancy Cottons there had been but little business doing.

SHANGHAI.—Cottons: There had been a fair general business doing in Manchester manufactures, with the exception of 8¼ lb. Grey Shirtings. Telegrams quoting a quiet and weaker market at home, combined with the knowledge that very large stocks are held at this port, had deterred the dealers, and the few sales reported were at a decline on the quotations of last mail. For 7 lbs. and 9 to 9 lbs 10-12 oz. goods there had been more enquiry, and sales had been made at Tls. 1.7.4 for the former, and Tls. 2.7.5 for the latter. Mexican T-Cloths, Drills, and White Shirtings had been taken to a moderate extent; but as the mail closed the market was very quiet, and offers generally were lower. Fancy Cottons: Good patterns of Scarlet-ground Chintzes were being more sought after at an advance in price. Dyed Damasks and Dyed Brocades were rather lower. Black Velvets continued firm and in demand. Woollens: There had been a fair demand generally, but holders were firm for an advance, and not much business had resulted.

FOOCHOW.—No transactions to report.

HONG KONG.—A quiet tone had prevailed in the market during the fortnight, and business consequently had been upon a small scale. Trade at the outports was very restricted, owing to the natives being averse to pay the advance demanded by holders, and were preferring to work off their stocks at cheap rates to operating further at the moment. Advices from the northern markets reporting a considerable decline in the value of Cottons, and telegrams from Manchester a gradually falling market, holders who were exceedingly firm had lately evinced a desire to sell. Yarn: 16/24s English weaker, owing to absence of foreign speculative demand; best chops declined $2 to 3 per bale; 28/32s in request, but without improvement in price; 38/42s without inquiry. Grey Shirtings: The sales of damaged goods had kept dealers supplied. Although several holders were willing to accept lower prices dealers were not anxious to operate. White Shirtings: Sales were to very small extent at a decline of about 5 cents. White Irishes: In small stock, and ready sale at $3.70 to 3.75 for second quality, and $4.15 to 4.25 for best. T-Cloths: 6 lbs. declined 5c., and buyers not anxious to operate, as importers were offering goods "to arrive" at low rates. Mexicans had not changed hands; Dewhursts MT quoted nominally $1.85. Drills: English 14 lbs. quiet, no change in value; 15 lbs. advanced about 5c. owing to inquiry for Japan. American not in stock. Dutch in good supply, no alteration in price. A small sale of Jeans is reported at $3.5. All White, Fancy, and Dyed Cottons in small demand at former prices. Woollens and Worsteds had been wanted to a very limited extent. Metals generally had been in good demand at very firm prices. Nail Rod Iron taken at $3.75 per picul; Bar sold at former values; Hoop at an advance of 25c. to 50c. Lead: In speculative; request a few sales "to arrive" of "LB" quality, at $6.20 to 6.25.

MANILA.—The market had been strong during the fortnight and prices for almost all imports had advanced.

SINGAPORE.—Messrs. Boustead and Co. report as follows:—The market for Piece Goods has been quiet, with sales on a small scale only. In prices there has been but little change but holders have shown rather more inclination to realise. 39-inch Grey Shirtings 8¼ lbs. freely offered at $2.62½ to 2.65, but sales unimportant; 7 lbs. taken in considerable quantity at $2.25 for good quality, but demand now slackened; 6 lbs. scarce and inquired for at $1.95 to 1.97½. 45-inch: Little inquiry for 9 lbs. at $3.10 to 3.12½; 8 lbs. very dull at $2.60. T-Cloths: Inquiry directed chiefly to 5 lbs. and 7 lbs. goods. Quotations, 4 lbs. $1.10 to 1.15; 4½ lbs., $1.25 to 1.30; 5 lbs., $1.45 to 1.47½; 6 lbs., $1.70 to 1.75, and 7 lbs., $1.95 to 1.97½. 36-inch Grey Supers: No. 1 in good demand at $2.05 to 2.07½, with sales at the higher quotations; No. 2 dull at $2.10 to 2.12½; No. 3 inquired for at $2.20 to 2.22½. 36-inch White Shirtings: Sales have been difficult to effect, but at the close there is a better feeling; 45-inch quiet at $3.52½ to 3.55. Grey Yarn very dull at $130 to 132½ for 40's, $110 to 112½ for 30's, and $100 to 105 for 18-24's. Woollens: Lastings meet with more inquiry at 42½c. to 44c. for assortments; Scarlet Spanish Stripes in small supply, and in no demand. Nothing doing in other descriptions.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

YOKOHAMA.—Arrivals having been light and buyers having continued in the market, stocks had been reduced and $3 to $5 per picul higher had been paid.

HANKOW, KIUKIANG, FOOCHOW, AMOY.—The season at these ports is closed.

SHANGHAI.—Only a few hundred packages of Black Tea had been bought, and the business in Greens had been very small, settlements having aggregated only 2,334 half-chests. The Ethiopian had sailed for New York, but the quantity shipped by her is not reported.

CANTON.—The business of the interval had been comprised in the settlement of some small parcels Scented Caper, Gunpowder and Congou at previous prices.

SILK.

SHANGHAI.—Messrs C. J. Skeggs and Co.'s Circular says:—There has been more activity in the market during the past fortnight induced by a lower exchange and the willingness of dealers to accept a further decline of 5 to 10 taels. Settlements reach about 1,000 bales, comprised mostly of medium and common Tsatlees, Rereels, and a few Kahings, other sorts being neglected. The following are a few of the Tsatlee purchases which may be taken as a basis of the fortnight's operations:—Koo-foo-sing's Chop thirds, Tls. 585; Cat and Bee "Choey-ling," Tls. 520; King John Chop, Tls. 560; Black Lions, Tls. 530; Blue Elephant, Tls. 510, since contracted for at Tls. 520; Red Peacocks, Tls. 505; Green Elephant, Tls. 480.

STRAITS PRODUCE.

SINGAPORE.—Tin has advanced considerably, $37.75 per picul having been paid for best chops. The market at close was rather weaker, there being sellers at $37.37½. The demand has been chiefly for England, only a small quantity having been taken for other markets. Gambier: Bought to a fair extent at $4.22½, under which dealers refused to contract for future delivery. Black Pepper: About 20,000 piculs contracted for during the fortnight at $13.25 to 13.50, and price at close firm at $13.37½ per picul. White sold to a fair extent at $18-50 to 18.75, but buyers offering less. Pearl Sago sold at $3.45, and more demanded. Sago Flour in good request, Borneo being worth $2.92½, and Singapore $2.85 to 2.87½ per picul. Tapioca: Flake very scarce, and worth $4.60 to 4.70 per picul. Bontyne Coffee nominally worth $16.75 per picul; none at market. Cow Hides in good demand at about $18 per picul. Buffalo Hides: Very scarce and in good demand at $11 to 11¼ per picul.

The directors of the Chartered Bank of India, London, and China have issued their report, in anticipation of the meeting which—as we have already announced—is to be held to-morrow. The report says:—

The profit for the year, after deducting charges, amounts to £74,938 17s. 6d., out of which a dividend has been paid, for the half-year ended June 30 last, of £22,500, and a further dividend of 4 per cent. for the half-year £30,000, is now declared, making together 7 per cent. for the year, free of income-tax. From the remainder, the reserve fund is raised to £50,000; provision is made for bad and doubtful debts; and the balance, £883 19s., is carried to the new profit and loss account. The directors regret much to announce the retirement from their board of Mr. Donald Larnach, whose long continued connection with this Bank and valuable services have always been highly appreciated. They have at the same time pleasure in recommending as his successor Sir William Grey, K.C.S.I., late Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, from whose varied experience in and intimate connection with India the Directors anticipate much advantage. The Director retiring in rotation is Mr. E. J. Daniell, who, being eligible, offers himself for re-election, and the Court recommend him accordingly.

ON the 9th inst. there was launched by Messrs. C. Mitchell and Co. a very fine steamer, named the Japan, and the property of Messrs. Apcar and Co., of London and Calcutta. The Japan is intended to navigate the Chinese waters, and is at the same time adapted for passage through the Suez Canal. She is about 350 feet long, 37 feet broad, and will have space for 4,000 tons measurement goods. The 'tween decks are of ample height, and are available for carrying a very large number of troops or other passengers. The machinery for the Japan is manufactured by Messrs. Maudsley, Sons, and Field, of London, on the compound surface condensing principle. Many visitors were attracted to the launch. Mr. Sette Apcar, of London, represented the owners, and the ceremony of naming the Japan was performed by Miss Julia Swansea.

THE Annual Missionary Meeting of the Presbyterian Church in England will be held (D.V.) on the evening of Wednesday, 1st May, in Exeter Hall, at seven o'clock—the Right Hon. the Earl of Cavan in the chair. The following speakers will address the meeting:—Rev. Carstairs Douglas, from Amoy; Dr. James L. Maxwell, from Formosa; Rev. Donald Fraser, D.D.; Rev. Adolph Saphir; Rev. W. P. Mackay, of Hull; Rev. Dr. Patterson, of Chicago; and Mr. Brownlow North.

The Gazette states that the Queen has granted the dignity of a Knight to Albert Abdallah David Lassoon, Member of the Council of the Governor of Bombay.

THE Colonial-office has appointed Mr. W. Sneyd Kinnersley a Straits Settlement cadet.

CHINESE COOLIES IN CUBA.

On Monday Mr. T. HUGHES asked the Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs if the Government had received notice of an order lately issued by General Ferrer, in the absence of Captain-General Valmaseda, in the Island of Cuba, prohibiting Chinese from passing from one place to another, and from leaving the island; whether it was true that the British Consul, in conjunction with the Consuls of France, Italy, Holland, Belgium, and Denmark, had protested against this and previous orders as practically reducing the Chinese to a state of slavery; and if he would lay any communications the Government might have received on this subject upon the table of the House?

Lord ENFIELD said that a copy of the order had been received at the Foreign-office, and also information of a protest by the Consul. A copy of the order had been sent to Madrid to Mr. Layard, in order that he might remonstrate respecting it with the Spanish Government.

On Friday Mr. GILPIN asked the Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs whether it was competent for Her Majesty's Consul-General in Cuba to receive from the Chinese Government Consular powers which may be exercised on behalf of the Chinese imported into this island.

Lord ENFIELD replied that he could not promise Mr. Gilpin the assistance of our consular jurisdiction in Cuba in aid of the Chinese. He did not think it expedient that our Consuls-General should interfere.

COURT OF APPEAL.

THE ESTATE OF MR. T. A. GIBB.

The arguments were heard on Thursday before the Lord Chancellor, Lord Chelmsford, Lord Westbury, and Lord Colonsay, in the case "Overend, Gurney, and Company (Limited), versus Gibb and another (executors of T. A. Gibb, a former director). This was an appeal from a judgment of the present Lord Chancellor (Lord Hatherley), whereby he reversed a decision of Vice-Chancellor Malins, and allowed a demurrer to a Bill filed by the appellants, which had been overruled by the Vice-Chancellor. The Bill was filed for the purpose of making the surviving directors of Overend, Gurney, and Company (Limited), and the estate of a deceased director, answerable for so much of the capital of the company as had been lost in consequence of the directors having, as the appellants alleged, negligently, and in breach of their duty to the shareholders of the company, purchased the business and undertaken the liabilities of the late firm of Overend, Gurney, and Company. The Lord Chancellor, in delivering judgment in the Court below said: "I think that the shareholders must take the consequences of the manner in which their business was conducted by those whom they have trusted to act as their agents. If the question were simply whether they had or had not made a bad or imprudent bargain, that is not a question which could be dealt with in this Court as involving a breach of trust; or, if it were whether they had failed to secure a good bargain for persons who entrusted their moneys to them for that purpose, that is not the case we have here. The company must take the consequences of having entrusted their moneys to persons of sanguine temperaments, who made a purchase which turned out to be a bad one; but I do not find enough in this case to show me that it is so ridiculous, or absurd, or that there has been such crassa negligentia amounting to fraud as to induce me to hold that the gentleman whose executors are now sought to be impeached had made himself responsible for a breach of trust for which I can hold them liable. I hold therefore that the demurrer ought to have been allowed." This is the decision against which the present appeal was raised.

After having heard the arguments their lordships dismissed the appeal.

PROGRESS IN BORNEO.

THE Trade Report for 1871, published in the number of the Sarawak Gazette which came to hand by the last mail, is highly encouraging in the best and largest sense of the word. True, the total returns fall short of those of the preceding year, but the cause of this—the sudden reduction in the value of gutta-percha from its abnormal high rate in 1870—is so evident and reasonable as to prevent any misgivings as to the general development of the commerce of this hitherto little understood, but largest, island in the world. Exports and imports are year by year becoming equalised, while the revenue from the out-stations shows a steady increase. We can hardly find terms adequately to express the respect which we feel for the little band of Anglo-Saxons who have proved themselves such ardent and successful pioneers of civilisation in this remote corner of the globe which—no longer than five-and-twenty years ago—KEPPEL found the seat of pirates, whom he at once set himself to subdue. Never, perhaps, in any place were difficulties more resolutely encountered, and more rapidly overcome, than in Borneo. The head-hunting mania of the Dyaks has in the brief space of a quarter of a century greatly yielded to the influence of Western intelligence. Truly the Government is most interesting and unique. In the report of the last meeting of the Supreme Council we find so great progress made in inoculating the semi-barbarous sons of wholly barbarous fathers that his Highness the RAJAH was positively recommending the subject of the education of their children to the "serious consideration" of the native community, and assuring them that "if they "would suggest plans to be pursued among themselves, he "was prepared to afford them every assistance;" in fact, he would build school-houses and provide teachers. This is in the truest spirit of liberality and progress, and there are not wanting parishes within the "four mile radius" of the "metropolis of the world" which might learn with advantage the lesson taught them by the Rajah of SARAWAK and his fellow labourers. "To make two blades of grass grow where but one had grown before" was once described as the noblest benefaction a man could bestow on his fellows; but to make two ideas spring where only one—and that a false one—had abided for centuries, is a still nobler object of ambition; and this we must congratulate the Government of Sarawak on having achieved in the years that we in Europe have wasted in vain wars, wicked revolutions, maimed reforms, and the "religious difficulty." The irony of VOLTAIRE'S Huron chief could scarcely have a more biting illustration.

THE CONDITION OF NATIVES IN JAVA.

THE Morning Post publishes the following letter, signed 'Viator," on the subject of the communication from the Foreign-office, which appeared last week in the same journal:—

I observed in your columns, a few days ago, a Foreign-office "Memorandum" from Her Majesty's Consul at Batavia (Mr. M'Lean), dated February 7, 1872, calling in question the accuracy of an article in the Morning Post, in November last, descriptive of the degraded position of the natives of Java under Dutch rule. I remember that a few days after that article appeared it received, through another channel, the most decided confirmation by a traveller and a diplomatist long conversant with the condition of the Dutch Indies and other parts of the East. But Mr. M'Lean's "Memorandum" also, so far from being a refutation of the article alluded to, appears to be a noteworthy confirmation of the truth of at least its general allegations. For in the first place he admits that there is serfdom in Java, as he states that "taxes are raised in money and in labour, the latter being called 'heerendienst,' or labour enforced by Government." He adds, "This 'heerendienst' is at present limited to a maximum of one day, at eleven hours per week." When it is remembered how burning and sweltering is the equatorial sun-glare of Java, this eleven hours of "enforced labour" sounds very much like two days of downright slavery, per week, at the public works (roads, bridges, and dykes). But this is only a portion of the pressure put upon the islanders, for Mr. M'Lean continues, "The native is further obliged to cultivate sugar-cane;" and "coffee is also raised by 'heerendienst labour," the crop being delivered to the Government at a price "not much less" than such cultivation would cost a private planter.

Her Majesty's Consul still goes on to confirm and illustrate the general statements made in the Morning Post. He says, for example, that "missionaries are freely admitted, being first, however, required to furnish proof of being able to speak the vernacular." This restriction must largely act as a prohibition; for it is not at all probable that languages so difficult as that of the Indian Archipelago can be sufficiently mastered by more than a very few missionaries, to enable them to pass the tests implied by this restriction, and especially when imposed by a Government which, to use Mr. M'Lean's expression, "holds itself entirely neutral on the point of religion—watching only against excesses of whatever nature, or from whichever sect." One can easily understand the meaning and operation of such "neutrality," and the interpretation put upon "excesses" in religious efforts by a Colonial Government whose great and paramount requirement seems to be the continuance of the rich revenue which the "involuntary servitude" of Java annually pours into the home coffers of the Hague. There was little necessity for Mr. M'Lean to add that the attachment of the Javanese to their present creed (such as it is) "does not appear to give much scope to the Christian religion." So one would imagine.

Further confirmation of the statements made, both by the Morning Post article and by Mr. Consul M'Lean himself, is abundantly afforded in a very recent work which devotes several chapters to Java—viz., "A Voyage Round the World," by the Marquis de Beauvoir (London, Murray, 1870). The marquis travelled in company with two of the princes of the French Royal family, and was permitted unusual facilities for visiting the interior of Java. But whilst he gratefully acknowleges the courtesy, talent, tact, and energy of the Dutch Colonial Government, he writes in the most unhesitating terms of the disastrous effect of its grasping policy upon the general condition of the natives. After describing the princes' tour through the island he remarks—"It went to my heart never to see a man stand up before me, but thousands of creatures crouching down in a row."

As to the religious condition of this magnificent island of 15,000,000 people, he says there is "scarcely a temple of any kind to show that there is a thought of God in this country which He has so richly endowed." And after describing the wonderful ruins of the ancient temples at Mendoet, Boro-Bondor, and Tjandji-Seou, the marquis contrasts with the past the spiritlessness of the present age in Java, when even "art is completely dead." He also affirms that the island was more populous 1,000 years ago than now. The same writer enters at great detail into the particulars of the Dutch exactions in Java, quoting from official figures and returns. These show that in the thirty-three years from 1833 to 1866 the net profit of Java to Holland was £72,000,000, or more than £2,000,000 per annum throughout. This clear revenue is additional to the large amount required for meeting the colonial expenditure, and for the support of a Dutch army of 30,000 men (of whom 11,000 are Europeans). Nor does it include the "commissions" on all the Government crops enjoyed by the officials generally, both native and Dutch. The Marquis mentions also that the natives are compelled to sell two-thirds of their sugar crops to the Dutch Government at 10s. 3d. per picul (132 lb.), which quantity sells in Holland at six times the amount (61s. the picul). It is but fair to explain that this crop is aided by a loan from Government. But the coffee crop must also be sold to the Dutch at one-third of its marketable value.

I shall only quote from one other source in confirmation of your article. In 1868 there was published in this country a popular novel, translated from the Dutch by Baron Nahuys, and entitled "Max Havelaar." Its main object was to expose the cruelties and exactions of the Dutch East Indian policy, especially in Java. It was, in short, a sort of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," the scene being in the East instead of the West. The writer, Heer Edward D. Dekker, was for seventeen years engaged as an official in the Dutch service in Java. The translator affirms that the allegations made in that work are pronounced by Heer Veth, the great Orientalist at Leyden, and by other competent authorities, to be understated rather than exaggerated. Being written in the form of a novel, one cannot, of course, quote as authoritative its particular descriptions, but they more than corroborate the explicit and very recent allegations of the Marquis de Beauvoir.

I think, Sir, I have already quoted sufficiently from these several sources of information to show that the article alluded to in the Morning Post is, at least as respects its substantial character, fully verifiable, and I hope further attention may be hereby directed to the condition of the teeming millions of that distant region, which the writer of "Max Havelaar" describes as "the magnificent Empire of Insulind, which winds about the equator like a garland of emeralds."

In conclusion, I have only to add that, knowing something of Holland and the Dutch, I greatly admire their heroism in the past, their energy, intelligence, and social progress in the present, and hope that a land which numbers amongst its living citizens such noble and philanthropic men as Heer W. H. Suringar, Heer O. G. Heldring, Heer de Bosch Kemper, Heer B. Ploos von Amstel, Heer Groan von Prinsten, Heer J. A. Jolles, and others, may speedily clear itself from the certainly grave discredit which its colonial misgovernment in the East has long entailed upon it.

HOLLAND.

Rotterdam, April 10.

I regret having to report that rather serious disturbances occurred during the celebration of the National Festival on the 1st April. The differences between the Catholics and Protestants have become so strongly developed that further riots may yet perhaps ensue. The promoters of the Tercentenary Festival were not at all hostile to Roman Catholics, but the Ultramontane Fanatics made it appear otherwise. Their Catholicism is far in excess of their patriotism, and they maintain the doctrine of Pius IX.'s syllabus, and believe that suppression of heresy by fire and sword is both a right and duty. Hence their protest against the festival and their subsequent agitations. Most of the communities in which disorder was raised are situated in "small Spain," as our Catholic provinces are entitled. Their demonstrations were all of the same character. Refusal to hoist the flag even on the public buildings, destroying the windows of the houses of those who endeavoured to show their feelings of nationality, cries of "Away with Orange!" "A long life to the Pope!" "Away with the water-beggars!" "Away with the King!" and so on. The bigots are content to renounce their share in all our historical associations, and they indeed regret that the Netherlands do not still remain a dependency of the decrepid monarchy of Spain. I am happy to state that it was only in very few Protestant towns and villages that these demonstrations of the Catholics found supporters. Nevertheless, it is much to be regretted that some tumultuous scenes occurred in anti-Catholic places where the Liberals ought to have defended the supremacy of intelligence and education. The division between the parties has become so wide that it seems impossible to re-unite them. Indeed, the Ultramontane papers do all they can to make the breach still wider, and to provoke serious scenes. Where must this end? Indeed, it is very difficult to foretell. But it is quite certain that we must prepare ourselves for the worst, if the rumour proves to be true which says that the Catholics will celebrate in the month of August next the anniversary of the murder of the Huguenots, on St. Bartholemew's-night. That is to be their tercentenary festival. I sincerely hope that this rumour is unfounded, but the Catholics pretend that the "fete" (as it was termed by the correspondents of some of your daily papers, and who wrote a good deal of amusing nonsense about Holland and the Dutch) at Brielle was merely a Protestant festival. But nothing is further from the fact. Some of the Orthodox Protestants actually refused to take part in the festival, because it was not of a religious character; this fact is ignored by the Ultramontanes. Our Conservatives are united through thick and thin with the Ultramontanes, which will make things so much the worse should the present Liberal Cabinet give place to a Tory Administration; and this many think probable. They foretell in all earnest that in a short time Mr. Heemskerk will be Premier. For myself I do not believe one word of the assertion.

The members of the First Chamber have met for the despatch of business. As is customary in the Upper Chamber, they discussed in a hurry some Bills, the most important of which is that proposing the abolition of tithes. At last this ancient institution has been annihilated. To day they will discuss the Bill upon the coalitions of workmen. The passage of this measure is rather doubtful, as much disagreement prevails respecting it amongst the members.

PORTUGAL.

Lisbon, April 6.

The debates in our Parliament have principally been upon the proposed additional taxes on wine, liquors, rice and oil. The struggle between the two parties has been very arduous, but the general principle of the Bill has been approved of, and at present the discussion is upon the points of detail. Night sessions are now being held to discuss the Budget. At the end of the present month Parliament will be prorogued. The Minister for Foreign Affairs has up to the present maintained perfect silence respecting the Coolie trade at Macao.

Among the leading topics of public interest are the successive accusations published in Diario Popular newspaper, against the Director of the Post-office, Senor Lessa. It is stated that the Treasury and the public have been robbed in the administration of that establishment. The writer, who is known as a clerk in the Post-office, says that for many years the stamps on newspapers for foreign countries have been removed and stolen, that even stamps of great value placed on letters are also abstracted by superior officers in the Post-office. As soon as these scandalous statements were brought to the knowledge of the Minister of Public Works, the newspaper was summoned before the Criminal Court, by his orders, and a committee is to be nominated to inquire into the management of the Post-office. I understand to-day that the Minister is already convinced of the truth of all that has been said respecting these great irregularities in one of the first public establishments of the country, and that Senor Lessa will be dismissed from his post, and replaced by Senor Fradesso do Sitoeira.

The Minister of Public Works has signed the convention for the construction of the submarine cable between Portugal and Brazil. The concessionaires are called upon to make a deposit of £20,000. Stations will be erected in the island of Madeira and in the Cape Verd Isles. By November next the stations in Pernambuco, Rio de Janeiro and Bahia will be established. The Great Eastern has been engaged to carry out the laying of the cable, so soon as she has finished her present engagements in England and the United States.

The Foreign Minister has brought in a Bill to revise the Act relating to Consular emoluments passed in the year 1851, as regards the Consulates of Buenos Ayres, Monte Video, and Paraguay, and also of Peru and Chili. The expenses of these Consulates have been hitherto paid in accordance with the law of 1851, but the Minister proposes to enforce the provisions of another Act, passed on the 20th April, 1869.

The Ministry has been interpellated in the Lower House respecting the late alarming news from Angola. The deputy for Lisbon, Senor Miranda, was very anxious for explanations from the Government about the rising of negroes in Dembos. The Ministers replied that the report of the Governor stated that a numerous mob had attacked the native soldiers stationed there, that the national flag had been seized, a sergeant and a corporal killed, some soldiers wounded, and the residence of the commander of the forces reduced to ashes. As soon as the affair was made known the Governor sent military reinforcements to Dembos, but he had received no further intelligence. The corvette Duque da Terceira is to be despatched to replace the corvette Infante d. Henrique in those waters. In case of necessity both vessels will remain.

UNITED STATES.

THE CONSULAR SERVICE.

The House of Representatives has passed a Bill for regulating the consular system, in accordance with the recommendations of the State Department. By the terms of this measure the pay of the Consuls at London and Paris is increased from $6,000 to $7,000, at Yokohama, Japan, from $4,000 to $5,000, and at Hong Kong from $3,500 to $4,000. The Havre Consulate is reduced from $4,000 to $3,000, the reduction being divided between the Consulates at Marseilles and Lyons, which, with Antwerp, Brussels and Rome, will each receive $2,500. A Consulate with a salary of $2,000 is established at Port Said, on the Suez Canal. Consulates are established at Tripoli, Tunis, Tangiers, in the Barbary States, at Tamatara in Madagascar, at salaries of $2,000. The Consul at Zanzibar, in Muscat, and Bangkok, in Siam, will receive $1,000, in place of the more expensive existing Consulates. The Consulate at Honolulu is raised from $4,000 to $5,000, but that at Lahaina has been abolished. It is also provided that the Consul-General at Constantinople shall henceforth be also Secretary of Legation to Turkey, with the Salary of $3,000, and that the Minister resident to Greece shall be Minister resident and Consul-General to Greece, and his salary shall be that heretofore fixed for Minister resident, namely $7,500 a year.

In the House of Representatives Mr. Lynch, from the Committee on Commerce, has reported a Bill to facilitate commerce between the United States and China and Japan, and other Asiatic countries. The Bill incorporates the Asiatic Commercial Company to deal in the products of, and to construct public works in those countries, necessary for the transaction of its business; the capital stock to be five millions, with the right of increase, &c. Mr. Randall characterised the Bill as a monster to crush out individual enterprise. Mr. Lynch replied that it was merely authorising this company to do what an individual would have a right to do. A similar Bill had been passed for the Bolivia Company. Mr. Banks suggested an amendment, providing that public subscription books shall be opened, and that the stockholders shall be personally liable for all debts of the company. After further discussion a motion that the Bill with the amendments should be laid upon the table was carried by a large majority.

Some time since the House of Representatives called on the President for all information in the possession of the Government relative to the re-enslavement of Chinese in the island of Cuba by decrees lately issued by Captain-General Valmaseda, and asking what action, if any, has been taken by the Executive to prevent the extension of human slavery contemplated by decrees. The President has responded by communicating a translation of the decree of July 1860, issued by the Spanish authorities, with regard to the importation and employment of Chinese, the decree setting forth as its only object the development of agriculture in the island and to prevent a decline in its prosperity, and as being the most desirable labour. The President has also communicated the decree of December, 1871, the principal object of which appears to be to modify, in some respects, the form of the previous decree, and prescribe the mode of its enforcement. The President has made no response to the latter part of the resolution.

According to our latest advices the Japanese ambassadors are still at Philadelphia.

The London & China Telegraph.

LONDON: MONDAY, APRIL 15, 1872.

OFFICIAL RESISTANCE TO THE INTRODUCTION OF ART AND SCIENCE IN CHINA.

THE letter from our Shanghai correspondent, which we published in the London and China Telegraph of the 1st inst., brings once again into prominence the undeviating hostility shown by the Peking Government to any extension of the present primitive mode of transit in the interior of the Empire. He tells us that, owing to the establishment of the coast telegraph, and the swift communication afforded by foreign steamers, the last year's rice crops of the Yangtsze provinces have found a ready and remunerative market among the Chinese in San Francisco, and points out with great justice the inestimable advantage which would be derived by the inhabitants of every province by the introduction of foreign steamers and railways in the interior. The reports brought by every mail from China only too truly illustrate the truth of this remark. At the present moment, for instance, there are thousands of people starving in the neighbourhood of Tientsin, owing to the destruction of the crops of the district, and there appears to be no immediate prospect of their distress being relieved, simply because there is no efficient means of transporting the unusually abundant rice crops of the central provinces to the scene of the famine. Again, how fatal is the want of the means of transport to the Imperial armies acting against the Mahommedan rebels! and what a safeguard it would be to the peace of the Empire were the Government able, with instant despatch, to throw a body of men into any disaffected neighbourhood. These and other obvious advantages have been repeatedly urged upon the EMPEROR'S advisers, but have as often been ignored by them in a manner which has shown plainly, in the words of Sir RUTHERFORD ALCOCK, "the entire hopelessness of making any further progress "at present in this or any other direction tending to open "China more effectually to foreigners." The causes of this obstructive attitude on the part of the Government are not far to seek, and are pointed out by our correspondent. No doubt the mandarins have a very strong objection to the introduction of any system which would bring with it an influx of foreigners into the cities and villages of the Empire. They regard with jealousy and eagerly resent any interference whatever in the internal government of the country. They will not believe that our motives for seeking closer relationships with them are purely commercial. They fancy they see in the history of our conquest of India a foreshadowing of the course we would wish to pursue towards China, and, perhaps with more reason, the past dealings of the Russians have made them suspicious of any proposed innovation which may emanate even in part from them. These are misconceptions which can only be removed by a more intimate acquaintance with the history and aims of Western nations. Suspicion is a leading characteristic of the Eastern mind, and is the offspring of ignorance. A knowledge extending beyond the sphere of Chinese wisdom is necessary to remove it, and, though the mandarins may resist, time will force it upon them.

There is, however, another objection felt and avowed by the leading men of China to the introduction of railways and steamers, and it is one with which we ought to have some slight sympathy. It is plainly stated in TSENG-KWO-FAN'S famous memorial when he says, "Their (i.e., the "foreigners') demand to have their small steamers allowed "access to our rivers will involve the ruin of our large "and small boats and the beggary of sailors and super-"cargoes. So, also, if we allow them to construct railroads "and set up telegraph lines, the livelihood of our cartmen, "muleteers, innkeepers, and porters will be taken from "them." By the light of our present experience we know how unreasonable are these fears; but it is well to remember that a similar alarm was felt by an overwhelming majority of the people of England when first it was proposed to construct railroads in this country. The result has proved that they have multiplied labour and increased the wealth and prosperity of the land a thousand-fold. And so they will eventually in China; but Chinamen, of all people in the world, require to have proved to demonstration the practical advantages of an innovation before they can be led to adopt it. Already the "more astute native merchants" fully recognise the advantages they reap from the coast telegraph and foreign steamers. The practice of chartering steamers for the conveyance of their goods along the coast is largely on the increase, and it is this leaven of practical experience which will leaven the whole Empire. If the native merchants once become thoroughly dissatisfied with their own primitive and uncertain mode of conveying goods in carts and junks and desirous of some more sure and rapid means of transit, the mandarins will not be able to resist the employment of steamers and railways. And this brings us to the question asked by our correspondent, "For what is the provincial Government answerable, and "over what does the Peking Government exercise absolute "control?" To this question it is impossible to give a direct answer. Theoretically the Central Government is all-powerful throughout the Empire, but practically its influence fluctuates with the social condition of each province. The tight rein which is held over the provincial mandarins in peaceful times has to be relaxed when in the midst of troubles, it becomes necessary to purchase their adhesion to the Government by allowing them unusual license. The Government would, we believe, be unable to introduce any measure of reform which was generally opposed by the people, and would be powerless to resist the adoption of any innovation which was unmistakably called for by the popular voice of the Empire. It is to the people, therefore, we must look to take the initiative in—among other things—extending the means of transit; and though they may be slow in doing so, the exigencies of trade will compel them to move onward, and in this respect the experience of the last few years has not been such as to leave us without some hope for the future.

MR. R. G. WATSON, whose appointment as successor to Mr. ADAMS, Secretary of Legation, Japan, we noticed some time since, proceeds to his post earlier than anticipated, owing to the indisposition of Mr. ADAMS. Mr. WATSON travels by way of New York and San Francisco, and will join the Pacific mail steamer of the 1st of May for Yokohama.

WE understand that the Great Northern Telegraph Company are now building a screw steamer at Copenhagen, which is intended to be employed on the China and Japan station as a repairing vessel for the company's cable. She will take out sufficient cable to connect Amoy and the coasting ports with Hong Kong and Shanghai.

MR. PAUNCEFOTE and Mr. POLLARD return to Hong Kong probably next month; Captain WALSHE, the new Police Magistrate for Singapore, by next mail. Mr. CHALONER ALABASTER has assumed charge of the Consulate at Shanghai, and Mr. HOWLETT is acting Vice-Consul. Mr. DAVENPORT has obtained leave of absence.

BY a singular coincidence, while our Government are so bent on "cutting down" the salaries of Consular officers, the United States Government, as will be seen in our Foreign Intelligence, see the necessity of very considerably increasing the pay of their staff.

WE announced in our last that the United States Government had refused the increased subsidy to the Pacific Mail Company, but we are informed that, notwithstanding this decision, the Company will run a fortnightly service, commencing on 15th May.

WE understand that the vacant post of Colonial Surgeon at Hong Kong, consequent on the resignation of Dr. MURRAY, has not yet been officially filled. Dr. DODS in the meantime is acting.

The directors of the Suez Canal have just issued their revised list of charges to be enforced from the 1st July next, and of which, by the terms of the Act of Concession, three months' notice has to be given in the capitals and chief ports of the countries interested. From the 1st July the company will charge for the passage through the Canal at the rate of ten francs per ton upon the real capacity of the vessel, the gross tonnage, or that indicated by the ship's paper, being taken as the basis of the calculation. In vessels of any nation where the papers do not show this tonnage it will be calculated by the latest scale of the international commission of the Lower Danube; and those vessels which have no papers on board, or only imperfect ones, will be measured by the agents of the Company by the system in use at the time in England for measuring ships of burthen. All covered spaces, whether fixed or temporary, that are not comprised in the official tonnage, will be measured by the Company's agents according to the English system. Vessels of war will be treated, as far as calculating the tolls due to the company, by the same rules as those applied to trading vessels. While adopting as the basis of calculation of these tolls the above method of measurement, the Company will not be bound to adhere to them in the event of any future system of measurement being introduced of greater precision than those now existing.

The prospectus has been issued of the Great Western Telegraph Company (Limited), with a capital of £1,350,000, in 67,500 shares of £20 each, of which 45,000 shares are offered for subscription. It is proposed to connect New York with England and the West Indies directly, both with the United States and this country, without the intervention of any system of land lines. With a comparatively short cable telegraphic communication can be continued to Brazil. Arrangements have been made securing the traffic over the lines of the Great Northern Telegraph Company for America from Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Russia, China, and Japan, as well as a duplicate route between England and America in connection with the projected North Atlantic line of the Great Northern Company. The charge for ordinary messages will be £1 for every ten words, or one-half the present rate. A contract has been entered into with Hooper's Telegraph Company (Limited) for the manufacture and submersion of the cables for the sum of £1,330,000. The details of the scheme will be found in full in our advertisement columns.

In another column it will be seen that the appeal case of the liquidators of Overend, Gurney, and Co. against the estate of the late T. A. Gibb has been decided by the House of Lords in favour of the latter. Their Lordships at the same time completely scouted the aspersions attempted to be cast on Mr. T. A. Gibb, well known as a man of the most strict integrity and honour.

The China Traders' Insurance Company, for which Messrs. Fearon and Co. are the London agents, have decided on dividing two-thirds of the profits to all persons contributing business, and the remaining one-third to the shareholders generally.

The annual meeting of the Singapore Gas Company is called for the 30th inst., when a dividend will be declared for the half-year ending December last.

A petition for winding up the Matella Coffee Estates Company of Ceylon is to be heard before the Master of the Rolls on the 8th proximo.

A correspondent writes as follows with reference to a practice which is followed in loading vessels for the homeward voyage from Java:—

Will you allow me, through your columns, to warn shipowners against a clause inserted by merchants in the homeward form of Java charter-party to the following effect, viz.:—"Not less than two-thirds of the cargo to consist of dead weight." This stipulation I thought secured me an average Java cargo. I find, however, that my ship—1,060 tons register, carrying 1,500 tons of coal—has just discharged 1,000 tons of Java cargo only, the merchants having shipped 750 tons of sugar as dead weight, and the balance, 250 tons, of the lightest description of Java cargo. I advise shipowners to stipulate for the quantity of weight to be shipped in tons, and on no account to carry dry hides and tobacco by weight.

The enhanced cost of iron in this country appears to have had the effect of increasing the iron ship building trade of Copenhagen where several steamers of 1,000 tons are being constructed. Two of these vessels are now engaged in the American trade, and one is intended for the Telegraph Service in China.

Bar Silver has slightly declined in value, owing to a fall in the Indian Exchanges. The current rates are 5s. 0⅜d. to 5s. 0⅜d. Mexican Dollars, lately to hand by the West India steamer and from New York, were sold at very high rates, viz., at 5s. 0½d. for the New, and 5s. 2½d. for the Old coinage; and the price is not likely to decline at present, as the supplies coming forward are small.

The amount of bullion by the P. and O. Company's steamer Simla, which left Southampton on the 11th inst., was in gold—to Bombay, £23,510; in silver—to Bombay, £36,000; to Calcutta, £30,000; to Penang, £39,860; to Singapore, £78,650; to Hong Kong, £113,070; to Shanghai, £22,165; total in gold, £23,510; total in silver, £319,745.

BOARD OF TRADE RETURNS.

The Board of Trade returns for March do not follow up the striking advance shown in the January and February returns over those of last year. On the contrary, compared with those of March, 1871, they show a fractional falling off, the diminution in the declared value of our exportations being £109,032, or ¼ per cent. March last year was, however, a month of extraordinary activity, and, in comparison with the preceding year, the present total exhibits an augmentation of 15 per cent. It appears, at the same time, that the general trade of the country is still increasing in a rapid ratio, and that the cause of the figures for the past month not presenting an advance upon those of last year consists mainly in a great falling off in the German demand for cotton, linen, and woollen yarns. The value of the exports for the month was £19,965,568, against £20,074,600 in March, 1871, and £17,300,210 in March, 1870. The value of the imports for the month was £27,543,441, against £26,647,994 in March, 1871. The amounts taken for home consumption are in most instances short of those given in the corresponding month of last year. There is a serious reduction in cocoa, coffee, sugar and tea, and a less considerable falling-off in tobacco and wine.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

The market during the past week has been very quiet, there having been no general revival of demand since the Easter holidays. The transactions that have taken place show but little change in prices; the chief demand has been for red-leaf Congous from 1s. to 1s. 1½d. per lb. The public sales of the 9th instant comprised 8,620 packages, of which 7,526 packages were sold, all without reserve. The deliveries for the week have been 3,889,423 lbs., against 3,076,227 lbs. last year.

Black.—Congon siftings have sold at about former prices. Broken-leaf kinds have been steady. Fair to good common have sold readily from 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 1½d. per lb. In fair to good Kaisow kinds but little has been done. Fine to finest remain dull of sale. Pak Lin kinds with good leaf have been in fair request. Black-leaf kinds: Low qualities continues in over supply and difficult of sale. Fair to good common have not been so saleable, and prices are a shade lower. Fair to good medium kinds remain steady. In fine to finest but little has been done, and prices show some weakness. Amoy kinds remain unaltered. New make Canton kinds: There have been some sales made at about previous prices for fair quality with good leaf. Oolongs and Souchongs remain difficult of sale at about former rates. In Flowery Pekoes there is nothing new to notice. Scented Tea: Capers show no change, the good qualities have been more in demand than common. Orange Pekoes: Both Foochow and Canton kinds have been sold in small quantities at about former prices. Uncoloured Japans: Low kinds have sold at previous rates, also the fair to good qualities. Green: There has been some improvement in the prices of fair to good and fine Young Hysons, owing to export orders, the advance being 1d. per lb. on the former, and 2d. to 3d. per lb. on the latter; other kinds have been well maintained. Canton kinds show no material alteration.

SILK.

There is no alteration to report in the market.

COFFEE.

On the 10th inst. a larger supply was brought to auction than for some time past. The Plantation Ceylon consisted chiefly of medium to good coloury qualities, which met a good demand at steady prices, fine coloury bringing dearer rates, but low medium kinds went off slowly at former terms. Native and pale kinds were dull of sale, and were all bought in. Plantation sold—triage and ordinary 66s. to 72s., small grey to coloury 72s. to 75s. 6d., low middling 74s. to 75s. 6d., middling 76s. to 79s. 6d., good middling to fine middling bold coloury 80s. to 89s., fine bold bright 90s. 6d. to 93s., peaberry 87s. to 93s. Native was all bought in—good ordinary to fine ordinary at 68s. to 70s. In other East India kinds the only sale to note is of 109 bags Manila at 65s. 6d.; a subsequent offer of 260 bags bold pale quality was bought in at 68s. per cwt. Privately 100 bags good ordinary Native Ceylon, bought in at the auctions, have been sold at 67s.

The Dutch Trading Company announce their next public sale for the 17th inst., when 76,800 bags will be offered, consisting of 66,800 bags Java, 6,000 Menado, and 4,000 Macassar.

SUGAR.

More activity has been displayed in the market during the past week, and considerable sales have been effected, both publicly and privately, on fully former terms, and in some instances at a slight advance upon the prices quoted last mail. Manila has been especially in demand, and a large majority of the transactions reported have been in that description. The following are the details of the business done:—

Manila.—Privately on the spot 2,750 bags old unclayed Taal of ordinary quality have been sold at 22s., 650 bags unclayed Taal at 23s., 12,000 bags Ilo Ilo at 24s., 250 tons unclayed at 24s., and 1,500 bags unclayed Zebu at 24s. At auction 2,430 bags unclayed were bought in at 24s. 6d., also 1,846 bags clayed (duty 4s.) at 28s. 6d. For arrival about 400 tons unclayed Ilo Ilo Manila per Monsoon, arrived off coast, have been sold at 24s. 3d. landed terms.

Penang.—At public sale 900 bags soft qualities sold, good common to good brown (duties 4s. and 4s. 9d.) at 27s. to 29s., low to good yellow (duties 4s. 9d. and 5s. 3d.) at 30s. to 33s.; 222 baskets 2,541 mats low to common date sort were bought in at 24s. to 25s. 6d., except 40 baskets very low, which sold at 23s.

Java.—At the public sales of 2,661 baskets good quality, per Edinburgh and Maxima, offered, 720 baskets good strong grey (duty 5s. 3d.) were sold at 35s. 3d., a few lots 35s. 6d., but chiefly washed grey to fine grainy (duties 5s. 3d. to 5s. 8d.) at 33s. to 36s., the remainder bought in at 35s. to 36s. soft 33s. 6d.

COCOA-NUT OIL.—The market for Ceylon continues dull; at the public sales a large quantity brought forward met a very sluggish demand, and of 534 casks, 52 casks sold, pipes at £37, and good to very fine in hogsheads at £37 5s. to £37 10s. per ton.

CUTCH.—There is a fairly active demand for fine Pegu, on the spot and to arrive, at 27s. to 27s. 6d. per cwt.

GAMBIER.—No transactions during the week.

GALLS.—At public sale 321 cases China were offered and bought in at £2 15s. to £2 17s., but 250 cases have since been taken privately a £2 16s. per cwt.

HEMP.—The market for Manila is unaltered, and at auction 546 bales were sold at steady rates, viz.: good roping at £50 10s. to £50 15s., fully fair £49 15s., fine £52, fine brown £43 15s. to £44, one lot white Quilot at £68 per ton.

HIDES.—At the public sales on Thursday a heavy supply of East India Kips was brought forward, and as the demand was again limited, a large portion was bought in or withdrawn, and for the parcels sold prices showed a reduction of ½d. per lb. For Buffalo there was only a limited desire to buy, and the proportion sold was small, prices being barely maintained. Kips: Of 21,467 dry and brined Penang offered 8,220 sold, light, 6¼ lbs. to 7¼ lbs., at 9½d. to 11½d.; heavy, 9 lbs. to 13½ lbs., at 8½d. to 8¾d.; thirds, 6d. to 7¾d.; 1,000 Rangoon sold, light 9¼d., heavy 8½d. Buffalo: Of 5,444 Singapore and Penang offered 2,760 sold, best heavy average 29¼ lbs. to 37¼ lbs., at 5¼d. to 5½d.; seconds 5d., light 6¼d. 2,325 Batavia and 898 Manila were all withdrawn.

JAPAN WAX.—At public sale a large supply, amounting to 2,045 cases saucers, was chiefly taken off with good competition at steady rates for mixed, but 2s. 6d. lower for good. Of 1,265 cases of fresh import, mostly per Zohrab, offered, 1,100 cases sold, good hard saucer at 85s. 6d. to 86s., middling to fair, slightly mixed, at 82s. 6d. to 85s., good but slightly dirty at 82s. 6d. to 83s. per cwt.

JAPAN COPPER.—352 boxes Japan tile, containing 99¼ to 99¾ per cent. Copper, offered by auction, were withdrawn, but have been since sold at £97.

PEPPER.—Black: There is little demand, and privately forced sales of Penang have been effected at a reduction of ¼d. per lb., viz., at 6⅜d. to 6½d. cash and prompt. At public sale 3,818 bags met few offers, and were nearly all withdrawn; of Singapore only 120 bags sold at 7¼d., and 80 bags Penang at 6⅜d. For arrival 50 tons Singapore distant shipment have been sold at 7d., also 25 tons Penang ditto at 6⅜d. White is again slightly dearer; in auction 145 bags Singapore sold, brown 12¾d., fair 13¼d. to 13½d., fine bold 14d., also 77 bags bold Penang at 13d. to 13⅛d.

RICE.—Steady, with good demand for floating cargoes. Further floating sales of new crop Burmah have been effected, consisting of a cargo of about 1,100 tons Rangoon March shipment at 10s. ex ship London, or 10s. 4½d. Liverpool, and one Necransie at 9s. 6d. ex ship London, one of 800 tons ditto March shipment at 9s. 7½d. open charter; a large floating cargo of 1,400 tons Necransie April shipment at 9s. 6d. open charter; a floating cargo of 1,250 tons Rangoon per steamer, March loading, at 10s. 10½d. ex ship for London; also two cargoes per sailing vessels (full particulars not reported), one Rangoon at 10s. ex ship, and one Necransie at 9s. 7½d. open charter. On the spot 100 tons new Askoolie have been sold at 10s. 9d. quay terms, about 1,800 bags Ballam at 8s. 6d., and 5,000 bags Necransie at 9s. 7½d. cash.

SPICES.—Cinnamon: Quiet; 16 bales Ceylon offered and withdrawn. Chips have met only a limited demand, and of 658 bags offered only 160 bags sold at previous rates; middling to good middling, 5d. to 5¾d.; dust, 2½d. to 2¾d.; broken quill, 1s. 4d. to 1s. 6d; the remainder being bought in at 5½d.; coarse bark at 3d. to 3½d. Nutmegs: 12 cases ordinary limed Java sold at 2s. 5d. to 2s. 8d. Mace: 2 cases very ordinary Singapore sold at 3s. 5d.; 5 cases 11 casks Java were bought in at 3s. 6d. to 3s. 9d., except 2 casks low dark, which sold at 3s. 4d.

SAGO.—In auction of 1,180 bags offered, 561 bags very fine bright sold firmly at 18s. 6d.; of the remainder 160 bags sold at previous rates; middling small, 17s. to 17s. 6d.; medium size, 18s. Flour: Of 859 bags Singapore offered 250 bags sold at some decline at 15s. 9d.

SHELLS.—The periodical sales were held on the 9th inst., with the following results:—Mother-o'-Pearl: Moderate quantities were offered, which did not attract much attention, and barely one-half found buyers, prices showing no alteration for any description. No East India were offered. Tortoise: A good demand prevailed for all good qualities. Shell brought firmer prices, and good hoof was rather dearer, ordinary kinds sold slowly; of a total of 5,200 lbs. offered the bulk was sold; 2 cases (385 lbs.) Manila shell sold, good 24s., fair 19s. 6d., and 15 cases (1,674 lbs.) Singapore chiefly good fair to good shell at 21s. to 22s. 6d., middling 18s. to 19s. Other Shells: Of 47 tons loose and 251 cases, &c., Japan Ear 20 cases and 12 tons sold at 12s., the remainder being bought in at 12s. 6d. to 18s.; 5 baskets and 15,500 loose Green Snail sold at 2d. to 4d. each.

TAPIOCA.—At public sale 2,155 bags Eastern kinds were offered and met a good demand, about one-half being sold at firmer rates, and the remainder held for a further advance and bought in; 721 bags good Penang sold at 2¼d.; of 1,377 bags Singapore 300 bags sold, good 2¼d.; fair to good bold Malacca sort 2d. to 2¼d., 57 bags Penang Arrowroot Tapioca sold at 2½d. Since the sale 400 bags good Singapore ex auction have been sold at 2⅝d., and other parcels of 500 bags ditto also at 2⅝d.

TIN.—A further considerable advance has taken place in Straits, the market here having been favourably influenced by the result of the Rotterdam sale; the current rates are on the spot £159, afloat £159 to £160, showing a rise of £8 per ton on last week's quotations; Banca stands at £164, Billiton at £163 per ton. We learn by telegram that at the Dutch Trading Company's spring sale, which took place at Rotterdam yesterday, the 52,800 slabs of Banca offered were all sold at f.95½ to f.98½, averaging f.96.76, and the 2,800 slabs of Billiton offered were taken at an average of f.94.

TEA.

The market continues to present an unsettled appearance, owing to the question of duties being still undecided. The transactions are limited to the actual requirements for consumption. Quotations remain as last given.

COFFEE.—The market for all descriptions remains in a stagnant and almost nominal state, nor is any permanent improvement looked for until the final disposition of the duty question. All business is deferred until the latest moment, and trade is embarrassed at every step, and, though holders do not press sales, the market is unsettled, and quotations little better than nominal.

CORDAGE.—Prices have been reduced ¼c. to ½c. per lb., as will be seen by the following revised quotations:—Manila, sizes above 12-thread, 19½c.; 6-thread and 9-thread (½ inch and 5-16 inch diam), 20½c.; 12-thread (⅜ inch diam.), 20c.; Manila Hay Rope, 20c.; do. Cordage, Bolt Rope Yarns, 21½c.; do. 6-thread and 9-thread, 22½c.; Tarred Manila, 19c.; fine Tarred Manila Lath Yarn, 20½c.; Sisal Rope, sizes above 12-thread, 17½c.; 6-thread and 9-thread, 18½c.; 12-thread and Hay Rope, 18c.

CAMPHOR.—China is quoted 17c. to 18c. gold (in bond).

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed is quoted $3; Cassia, $2.25 gold (duty paid).

FIRE CRACKERS continue quiet at $1.7½ to 1.10 gold in bond.

GAMBIER.—The current quotation is 5c. gold.

GUNNY CLOTH is very quiet, and prices are nominal at 16c. to 16½c. for native, and 17 for Borneo.

HEMP.—There is nothing doing in Manila; the nominal quotation is 12½c. to 12½c. gold, but sales would be only practicable at a decline upon these rates. The supplies received by Dunedin and Kate Carnie had been sold previous to arrival.

INDIGO.—Manila quiet, at 90c. to $1.10c. currency.

RICE.—There has been an increase of activity in the market during the week, and Rangoon is slightly higher, sales to fair extent being reported at $6.87½ to 7.25 currency duty paid, and $3.25 to 3.50 gold in bond.

SUGAR.—The market is dull; the receipts are quite moderate for the season, and the stock receives small accessions, gaining but little from week to week. Holders for the most part are firm, preferring now to store than to accept any further reduction in price, current rates, it is understood, paying a loss to the importer. On the other hand, refiners find little encouragement in the market for their product to purchase largely, and their operations are consequently confined to the supply of their immediate wants. The trade are doing very little, business with the interior being both backward and small. The sales of the week include 73,197 bags Ilo Ilo, ex St. Albans, at 7⅞c., and 10,000 bags Manila, terms and vessel not reported.

SPICES.—Invoices are very quiet, but, though the stock of Nutmegs, Mace and Pepper has been considerably increased by recent arrivals from Singapore, &c., holders seem confident and do not force sales. The demand is not active for store lots, but there is still a fair distributing business, and prices for most goods are strong at quoted rates, viz.:—$1.25 for prime Mace, 95 to 97½ cents for Nutmegs, 29 to 30 for China Cassia, 30 to 32 for Batavia Cassia, 17 to 18½ for Black Pepper, 37½ for White, 16 for Cloves, and 7½ for Clove Stems, all gold.

TIN.—There is some disposition among operators in Pig to wait the result of the Dutch sale of 11th April, but prices, however, remain steady at the recent advance, with considerable business in Straits, at 39½ to 40 cents; and in Banca at 46, gold.

CASUALTIES.

Advices from Rotterdam, dated April 5, state that only a very small portion of the cargo was damaged which was discharged from the Macassar (ship), Bose, from Macassar to Amsterdam, which put into Table Bay, Feb. 27, leaky.

The Louisa, McIntosh, which vessel sailed from Shields, March 26, for Hong Kong, put into Falmouth, April 6, with windlass broken, loss of anchor, and 45 fathoms of chain.

Advices received from Amsterdam, dated April 6, state that the Nieuwe Waterweg II., Zwart, from Batavia, was in collision with the Elisabeth, and both vessels are reported damaged.

A telegram from Sourabaya, dated April 6, states as follows:—The Henriette Geertruida, de Boer, which had been towed in there leaky, had been condemned, and was to be sold; the cargo would be forwarded by other vessels.

A telegram received from Calcutta, dated April 8, states as follows: The Alnwick Castle (str.), from Colombo, was spoken by the City of Oxford (str.) in lat. 8 N., lon. 71 E., with engines disabled, which she hoped to repair, otherwise she would proceed to Bombay.

The Adriatic, Cappon, which arrived at New York, March 23, from Hiogo, reported having experienced a typhoon, Oct. 10, in the China sea, during which she sprung her rudder and lost and split sails.

Secretary (pro tem.)—Captain A. WOOD, F.R.G.S.

OFFICES—No. 103, CANNON-STREET, LONDON.

PROSPECTUS.

This Company is formed to connect New York with England, and to connect the West Indies directly both with New York and England, without, in either case, the intervention of any system of land lines. It is further apparent, that, when the lines of this Company are laid, it will require but a comparatively short Cable to continue telegraphic communication to Brazil, by a route which will not only be short, but will, at the same time, have the great advantage of connecting Brazil both with England and New York by direct lines.

The route adopted for these purposes is from the best possible point to be selected near Land's End to the Island of Bermuda, with one line thence to a point as near New York as possible, and another to the Island of St. Themas in the West Indies.

A contract for the making and laying of the cables for the price of £1,330.000, and dated the 8th day of April, 1872, has been made between Hooper's Telegraph Works, Limited, of the one part, and this Company of the other part, upon the basis of a specification for a similar Cable recommended by Sir Samuel Canning, C.E., and Latimer Clark, Esq., C.E., last year and recently revised by Sir William Thomson, LL.D., F.R.S., and Fleeming Jenkin, Esq., F.R.S., C.E.

As a practical guarantee for care in the manufacture and laying of the Cables. the Directors have stipulated that the Contractors shall take, by themselves and their connections, Shares to the amount of one-third of the Capital.

A working agreement has been made between the Great Northern Telegraph Company and this Company, which secures to the latter the traffic from Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Russia, China and Japan, passing over the lines of the Great Northern Telegraph Company and intended for America.

It has further been arranged with the Great Northern Telegraph Company that, when that Company establishes its projected North Atlantic Line, a joint purse agreement on an equitable basis will be made with this Company with reference to North American traffic, which arrangement will give this Company the important advantage of a duplicate route between England and America.

The smallness of the capital required by this Company compared with that of other Atlantic Cable Companies, will enable this Company to establish a lower tariff, and thus not only to open telegraphic communication with America and the West Indies, to a large class of the community who have hitherto been debarred from it by existing tariffs, but at the same time to increase the number of messages from those who have hitherto sent them sparingly.

It is intended to reduce the charge for the transmission of ordinary messages between England and America to one-half the present rate, or £1 for every ten words, and to adopt a similar system for messages to the West Indies.

In addition to the important share of the New York and North American traffic which will by these means and otherwise accrue to this Company, a large revenue is expected from the West Indian Islands and places which are already, or will shortly be, in telegraphic communication with the same, a traffic which will only be fully developed when this direct line has been established. The Island of Bermuda as an important shipping station will also yield traffic of some value.

It is therefore estimated, even taking into consideration the tariff reduction referred to above, and after making a liberal allowance for working expenses and reserve fund, that a large profit will be realised. By the adoption of a system of deferred messages, to be sent at a cheaper rate, it is expected that a further addition to profit will be ensured.

The principle of co-operation will be adopted by giving a discount to shareholders holding not less than 100 shares, of 10 per cent. on messages sent by them.

Applications for Shares must be made to the Bankers, on the form hereto annexed, accompanied by the deposit of £2 per Share. Should no allotment be made, the amount paid will be returned without deduction.

Prospectuses and Forms of Application can be had of the Bankers, of Messrs. P. Cazenove and Co., 52, Threadneedle-street, and Messrs. Walker and Lumsden, 9, Old Broad-street, and at the Company's offices. Copies of the Memorandum and Articles of Association of the Company, and the Contract and Agreement above referred to, can be inspected at the office of the Solicitor, and at the Company's offices by intending subscribers.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

WHEN emerging from the winter and entering on spring it is a wise and wholesome precaution to purify and cool the system by some alterative, competent to regulate disordered actions, and to strengthen while it cleanses. This long-sought medicine exists in Holloway's far-famed purifying and tonic Pills, which cost only a trifle, and will ward off serious illnesses which too frequently reduce competency to poverty—enjoyment to misery. This medicine, so innocent in its nature, and so searching in its operation, is suitable for all ages and for both sexes. It is especially adapted for soldiers and sailors, and is an indispensable requisite for colonists and persons proceeding to foreign countries where climates harass the constitution.

THE MAILS, &c.

The French mail, bringing the above dates, was delivered, via Marseilles, this morning, its due date. The next inward mail (P. and O.), with dates, Yokohama March 12, Shanghai March 15, Hong Kong March 21, Singapore March 28, is due, via Brindisi on Monday next, the 29th inst. The advices from Yokohama to the 28th Feb., per Pacific mail steamer Great Republic, were received in London on the 16th inst. The homeward French mail due here on the 6th prox. will probably be brought on by the following P. and O. steamer, and will not reach London before the 13th, the Messageries Maritimes steamer Hoogly having broken down between Singapore and Galle.

Telegrams by the China Submarine and Red Sea Lines are being received with the usual regularity, occupying, allowing for difference of time, four to five hours in transmission. The Great Northern Telegraph Company's cable between Hong Kong and Shanghai, which was interrupted on the 6th inst., is again in working order. Messages for Shanghai and Japan are therefore being sent as usual via Falmouth and the China Submarine Company's lines.

By next mail from Hong Kong the Barossa will receive orders to proceed at once to the Fiji and neighbouring islands, in consequence of the murders which have been recently perpetrated there, and to inquire into the "emigration," or slave trade carried on between the islands and Australia.

Mr. F. V. Dickins was summoned before Mr. C. O. Shepard United States Charge d'Affaires, for alleged contempt of court. The alleged contempt arose out of some observations said to have been made by Mr. Dickins in respect of a recent decision in the United States Court. Mr. Shepard dismissed the summons.

The announcement that there will shortly be held an animal, bird, and flower show is one which we feel sure will be received with pleasure by the members of this community, the more so that for some time past there has been nothing to excite the interest or even to attract the attention of those among us by whom athletics are uncared for. biting. and although there has been a little harmless banter at the introduction of "mice, and rats, and such small deer" and a few other singular objects, there can be no doubt that some interest will attach to the affair. The list, as we have already said, includes almost everything, and we trust that there will be no hesitation on the part of owners in producing those specimens which may be of some interest to the public generally.

We have already alluded to the delay in the opening of the creek, which has been caused by the unsatisfactory manner in which the walls have been built. The delay is, without question, one of considerable importance both to foreigners and natives. There are many houses whose business operations are greatly delayed or restricted by the closing of the creek. Thus the P. and O. Company suffer, not only loss of time but loss of money by the circuitous route they are compelled to take in order to get their coal barges alongside the steamers.

There was a heavy fall of snow at Yokohama on the 5th March. The steamer from San Francisco arrived on the 5th, seven days over due.

HIOGO AND OSAKA.

The Pacific mail has brought us advices from these ports to the 26th February; the Pacific mail from San Francisco, Jan. 1, arrived on the 8th, and the P. and O. mail, from London Dec. 29, on the 24th Feb.; telegrams from London had been received up the 16th Feb. The following items of news are from the Hiogo News:—

We have to announce the opening of a Government postal service. How it may be answering expectations in other parts we have not yet heard, but we have been favoured with a few notes about the working of the local arrangements here. There are now three posts daily between Kobe and Osaka, leaving each end about the hours of nine A.M., twelve noon, and six P.M. If a steamer should be leaving about any of those times, the letters are sent by her; if not, they are carried by relays of special messengers, whose time varies from three to five hours.

One of the most noticeable incidents has been the annual parade of the Native Fire Brigades, for the double purpose of displaying their new clothes and making a noise. We noticed a small one-cylinder Dutch fire-engine amongst the other implements displayed; but when we came to look at it we found the whole affair was as dry as could be; and in no fit condition to attend a fire. It is a pity that it is nobody's business to point out to the native authorities the advisability of keeping this little machine in good order. The American Fire Company have mustered for their usual monthly practice, and were exercised with the old engine, the performance of which is now giving much satisfaction, water being successfully thrown a hundred and twenty feet.

We have to chronicle the arrival of the new Governor of Hiogo, Kanda Takahira, formerly the Vice President of the Parliament, and belonging to the Tokugawa clan. The unpopularity of the late Governor Nakayama, is decidedly a point in favour of the present possessor of the office, irrespective of his personal merits, and we sincerely hope that a greater smoothness in the working of the relations between the native authorities and the foreign residents, represented by the Consular body, will be one of the fruits of the change which has taken place.

A rifle match between six representatives, H.M.S. Thistle, Sylvia, and the K. R. and A. C. has been shot. The day was cold, and unfavourable for good shooting, there also being a strong wind blowing across the range. The Kobe team had to provide a substitute at the last moment, owing to the unavoidable absence of one of their number. The five who had already shot cast lots, and the task of representing the absentee fell upon Mr. Sim, who had to score thirty-one to tie the Sylvias. All doubts as to his capability of doing this were dissipated after his first range (300 yards), and the Kobe men were eventually declared the winners, their total heading the Sylvias and Thistles by seventeen and fifty-four respectively. Arrangements are being made for another match between the same competitors.

Four shocks of earthquake have been experienced in Kobe. These phenomena seem to be much more frequent here these last few months than they have been for some years past. We rarely hear of any damage being done by them in this neighbourhood, but on this occasion we believe a few tiles were shaken down. We hope these repeated visitations are not the preliminaries to a catastrophe.

Ten men who were confined in the prison in the rear of the native town, under sentence of death, have managed to make their escape, and have not since been heard of.

NAGASAKI.

NAGASAKI, FEB. 21 (VIA SAN FRANCISCO).

Our settlement has unfortunately been twice visited by fires this month, but no building of the better class has to be recorded as destroyed. The Russian corvette Boyarin left this port for Yokohama on the 18th ult., beyond which nothing is to be recorded respecting the movements of the war vessels. The Russian vessels Ermay and Vornostay are the only men-of-war in port. The native Christian question appears to have dropped. An official denial that the persons punished at Simabara were Christians has appeared. The mails of the 24th Nov., 1st, 8th, 15th, 22nd, and 29th Dec. have been received here; the last-named this morning, fifty four days out from London.

An attempt has been made to regulate the value of the small coins now in circulation here by reducing them to the value which the new coinage will have when it arrives. After two days' trial the scheme appears to have been abandoned, as it only raised discontent amongst the working classes, who looked upon the business as confiscation.

The British barque Carnarvonshire, with tea for New York, left for Hiogo on the 19th instant, where she completes her loading on charterers' account. Exchange on London 4s. 7d. per dollar nominal. Nebuken:—404 bus per $100. There is no vessel loading for London.

In consequence of the late fires the Consular authorities, in whose hands the municipal duties are placed, called a meeting with the view of forming a fire brigade. I learn that Mr. Gribble proposed. and Mr. H. A. Howe, jun., seconded:—that a Hook and Ladder Company be formed, which was carried. Mr. C. Rasch proposed, and Mr. Flowers seconded, that a Fire Brigade be formed, and that a committee be formed to draw up rules and invite the residents to join, which was also carried; and Messrs. C. Rasch, W. Robertson, Stein, H. A. Howe, jun., H. J. Hunt and J. van der Pot agreed to serve.

The fire engines in the hands of the agents of the Fire Insurance Company are to be handed over to the Brigade One of these was presented to the Armed Fire Brigade of 1865, which body collapsed entirely, owing to expenses the leaders put the members to.

CHINA.

TIENTSIN.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

The river is open off here, but at Taku it is closed with ice. I don't think it will be navigable till 5th March. Regarding the Mahomedan rebellion, you may rest assured that it exists. and is a serious affair for this dynasty. I mentioned in one of my letters to you that the military mandarin at the head of Li-hung-Chang's southern army, called Woo, had, in consequence of some squabbling in the street, arrested and summarily beheaded a man who was a Mahomedan. As the step was contrary to law, the Tientsin mandarin drew up a petition to Peking; and some four or five days back some Peking police arrested four men connected with the affair, and took them to Peking for examination. The Mahomedans are a very powerful body in the north of China, and by combination can force the Central Government to examine into the affair and make some endeavours to do justice. The military mandarin Woo being a southerner, and having only lately arrived, was not aware of the power of the Mahomedans; otherwise he would have been careful of irritating them, even if he was backed by all Li-hung-Chang's power. The Taoutai, the mandarin with whom foreign officials do business, is at Paoutingfoo for the Chinese holidays, and nothing can be done at this moment officially. But even when here he and the Consuls don't pull together.

Letters of February 16th from Peking speak of Chung How being soon expected, and that it is thought he may become a member of the Tsung-li Yamun. If he has imbibed Western civilisation through his visit to Europe and America he will be an addition to the Yamun, as his knowledge will infuse new life and some common sense into the office. Really, however, no one knows where Chung How will be posted; and I don't suppose any one will, till he has had a conversation with the leading minds of the Central Government. There are all kinds of rumours here and at Peking amongst the people; some say that Li-hung Chang is going to be Governor-General in Kansuh and Shensi; others again that he is going as Viceroy to Kwangtung. As Kwangtung will be the "fattest" post, I should say he would prefer it to going to Kansuh. Having an army of over 100,000 southern men, he would be most useful in Kansuh in trying to put down the rebellion. The Diplomatic Corps, owing to the gulf which separates them from the Chinese high officers, through want of any social life, scarcely know anything of the Chinese affairs till they become actual facts in action; so we can't learn anything of the future through that channel, as we do in Western capitals, where diplomatic people mix socially with the authorities of the capital.

SHANGHAI.

Our advices from this port extend to the 8th March; the French mail from London, Jan. 19, arrived out on the previous day. The following summary of news is from the North China Herald:—

Our readers may remember a memorial that Censor Chang-yun published in the Peking Gazette of the 4th August regarding the province of Hunan. The disaffected classes were constantly rising. No sooner had the Governor reported the suppression of one than there was another outbreak. The local mandarins concealed the existence of the brigands, on condition of sharing their plunder; and the higher officials accepted their reports, and probably their share of the profits, without inquiry. The Imperial authorities seemed to be moved beyond their wont by this outspoken memorial, ordered the proclamation of martial law, and instructed the Futai to report officials who failed to maintain order in their districts, and also military officers who were dilatory or incompetent. The Gazette of the 25th January contains an edict referring to the same subject. The Futai, who was abruptly dismissed last November, is now found guilty of having concealed the real extent of the troubles, and is handed over to the Board of Punishment; a district magistrate who let off certain members of a secret society is dismissed and banished to the frontier, and a colonel is degraded to the rank of captain for not maintaining proper discipline among his troops—that is to say, probably, for having connived, for a consideration, at the rampant brigandage. The Gazette of January 27th continues the tale. One prefect and one sub-prefect are dismissed from the Imperial service for ever; two district magistrates are deprived of rank and office; and two others are degraded in rank.

We hear that the present Taoutai of Shanghai is to hand over his seals of office to his successor, Sun, who comes down from Chinkiang. The intended change was announced some time ago, but has been delayed. The present incumbent goes as Provincial Judge to Hunan.

A row occurred on the 29th Feb. between the French police and some Chinese marines. The latter, as is the wont of their class, wanted to see a theatrical performance without paying. The owner of the theatre resisted, and they tried to carry him off. The police interfered, and the gunboat-men fought them. Eventually several were arrested. These were brought before the (French) Mixed Court, and sent in to the Taoutai for punishment. We hear also that the Consul-General has peremptorily requested the Taoutai to order the gunboat-men to be kept on board their boats, or at least out of the foreign settlement.

An appeal case from Foochow, Westray and Gibb v. J. Foster and Co., has come before the Supreme Court. This appeal was to reverse a finding of the Consular Court at Foochow, which had the effect of nullifying a judgment of the Supreme Court of New York, in favour of appellants, for $50,000. The Court here sustains the appeal, and therefore enforces the judgment of the New York Court. The following is the judgment delivered by Mr. Goodwin:—

This case was decided in the Provincial Court of Foochow in favour of the defendants, and against this decision the plaintiffs appeal. An action was brought by the appellants, who are an American firm, residing in New York, U.S.A., upon a judgment obtained by them against the respondents in the Supreme Court of New York, for the sum of $50,942.64, and the question is whether that judgment can be taken here as conclusive. The respondent put in no answer in the Court below, but appeared and pleaded that he had a large counter-claim against the appellants, and also that he had not had legal notice of the suit in New York and that he had authorised his brother in Canada to protect his interests, employing a certain Mr. Ward as lawyer; and that his brother died before the suit came to hearing. The Court below found that the evidence of the defendant John Forster was wanting at the hearing before the Supreme Court at New York, and that therefore the evidence before the said Court was incomplete, and it thereupon went into the case again and found in favour of the defendant.

What I have to decide is, whether the Court below or this Court can reopen the question decided in the Foreign Court of New York. It is well established that an English Court will ordinarily not reject a foreign judgment as evidence of a debt, where all things upon the face of the judgment appear to have been rightly performed, and no question as to jurisdiction is raised, unless it be shown extrinsically that the judgment was obtained by fraud, or by means clearly contrary to natural justice, as, for instance, without any notice, summons, or appearance of the party defendant, or any equivalent proceeding. Now, in the present case, the judgment appears upon the face of it to be perfectly regular, according to the procedure of the Supreme Court of New York. An answer was put in to the suit by Mr. Ward, as attorney for the defendant, Mr. Foster, from instructions given him by that gentleman himself, when at New York, in 1869, from written memoranda and from divers consultations held with him. From Mr. Foster's own evidence it appears that he gave Mr. Ward authority in writing to defend the case. I cannot hold the allegation of the defendant, that he asked his brother in Canada to protect his interests in conjunction with Mr. Ward, and that his brother unfortunately died before the hearing, sufficient to show that any unfair advantage was taken of him. The whole case and the claims on both sides, as appears by the report of Mr. Nicoll, the referee to whom, according to the practice of the Supreme Court of New York, the case was referred, were gone into by that gentleman and the proofs heard—and his report was adopted by the Court. No defence has been raised which would in my opinion warrant a Court either of Law or Equity in England to reject the judgment; and I must accordingly overrule the decision of the Court below, and hold the plaintiffs entitled to recover the sum they claim, with costs in the original action and also the costs of this appeal.

An important case has come before a Confiscation Court, comprising the Taoutai, the United States Consul-General, and the Commissioner of Customs. The China and Japan Trading Company ordered from England a supply of munitions of war for Japan. They arrived by steamer from England at Shanghai, and were here transhipped for Japan. The Customs claim that the importation even for transhipment was illegal, and that the arms are liable to confiscation. The case was referred to Peking for decision.

The Philharmonic Society has given its second concert for the season, in the Masonic Hall. There was a full attendance, and the programme prepared gave lively satisfaction. A very successful performance has been given at the Club Concordia Theatre by the German amateurs; the piece was the vaudeville posse in four acts, Robert and Bertram, performed in the same theatre five seasons ago.

A paper hunt handicap, the closing event of the season, was run on the 4th March, under favourable circumstances as regards ground and weather. The first prize was a cup presented by Mr. Morgan, of Hong Kong; the second, a cup presented by the Stewards of the Hunt Club; the third, a cup presented by a visitor. The race between the first ponies up was close throughout. Mr. Symonds won; Mr. Meller second, Mr. Knight third, Mr. Turnbull fourth.

We are glad to see that two new roads are being made at the head of the Maloo. The connecting link in the Yunnan road, between the Hankow and Foochow roads, is being supplied. The section abutting on the Hupeh road, where this turns off towards the Ningpo Joss-house, is already marked out, so that there will be a straight drive from the Maloo opposite to the Racket Court, on to the French road to Sikawei. A new road has also been cut from the Maloo straight into Kiukiang road, starting nearly opposite the Mixed Court from the western junction of the Maloo and Chekeang roads. We hear there is an idea of cutting another parallel road in a straight line from the point of junction of the Chekeang and Kiukiang roads, across the Maloo out into the Ningpo road and possibly on to the Soochow Creek.

In accordance with the notice lately issued by Mr. Henderson, the three old poles at the Woosung bar have been removed, and the red and white lights intended to lead over the bar are now exhibited at sunset. The Kwashing has towed the Newchwang lightship out to sea on its way northward. Mr. Henderson will shortly take the Kwashing and Relief up the Yangtsze, to place the new buoys lately arrived from England.

A Peking correspondent writes that nothing of special moment has occurred. The weather is delightful—warm and spring like, and the canals and rivers are opening rapidly.

A public dinner was given at Hankow on the 29th Feb. to H. M. Consul, Mr. Caine, on the occasion of his departure for another port. A heavy fall of snow took place at that port on the 2nd March.

THE SHAM FIGHT.

A very successful sham fight between the volunteers and men of H.M.S. Juno came off on the 4th of March on the banks of the Soochow Creek. The following account of the engagement is forwarded by a correspondent.

The fight was even more interesting than the Battle of the Bubbling Well, fought between the same parties last January. On that occasion, it will be remembered, the sailors and marines from H.M. ships Juno and Curlew advanced on the Settlement from the direction of Sicawei and Fahwah, and were driven back by the volunteers on the Bubbling Well. This time the case was reversed. Landing from boats near the Upper S.R.C. boathouse, the blue jackets drove back the volunteers on the "Hovel." Both parties started from the Bund about the same time—the blue jackets, in boats for the Soochow Creek, the volunteers headed by their band, up the Maloo, for the neighbourhood of Sinza, where they expected to find the enemy. The latter had already landed when the volunteers reached the junction of the Sinza and Cross roads; and the Miholongs were suddenly thrown out as skirmishers, to answer the fire that was opened from the broken ground below the Canton Cemetery. No. 3 Rifle Company was also extended on their left, Nos. 1 and 2 forming the support and reserve, while the Artillery opened upon the enemy's position from the road. As the blue jackets advanced, the volunteers, admirably handled, swung round behind the Canton Cemetery, and took up a position, defended in front by the well-known Narrow Creek, behind the graves which cover the fields in that neighbourhood. They had suffered somewhat in reaching this position, but, once there, were under splendid cover. And now came the real tug of war. The Volunteer Artillery pitched in shell from the rear; the Miholongs, from behind a long grave, which covered the whole company, poured in volley after volley upon the bridge by which the blue jackets sought to advance, while the latter, extended along the banks of the creek, kept up a rattling fire on this obstacle and on the riflemen who were firing from behind every possible and impossible cover, their howitzer at the same time pouring in a deadly fire.

At length the enemy had discovered a low dyke, less exposed than the bridge, by which they were able to throw over an attacking force. This was the turning-point of the fight. The volunteers retired, skirmishing alternately by companies at every convenient position, while the Artillery retreated on to the Sinza Road, and fired from long range on the advancing troops. All, however, was in vain. The blue jackets came on in column, with admirable steadiness, firing volleys as they advanced, in spite of all the efforts of our skirmishers, and in the face of repeated volleys from the reserve, fired at 200 yds. distance into their solid masses. On they came with fixed swords, in spite of everything—and met the volunteers drawn up to welcome them on the open field near Trefancha, in the neighbourhood of sundry casks of beer and tables covered with bread and cheese and sandwiches. Around these the fight was resumed with almost as great vigour as before; some three hundred thirsty men, all struggling simultaneously to hold a glass under a tap; excited rangers begging civilians to hold their ponies while they joined in the frantic effort; and civilians clinging manfully to excited ponies that danced war dances to the stirring strains of the band, in circles of admiring spectators.

Eventually every one was satisfied, or at any rate the casks were emptied; and the order was given to fall in for the return march—the men-of-war's men in front, the band heading the volunteers in the rear. The bund was reached about five P M., and after firing a few volleys, alternately kneeling and standing, the men were dismissed. The "out" was, in every sense of the word, a success. Volunteers and sailors alike enjoyed it, and each got some good drill practice. The ground was a little soft for lying down on, after the late rain, and the roads were not altogether of the nature of asphalte; but these were minor nuisances, incidental to campaigning, and caused more fun than distress.

HONG KONG.

The dates by this opportunity extend to March 14; the outward mail of Jan. 26 arrived out on March 8. The news of the week is extremely meagre.

The police seem always at fault; the China Mail thus comments:—That the introduction of a new and more highly paid element into the police force had, despite the obvious necessity of the measure, already caused some dissatisfaction amongst the older members of the body, we have already intimated, and it becomes worth while to consider how far the complaints made by those thus passed over are well-founded. The great object of both the Government and the public, so far as the police are concerned, is to obtain the most efficient force upon the most reasonable terms. We do not mean by this the cheapest terms, but such as, while justly recompensing the labour of the individuals employed, is fair to the public purse. A temperate consideration of the existing conditions of the police force will, we conceive, tend to aid any efforts towards its greater efficiency, and in this spirit we propose to offer a few remarks. The constables newly engaged at home receive, as we are informed, a higher rate of pay than the old members of the force, while they perform only the same duties, live at the same mess, and are put to the same expenses as their more locally experienced companions. The new men receive $40 per month, which is the same as that given to the old regime sergeants, and $8 more than is received by corporals, and just $10 more than the first-class constables their equals in rank.

The following account of the average amount of Bank Notes in circulation in Hong Kong, during the month ending 29th February, 1872, is published in the Gazette:—

Oriental Bank Corporation	$741,604
Chartered Mercantile Bank of India, London, and China	534,075
Chartered Bank of India, Australia, and China	432,795
Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation	955,373
Total	$2,663,847

The Gaol authorities obtained information that four out of a gang of convicts at work at the Harbour Master's intended to make good their escape, it is believed in a boat which was to be in attendance, at the first opportunity. This, however, was prevented by Mr. Grey and a party going down and bringing up the four men. Had they once got into a boat it would be useless to attempt to go after them, as if the police got into a sampan the boatmen would not pull sufficiently quick to overtake them, and this the intended runaways knew. Their only anxiety was to see that no police boat should be near.

The French mail steamer from Japan brings a number of Japanese, who, together with their suite, about thirty in all, are about to proceed to France, with what object, however, is not known. They wear European costume, and two of them take with them their wives, who are also attired in European fashion.

It is, we hear, probable that within a few days a new company will make its appearance, an eminent local firm undertaking the managing agency. The names mentioned, and the hitherto satisfactory results of the business thus to be converted into a joint-stock undertaking, should be a sufficient guarantee of future success.

Vice-Admiral Shadwell, C.B., and staff left for Canton in H.M.S. Salamis. He will probably return on Saturday.

The Daily Press has the following on the Acting Chief Justice Ball:—

It is with much regret that we feel constrained to write upon a subject which has long occupied public attention, but upon which we have hitherto refrained from commenting—partly on account of its painful nature, and partly in the hope that the course of future events would render comment unnecessary. The time has, however, come when the public interests imperatively demand that all reserve should be thrown aside, and that a plain statement should be made concerning the infirmity under which the gentleman occupying the position of Acting Chief Justice of this colony unfortunately labours. It is a matter of public notoriety that the excitement of proceedings at trials has the effect of bringing on fits, in which the Acting Chief Justice loses consciousness, and in consequence of which cases have repeatedly to be adjourned. In the important case now before him, this has happened twice, and the same thing has over and over again occurred, though, from a feeling of delicacy, no prominent attention has been called to it. We should be the last to uphold any want of sympathy in so sad an affliction, but while sympathy may be felt with the individual, it cannot with propriety be extended to the judge, upon whom the rights, liberty, and at times even the lives, of the members of the community depend. Indeed, in strictness, the present acting judge cannot be considered free from blame in continuing to occupy an office for which he must feel he is unfitted. The consequences of a judge not being fully aware of every detail that transpires during a case brought before him, may be of the most awful nature. It is no slight matter for there to be the smallest chance of ordinary justice being miscarried from such a cause, but in criminal cases, where error or misdirection may deprive men of their liberties or lives, inflicting in the one case an injury which can seldom be repaired, and in the other one which cannot be repaired at all, the gravity of the responsibility is such that no person should think of undertaking the office of Judge unless he feels that he is able thoroughly to perform the duties attaching to it. If he finds that he is unable to do so, it clearly becomes his duty to give up his post.

The gun-boat Algerine is to be put up for sale on the 2nd April.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

The dates extend to the 22nd March. The outward mail of 16th February arrived on the 17th March. The following summary of news is from the file of the Daily Times:—

The last Government Gazette announces that the next criminal session of the Supreme Court at Singapore will open on Monday, the 8th April. It contains also the following notifications:—

His Excellency the Administrator has been pleased to appoint the Honourable C. J. Irving to be Acting Colonial Secretary, vice the Honourable J. W. W. Birch, who is incapacitated by illness from performing the duties of the office.

The Right Honourable the Secretary of State for the Colonies has been pleased to appoint Captain Innes, R.E., and Lieutenant Satterthwaite R E., to be Assistant Colonial Engineers and Surveyors-General for the Straits Settlements; also Corporals Edward O'Donnell, and Charles Sweeney, R E., to be Assistant Surveyors.

The Lord Bishop of the diocese, who is at present at Malacca, (having completed his visitation to Penang), is expected here by the S. S. Sharpshooter. His Lordship will, we understand, leave for Sarawak by the first opportunity after his arrival. His next visit to the Straits Settlements will probably be in November or December, when he will make a more lengthened stay amongst us.

The U. S. frigate Saco is hourly expected from the United States via Suez Canal. She was, it is said, signalled at Penang when the mail steamer Columbian left.

The British steamer Lotus, Capt. Gibson, from London 23rd December, via Suez Canal, Kurrachee, Calicut, Cochin, Galle, and Penang, arrived at the Tanjong Pagar Wharf on the 17th inst.

The riots among the tin miners at Larroot are certainly to be deplored, particularly as one-third of the tin exported from Penang is brought from that territory. There is, however, little prospect of Government interference to help the Rajah out of his difficulties. Though assistance might be given to defend him from a foreign foe, yet this incipient rebellion cannot bear such an interpretation, notwithstanding that the people in arms are of foreign nationality. The report, however, that arms, ammunition, and supplies are furnished to the combatants from Penang is a matter in which it is plainly the duty of the Government to exert itself, in order that it may not be accused of shutting its eyes to a flagrant breach of neutrality towards a ruler with whom it is on terms of friendship. There is a strong feeling in Penang in favour of annexing the territory at once; but it should be borne in mind that this is impossible under the existing disabilities of the Colonial Government, annexation, or even treaty making being entirely out of the province of the Colonial-office administration. If, however, the Government sees its way clear to lend the Rajah any support, by permitting him either to raise supplies or enlist men in the colony, we think the exigencies of the case, and the interests of our trade, require that it should do so.

We understand that a telegram has been received from his Excellency Governor Ord, at Galle, announcing his arrival there, and that he would probably reach Penang on the 24th March, and requesting the Pluto to be sent up there to bring him down here via Malacca. His Excellency will remain about a week in Penang.

We learn that the steamer Tanah Merah, originally intended to ply between Singapore and Bangkok, has been chartered for twelve months by Messrs. Cheng Tee, Wat Seng and Co., to run backwards and forwards between Saigon and Hong Kong.

The troop ship Orontes, which sailed from Portsmouth on the 12th January with the 80th regiment of infantry, has arrived, and the regiment is quartered in the Tanglin barracks. The Orontes subsequently left for Hong Kong with the battery of the royal artillery and the wing of the 10th regiment. We cannot help thinking a serious blunder has been made in so greatly reducing the military force—the strength of the 80th regiment being only 681 officers and men, all told. Of these we understand one company will go to Malacca and two to Penang; and as the native infantry are to be withdrawn, the available military force at Singapore will only be about equal to one wing of a European regiment.

THE TREATY BETWEEN CHINA AND JAPAN.

We have received by the present mail the subjoined translation of the Treaty concluded between the Chinese and Japanese Governments:—

China and Japan have long been friendly; but now desire to improve their relations and to render them more permanent. There have, therefore, been appointed on the part of China as Plenipotentiary, his Excellency Earl Li Hung-chang, Commissioner for Commerce, Guardian of the Heir-apparent, Chancellor of State, President of the Board of War and Viceroy of Chihli; and on the part of Japan, Tsung, High Minister of State, in conjunction with E and Tah, each in accordance with instruction from their respective Sovereigns, to confer together and deliberate on articles of agreement to be observed perpetually and without infringement, by each State; and they have agreed as follows:—

I.

Henceforward China and Japan shall draw closer to each other; and to render their friendship enduring, the behaviour of each towards the other shall be that of mutual respect, without depreciation on either side. Thus lasting peace shall be maintained.

II.

China and Japan being friendly, either shall, in case of experiencing injustice or wrong from another State be entitled to assistance or good offices from the other.

III.

The laws of the two countries being different, neither shall seek to impose its own views on the other; but each shall afford mutual protection to merchants and people, and no violation of the law by residents in either country shall be allowed.

IV.

The Ambassadors of each country shall, with their families and suite, have access to Peking and Yedo respectively, either for permanent residence or on a visit. Each Ambassador shall bear his own expenses; and shall be at liberty to rent houses or land for official purposes. Each shall have facility for the carriage of his effects, and for sending despatches, &c.

V.

Although the officials of each country have grades of rank, these do not exactly correspond. It is agreed, therefore, that those who are about the same rank shall correspond on terms of equality. Those in subordinate positions shall give precedence to those in higher rank, and shall accord to them the due ceremonies. Despatches shall be addressed, by either side, to an officer of corresponding rank with the writer, and not to a higher official. In case of interviews the rank and name of the visitor must appear on his card. When a Japanese official first arrives in China, he shall at once address to the local authorities a communication bearing his seal, to guard against forgeries, and vice versa.

VI.

Correspondence between the two States shall be carried on henceforward by China in the Chinese character, and by Japan in the Japanese character with a copy in Chinese, or in Chinese alone as the Japanese Government may find convenient.

VII.

The two States shall indicate to each other, respectively, the ports in each which are open to foreign trade; and to which subjects of either may go for trade, subject to regulations which shall be conformed to.

VIII.

The two States may appoint Consuls at each of these open ports for the control of their respective subjects. All questions of litigation, administration of property, &c., arising among their own nationals, shall be determined by the Consuls, according to their own laws. In questions where subjects of both countries are concerned the complainant shall address a petition to the Consul of the accused, who shall first endeavour to bring about a settlement of the case; and, failing this, shall acquaint the local authorities, who will investigate it, arrest offenders, and recover debts; but who shall not be required to make good the losses of individuals.

IX.

If either State have no Consul at a Treaty port, its subjects who may be resident there shall be subject to the local authorities. In case of offences being committed the local authorities shall investigate them and arrest culprits, so far as their own subjects are concerned; or on the other hand submit the case to the nearest Consul for adjudication.

X.

The subjects of either State residing at the open ports are to maintain friendly intercourse. They are not to carry swords nor other weapons. Those offending in this respect shall be punished, and their arms confiscated. Subjects of either State residing in the territory of the other must each mind his own business; and, whether his stay be long or short, he shall be subject to his Consul's control. He shall not change his costume, or present himself at the competitive examinations, causing confusion.

XI.

Subjects of either State flying from justice to the territory of the other shall be sought for by the local authorities, who shall give information, in case of capture, to the fugitive's Consul, and arrange for his deportation.

XII.

Subjects of either country, residing at the Treaty ports of the other, who are guilty of crime, or who go into the interior with firearms and kill people, shall be arrested by the local official, and handed over to their Consul with a statement of their offence. If they resist the officer sent to arrest them, they may be slain on the spot; but their Consul shall be informed of the circumstances and be given opportunity for investigation. If such cases occur in the interior beyond the Consul's cognisance, a complete statement shall still be sent to him. Offenders arrested at an open port shall be tried by the local official and the Consul acting conjointly. If an offender be arrested in the interior, the local official shall try him, informing the Consul of the circumstance. If subjects of either State assemble riotously in the territory of the other, to the number of ten or upwards, and persuade or invite the natives to co-operate with them, to the public injury, the local authorites shall forthwith apprehend them. In such a case the Consul shall be informed and shall co-operate. If it occur in the interior, the local authorities shall adjudicate on the spot informing the nearest Consul of their proceedings.

XIII.

The war vessels of either State may resort to the open ports of the other, for the protection of their nationals; but not to other ports, nor to inland waters, unless driven to do so by distress. Infringement of this prohibition shall be punished.

XIV.

If either State shall be at war with another Power it may close its ports and temporarily suspend trade on giving due notice. Vessels coming or going must not suffer intentional harm. Chinese residing in Japan, or Japanese residing in China, shall not, in such case, take side with either of the belligerents.

XV.

Each State agrees to prohibit its Consuls from engaging in trade; neither shall they be allowed to act as Consuls for other Treaty Powers. If a Consul misbehaves his minister shall recall him, upon due evidence being furnished of the fact; so that no individual may disturb harmony between the two countries.

XVI.

Each country having a distinguishing flag—if a vessel belonging to either employ the flag of the other, such vessel and its cargo shall be liable to confiscation. If the offender be an official he shall be degraded.

XVII.

The books of either country may circulate freely in the other; and may be purchased by its subjects.

XVIII.

These articles are agreed on, in order to prevent misunderstanding and preserve friendly relations, in token whereof, the Plenipotentiaries affix their respective seals. When the Treaty has been approved by the Emperors of China and of Japan, and ratifications have been exchanged, it shall be promulgated throughout each country, in order that the officials may become acquainted with it, and uphold its provisions.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

YOKOHAMA.—Although business had to some extent been interfered with by the occurrence of the native New Year holidays, transactions in Grey Shirtings and Cotton Yarn had been on a fair scale, and values of both had advanced. Holders were firm, owing to the receipt of news of a rise in prices in the Manchester market. With the exception of a few purchases of Figured Domaines, there had not been much done in Woollen or Fancy Goods. Metals, &c., were unaltered. Quotations were:—G.E. Grey Shirtings, 7 lbs., $2.32½ to 2.40 per piece; do., 8¼ to 8½ lbs., $2.53½ to 2.60; do., 9 to 9¾ lbs., $2.85 to 2.92½; G.E. White Shirtings, 56 to 60 reed, $2.60 to 2.80; do., 64 to 72 reed, $2.90 to 3.05; T-Cloths, 6 to 7 lbs., $1.90 to 2.20; Cotton Yarn, No. 16 to 24, $38.50 to 40; do., No. 28 to 32, $44.50 to 46; do., No. 38 to 42, $40 to 41; Lead, $5.50 to 6; Iron—Nail Rod, $2.60 to 4; do., Bars, $3.50 to 4.

HIOGO AND OSAKA.—Business had been interrupted by the native holidays, and there had been little doing. No change had occurred in prices.

SHANGHAI.—The event of the week had been the departure of the first steamer for the North. The cargoes of Piece Goods hitherto published were small as compared with those of former years, and Northern dealers stated that few goods would be forwarded by them until they receive advices as to what is doing at Tientsin, and what the encouragement to them for operating. Grey Shirtings: Few sales by importers reported, but some second hand parcels of 8¼ lb. had changed hands at the following rates:—Tls. 1.86 to 1.88 for the commonest chops, Tls.

1.90 to 1.92 for medium, and Tls. 1.95 to 1.96 for Dewhurst's. There were purchasers for best common chops at Tls. 1.9.0 to 1.9.1 per piece, but few or no sellers; 7lb., slightly easier, but settlements have been light. White Shirtings: Finest Reeds wanted, and with little or no stock sellers had been enabled to establish an advance; 72 Reed sold at Tls. 2.7.5. T-Cloths: Transactions trifling; 7lbs. Mexican slightly lower; quotations for 6lbs. and 8lbs. unaltered. Drills: The northern steamers had taken a good portion, and stocks were thus reduced. The quotation of good 15lb. English was Tls. 3.1.2; best, Tls. 3.1.5. Jeans: 5,000 pieces sold at Tls. 2.28 to 2.30 for 8 lb. English. Sheetings: English Tls. 3.25 for best 15 lb., nominally Tls. 3.80. Fancy Cottons: Only a retail trade at former quotations. Woollens: Transactions in Camlets, Figured Orleans, Lastings, Spanish Stripes, and Medium Cloths, but in no article had the amount of business been large. Metals.—Nailrod Iron: 8,800 bundles second quality taken at Tls. 2.80 to 2.90; market very firm. Lead: A few sales of LB at Tls. 4.85. Coals: Rates maintained, transactions limited.

HONG KONG.—There is nothing special to report with regard to the import market.

SAIGON.—The market had been quiet during the month, and prices had remained without change. The current rates were—Grey Shirtings, 8¼ lbs., $2.70; 7 lbs., $2.30; Supers, No. 1, $2.20; No. 2, $2.25; T-Cloths, 7 lbs., $1.95; 6 lbs., $1.75; 5 lbs., $1.45; 4½ lbs., $1.25; 4 lbs., $1.15; Irish Linen, No. 150, $1.85.; No. 120, $1.72.

SINGAPORE.—Market unaltered since last mail. Quotations: 40's Mule Twist, $132; 8¼ lbs. Shirtings, $2.60; 7 lbs., $2.25; 5 lbs. T-Cloths, $1.42½; 6 lbs., $1.70; 7 lbs., $1.95.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

YOKOHAMA.—Business had continued quiet. Prices were higher, but for good medium and upwards must be considered nominal, as there was scarcely a parcel of these grades on offer; stocks were very low indeed, and consisted almost entirely of the commoner descriptions.

HIOGO-OSAKA.—Business during the month had been conducted on a limited scale, owing to the great scarcity of all desirable lots. Purchases amounted to 2,550 piculs, principally common grades. Prices were firm at slightly higher rates. Quotations above $35 were nominal, as no fine tea had been bought during the closing fortnight. The stock was almost nil. The Navarth Castle had sailed for New York with 356,947 lbs.

SHANGHAI.—Black: One small chop (228 chests) common Hohow had been settled at Tls. 15½. Stock 230 chests. Green: Purchases amounted to 1,777 half-chests Moyune for England at Tls. 43½ to 44. Stock of all kinds 1,200 half-chests.

SILK.

YOKOHAMA.—At the close of the native new year's holidays dealers showed no disposition to resume business except at an advance in rates which buyers were unwilling to pay; settlements therefore had been very small, only amounting to about 300 bales, of which about 40 bales were Tama or Dupioni Silk, and about 160 bales native consignments. Prices remained without change, the business done being insufficient to form a basis for any alteration in quotations.

HIOGO OSAKA.—High prices in the interior and the native holidays had prevented arrivals, and in the absence of any stock no transactions had taken place.

SHANGHAI.—The market had been quiet, little having been done during the week. Settlements had been barely 300 bales, say 150 bales Tsatlees, 60 bales Taysaams, 60 bales re-reels and 30 bales of sundries. Good Silks were scarce, and the few chops on the market were held in consequence rather firmly—Koofungsing's chop No. 3 at Tls. 585. Market and common Silks showed a decline of about Tls. 5 on last quotations. The unsold stock was estimated at 700 bales.

THE MACAO COOLIE TRADE.—In a debate on the Coolies in Cuba, Sir C Wingfield said he did not attach implicit confidence to the denials of the Spanish Government as to the importation of slaves into Cuba, and referred to despatches written in 1867 and 1868 for the purpose of showing that his opinion was well founded. The treatment of emancipados, moreover, was even worse than that of the original slaves. The strongest edicts were inoperative when their execution was left to interested agents. The slavery enactment was framed in a manner to be as tender as possible to the slave owners, and yet our Consul-general stated that it would be thwarted with all the cunning and chicanery for which the slave owners of Cuba were so remarkable. The coolies were absolutely sold on their arrival in Cuba. Asiatic colonization in Cuba was perpetual slavery. Asiatic slavery was now taking the place of African slavery. The coolies in the island now numbered 50,000, and they were continually increasing. Macao was the great centre of the emigration trade, and ample evidence had been given of the iniquitous nature of the traffic. The Judge of the Mixed Commission at the Cape of Good Hope stated that the emigration was voluntarily only in name, and the grossest cruelties were committed. The coolies were entrapped at Macao, terrified by threats from saying that they were unwilling to emigrate, sent on board ship under a military guard and emigration agents who played into the hands of kidnappers, put between decks, and canon planted so as to sweep the decks. The regulations might not be so bad so far as they went, but they were a mere blind, and were not carried out in good faith. We had great cause to complain of the apathetic conduct of the Portuguese Government. In reply to our earnest remonstrances they stated that the emigration trade as carried on at Hong Kong was even worse than at Macao. But this charge had been abundantly refuted. We should devise some measures, in concert with the Chinese Government, for stopping the emigration from Macao. He did not think we should be doing our duty if we did not take some decided measures with a Government which had shown itself so unmindful of their treaty obligations and of human suffering.

The new screw steamer Macgregor, built by Mr. John Key, shipbuilder, Kinghorn, and launched on the 9th March last, is making ready for a voyage to China, despatched by Messrs. D. R. Macgregor and Co. The Macgregor is 350 feet in length and will carry a cargo of 3,000 tons. Her engines, which are made with all the latest improvements, are of 300-horse power

WE very much regret to announce that a telegram received this morning reports the death at Shanghai of Mr. Porter, head of the firm of Messrs. Gibb, Livingston and Co., after a very short illness, from typhus fever. Mr. Porter is an old and much respected member of the Shanghai community.

THE Queen has signified her approval of the appointments of Mr. E. J. Delmege as Consul at Ceylon for the King of Portugal, and of Cavaliere C. S. Festa as Consul at Singapore, with jurisdiction in the Straits Settlements, for the King of Italy.

THE new steamer Surprise has left the Clyde for Hull, to load for Japan.

THE MACAO COOLIE TRADE.

The following correspondence with reference to the Macao Coolie Trade has been issued from the Foreign-office in the form of a Blue-Book :—

Earl Granville to H.B.M. Minister at Lisbon.

Foreign-office, July 28, 1871.

Sir,—With reference to your despatch of the 16th ultimo, I have to transmit to you the accompanying copy of a letter and of its inclosure from the Colonial-office, together with an extract from the Overland China Mail of the 12th and 26th of May, containing an account of an appalling tragedy which has occurred on board the coolie vessel Don Juan, formerly known as the Dolores Ugarte.

I have very recently, as you are aware, had occasion to allude to cruelties practised towards coolie emigrants shipped in this same vessel, and it is a matter of deep concern to me that I am so soon compelled to call the attention of the Portuguese Government to further horrors, almost without parallel, which have taken place in connection with this traffic in human beings. The circumstances attending the burning of the ship Don Juan, and the dreadful fate which has befallen upwards of 500 souls, are fully described in the papers which I now send you, and doubtless you and the Portuguese Government are already aware of the facts of the case. This fearful incident has excited a painful feeling in this country, and Her Majesty's Government, in the interest of humanity, cannot allow it to pass unnoticed, and without an effort, as far as rests with them, to prevent for the future such grievous calamities. I have, accordingly, to instruct you to bring the matter to the notice of the Portuguese Government, and you will urge them, on the part of Her Majesty's Government, in the strongest manner, to take efficient measures to repress, or at least to regulate, a system of traffic which inflicts such misery on unoffending persons, and which must be so utterly repugnant to the feelings of justice and humanity of the Portuguese nation.—I am, &c.,

(Signed) GRANVILLE.

Sir R. MacDonnell to the Earl of Kimberley.

Government House, Hong Kong, January 8, 1872.

My Lord,—I have the honour to acknowledge receipt of your lordship's despatch (18th October, 1871), covering copy of a communication by the Portuguese Foreign Minister, in which the latter institutes a comparison between emigration as conducted from Macao and Hong Kong, and upholds the greater legality and general fairness of the rules and conduct of such emigration from Macao, which he represents as superior to that from any other port of China.

2. I have also the honour to acknowledge receipt by last mail of your lordship's further despatch, 10th November, 1871, on the same subject, and covering a letter from Sir C. Murdoch, on the part of the Emigration Board, commenting on the statements transmitted by the Portuguese Minister of Foreign Affairs.

3. Although by a reference to Mr. Cecil Smith, the Registrar-General, and Mr. Cairns, the Acting Harbour Master, I am enabled to forward to your Lordship detailed, fresh, and accurate refutations of the assertions contained in the Portuguese Minister's despatch, I confess that the comments made thereon by Sir C. Murdoch, in his communication of the 2nd November to Mr. Herbert, have anticipated in the most important particulars the authoritative and clear contradiction given by Messrs. Smith and Cairns to the inexcusable misstatements of the Portuguese Government. Thus, when it is stated that two "revolts" occurred on board of the Frederic when in this harbour, and that emigrants who had revolted were forcibly compelled by Judge Smale to return on board, on pretext that they had already signed their contracts, it adds considerably to the point of Sir C. Murdoch's conclusion as to the improbable character of such an assertion, to learn that Chief Justice Smale was not in the Colony at the time, and that there were no revolts on board of the Frederic but merely the usual gambling quarrels and petty assaults consequent thereon amongst the emigrants themselves, all which cases were adjudicated on by the Marine Magistrate, and could not, in any case, come before the Chief Justice.

4. It is difficult to imagine that any one with the least knowledge of this Colony, or of the action taken by this Government from the first in controlling, and finally arresting altogether, emigration to places where it was rumoured that the emigrants were unfairly and cruelly treated, could have advanced such extraordinary assertions as that emigration is conducted more legally from Macao than from Hong Kong, and that the coolie ships from there adopt only the same precautions as are taken in the daily line of steamers between Macao, Canton, and Hong Kong.

5. Equally unfounded is the statement that revolts had taken place on board of vessels from Hong Kong, and even in that port, and that coolies who had signed contracts had been compelled by force to embark. It is often impossible to do more than flatly contradict an erroneous statement, but I venture to say that few errors have ever been more completely and satisfactorily exposed than the asserted compulsory embarkation here of the coolies in question, or, indeed, of any coolies whatsoever. The extraordinary precautions which I took in the case of the Frederic owing to my supposed absence of legal authority at that time to stop altogether emigration to Peru, have been fully detailed to Her Majesty's Government, but above all usual precautions was that to which I resorted in appointing a board of Chinese merchants—men perfectly independent and, as a rule, opponents of emigration—to institute special inquiries by direct personal examination into the voluntary and perfectly unfettered assent of each emigrant previous to his embarkation. I doubt if there ever had been previously so stringent an examination into such a question in the case of any emigrant vessel whatever.

6. I may further add, in reference to the observations of the Portuguese Government on Chinese passengers conveyed in the large American steamers from Hong Kong to San Francisco, that they are not only "called free" but are as free and unrestricted as any European or American passengers in those vessels. They pay a comparatively small sum for their passage, and of course have less luxurious quarters, but they are neither watched by armed men nor dreaded in any way, as I can testify, having made the voyage in 1870 from here to San Francisco in the United States' steamer Japan with more than 1,200 Chinese passengers on board.

7. Those passengers were all fed with abundant, wholesome, and clean food, and all seemed thoroughly happy at the prospect of improving their lot at San Francisco. When at the latter place I personally instituted inquiries into the condition of the Chinese who had previously gone out, and found that almost all had done remarkably well, and realised considerable sums of money. The principal drawback was their liability to suffer from the brutal violence of the rowdies and loafers of the place, who regard with intense jealousy the supply to the labour market of such patient and industrious rivals.

8. I have already given full explanations of the character of the emigration hence to California by the United States' steamers; and as I have several times gone personally amongst the emigrants, making numerous inquiries of them, and have now actually made the voyage with them, I think myself entitled to express an opinion on that subject. That opinion is that the emigration in question—if we may use such an expression in reference to Chinese passengers—is conducted openly and fairly, and that it confers the greatest benefit on the emigrants—whether male or female—by improving their position beyond what would have been at all probable, if possible, had they remained in China.

9. I am not aware that I need add anything further to the conclusive statements in the inclosed memorandum by Messrs. Smith and Cairns; but I may remark that I quite agree with Sir C. Murdoch in his observation (paragraph 8) as to the weak point in the Portuguese Regulations respecting the coolie's liability to repay his costs in the depot, and half his travelling expenses back, if he declines to complete his agreement.

It is true that I have stated in reply to my inquiries on that point that Admiral de Souza, the Governor of Macao, had assured me, and confirmed the assurance by subsequently publishing a notice to the same effect in his Gazette, that no coolie, desirous of returning instead of completing his contract, was to be held liable for any expenses, but was to be sent free to his home.

10. I fear this arrangement has not been found practicable, and that it has been eluded.

At the same time, owing to my recent return here, I am not in a position to affirm anything positive on the subject. I notice, however, in this day's Advertiser a translation from the Macao Gazette and a return compiled from the Gazettes of 1871, showing the number of dead bodies found, "mostly Chinese emigrants discharged from the Barracoons," amounting during the past year to 348. That number, shocking though it be, must be regarded as very far from the actual number of those who had perished from starvation and apparent neglect at the centre of Portuguese authority and civilisation in the East. Even if it be a full statement so far as it goes, it does not include, as the return states, "those found in a dying state, and removed to the asylum." In Hong Kong a much larger proportion of the destitute class and those enfeebled by disease is found alive than dead, though many are in extremis, and if I were to draw any inference from the slight glimpse behind the scenes afforded by the above return, I should infer that the number annually perishing at Macao directly and indirectly as above, is nearer 1,000 than 500.—I have, &c.

(Signed) RICHARD GRAVES MACDONNELL.

Statement by the Portuguese Government on Emigration, and Replies by the Emigration Inspector and Registrar-General of Hong Kong.

1st. That the Chinese emigration is carried on at Macao with greater legality than at Hong Kong or any other place on the coast of China.

Note.—During the past five years (and this limit might well be extended) not more than three cases have apppeared in our Courts where persons have been charged with committing breaches of the emigration laws, while, according to the Director-General's statements, 169 brokers have within the past three years suffered punishment for similar offences in Macao.

2nd. That the coolie ships adopt towards the Chinese passengers on long voyages the same precautions as are taken on board the English and American steamers on the daily line between Macao, Hong Kong, and Canton, on voyages of a few hours' duration.

Note—The Macao coolie ships are fitted with barricades (frequently of iron) immediately abaft the mainmast, and cannon are placed to rake the maindecks through the barricades. Gratings of iron are fitted over the hatchways, and only a few of the emigrants are allowed on the upper deck at one time. In the steamers running between this port and Macao and Canton precautions are only taken on those occasions where there is a very valuable cargo (of opium or treasure) on board, and when there is reason to believe that suspicious and dangerous characters have taken their passages. As a rule, the passengers are under no more restriction than is customary in Europe, where the passengers of different classes are kept separate. There is sometimes a loose barricade put up for the purpose last mentioned, but otherwise the Chinese passengers on the main deck can readily pass to the other parts of the ship.

3rd. That revolts have taken place on board vessels from Hong Kong, and even in that port itself, where coolies are compelled to embark by force when they have signed contracts.

Note.—There have been no revolts on board any emigrant ships in this port, nor to the best of our knowledge and belief have any revolts occurred on board such ships during their voyages to their respective places of destination. No force has ever been used by way of compelling emigrants to go on board the ships by which they were to travel. From personal experience, especially in the case of the Frederic, much quoted in this document, we can state that the emigrants left the shore for the ship in small detachments in boats, having no official on board of any sort or character. In all cases, even after the emigrant had shipped, he could, and in some instances did, return to the shore. The Frederic was burnt at Batavia. There was a mere suspicion, unsupported by any sort of evidence, that the coolies had set the vessel on fire. Suffice it to say that there was little or no disturbance, beyond what was naturally to be expected, after the fire broke out, nor was there any quarrel between the coolies and crew of the ship.

4th. At Hong Kong they (i.e. the coolies) are compelled to embark after they have signed their contracts.

Note.—No compulsion whatever is used. The contracts are explained to the intending emigrants in the presence of the Emigration Officer and the Registrar-General, who understands Chinese. Great care is taken that the contracts are understood, and in the case of the Frederic some of the leading Chinese merchants assisted in the enquiry both ashore and afloat, where a last examination took place immediately before the ship sailed. The emigrants, of their own accord, went off to the vessel unaccompanied by any person in authority.

5th. But it is certain that on board the English and American steamers on the daily line between Macao, Hong Kong, and Canton, and in passages of only a few hours' duration, similar precautions are also adopted (i.e., to those on board the Macao coolie ships).

Note.—It is true that during the war in China, and for a limited period afterwards, armed men watched at the gangways and companions of the river steamers. As previously stated, this is not now done, except under rare and peculiar circumstances. Quartermasters unarmed are, of course, on duty, who look after the safety of the ship against fire, &c. But it is almost unnecessary to add that there is no analogy between the river steamers and the coolie ships.

6th. Those passengers (to California) whom they call free are put into separate places, and are watched by armed men.

Note.—They are certainly put into places separate from Europeans, but only because they pay less for their passages. But it is simply untrue to say that the emigrants travelling in the California steamers are watched over by armed men. Nor do they enter into contracts in Hong Kong. It is now fairly well known that by the American law such contracts are wholly invalid.

7th. It is a public and notorious fact that, at Hong Kong, there are agents of emigration for California.

Note.—It is not a public or notorious fact that, at Hong Kong, there are agents of emigration for California. There may be such agents, but they are not known. Many Chinese in Hong Kong are induced by those who have returned from California to seek their fortunes in that country, but such inducements are not put forward by agents in any sense of the word. This Government has always discountenanced and obstructed any attempts to make Chinese emigrate to California, or other places where contracts were to be entered into. Two such attempts in late years have signally failed—the latter one being the case of Mr. George Payne, who wanted coolies for Louisiana. Owing to the action of the Government, he had to leave Hong Kong in October last, without having obtained any sort of success in his scheme.

8th. It is also known that, in January of last year, no less than two revolts occurred on board the Belgian ship Frederic, then in the port of Hong Kong, ready to sail for Peru, with coolies, and the emigrants who had revolted on board were forcibly compelled by Judge Smale to return on board, under the pretext that they had already signed their contracts.

Note.—Three disturbances took place on board the Frederic, while she was in this harbour. They were, however, mere quarrels amongst the emigrants themselves, and arose out of disputes when gambling. The cases were adjudicated by the Marine Magistrate—Chief-Justice Smale not being in the Colony. The coolies who were charged with and convicted of assault were sent to gaol.

(Signed) Cecil C. Smith, Registrar-General.
R. H. Cairns, Acting Emigration Officer.

THE CHARTERED BANK OF INDIA, AUSTRALIA, AND CHINA.

The eighteenth ordinary general meeting of the shareholders in this bank was held on the 17th inst.; the chair was occupied by Mr. Andrew Cassels. The notice calling the meeting was read by Mr. William Charles Mullens (the secretary); the report of the directors (which with the accounts will be found in our advertisement columns) was taken as read.

The Chairman, in moving the reception and adoption of the report and accounts, said he heartily wished that on this, the first occasion of his having the honour to address them as chairman, it had been his good fortune to be able to lay before them a more satisfactory statement of the result of the bank's working to the 31st of December last. It must be confessed that, during the past half-year, business had gone somewhat crossly with the bank. The sudden rise in exchanges and discount that took place in the autumn told unfavourably upon the bank's interests; for, in consequence of it, all the forward purchases of bills which the agents in India had made (and unfortunately they were upon a somewhat larger scale than usual) resulted in loss. He did not wish to be understood as throwing anything like blame upon the managers in India in saying that, for the disturbance in the money market was not foreseen in this country any more than it was in the East, and did not arise out of business complications, but through the action of a military Government after the conclusion of the recent war on the Continent. Again, the action of the Bank of England in maintaining the Bank rate at 5 per cent. for six weeks told unfavourably; for during those six weeks the directors had to hold, at the call of the acceptors, a large amount of bills secured upon shipping documents, which were taken up at a much higher rate than was anticipated. Accordingly, the deficit brought forward from 1870 being £59,022 9s. 11d. had only been reduced to £28,775 7s. 9d.; but, if the result of the year's working was somewhat unsatisfactory, he ventured to remind the shareholders that one of the difficulties which the bank had had to contend with a year ago, and which was now greatly removed, was the low price of the shares on the Stock Exchange, which, of course, tended to a certain extent to impair the credit of the bank, so that it had had to compete on somewhat unequal terms with other similar institutions. The directors had received by telegram the approximate result of the working of the different branches up to the 31st of March, and he was happy to say that the profits for the first three months of the present year amounted to a sum which, deducted from the £28,775, left only a little more than £5,000 unprovided for. He had also the satisfaction of stating that the directors expected, in the course of the coming month, to be paid a sum of £5,000, which had been written off a-year ago as a bad debt. It was, therefore, scarcely saying too much to state that the actual deficiency of £59,000 which stared them in the face when they last met had been virtually recovered, or nearly so. He might also state that there was no impending loss, and no open account which caused the directors any anxiety whatever, and there was no reason whatever why the bank should not prosper. The credit of the bank was everywhere improving, and the business satisfactorily increasing. He then referred to the deep regret which the board had experienced at the death of Mr. James Fraser, who had always given the closest attention to the affairs of the bank. The board would shortly be strengthened by the addition of Mr. F. W. Heilgers, of Messrs. Wattenbach, Heilgers, and Co., of London and Calcutta; and Mr. W. Paterson, of Messrs. W. W. Ker and Co., London, and Paterson, Simons, and Co., Singapore. In conclusion, the Chairman formally moved the reception and adoption of the report and accounts. The resolution was seconded by Mr. John Jones; and, after a very short discussion, in which one or two shareholders expressed their satisfaction with the improved state of the bank's affairs, the resolution was put to the meeting, and carried unanimously.

On the motion of the Chairman, seconded by Mr. W. Macnaughtan, the election of Mr. Ludwig Wiese to a seat at the board was confirmed, and Mr. Thomas Lancaster, one of the retiring directors, was re-elected. The Chairman then moved the re-election of Mr. James R. Morrison, the other retiring director. Mr. Huggins moved that the vacancy be not filled up, on the ground that the seat should be left open in order to allow the directors an opportunity of electing to the board some gentleman connected with Eastern business. A discussion ensued, in the course of which some of the shareholders expressed an opinion that it would be an ungraceful act to unseat Mr. Morrison, who was one of the founders of the bank, and had always worked hard to promote its interests. The amendment was put to the meeting, and lost. The resolution for the re-election of Mr. Morrison was then put, and also lost, it not having been carried (as required) by a majority of three-fifths of those present. A poll was demanded on the part of Mr. Morrison, which will take place on the 25th inst.

The auditors were then re-appointed, and votes of thanks having been passed to the chairman, directors, and manager, the meeting was adjourned to the 1st proximo, for the purpose of declaring the result of the poll.

THE ORIENTAL BANK CORPORATION.

The annual general meeting of shareholders in this Bank was held Thursday, at the offices, Threadneedle-street; Mr. Blyth in the chair. The Chairman first moved the approval of a dividend of £1 10s. per share, in addition to an interim dividend of a like amount already paid. The motion was unanimously adopted.

The Chairman then moved the adoption of the report, which, he said, so fully set forth the affairs of the bank that he need trouble the meeting with very few observations. The total percentage of distribution of profit for the half-year was £6, or 12 per cent. per annum, a figure which had been maintained for now six years, notwithstanding those six years had been attended with considerable embarrassment in the eastern business of the bank. They continued to hold a very high rank, he was happy to know, as an eastern bank, and this circumstance was due, he considered, in a great measure to the very able assistance the directors received from their staff at home and abroad. From the staff abroad most satisfactory reports had been received, and even since the half-year's accounts had been made up, reliable information had been obtained of the high position which the bank continued to occupy abroad. Mr. Binny Key seconded the motion.

Dr. Thom remarked that they were bound to have in hand by their charter specie to the amount of one-third of their circulation in notes, which was £222,000. Specie and bullion taken together in hand were nearly nine times that amount. Instead of being one-third, specie was nearly three times the circulation, a fact which could hardly be paralleled in banking transactions. He had been complaining for years that they had far too much money, and he was glad to think that his suggestions had not been altogether ignored by the directors. But he did not see why more of their money should not be invested in a particular way, one-half at least of their surplus in Government securities, the worst of which would produce them 3 1-3rd per cent., while the best would bring them 5 per cent.

The motion for the adoption of the report was then put, and carried unanimously. The thanks of the meeting were tendered to the auditors, who were reappointed. The retiring directors, Messrs. Arbuthnot, Key, and Reid, were re-elected.

The meeting was then made special, to consider the propriety of applying to the Government for an extension of the present charters of incorporation. The Chairman explained that the corporation's original charter was obtained in 1851, and being for a period of twenty-one years, was on the point of expiration. Consequently it was necessary to apply for its renewal for a similar period, or for such other period as Government might be willing to grant; and he therefore moved the authorisation of the directors to make the necessary application. A shareholder called attention to the fact that under the charter every shareholder was liable on each share for £25, after paying up the whole of the capital, and asked if in seeking a renewal of the charter it was not possible to get rid of this responsibility, and if not whether, in the interests of the shareholders, it would not be preferable to place the bank under the Companies Limited Liability Act.

Dr. Thom seconded the chairman's motion for the renewal of the charter, observing that it was an immense prestige in their favour, and an unanswerable security to their customers that this liability was imposed upon the shareholders, and he therefore hoped that it would never be removed. The motion was carried, and a vote of thanks to the chairman and directors closed the proceedings.

THE DIPLOMATIC AND CONSULAR INQUIRY.

THE Commission of Inquiry into the Diplomatic and Consular Service took up the China and Japan department at their last meeting, and Sir HARRY PARKES, our present Minister in Japan, was examined at considerable length. Sir HARRY's long experience of both China and Japan rendered him a most valuable witness, and, nothwithstanding the almost cross examination he was subjected to, he stoutly maintained that the officers in the service were to a great extent underpaid, laying particular stress on the juniors, or class termed Student Interpreters. These gentlemen are frequently unable to pay their way, and consequently incur debts the pressure of which gradually increases, which in many cases leads to demoralisation. Sir HARRY did good service in dwelling particularly on this feature of the case. He admitted that a saving could be effected in other branches of the service, and that he had already effected a good deal—some £1,700 per annum—and he trusted that the Treasury would therefore be disposed to regard his representations for an increase in other quarters. It appears rather too evident that the drift of all the questions put by Mr. SCLATER-BOOTH, the chairman, and other members of the Committee, is to prove that the service could be very materially cut down in "quantity, quality, and cost." Mr. HOLMS asked if the trade on the coast had not to a large extent gone over to the German and other flags. The object of this question is apparent. This gentleman also pointed out that although we maintained a large and expensive staff at Bangkok our trade with Siam appeared as almost nil. Sir HARRY explained that this arose from the large intercolonial trade carried on between the Straits ports and China in British vessels, and that he presumed our relations with the King of SIAM required more than a simple Consul, and consequently we had a Consul-General and the usual staff. He could also speak of the climate as extremely trying, and likely to require a larger staff on this account. We suppose the same principle actuates our Government as regards Saigon, with which there is no direct trade. We were pleased to find that Sir HARRY gave such distinct assurances of the evils attending the appointment of merchant Consuls, giving not only his own official experience, but quoting the opinions of the merchants in the last Chamber of Commerce Report.

Sir HARRY also refuted the idea that our officials could be settled at two great centres for the conduct of our trade in China, and drew attention to the result of removing the Vice-Consul from Chinkiang, where trade has lately had a considerable impetus. He also stated that Formosa should not be abandoned, and strenuously pleaded the importance of Newchwang as likely at some future time to be the means of extending our trade very considerably in Manchuria. The practicability of making the Governor of Hong Kong also our Minister to China was asked, and condemned by Sir HARRY as having been already tried and failed. It seems that this proposal, like the sweeping changes in the Consular establishments, was recommended by Major CROSSMANN, who, it will be remembered, was sent to China and Japan to superintend the buildings for the Consular and Diplomatic Service, but who, it appears, gave more attention to the ramifications of the service, and considered that a visit to the various ports enabled him to make such recommendations for reform as would lead to a vast saving. Had he devoted his time and energies exclusively to the accomplishment of his own work at a less cost, he would certainly have rendered a better service to the country, and one redounding more to his own credit. It will be useful to our readers to know the members of the Committee; we therefore give the names:—

Mr. Sclater-Booth, Chairman.	Mr. Kinnaird.
Mr. Baring.	Mr. William Lowther.
Viscount Barrington.	Mr. Otway.
Mr. Cameron.	Mr. Arthur Russel.
Mr. William Cartwright.	Mr. Rylands.
Mr. Baillie Cochrane.	Mr. Stopford Sackville.
Sir Charles Dilke.	Mr. Frederick Stanley.
Mr. Eastwick.	Mr. Strutt.
Viscount Enfield.	Mr. Frederick Walpole.
Mr. William Henry Gladstone.	Mr. Whitwell.
Mr. Holms.

The ignorance exhibited, in regard to China and Japan, by some of the questions put abundantly shows that no good can result from such an inquiry. The chairman should at least keep the inquiry to its legitimate object, and not permit questions so completely irrelevant as "the military forces stationed at Yokohama and Hong Kong." The examination of witnesses is also conducted too much in the conversational form. The persons under examination should be requested to answer the questions—as a rule—in the affirmative or negative. It is grievous that so much valuable time should be lost, and the result obtained from such witnesses so much less than it might be, if the chairman exercised a little more precision. It is also exceedingly indecorous for members of the Committee to yawn, and put themselves into various attitudes indicative of anything but an intelligent attention to the proceedings. When a member comes in late a little more decorum should be observed, as an interruption of this sort, not done with some regard to propriety, is disrespectful to the Court and the witnesses under examination.

THE official correspondence regarding the Macao Coolie Traffic has been issued by the Foreign-office, and will be found in another page. The letter of Sir RICHARD MACDONNELL and the reports from the Emigration Officer most completely refute the statements made by the Portuguese authorities as to Hong Kong. A more specious mode of answering a charge cannot be imagined. To retaliate and not to disprove is a method well known for its weakness. The fact that Coolie emigration, i.e., agreements to work for a term of years in a foreign land, is entirely forbidden from Hong Kong is surely sufficient proof that the Hong Kong emigration is not of the same character as that from Macao. To show their sincerity in the cause of humanity it is only necessary for the Portuguese Government to "stop the trade." Nothing short of this will answer, and surely the dreadful atrocities which have been perpetrated on board vessels from Macao are sufficient to warrant the sacrifice of all "fees and profits" derived from this wretched traffic in human beings. As we have before said, let the inhabitants bring an irresistible pressure to bear, and wipe out this foul stain on their fair fame.

THE Journal des Deux Mers contains an article relative to the renewed rumours respecting the sale of the Suez Canal, and against which it is strongly opposed, but we cannot help thinking that in this view they are actuated more by private and personal considerations than what will really ultimately conduce to the true interests of the proprietors. The most unflinching advocate of these interests is undoubtedly Sir DANIEL LANGE, who has for the last fifteen years resolutely adhered to the cause of the Suez Canal, and we feel fully assured that the proprietors cannot do better than be guided by his advice, seeing that he has never deceived them, and will countenance or suggest no arrangement which is not perfectly just and fair towards them, no matter what his national predilection towards England may be. While Mons. DE LESSEPS was working for the glory of France Sir DANIEL LANGE ever frankly avowed that he was working for the interest of England, and at the same time never lost sight of the welfare of the Company itself.

SOME of the members of the Japanese mission have arrived at Liverpool from Washington and New York, but IWAKURA, the chief, and others are not expected here for a month. We understand that negotiations will be entered on by our Foreign-office, with the assistance of Sir HARRY PARKES, concerning the revision of the Treaty.

A MEETING of the Straits Settlements Association was held on Thursday, to take into consideration the resolutions passed at the meeting held in Singapore on the 23rd February and to decide upon the communication to be addressed to the Colonial-office thereupon.

Monetary and Commercial.

The ordinary general meeting of the proprietors of the Chartered Mercantile Bank of India, London, and China was held on the 16th inst., at the bank, 65, Old Broad-street, Mr. G. G. Nicol in the chair. The proceedings were little more than formal, and do not call for a lengthened report. The chairman congratulated the proprietors upon the satisfactory position of the bank, as evidenced by the directors' report, which was unanimously adopted, and the dividend announced therein, making 7 per cent for the year, was declared. Sir William Grey was appointed a director, in the room of Mr. Donald Larnach, who lately retired, and Mr. E. J. Daniell was re-elected. The report was published in our last issue. The following is the statement of accounts for the year ended 30th December, 1871, is appended to the report.

The meeting of the Chartered Bank of India, Australia, and China was held on the 17th inst. The report of the directors, which was adopted, showed net profits to the amount of £30,247, and stated that the deficiency, which stood in the accounts at the close of 1870 at £59,022, had now been reduced to £28,775. The chairman, in his address, gave an encouraging account of the working during the first three months of the present year, and remarked that the directors had good reason to believe that, in the course of the coming month, they would receive £5,000 which had been written off as a bad debt. We publish elsewhere a report of the meeting and the directors' report and statement of accounts in full.

The meeting of the Oriental Bank Corporation was held on the 18th. The report for the year ending 31st December last showed that the net profit for the year has been £185,428 8s. 10d., after providing for all bad and doubtful debts, (leaving after payment of a dividend, making, with the interim distribution in November last, 12 per cent. for the year) a balance of £5,428 8s. 10d. to be carried forward. The balance shows that the total deposits amount to £9,191,450 6s. 10d., and among the assets are coin and bullion, £1,948,849 11s. 9d.; Government securities, £1,726,192 5s. 4d.; and notes and bills discounted, £14,653,405 19s. 1d. This report was adopted, and at a special meeting held subsequently the directors were authorised to apply to Government for an extension of the present charters of incorporation. The proceedings are reported elsewhere.

At the meeting of the Marseilles, Algiers, and Malta Telegraph Company (Limited) the report was adopted, and a dividend of 8s. per share, or 4 per cent., was declared. Negotiations are now in progress for the amalgamation of this company with the Falmouth, British Indian, and Anglo-Mediterranean Telegraph Companies, and a resolution embodying the terms proposed for the combination will be submitted for the consideration of the shareholders at an extraordinary general meeting, to be held as soon as the necessary arrangements with the other companies have been completed.

At the meeting of the British-Indian Extension Telegraph Company (Limited), the chairman referred to the scheme for the amalgamation of the Cis-Indian Telegraph Companies. A further dividend of 2 per cent. was declared, making a total of 8 per cent. for the year while the sum of £4,218 was carried to the reserve fund. The directors' report was unanimously adopted.

The following is the directors' report of the Singapore Gas Company for the half-year ending 31st December, 1871, to be presented at the ordinary general meeting on the 30th inst.:—

The directors have the satisfaction of reporting continued progress in the lighting of Singapore, for particulars of which they refer to the report, from their engineer and manager, Mr. E. J. Wells, dated March 6th, 1872. The directors going out of office by rotation are Messrs. Robert Stannard Foreman, John Nicol, and Alexander Erskine Stephenson, and these gentlemen being eligible for re-election, offer themselves for the support of the shareholders. The present auditors, Messrs. William Thomas Morrison and Alfred Williams, retire from office according to the articles, and, being eligible for re-election, offer themselves to the shareholders for that purpose.

The balance-sheet to 31st December, 1871, shows the financial position of the Company. The directors have written off for depreciation of works and plant, and off the expenses of first establishment, as per balance-sheet, at the rate of one per cent. per annum, for the present half-year, and a similar amount for the previous half-year, in consequence of no amount having been written off on that occasion. The profit for the half-year, after writing off these sums, amounts to £1,676 10s. 4d., which together with £13 7s. 9d., the unappropriated profit of the preceding half-year, makes the available balance £1,689 18s. 1d. Out of this sum the directors recommend the declaration of a dividend at the rate of 7½ per cent. per annum, less income-tax on the amounts paid up on the preference and original capital; the balance of £19 5s. 2d. to be carried forward to the profit of the succeeding half-year. The dividend to be payable on May 7th next.

The rates of insurance charged by the home offices for the coming season's tea and silk by steamer, viâ Suez Canal or Cape, will, we understand, be as follows:—From Hankow: tea, 55s., silk, 50s.; from Shanghai, Foochow, or Japan: tea, 45s., silk, 35s.; from Canton and Hong Kong: tea, 40s., silk, 30s.

Bar Silver has declined in value, owing to the almost total cessation of the demand for the East; the price is nominal. Mexican Dollars of the old coinage continue in demand at 5s. 2¾d., but the new are not in request, and no quotation can be given.

EXPORT OF COTTON GOODS TO THE FAR EAST.

The following is a summary of Mr. Sam Mendel's Tables for the present month, containing details of the quantities of Cotton Manufactures and Yarn shipped from the ports of London, Liverpool, Southampton, and the Clyde, to Hong Kong, Shanghai, Japan, Singapore, Batavia, Manila, and Ceylon, during the month and twelve months ended 16th April, 1872, compared with the corresponding periods of the two preceding years:—

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

The tone of the market shows no improvement, business being on a limited scale, the attention of the trade being much occupied with the frequent auctions both of China and India Teas. There has been but little change in prices, importers still giving great support to the market in the face of heavy deliveries and the small quantity afloat. The public sales, including those of yesterday, have comprised 22,134 packages, of which 17,357 packages were sold without reserve. The deliveries for the week havebeen 3,928,348 lbs., against 3,262,739 lbs. last year.

Black.—Red Leaf: The grades below common Congou are generally lower, supplies being large; flavoury kinds at 1s. to 1s. 2d. have been taken readily; Kaisow kinds at 1s. 2½d. to 1s. 4d.; demand not so good, and for medium to fine Kaisow we hear of no sales. Pakling: Nothing done. Tayshan Leaf: Supplies have again been on the liberal scale, but it would seem prices have touched their lowest, there being a slight recovery in latest sales, and at the moment this class of leaf is undoubtedly the best value going. Black Leaf: Late imports have consisted almost entirely of ordinary to fair common, which rule at 8d. to 10d. per lb., and are by no means dear; good common to fair at 11d. to 1s. 1½d., and medium at 1s. 2d. to 1s. 5d. per lb. are scarce; good medium to fine at 1s. 6d. to 1s. 9d., but little has been done; finest, a small lot of Ooanfa district sold at 2s. 2d. per lb. Souchong: Extra fine is worth 2s. 2d. to 2s. 4d. per lb., a parcel of half-chests realising this latter figure. Oolong: Limited sales of finest. Scented Tea: Canton Orange Pekoe: A few transactions have taken place in medium at 1s. 4d. to 1s. 7d. per lb. Caper has maintained the late improvement in value, but sales have been limited to medium at 1s. 1d. to 1s. 4d. per lb. Foochow Scented Orange Pekoe: Demand continues very slack; medium 1s. 3½d. to 1s. 4½d., finest, ex public sale, sold as low as 1s. 6d. per lb., but privately sales have been made at 1s. 8d. to 1s. 9½d per lb. Green: An upward movement has at last taken place in common to medium quality, chiefly in Young Hyson for export to Canada; fine and finest grades have again sold slightly lower. Japan leaf, uncoloured: A few sales at low rates.

SILK.

The market continues comparatively quiet, but prices are steady and deliveries very good. Chinas are still in very limited demand, but there is perhaps a little more inquiry for Tsatlees within the last few days. In Cantons there is hardly so much doing, but prices are very strong. In Japans and Bengals some little daily business at former rates. Arrivals of China Silk this month are small, and this will continue to be the case till August, so that stocks will now gradually diminish, and if the present rate of consumption continue sufficiently so to give much strength to the market. Deliveries 1st to 17th April:—

Canton	816	432
Japan	438	234
Bengal	156	211
Total ...	2,802	2,000 bales.

COFFEE.

The Dutch sale of the 17th inst. went off irregularly, and prices were slightly below the previous auctions in March. This result has had little, if any, decided influence upon this market, which continues quiet, and the small quantities of Plantation Ceylon at auction have been disposed of at previous rates. The latest prices realised have been—Triage and ordinary, 64s. 6d. to 71s.; small, 71s. to 74s. 6d.; low middling, 74s. to 76s.; middling, 76s. 6d. to 78s. 6d.; good middling to fine middling coloury, 80s. to 85s. 6d.; fine bold, 89s.; peaberry, 86s. 6d. to 92s. There have been no sales of Native Ceylon on the spot, but for arrival 500 bags have been sold at 69s. guaranteed good ordinary; and 68s. 6d. has been refused for 100 tons March shipment. Of 161 bags Singapore offered, 68 bags damaged sold at 57s. 6d. to 60s., the remainder bought in at 70s.

At the Dutch Trading Company's April sale on the 17th inst. 76,800 bags Java, &c., were offered and all sold. The sale commenced flatly at ½c. to 1c. below the valuations, but the demand afterwards improved, and prices were equal to the valuations, except for defective, which sold 1c. below, and West India kind, which went occasionally above. The prices obtained for good ordinary, however, are ½c. to 1c. less than in March, viz., 41c., against 41½c., to 42c. at the former sale.

SUGAR.

There has been a good enquiry, especially for the better qualities, prices of which are 3d. to 6d. higher than last week. Business has, however, been but limited in extent, owing to smallness of supplies on offer. The following are the details of the week's transactions:—

PENANG.—Privately, 1 [illegible] baskets Date sort have been sold at 23s. 6d., and 200 baskets [illegible] bags at 24s.

MANILA.—At auction [illegible],163 bags clayed, of fresh import, per Marlborough, met a good demand, and were all sold at an advance of 6d., fair dry clayed (duty 4s.) at 28s. to 28s. 6d., superior ditto (duty 4s. 9d.) at 30s., with a few lots at 30s. 6d. Privately 2,500 bags Zebu unclayed have been sold at 23s. 9d., also 5,500 bags (230 tons) unclayed Zebu at 23s. 9d., 20,000 bags Zebu at 24s. 6d., 9,000 bags Ilo Ilo at 24s. 9d., and 2,500 bags unclayed ex last week's auctions at 24s. per cwt.

CAMPHOR.—There is but little doing, business being generally suspended until the result is known of the sale in Holland of 4,795 tubs to be held on the 26th instant; privately 70 cases old import China have been sold at 85s. reweights, and 6 cases Japan at 87s. 6d.

CARDAMOMS.—Market very dull; no transactions in Ceylon.

COCOA-NUT OIL.—The market is steadier, but there is little business doing. Ceylon is worth 36s. 6d. to 37s., and Cochin 40s. to 43s. per cwt. For arrival 100 tons Ceylon have been sold at 36s. 6d. per cwt. At auction 49 casks Sydney sold at 34s. 9d. to 37s., part of 79 casks Ceylon, Cochin sort, at 39s. 6d., and a few casks Cochin at 42s. to 42s. 6d. per cwt. Stock, 5,358 tons, against 5,394 tons. Afloat: about 5,567 tons Cochin and Ceylon, against 1,130 tons Cochin and Ceylon same time last year.

COIR GOODS.—Extensive supplies have been brought to auction, amounting to 4,133 bales and 260 tons of Yarn, 1,661 bales and 15 tons Fibre and 20 tons Rope. The demand was good, and being freely met by holders, nearly the whole was disposed of, common qualities of Yarn at full prices, medium to good at steady rates, and fine at a slight advance. Good and fine qualities of Fibre sold readily at advanced rates, inferior and medium steadily. Rope also brought full prices. 3,532 bales Cochin Yarn chiefly sold, coarse Roping to good common mixed Yarn £27 to £29 10s., low middling to fine £29 15s. to £40, and superior £42 5s. to £49 5s.; 47 tons ditto in dholls all sold, low to fair Roping £25 5s. to £28, low to good common £26 5s. to £29 5s.; 601 bales Ceylon were all sold, low medium to fine even at £30 5s. to £43, very fine and superior ditto £45 15s. to £55; 184 tons ditto nearly all sold, common to good £28 to £35; 1,661 bales 14 tons Cochin Fibre partly sold, fine and superior pale and bright £32 10s. to £35, good £29 15s. to £30 5s., low medium to fair £25 10s. to £28 15s., low and ordinary £19 to £23; 1,512 coils Cochin Rope sold, 1¼ inch at £35, 1½ to 2½ inch at £34 10s., 2½ to 5 inch at £27 to £28 15s., inferior 2 to 3½ inch at £25 10s. Kitool Fibre: 34 bags Ceylon sold at 11d. to 11¾d. per lb. Afloat: Yarn, about 2,119 tons Cochin and Ceylon, against 878 tons Cochin and Ceylon same time last year. Fibre: 336 tons, against 116¼ tons. Stock here not published, but is very heavy.

COLOMBO ROOT.—Market quiet; 44 bales at auction retired.

COPRA.—No transactions in Penang; prices show a downward tendency.

CUTCH.—Holders have been more disposed to sell, and fine Pegu can now be bought at 26s. 6d. per cwt. At auction 269 cases Penang and 1,592 boxes fine Pegu were bought in at 26s. 6d.—a small portion of the latter being subsequently sold at that price; privately 1,000 boxes have been quitted at 27s. 6d. per cwt.

CUBEBS.—Nothing doing, 70 bags offered in public sale and withdrawn.

DRAGON'S-BLOOD.—No fine quality has been brought into the market during the interval, although supplies would realise high prices. Medium and low kind continues in but little demand, and 17 cases middling dull lump sold at £5 per cwt.

EBONY.—Ceylon continues to be quoted at very high figures, owing to shortness of supply; at auction 14 logs (6 tons) were bought in at £22.

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed: Cheaper, but a large business done; about 150 cases sold, on the spot and afloat, closing at 9s. 6d. to 10s. per lb. Cassia: Firm, and only small sales made at former quotations, viz., 5s. 9d. to 5s. 10d., holders generally asking 6s. Nutmeg: Steady, but stocks increasing; 13 cases at auction partly sold at 7¼d per oz. for good. Cinnamon continues scarce, and is much wanted. Of 6 cases at auction 1 case sold at 3s. for fair, slightly bitter; 1s. for inferior. Citronelle is in more request; of 107 cases at auction half sold at 2¼d. to 2⅝d. per oz. for good. Lemon Grass: Firm.

GALLS.—China: There is a good demand, and prices exhibit an advancing tendency, importers increasing in firmness; about 100 cases have been brought to auction during the week, and were sold at and after the sale at £2 16s. to £2 16s. 6d. for good quality. Japan: No supply.

GALANGAL ROOT.—Market steady, but quiet; of 908 bales in public sale a portion was quitted at 16s. per cwt.

GAMBIER.—The market is very quiet, as buyers in the face of the very large quantity afloat are not disposed to purchase beyond actual requirements. On the spot there is little to be had, and the value is still 22s. 9d. to 23s., but afloat purchases can be made at 19s. 9d. to 20s. 6d. according to date of shipment; 100 tons January-February shipment have been sold at 20s., which price is now refused. At auction 806 bags 1,021 mats Cubes were partly sold, good fair to fine at 24s. 3d. to 26s. 3d. per cwt. For arrival 50 tons February shipment have been sold at 20s., and 50 tons March at 19s. 6d.

GUMS.—Benjamin: Siam steady, with large stock of common qualities; 60 cases at auction chiefly sold, fine tear in block £20 15s. to £23 10s.; middling to good seconds at £10 5s. to £11 10s. Sumatra firm, and of 5 cases offered, 2 sold; 2nds good at £9. Copal steady, but quiet; 50 cases retired. Damar quiet; 270 cases at auction retired. Gamboge firm; at auction, of 20 cases offered, two-thirds sold, good to fine, partly run, at £15 to £17 10s.

GUTTA-PERCHA.—Market firm, but only small business done at late prices, pending auction of 290 tons in Holland; at auction 621 baskets were chiefly retired, and about 100 baskets sold, common reboiled at 1s. 1½d. to 1s. 4d.; white, 1s. 3d. to 1s. 3¼d.

HEMP.—Holders of Manila are very firm and the high rates paid at the public sale last week are fully maintained. Business on the spot is, however, limited in extent. For floating parcels there are buyers at some advance. At auction 200 bales partly sold, brown at £43 15s. to £44, barely fair to good roping £49 15s. to £52, and Quilot £68 per ton; Privately about 700 bales roping have found buyers at £50 10s. to £51 10s. per ton.

HIDES AND HORNS.—No sales to report.

INDIA RUBBER.—Quiet; small business in Borneo at 1s. 10d. per lb.

ISINGLASS.—Market steady for desirable qualities; but low kinds continue to be much neglected; 61 pkgs. at the monthly sales were chiefly sold: leaf, low heavy bright 4s. 1d.; fair to good thin 2s. 10d. to 3s. 5d.; pipe, clean pale 3s. 4d. to 3s. 5d.; inferior to middling 1s. 6d. to 2s. 2d.; low thin wormy 8d. to 9d.; cake good 1s. 6d.; inferior 3d.

JAPAN WAX.—Small transactions have been entered into during the week at the decline noted in our last report.

MUSK is still in good demand, and 30 caddies have been sold at auction at high rates: fine selected well-shaped pods 41s. to 47s. 6d. per oz.; thicker skinney 35s. to 35s. 6d.; pickings wet 31s.; rough and bally 20s. to 20s. 6d. per oz

PEPPER.—Black: Singapore has maintained its value, and is scarce; moderate sales have been effected at 7¼d. per lb. for good. Penang, which was forced down by speculators last week, is recovering, and transactions have been effected at 6⅞d. per lb. Holders are very firm, and will not sell afloat at this rate. White has been very firm at advancing figures, business afloat being done at 1s. 1¼d.; about 1,200 bags sold on the spot, price rising to 1s. 2d. At auction 1,026 bags Singapore and 77 bags Penang were mostly quitted, the latest price being 1s. 2d. for good.

PLUMBAGO.—Good and fine bright lump has realised a further advance, but the demand for inferior sorts remains without improvement. At auction 684 barrels partly sold, good fair to very fine bold lump 26s. to 34s. 6d., chips 16s. 6d. to 22s. 3d., dust 5s. 6d. per cwt.

RATTANS.—Market firm, and at public sale 779 bundles Penang were placed at 5s. 6d. per 100 canes, and 1,478 bundles Rangoon at 6s. 9d. to 7s. 10d. for fine quality.

RHUBARB.—China is steady; of 42 chests at auction a few only sold at irregular, but advanced prices; but good sun-dried is very scarce, and higher.

RICE.—The market has been animated, and a large business has been transacted both on the spot and for arrival, Bengal descriptions realising rather higher rates. Soft grain afloat has found a ready sale, and a large number of cargoes have been disposed of. On the spot about 65,000 bags have been sold, Necransie 9s. 6d. and 9s. 7¼d., Rangoon 9s. 4¼d. to 9s. 9d., Bassein 9s. 7½d., Ballam 8s. 6d. to 9s. 1½d.—50 tons fine sold at 9s. 9d., Askoolie 10s. 9d., low broken to fine bold pearly white 9s. 9d. to 13s. 9d. per cwt. Afloat 2,000 tons Bengal, low to good middling white at 10s. to 11s. 3d. quay terms, and eleven cargoes soft grain Necransie 9s. 6d. to 9s. 7½d. open charter, and Rangoon 10s. 1½d. open charter, and 9s. 6d. to 10s. ex quay.

SAGO.—The market continues quiet; of 1,182 bags in public sale, about half were placed at 17s. to 18s. 6d. per cwt. for fair to very fine bright even small. Flour is easier; of 859 bags part sold at 15s. 6d. to 16s.

SAPANWOOD.—Manila and Siam: Stocks very small and holders continue firm; 12 tons Siam at auction retired. Ceylon is very scarce and has again advanced, 10 tons at auction realising £10 to £12 per ton.

SHELLS.—No transactions since the public sales reported on in our last issue.

SPICES.—Cinnamon: Ceylon is quiet, with business to a retail extent only, at previous rates. Chips also dull. Cassia Lignea: Business very small, at declining prices. Buds quiet. Cloves: Nothing doing. Nutmegs quiet, and again cheaper; 73 cases in auction mostly sold—67's to 75's at 3s. 7d. to 3s. 3d.; 118's 2s. 10d. Mace cheaper, and flat; of 47 packages at public sale about one-third sold at 3s. 2d. to 3s. 6d. per lb. for fair to good reddish.

SOY.—Scarce, and much wanted: the 300 casks newly arrived per Chin Chin were recently offered at auction, and about one-third quitted at the sale and subsequently at 2s. 6d. per gallon, with one lot at 2s. 7d.; the remainder is held for higher rates.

STAR ANISEEDS.—Dull, and very few sales effected; 5 cases at auction retired.

STICKLAC.—Holders are very firm; of 362 boxes Siam in public sale only 18 boxes fine selected bold sold at 90s., the remainder being withdrawn.

TAPIOCA has improved, and some business has been done afloat at 2½d. per lb., but at the close large quantities are being forced on the market. At auction 4,710 bags Singapore were part placed at 2¾d. per lb. for fine, and 2d. to 2½d. dingy to good white; 778 bags Penang sold—fair white at 2½d. Flour quiet; 1,009 bags mostly sold: fine at 2¾d. to 2½d.

TIN.—There is somewhat less firmness in the market, the extreme advancing tendency in Straits is no longer apparent, the quotations being actually 20s. lower than those given for last mail; the current rates are £158 on the spot, £159 afloat. Banca stands at £164, and Billiton at £161, showing a decline of £2 on the latter.

TURMERIC.—Market firm; 105 bags China at auction sold, slightly bulby, at 15s. 6d. to 17s. per cwt.; 24 bags damaged Java brought 10s.

VERMILION.—In good demand, but no supply.

NEW YORK MARKET REPORT.—APRIL 6.

—o—

TEA.

There has been a little more inquiry for invoices, and there is a slight improvement in the general tone of the market. Holders evince no disposition to press sales, and prices are firm for all desirable parcels. The sales for the week have been 4,300 half-chests Green, 10,000 do. Oolong, 4,800 Japan, and 1,250 do. Souchong.

COFFEE.—The market for Brazil remains in a very quiet state, with little disposition either to sell or buy at present, no great improvement in business is looked for until the final adjustment of the tariff question. In the meantime, holders generally remain firm, regarding the situation as favourable, inasmuch as an active demand would speedily absorb the surplus stock, and distribute it through the country, which is known to be unusually bare of supplies. The sales of East India have been confined to small lots at the quotations lately ruling, the only large parcel quitted being 720 bags Native Ceylon on private terms.

CORDAGE.—Without change.

CAMPHOR.—China is quoted 17c. to 18c. gold (in bond).

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed is quoted $3; Cassia, $2.25 gold (duty paid).

FIRE CRACKERS.—The market presents a firmer tone, holders of stock in bond declining business under $1.15 gold. Sales are reported of 4,000 boxes extra No. 1 at $2 40, and 3,000 boxes on private terms.

GAMBIER.—The current quotation is 5c. gold.

GUNNY CLOTH is very quiet, and prices are nominal.

HEMP.—Manufacturers of Cordage, &c., are well supplied with Manila, and consequently they are not in the market at present. The quotations have been of late reduced from time to time, less on account of actual operations at lower rates than from the absence of demand and the consequent nominal condition of the market; the current terms are 11¼c. to 11⅜c. gold, at which it is understood there is more firmness than for some time past. We notice sales of 2,000 bales in Boston at 11¼c.; 1,000 do., to arrive there, 11¼c.; and 1,200 do., here, 11¼c. to 11⅜c. gold, all sixty days prompt.

INDIGO continues dull at unaltered prices.

RICE.—Rangoon continues to meet with a good demand, and the advance we reported last week is well maintained. The sales amount to 1,800 bags at $6 87½ to 7.25 currency, and 3,000 bags in bond at $3.25 to 3.50 gold in bond.

SUGAR.—The market is still dull, but holders as a rule are quite firm, their importations paying a loss at present rates, and store pretty freely to avoid any further reduction in prices. The operations of the week have been very small, the only business in East India consisting of the sale of 34,148 bags Manila ex Dunedin at 7⅞c. to 7 8-16c.

SPICES.—The market remains firm for most descriptions, Pepper especially being held with confidence, owners preferring to sell small, rather then large, lots at the prices now ruling. We note sales of 5,000 bags Singapore, in bond, for export, at 12¼ to 12⅜ cents gold. The distributing demand is only moderate. Dealers are selling to the trade prime Mace at $1.25, Penang Nutmegs 97 cents, Pepper 17 for Sumatra, 18 for Singapore, and 37 for White, Cloves 16, Clove Stems 7½, China Cassia 30, Batavia 28 to 32, all gold. An improved business is looked for as soon as the tariff difficulty is settled in Congress. The prospect for immediate action on that measure, however, does not seem to be the brightest, and the mercantile classes have need of all the patience they can summons during this weary controversy between the two Houses.

TIN.—The market is quiet, but firm, at 40 c. gold for Straits, and 48c. for Banca. An offer of 4,000 slabs Straits, part afloat, has been taken off on private terms.

CASUALTIES.

Advices from Batavia, dated March 2, received at Antwerp, April 11, state that 100 serons of sugar had been saved, ex Floris, from Java to Rotterdam, which vessel ran ashore near Pekalongan previous to Feb. 22.

The Lochnagar (barque), Neill, from Manila to Boston, with hemp, sugar, indigo, &c., put into Bermuda March 22, with loss of sails, spars, &c.; while coming into the port she struck, which caused her to leak; on the 29th she was discharging her cargo, which was turning out in bad order.

Advices from St. Helena, dated March 14, state that the Maibit, Popken, from Java to Amsterdam, had arrived there that day, and reported having experienced a hurricane, Feb. 8, in lat. 26 S., lon. 69 E., during which she lost sails, and everything movable from her decks.

The Alnwick Castle (str.), Freeman, from Colombo, arrived at Aden, April 10, having been detained five days at sea by the breaking of her piston (previously reported as having engines disabled); she proceeded on the 11th for Trieste.

The Galatea (ship), which arrived at Boston, March 31 from Manila, had her after-house and skylight stove during a gale from N.W. on the 18th Jan., when north of Bermuda.

OFFICES—No. 103, CANNON-STREET, LONDON.

PROSPECTUS.

This Company is formed to connect New York with England, and to connect the West Indies directly both with New York and England, without, in either case, the intervention of any system of land lines. It is further apparent, that, when the lines of this Company are laid, it will require but a comparatively short Cable to continue telegraphic communication to Brazil, by a route which will not only be short, but will, at the same time, have the great advantage of connecting Brazil both with England and New York by direct lines.

The route adopted for these purposes is from the best possible point to be selected near Land's End to the Island of Bermuda, with one line thence to a point as near New York as possible, and another to the Island of St. Thomas in the West Indies.

A contract for the making and laying of the cables for the price of £1,330 000, and dated the 8th day of April, 1872, has been made between Hooper's Telegraph Works, Limited, of the one part, and this Company of the other part, upon the basis of a specification for a similar Cable recommended by Sir Samuel Canning, C.E., and Latimer Clark, Esq., C.E., last year and recently revised by Sir William Thomson, LL.D., F.R.S., and Fleeming Jenkin, Esq., F.R.S., C.E.

As a practical guarantee for care in the manufacture and laying of the Cables, the Directors have stipulated that the Contractors shall take, by themselves and their connections, Shares to the amount of one-third of the Capital.

A working agreement has been made between the Great Northern Telegraph Company and this Company, which secures to the latter the traffic from Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Russia, China and Japan, passing over the lines of the Great Northern Telegraph Company and intended for America.

It has further been arranged with the Great Northern Telegraph Company that, when that Company establishes its projected North Atlantic Line, a joint purse agreement on an equitable basis will be made with this Company with reference to North American traffic, which arrangement will give this Company the important advantage of a duplicate route between England and America.

The smallness of the capital required by this Company compared with that of other Atlantic Cable Companies, will enable this Company to establish a lower tariff, and thus not only to open telegraphic communication with America and the West Indies, to a large class of the community who have hitherto been debarred from it by existing tariffs, but at the same time to increase the number of messages from those who have hitherto sent them sparingly.

It is intended to reduce the charge for the transmission of ordinary messages between England and America to one-half the present rate, or £1 for every ten words, and to adopt a similar system for messages to the West Indies.

In addition to the important share of the New York and North American traffic which will by these means and otherwise accrue to this Company, a large revenue is expected from the West Indian Islands and places which are already, or will shortly be, in telegraphic communication with the same, a traffic which will only be fully developed when this direct line has been established. The Island of Bermuda as an important shipping station will also yield traffic of some value.

It is therefore estimated, even taking into consideration the tariff reduction referred to above, and after making a liberal allowance for working expenses and reserve fund, that a large profit will be realised. By the adoption of a system of deferred messages, to be sent at a cheaper rate, it is expected that a further addition to profit will be ensured.

The principle of co-operation will be adopted by giving a discount to shareholders holding not less than 100 shares, of 10 per cent. on messages sent by them.

Applications for Shares must be made to the Bankers, on the form hereto annexed, accompanied by the deposit of £2 per Share. Should no allotment be made, the amount paid will be returned without deduction.

Prospectuses and Forms of Application can be had of the Bankers, of Messrs. P. Cazenove and Co., 52, Threadneedle-street, and Messrs. Walker and Lumsden, 9, Old Broad-street, and at the Company's offices. Copies of the Memorandum and Articles of Association of the Company, and the Contract and Agreement above referred to, can be inspected at the office of the Solicitor, and at the Company's offices by intending subscribers.

CHARTERED BANK OF INDIA, AUSTRALIA, AND CHINA.

DIRECTORS' REPORT.

(PRESENTED AT THE EIGHTEENTH ORDINARY GENERAL MEETING, 17TH APRIL, 1872.)

The Directors have to present to the Shareholders the General Balance-Sheet of the Bank for the year ended 31st December last, exhibiting a Net Profit of £30,247 2s. 2d.

The deficiency which stood in the Accounts at the close of 1870, viz., £59,022 9s. 11d., has therefore been reduced to £28,775 7s. 9d., which sum remains to be met by future profits, and precludes the Directors from recommending the payment of a Dividend.

The unforeseen disturbance of the Money Markets and Exchanges last autumn, which arose out of the financial arrangements of the French and German Governments, affected unfavourably the Bank's earnings during the second half of the year.

After careful examination, the Directors can with confidence state that the Assets of the Bank are thoroughly sound, and they are enabled to add that the information furnished by the different Agencies up to recent dates shows that the business is now steadily progressing, and has been of a very satisfactory character from the commencement of the present year.

Since the last General Meeting, the Directors have had to deplore the death of their colleague, Mr. James Fraser, who had given unremitting attention to the Bank's interests during a long series of years.

Mr. Frederick William Heilgers, of Messrs. Wattenbach, Heilgers, and Co., of London and Calcutta, and Mr. William Paterson, of Messrs. W. W. Ker and Co., of London, and of Messrs. Paterson, Simons, and Co., of Singapore, have consented to join the Board. Their election must, however, be deferred until the time required by the Deed of Settlement for perfecting their qualification shall have elapsed. The Directors congratulate the Shareholders on this accession to the Board of gentlemen who, from their extensive connection and long practical knowledge of Eastern business, will be able to render valuable service to the Bank.

The provisional election of Mr. Ludwig Wiese, already approved of by the Shareholders, now requires formal confirmation. Mr. Thomas Lancaster and Mr. Joseph Robert Morrison retire by rotation, and, being eligible, present themselves for re-election. The Auditors, Mr. Jonathan Thorp and Mr. Owen Lewis, again offer their services.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

ENFEEBLED EXISTENCE — This medicine embraces every attribute required in a general and domestic remedy; it overturns the foundations of disease laid by defective food and impure air. In obstructions or congestions of the liver, lungs, bowels, or any other organs, these Pills are especially serviceable and eminently successful. They should be kept in readiness in every family, being a medicine of incomparable utility for young persons and those of feeble constitutions. They never cause pain or irritate the most sensitive nerves or most tender bowels. Holloway's Pills are the best known purifiers of the blood, the most active promoters of absorption and secretion, whereby all poisonous and obnoxious particles are removed from both solids and fluids.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN.

From Yokohama we have no later news.

From Hiogo we have the following items from a correspondent:—

The Japanese do not appear to have in any way relaxed their desire to have the English language generally taught in their schools throughout the country. Mr. Herbert Stevens has recently made an engagement with the local Government of Choishu to superintend this branch of education in their schools. Amongst his other duties is the translation of English educational books into Japanese, a work which his scholastic knowledge of the Japanese language makes him well qualified to undertake. He is already well-advanced, I hear, in several.

The local Government of Awarri have secured the services of Mr. Inglis as a professor of the English language for their schools.

The Ningpo, formerly Pride of the Thames, is being thoroughly repaired and refitted by her purchasers, Messrs. E. C. Kirby and Co., and will soon be open to freight or charter. Her hull is in capital condition.

Several fresh arrivals for the foreign staff of the Telegraph Department show a laudable desire on the part of the Government to forward the works of the department. The s.s. Denshin Maro arrived here the other day with a quantity of telegraphic material for the lines in course of construction.

One of the iron steamers to which I referred in some of my former correspondence as being put up by the Vulcan Foundry was launched on the 26th Feb. The launch went off without a hitch. The steamer was christened by Mrs. England the Berlin. Her dimensions are—Length over all, 102 feet; beam, 16 feet; engines, 50-horse power.

A notification of considerable importance, and emanating from the American Consul, has just been published; it is to the effect that, when the finance department see fit to dispose of any superabundant amount of rice on their hands, it will be put up for sale by public auction, the purchasers having the privilege of exporting it.

It is to be hoped that the prohibition to export this commodity will ere long be abolished altogether. Many of the outstanding claims of foreigners against natives have been settled by the Government—a step in the right direction.

The water in the Osaca river has been for some time past very low—lower, indeed, than at any time within the recollection of foreigners. The absence of rain in any quantity for a number of months is put down as the cause of this.

NAGASAKI.

The Nagasaki Express has the following on the new fire brigade:—

Only one knotty point now remains to be overcome, and this is the providing of funds in order to defray the necessary expenses which must be incurred in restoring the fire engines to a proper condition for working, and furnishing a sum to be used in purchasing implements required for the use of the members. This is in reality a duty which should be undertaken by the insurance companies in a like manner to which they support similar institutions at home. By each one contributing proportionately according to the amount of interest they have at this port, and the uninsured residents contributing their share in the same manner, it would be an equitable arrangement to all. The future expenditure may be provided for in this manner, but the question to be solved is, how to provide for the present wants. To raise the amount required and prevent such an important service from becoming a failure, necessitates making an appeal to the land renters to supply money, but as some of these are under the impression that ample funds to support the newly started movement can be obtained from the Municipal Treasury, they will perhaps wonder what has become of the $600. The letter received from the secretary to the Municipal Council, and embodied into the minutes, states that no pecuniary aid can be given by them this year, but no reason is assigned for their inability to contribute; but it is reported that the accumulated funds are required to pay for the cost of the new bridge about to be built over the Sagaramatz creek. As the operation of demolishing the old one has so far progressed since last Sunday, as to render it a thing of the past, there is but little doubt that the information obtained by us is substantially correct, and that aid must not be looked for in that quarter.

We mentioned last week that tonnage was in great demand here, and that $4 per ton was easily obtainable. Since then no less than two Japanese steamers lying idle in this harbour have been offered by Chinese, $6.50 per ton for Tientsin and back, but owing to nonchalance on the part of the Japanese, bargains could not be effected. The s. s. Miaca leaves shortly for that port under good charter.

CHINA.

TIENTSIN.

A correspondent on 18th March writes:—

The river is now open from here to the sea, and a British Consular circular informed us last evening that a mail for Shanghai would be made up at 9 A.M. to-morrow, to go by H.B.M.'s gunboat Leven. The Tientsin people, I fancy, may now bid adieu to the winter of '71-'72. The weather to-day is beautiful—a clear sky with no wind, and around us in the settlement we perceive signs of approaching spring. A British Consular circular notified that the Consulate would be hereafter open for business from 10 A.M. to 4 P.M. daily. H.M.'s Consul, Mr. Lay, last evening notified that during his temporary absence Mr. Middleton, the Vice-Consul at Takoo, would come here and take charge of this Consulate. On the anniversary of the birthday of George Washington the U.S.S. Palos dressed ship; at noon a national salute was fired, and Captain Rockwell gave a breakfast on board to the American residents and the U.S. Vice-Consul. The gunboats have not yet all thrown off their winter matting, but with this fine weather they will soon do so. The regularity and punctuality with which this community have received their letters by the Customs courier weekly from Shanghai during the past winter has laid us under great obligations to the Customs officials, and I have no doubt I shall be meeting the approbation of the whole of the residents when I in this public manner beg leave to tender our best thanks to Mr. Hart and Mr. Hannen for their consideration and kindness in giving us the facilities they have done.

His Excellency Chunghow, on his return from his mission to France, passed through Tientsin en route for Peking to-day, having only stayed a couple of hours in the city, at the house of the chief of the Tientsin gentry, and a friend of Chunghow's father, Haichang-woo, to breakfast. The Chinese say that over 60,000 of the inhabitants went out of the city a mile or so to meet him and congratulate him on his return, and that about the same number of people saw him for a mile from the city on his road to Peking.

SHANGHAI.

Advices from this port extend to the 15th March; the P. and O. mail from London, Jan. 26, arrived out March 13th. The following summary is from the North China Herald:—

An important step in the construction of one of the chief works at the Kow-chung meaou Arsenal was taken in the launching of the caisson for the new dock. The dock was originally laid out by Mr. Stephenson, draughtsman to the Arsenal; but that gentleman was on his departure succeeded by a Cantonese, who had displayed considerable ability as an engineer, and merited the approbation of the marine superintendent, Mr. Rolls. The launch of the caisson, under the superintendence of Mr. Mainland, was an occasion of some considerable interest, and brought together a crowd of curious Chinese and a few Europeans. At the last moment it was found that the embankments of earth would not allow the free passage of the pontoon to its element, and a squad of coolies was employed to remove the obstructions. The order was then given to let the caisson slip down the ways; but, it not having been properly ballasted, and being naturally top-heavy, the machine, on gliding off into the dock, turned gracefully over on its side, amid derisive shouts from the Chinese and the regrets of the foreign spectators.

Letters from Newchwang to the 15th February say that loaded carts were crossing the river daily on the ice, which was not expected to break up for another month. The thermometer had fallen 30 deg. below zero. Business has been quiet, on account of the Chinese New Year. Produce was arriving daily from the interior.

A special performance was given by the Chefoo, A.D.C., n honour of H.B.M. Acting Consul, Mr. Mayers, who is about to go home on furlough. The pieces selected were "Love in Humble Life," and "Doing Banting." The performance went off successfully, the parts being well sustained by the principal actors.

H.M. gunboat Leven arrived on the 11th, from Tientsin—the first steamer of the season. She left on the 1st, when the Peiho was open to the sea.

A Ningpo correspondent writes that the free ferry alongside the bridge of boats seems to be still doing very well. The settlement is duller than ever; no ships; no news; no fires; nothing.

The annual meeting of members of the Shanghai Club was held on the 6th, when the report and accounts, showing a balance of $9,518.04, were passed. Rule 49 was amended so as to make four out of the fourteen bedrooms in the Club available for members and visitors requiring accommodation for not more than eight days. The following Committee were elected—Messrs. J. I. Miller, E. G. Low, R. Fergusson, J. H. Cheverton, John Thorne, G. H. Wheeler, H. deC. Forbes, R. W. M. Bird, W. Hyslop, G. W. Coutts, A. Zimmern, and W. Harwood.

A meeting of the French Municipal Council was held on the 5th. Conformably with the municipal regulations, lots were drawn for the councillors who should retire at the end of the year. The lot fell upon Messrs. Voisin, Aymeri, and Wheelock. The question of encroachments by Chinese on the Sikawei road was brought up; the engineer was desired to inspect the road once a week, and to report any encroachments he might observe.

A case of right of way which has come before the Supreme Court has excited much interest. Mr. Hogg and Mr. Little own adjacent properties on the Soochow Creek. Mr. Loureiro owned a small piece of land adjoining the two, and over which lay the approach to Mr. Little's (Jessfield). Mr. Hogg subsequently bought this plot and altered the road. Mr. Little resisted the alteration. The Court has decided that the alteration was not permissible.

Two foreigners have been attacked and badly hurt by Chinese near the Kintoan Beacon. Our readers will remember the wreck of the American brig Loch Lamur, on the North Bank. She was bringing timber for Messrs. S. C. Farnham and Co. The fishermen and villagers who inhabit the neighbouring coast of course plundered the wreck. They were offered one-third of the value as salvage for all timber they would deliver to the owners in Shanghai. As negotiations were going on slowly, Mr. Farnham and Mr. Rohl went down on Friday night to try to expedite matters. While looking about the country they were suddenly attacked by the natives; Mr. Farnham was badly wounded in the head by a hoe, and Mr. Rohl was knocked down, severely beaten, and robbed.

The new Taoutai of Shanghai has arrived, and has received the seals of office.

From Baron Richtofen's letter we learn that he then left a large force in Shensi, under command of one of his generals, named Liu Ming-chuen. The prestige of these troops, who are armed chiefly with foreign weapons, and who were fresh from crushing the Nienfi in Shantung, so overawed the Mahommedans that they at once retired into Kansuh. But Liu did not follow up this success; leaving all the fighting to Tso, he contented himself with guarding the frontier. Tso now wants to attack the city of Huchow, which is regarded as the most important stronghold remaining in rebel hands, and the co-operation of Li's well armed troops is all-important. But at this critical moment, Liu has declined to go into Kansuh, on the plea of ill-health, and has obtained three months' leave of absence. The furlough, we now learn from the Peking Gazette, was accompanied by an order to hand over command to a General Tsao, with whom he was to consult regarding future movements; and both Generals were to report to Peking the result of their deliberations. Instead of doing so, however, Liu withdrew half his force, and started homewards on the very day of Tsao's arrival. Baron Richtofen speaks of having met General Liu, with these men, marching for Weihwei-fu, with the design of proceeding to Tientsin in April. Tsao, in his memorial to the Throne, speaks of them as having been disbanded, and adds that nearly all the officers and men of the remaining battalions were asking for furlough.

HONG KONG.

The dates extend to the 21st March. The outward mail of 2nd Feb. (French) arrived out on 15th March, and the P. and O. mail of 9th Feb. on the 18th. The following items are from the China Mail:—

The approaching departure on leave of Mr. Russell, who, we understand, will probably accompany H.E. the Governor to England, will, of course, make a vacancy on the magisterial bench, which, it is not improbable, will be filled by Mr. Stewart. In this case Mr. Lister would, it is said, take the Central School, and Mr. Wodehouse would act as assistant harbour-master. Should this arrangement not be carried out, Mr. Lister would go to the magistracy. Much as we should deplore Mr. Stewart's removal from the Central School (he would, of course, retain his post of Inspector of Schools), we must confess that we should like to see that gentleman on the bench. In that case we do not know of anyone so fit to succeed him as Mr. Lister, whose careful scholarship would there show to advantage. However, the press proposeth, and the Governor disposeth.

In an article upon the Pier and Godown Company, the Advertiser of this morning has the following:—A new steam pile-driver, constructed by the same firm which supplied the machines used by the contractors for the Thames embankment, has just been received from England and has already commenced work. It is 40 feet in height, and the "monkey" or iron which drives the pile weighs a ton. The contrast between the work performed by this most effective machine and that done by the old 2½ cwt. monkey pile drivers is somewhat remarkable. And a few minutes' inspection of it, while in action, is sufficient to convince anyone of the wisdom evinced by the directors in calling in this new aid, in place of the older and slower apparatus hitherto availed of.

After pitching a pile—i.e., properly placing it to receive the impact of the blow—the machine drives it home in five minutes. Of course this process of pitching occupies the greater portion of the time necessary to get a pile driven, and on Wednesday, when the machine and the hands attending it were new to the work only five were placed. Yesterday they drove ten, and to-day will doubtless get into full swing and reach a higher average. The article goes on to point out the convenience that the godowns will be to banks, who will naturally prefer the warrants of a company to those of private firms.

Another company, besides that we recently alluded to, is being brought before the public, its object being to supply the China trade with an abundance of coal at the lowest remunerative price. Its projectors are sanguine that it will be successful, and if it can compete with private importers it will doubtless be so. The premises already secured by the company will, they say, give storage for about 16,000 tons, which would be ample for present-use stock.

Mr. Armstrong's sale of the houses on Inland Lots Nos. 212 and 212*a* in Hollywood-road, otherwise known as Lum Tuk Kee's property, realised $16,000, being over $2,000 less than the amount for which these buildings were mortgaged. We understand that the houses are at present let at a monthly rental of $270.

One of the Chinese gunboats arrested some junks lying off the Barra Fort a few days since, and much indignation is felt at Macao thereat. Under existing arrangements, however, Macao has no locus standi, and cannot complain. Governor Januario's arrival will, we doubt not, enable the holy City to take its proper position vis a vis the Chinese. The emigration offices are so slack of work that any possible candidate is eagerly contended for by the rival crimps. The removal of the Spanish agencies has, we expect, a good deal to do with the matter, as it is no longer worth while to bring down from the interior coolies unable to pass a fair medical examination.

The new Mexican dollars have, we hear, been assayed by the Haikwan authorities at Canton, and found to contain the standard quantity of silver in the coin as the old Mexican or Hong Kong dollars; they have consequently been recognised as currency in the payment of taxes.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

Dates extend to the 28th March; the outward mail of 23rd Feb. (P. and O.) arrived on the 25th March. The following items are rom the Straits Times:—

The present mail steamer carries away another batch of our residents—among whom are the Hon. Thomas Scott, Captain Caldbeck (P. & O. Agent), and Mr. R. B. Read. Mr. Scott has so long taken a leading part in the affairs of this Settlement, and so warmly interested himself in every matter that could aid in its prosperity, that we cannot allow his departure from us, even for a time, to pass unnoticed. Whether as Chairman of the Chamber of Commerce, as member of the Legislative Council, as a Justice of the Peace, as a merchant, or in his private life he has always done his best to promote the interests of the place, to maintain a good feeling between the European and native sections of the community, and to protect the poorer classes from anything savouring of oppression. How popular and trusted he is with the natives is shown by the address from the leading Chinese residents, presented to him by a very numerous deputation of the signers yesterday morning. It is a testimonial such as few private men are able to carry home with them, more especially when going, as Mr. Scott does, merely for a few months.

The following steamers have arrived via the Suez Canal:—15th, Orontes (H.M.S.), from Portsmouth, via Trincomalee, and U.S. gunboat Saco, from the Mediterranean; 17th, Priam, from Liverpool; 18th, Lotus, from London (via Kurrachee and Cochin); 21st, Galley of Lorne, from London; 24th, Glengyle, from London; 26th, Hector, from Liverpool; 27th, Africa, from London; 28th, Yangtsze, from London.

We learn of the loss of the British ship Bombay, of London, from Ilo Ilo for Channel for orders, in Balabac Straits. The Bombay, Captain Isaac Heigho, sailed from Ilo Ilo on the 3rd March with a cargo of sugar, and on the evening of the 6th, at a quarter past eight o'clock, she struck on a coral reef in Balabac Straits, N.E. of Mangoe Isle. Anchors were run out, and endeavours were made by throwing overboard cargo and heaving on the chain to get her off, but to no purpose, and on the 7th, the ship being full of water and a heavy sea running, the captain and crew left in the boats and went ashore on the island. Here they remained six days, in the hope of being taken off by a passing vessel, but on the 13th they determined to leave the island. They therefore took to the boats, and made for Labuan, where they arrived all well on the 16th. The ship's company consisted of twenty-four persons all told. Two apprentices came to Singapore as passengers in the barque Sampson, and the captain and remainder of the crew, 22 in all, arrived in H.M.S. Hornet.

The Batavia steamer brought news of the loss of the British ship Nyassa, Capt. Hutchinson, on the 13th, on Kajapa Island, twenty-five miles S. W. of Java Head. The Nyassa was from Sarawak, bound to London. The captain and crew arrived safely at Anjer in the ship's boats.

The Austrian frigate Fasana, Capt. Funk, from Batavia, arrived on 16th March.

PENANG.

Dates extend to the 30th March. The Argus has the following items:—

The great event of the past week has been the return of Sir Harry Ord to the colony, after an absence of nearly twelve months. His Excellency arrived by the P. and O. steamer Tanjore, and landed at the jetty, where he was received by the heads of departments, and a great number of our merchants and residents who had assembled to pay their devoirs to him. A guard of honour of the 19th M.N.I. was drawn up to receive him, and the usual salute was fired from Fort Cornwallis on his Excellency's landing.

We learn that the greatest economy, in fact a rigorous retrenchment, is shortly to take place in the administration of this Government. Of course economy is an excellent thing, and if a mutton chop is likely to bring us into debt, the chop must give place to cheaper fare. But this does not prove that mutton chops are not excellent diet, and worth considerable expenditure of the sweat of the brow in their attainment. Many of the retrenchments proposed show a wise, if stern, regard for the public interests; but the pruning knife it is believed will in some cases be used where digging and manuring would be better. It is not improbable that the pruning knife, in some instances, will itself cause waste, and we trust Sir Harry will not cut away more fruit-wood than would be necessary. We would appreciate any attempt to remove the radical defects of the Colonial system, instead of paring down expenditure. However, we wait patiently these long promised reforms.

Sir Harry and Lady Ord, and Mr. Plow, private secretary, embarked on the 28th, in the Pluto, for Singapore.

Messrs. Sandilands, Buttery, and Co. v. the Municipal Commissioners. This case was argued yesterday and to-day, before Sir William Hackett, Mr. Bond appearing for the plaintiffs, and Mr. B. Rodyk, for the defendants. His Honour said he would give his decision shortly.

We understand that the Hon. A. N. Birch proceeds by the next English mail to China and Japan, and that he may probably go home by the San Francisco and New York route.

Mr. George W. R. Campbell, who has been appointed by the Secretary of State Acting Lieutenant-Governor of Penang, during the temporary absence of Lieutenant-Colonel Anson, on leave to Europe, arrived here on Saturday last by the Tanjore from Ceylon.

The local Government recently received a large supply of copper coins from China, about $4,000, but for some cause or other, which is not explained, only a very small portion of this supply, a few hundred dollars, has been placed in circulation. The public are paying five and six cents on every dollar changed, which we think is a very high and ruinous rate.

Commercial Report.

(For dates see first page.)

IMPORTS.

HANKOW.—The fortnight had not been characterised by any improvment in the demand for Cotton goods, and, as importers had in some instances forced sales, a decline had occurred in one or two of the principal staples.

SHANGHAI.—Business limited, and sales effected showed a small decline on the prices last quoted. 7 lbs. Grey Shirtings wanted at Tls. 1.7.2 to 1.7.3 per piece, and heavy goods saleable at Tls. 2.7. to 2.8.5 for best chops; 8¼ lbs. quiet, with buyers of cheap lots, and sales reported both from first and second hands at Tls. 1.8.5 to 1.9.2 for common to good chops, and Tls. 1.9.5 to 1.9.7 for best importations. T-Cloths: Good 6 lbs. wanted at current rates; 7 and 8 lbs. more difficult to realise. White Shirtings: The higher counts in better demand; other qualities are still neglected. Drills: Sales effected at easier rates, but dealers evinced more desire to operate, and the market at the close was firmer, best 15 lb. goods sold at Tls. 3.1.2 per piece. Fancy Cottons: Blue and Scarlet Chintzes in better demand, other fabrics are without change. Woollens and Worsteds: Camlets and Spanish Stripes improved in value, and in fair demand; Figured and Plain Lustres and Crape Lastings also saleable at a small advance.

HONG KONG.—There had been no improvement to notice in the market. The business at the outports was upon a very restricted scale, and sales here had in consequence been confined to the smallest possible extent. Holders generally continued firm. Yarn: 16/24s dull of sale. Grey Shirtings in retail demand. White Shirtings: Fine to finest qualities easily disposed of at rather improved quotations. T-Cloths: 6 lb. common chops in small stock, but dealers will not pay over $1.72½ for Dewhurst's T.; importers firm; 7 lb. common difficult to move; 6 lbs. Mexicans, no buyers; 7 lb. Mexicans, common in small inquiry, best chops neglected; 8 lb., difficult to move. Drills: English little doing, at a slight decline; American, not in stock; Dutch, lower. English Jeans: Few purchases, at a slight advance. Fancy Goods: Moved in retail quantities at former rates. Woollen and Worsted Goods: Trivial demand at a decline upon last mail's rates. Metals: Tended upwards; Nail Rod Iron, further advanced 10c. per picul for best; Bar also improved; Hoop, unchanged, owing to absence of sales; Lead, sales irregular, on the spot LB changed hands at $6.10, and to arrive at $6.25 to 6.30 per picul; WB neglected.

MANILA.—The market for nearly all imports had been strong during the fortnight, and prices had exhibited an advancing tendency.

SINGAPORE.—A moderate but not active business had been done during the interval; prices had shown no change of importance.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

YOKOHAMA.—There had been very little doing in this market, and settlements, consisting chiefly of the Medium grade, had been 1,000 piculs. There had been no change to note in prices, which in the absence of business were for the most part nominal. The stock of desirable qualities was almost nil, and the small supplies coming forward consisted of inferior leaf, for which there was no sale. The John Milton, or New York, was still loading.

HANKOW, KIUKIANG, FOOCHOW, AMOY.—Season closed.

SHANGHAI.—The business had been most trifling. Stocks were reduced to a minimum, and the season may be considered closed. Export to date as compared with that of last season:—To Great Britain, Black, 8,473,000 lbs. excess; Green, 201,000 lbs. excess; to America, Black, 1,311,000 lbs. excess; Green, 1,958,000 lbs. excess. Stock of all kinds 976 half-chests, against 5,000 half-chests in 1871.

CANTON.—Some small settlements of Scented Teas made at unchanged rates, and a contract for 2,000 half-chests Pouchong at Tls. 21 reported to have been effected for the American market.

SILK.

YOKOHAMA.—There had been a very moderate business passing, dealers asking such advanced rates, and showing so much firmness, that buyers generally refrained from being purchasers. The settlements had therefore been on a small scale, and comprised about 250 bales, some of which was on native account. Quotations remained unaltered.

SHANGHAI.—Messrs. C. J. Skeggs and Co.'s Circular says:—Business has continued on a moderate scale during the fortnight, estimated at about 600 bales. The dealers, being anxious to close the season and go up country, have been ready sellers, and although the buying has been very irregular, prices generally are lower. The settlements are chiefly ordinary Tsaltees and Rereels; no chops have been fixed but holders are willing to concede about Tls. 10 on previous rates.

STRAITS PRODUCE.

SINGAPORE.—Produce of all descriptions remained very firm in spite of a rise in exchange and firmness of freights. Gambier again risen in value and difficult to procure; $4.35 refused. Black Pepper: A further rise established; at the close large re-sales made at $14 to 14½. White in fair demand and firm. Tin: Risen in value: sales were made in the early part of the fortnight at $37½, and afterwards quotations gradually advanced to $38.30; a good business has been done, and the market closes firm. Pearl Sago is unchanged. Gutta-Percha scarce, and in good inquiry for all descriptions. Bontyne Coffee unchanged, supplies small.

At the meeting, this day, of the National Bank of India, the directors' report and the accounts were adopted. The re-election of Mr. Frere and Mr. Apcar, retiring directors, was postponed, a poll being demanded; and that of Mr. Corradaile, also a retiring director, was carried unanimously.

A TABLE has been compiled by Mr. F. M. Page, showing the prices of bullion, bank drafts, &c., in London during the year 1871, with the corresponding rates of sale in China.

(PALL MALL GAZETTE.)

Another effort was made by Mr. Hughes on Friday to induce Parliament to sanction some effective action for the suppression of existing forms of slave trade, chiefly known to the public under the euphemism of "coolie emigration." The debate which followed the motion of the member for Frome calling attention to the condition of the slave population of Cuba was not, however, of an encouraging character. So far as direct intervention, or effective action of any kind, is concerned, there is, indeed, nothing to be hoped for in the present state of public feeling. Mr. Gilpin's hope that "the discussion would revive something of that old anti-slavery feeling which formed one of the finest reminiscences of his younger days" is to all appearance very chimerical. The speakers on the other side, including the Under Secretary of Foreign Affairs, had a very easy part to play in showing the impracticability or inexpediency of doing anything. We have more than once indicated the only course which would promise immediate results; and those of a decisive kind as regards the further continuance of the traffic in coolies from the Chinese coast, the main source of supply. If this were stopped, the evil would be circumscribed, and narrowed in fact to the suffering condition of those already transported to the American continent and the neighbouring colonies. And if no intervention in their behalf could be speedily or beneficially brought to bear, there would at least be the consolation of knowing that each day would diminish the area of the evil. The course we have suggested is one the first step in which was taken many years ago by the United States, when they prohibited any American vessel to carry coolies under labour contracts. There can be little doubt that they would cordially join the British Government to act in concert with the Chinese, and so enable the Imperial Government to prevent the embarkation of any coolies under contract for foreign countries, unless or until securities could be devised by which good faith with the emigrant could be secured on the other side, as well as perfect freedom of election on the part of the native in China. This can hardly be effected until China is prepared to place thoroughly competent consuls in the countries where their subjects are to be transported, and to watch over their interests under the further security of treaty engagements. But if all further supply were stopped until these objects could be secured, means would undoubtedly be found of establishing before long a system of emigration under adequate protection against flagrant abuses on either side of the Pacific, and to the mutual benefit of the nation supplying and the countries demanding the labour. Great Britain and the United States alone could perfectly well secure this end, in concert with China. But whether alone or with other European Powers, there could be no insuperable obstacle—none which good faith and honest determination could not satisfactorily dispose of, without any recourse to measures contrary to international usage or policy. Lord Enfield may think that "it was a great misfortune, not only to the British West Indies, but to the Chinese themselves, that the emigration of Chinese to those islands had been stopped; because, as everyone knew, they were well treated in those colonies, although there were some cases of abuse." But if so, we doubt whether he has read with the care it deserves the instructive report of the Commissioners appointed to inquire into the treatment of immigrants in British Guiana, presented to Parliament last session, or the not less instructive running commentary on it supplied by Mr. Jenkins in his notes taken on the spot. In any case, we must differ equally from Lord Enfield and the planters, who also lament the stoppage, when we reflect that this was entirely due to the Governments of France and Great Britain, in deference to the representations of the colonial interest, refusing the proposal of the Chinese Government to limit the term of contract labour to five years, and insist upon a free passage back—the two conditions which France and England had expressly provided in two successive Conventions with each other in 1861 and 1862 as necessary for the protection of the Indian ryot from virtual slavery. The Chinese Government did well and wisely to resist the effort of the two European Powers to deprive the Chinese coolies of these safeguards against being converted into slaves; and it is difficult to understand upon what principle either France or England could justify the application of one rule for their guidance in dealing with the Indian ryot and another when the Chinese coolie was in question.

The Daily Telegraph, with reference to the correspondence presented to Parliament on the subject which was summarised in our last issue, says:—We recommend the testimony of these four Chinamen to Parliament, to Europe, to Portugal. They bring together such charges of deceit, avarice, infamous cruelty, ghastly cowardice, and fearful torture against the Macao officers, that humanity itself must rise and denounce the scarcely-disguised slave-trade of China. Of course the British representatives laid the horrible facts thus divulged before the Portuguese Government in Macao; but the reply was most unsatisfactory. In place of unreservedly deploring a catastrophe which seems to disgrace our common civilisation—in place of taking immediate and anxious steps to render such a thing for ever impossible in the future—we grieve to observe that the Marquis d'Avila thought it decent to respond with a tu quoque. He wrote a brief despatch curtly stating that "proper measures" already existed for the protection of the emigrant coolies and their becoming treatment while on board ship; and then he concluded with a polite sneer, by remarking that the Macao exportation of Chinamen was carried on "far more legally than by the British at Hong Kong." We are glad to see that this unworthy replication can be met by a denial as strong as the forms of diplomatic courtesy will permit. Sir Richard M'Donnell most positively states in answer, that the Macao traders in human liberty and life can find no sort of justification in the emigrant traffic conducted from Hong Kong under our flag. Thus convicted, the Portuguese Government must at once wipe away such a stain—if, indeed, the shame and horror of that burning shipload of cheated slaves can ever be effaced. Tricked no doubt through their own folly and deceitfulness, these ignorant coolies are smuggled into the prison called a barracoon; the broker gets his price; the shipper makes his profit; it is no one's business to let the official forms be anything else than mere sham; and thus the hapless Chinaman at best finds himself transported like a sheep beyond the seas.

THE WESLEYAN MISSION TO CHINA.

The annual breakfast meeting of this institution was held at the City Terminus Hotel on Saturday. The proceedings commenced with the reading of the report, showing the progress made during the past year in China. The chairman, Mr. Boyd, of Manchester, followed with a brief address, after which the Rev. Dr. Waddy moved a resolution to the effect that the meeting, while rejoicing in the success which had attended the efforts of the Mission to spread Christianity in China, was resolved to increase the means to be employed in extending the work. Dr. Waddy spoke at great length in support of the motion, incidentally remarking that however widely the efforts of the Mission might be extended, they must still fall far short of reaching even a small section of the enormous population of the Chinese Empire. Much good, however, had been effected. Not only had the agents of the Mission succeeded in spreading the knowledge of religious truths, but they had contributed in no small degree to the dissipation of that hatred and distrust of foreigners which is so marked a feature in the Chinese character, and from which arose the "Shan-sin-fan" excitement of last year. Several other gentlemen, some of them personally connected with the China Mission, having spoken in support of Dr. Waddy's observations, the proceedings were brought to a close.

REAR ADMIRAL JAMES F. B. WAINWRIGHT died at Southsea, on the 23rd inst., aged 57. The deceased admiral entered the navy in October, 1832, became lieutenant in 1841, and commander in 1849. As commander of the Winchester, in 1852, he was honourably mentioned for his gallant conduct at the storming of two forts in the vicinity of Prome, Burmah, and in 1853 was reported for his efficient services against pirates in the Chinese waters. He was naval officer in charge of the naval establishment at Bermuda from September, 1864, until advanced to flag rank, July 26, 1869.

Sir C. WINGFIELD has asked the Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs if he would lay before Parliament any further correspondence that had passed between Her Majesty's Government and that of Portugal on the subject of the emigration of Chinese coolies from Macao. Lord ENFIELD said that there was no further correspondence on the subject that he could produce. It appeared, however, from a report of the Hong Kong authorities in answer to the Portuguese allegations, that the coolie emigration was better conducted at Macao than at Hong Kong.

IN the last number of the Phœnix is a continuation of the Japanese paper on Commerce, translated by Mr. W. G. Aston, who is at present in England, and has just brought out a "Grammar of the Japanese Written Language." Mr. W. T. Mercer, M.A., late of Hong Kong, writes some very interesting notes on "Japanese Proverbs," which were also contributed by Mr. Aston.

THE AMERICANS IN JAPAN.—A New York journal says advices of a trustworthy though not official character lately received from Japan represent the authorities of that country as exceedingly dissatisfied with one of the American officials, engaged to introduce the modern systems of administration into the empire, and the prospects of other applicants for the Japanese public service are materially injured thereby.

The sailing Indiaman Star of India has arrived from Colombo, and disembarked the following military officers and troops:—Royal Artillery, 14 men; Royal Engineers, 1 man; 73rd Infantry, Capt. S. W. Sharpe and 53 rank and file; Ceylon Rifles, Lieut. P. W. Tombs; Medical Staff, Staff-Surg. C. L. Hind; 9 women, and 19 children.

OUR naval squadron in China is to be increased by the addition of the Cadmus, wooden screw corvette, of 17 guns, 1,466 tons burthen, and 400-horse power. The Cadmus is now one of the vessels of the Flying Squadron, but will be detached at Bombay and proceed from thence to China.

THE Senatus of the University of Glasgow has conferred the degree of LL.D. upon the Rev. Carstairs Douglas, the senior missionary of the English Presbyterian Church in China.

The P. and O. Co.'s steamer Cathay was launched at Dumbarton on the 25th inst., and will be delivered over to the company the first week in June.

THE party of Japanese which left Yokohama by the French mail of 5th March are now at Lyons inspecting the manufactories of the city.

THE new steamer Surprise is loading at Hull with barges and lighters for the Amoor river. She will call at Singapore and Nagasaki en route.

We learn by the Cape of Good Hope mail that H.M.S. Ocean has arrived in Simon's Bay, en route to England from China.

HOLLAND.

ROTTERDAM, April 24.

The members of the Second Chamber are discussing the Bill which proposes to levy an income-tax. It now seems certain that this measure will be rejected, as several Liberals are in opposition. If this result is obtained it would be much to the satisfaction of the nation generally, but it is doubtful whether in that case Mr. Blusse, our able Minister of the Financial Department, would not feel himself compelled to resign.

The Japanese Government has communicated with our Government, inquiring whether there are no young Dutchmen able and desirous of entering into the State service of Japan, which is being reorganised upon European principles. I hear that the Japanese Ambassadors who are shortly to visit England will arrange this matter with our Minister for Foreign Affairs during their stay at the Hague. It is very strange that our Government did not give any publicity to this affair, by inserting some advertisements in our leading newspapers. There are numbers of young men of ability here who are desirous of employment.

The Company Nederland has issued its proposal for a loan of f.3.500,000, to build more steamers. Up to this moment it has not transpired whether the amount is subscribed or not. From the first there has not been much disposition to back this national enterprise.

The Government has laid before the members of the Second Chamber a Bill asking a supplementary credit of f.15,194.94, in order to pay to Mr. Myer the balance of his salary and his expenses for the voyage from Java.

I regret to record the deaths of Lieutenant-General A. J. Andreson, ex-Commander of the East India Army, and of Mr. A. J. L. Stratenus, ex-Minister of Foreign Affairs.

THE ROTTERDAM BANK.

The annual report of the managers of the Rotterdam Bank has just been published. The business transacted by the bank in Europe during 1871 reached the total sum of f.252,789,267.14, showing an increase of f.40,005,241.02 compared with 1870, and giving a net profit of a little over twelve per cent. on the capital. In Java the main object of the bank has been to liquidate the unprofitable investments which had been formerly made there. The head agency at Batavia, under the temporary management of one of the directors of the bank, Mr. Canters, has given good results, if the year 1871 be alone taken into consideration. But the liquidation of several assets has shown important deficiencies on the valuations, and the consequence has been that the account of losses and profits of this agency exhibits a deficit of f.111,189.30. The valuation of the assets of the bank in Java have been reduced to a moderate amount, and the managers are confident that on the whole they fully represent the value for which they are now put down upon the books of the bank. The managers have, however, come to the conclusion that the Batavia agency as it now exists must be wound up, and this is to be officially announced by the 1st of July next. They wish, however, to continue their co-operation in the trade between the Netherlands and their colonies to as great an extent as possible. Mr. Canters has consented to remain at the head of the agency in liquidation for another year, at the expiration of which the directors will propose other necessary measures for an efficient representation of the bank in India. The loss occasioned by the agency has reduced the available profits of the head office to f.249,804.85½, out of which f.49,960.97 have been placed to account of the reserve funds, and a dividend of f.6.25 per share, equivalent to five per cent. per annum, is declared.

The report has generally made a very favourable impression, as it shows clearly that the position of the bank is now effectively consolidated, and that the shareholders have every reason to believe that the really remunerative business of the head office will no longer be materially affected by the unsatisfactory position of the Colonial branches. The rate at which the shares are quoted on Exchange, viz., 10 premium, being f.135 for the f.125 paid up shares, is a proof of the favourable appreciation of the position of the bank.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

A want of animation continues to be the prevailing characteristic of our Produce markets, and the business done throughout the past week offers hardly any change to report in prices of any leading article, except sugar, which is creeping up. The April sale of Coffee, on account of the Netherlands Trading Company, went off at irregular prices, but generally more favourable than had been expected. Tin has assumed a quiet appearance, but prices remain unaltered.

COFFEE.—The Trading Company's public sale opened flatly and prices ruled at first slightly below the valuations, but the competition soon increased, and caused not only the partial reduction to be recovered, but prices ultimately to exceed the valuations by ¼c. to ½c. for the bulk, 2½c. to 3½c. for the Menado, and ¾c. to 1½c. for the Santos. Good ordinary Java, sold at 41c. to 41½ c. The market has continued since to exhibit a firm appearance, and many numbers of the public sale are sought after at the prices paid for the same.

SUGAR has assumed increased firmness, but for want of sellers transactions remain unimportant.

SPICES.—Some demand continues to prevail for Nutmegs at former prices.

TEA.—No transactions of note are to be reported.

RICE.—The position of this article remains dull, without anything doing.

TIN.—Transactions have been on a limited scale. Banca has changed hands for public sales prompt at f.97, for delivery ex the next autumn sale at f.92 to f.92½, Billiton spot at f.93½ to f.94½, and afloat f.94 to f.95.

COCOA-NUT OIL.—Cochin has found buyers at f.27½.

PRESERVED GINGER.—400 chests China were offered in public auction, and 340 of them passed the hammer at 71c. to 73c.

KAPOK.—Sales have been closed of 400 bales uncleaned afloat, per H.W.M., on secret terms, and 97 bales do., ex Nestor.

JAVA INDIGO.—About 60 chests have been disposed of.

SAPANWOOD.—About 6,300 piculs were sold for account of the Trading Company at f.3½ to f.6½, and for private account 310 piculs at f.5 to f.5½.

TURMERIC.—200 bags good quality were sold at f.4, and 59 bags ordinary at f.2.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.—April 17, at Texel, from Batavia, Anita.

DEPARTURES. — April 18, from Brouwershaven, for Batavia, Noach III., Otto, Salatiga; from Texel, for Batavia, Gerard Pieter Servatius, Elizabeth, Anna Digna; for Samarang, Zaanstroom; April 20, from Texel, for Batavia, Ymuiden; April 21, from Texel, for Batavia, Johannes.

PASSENGERS OUTWARD.—To Java, per Noach III.: Messrs. van Doornen and family, Battaerd and family, Bemolt and family, van Huls and family, Magner and family, J. P. Stokmans, Miss van der Velden, 119 soldiers. Per Ymuiden: Messrs. H. Kuchlin and family, M. W. Steenmeyer.

PORTUGAL.

LISBON, April 20.

The treaty of commerce and navigation with the German Empire has been approved by the Cortes. This treaty will contribute to develop our commerce, and to unite more closely the friendship between our country and the New Empire.

The Minister for Foreign Affairs, in the course of the debate on the budget of his department, said that the Government had been authorised to establish consulates of the first class in those places where their services are required, and that two had already been established, one in Peru and another in Havana. These two consulates will probably enjoy extensive revenues. At the same time, added the Minister, it is certain that in both ports in which the consulates had been established some exceptional circumstances have arisen which the Government are desirous of ameliorating. Both to Peru and Havana there is a considerable immigration of coolies from Macao. I am asked (said the Minister to the deputy Senor Osorio) why the emigration of coolies obliges us to establish consulates of the first class in those ports. I asked myself this same question, before taking a resolution on the subject, and I formed the opinion that the consulates are necessary for two reasons, first in the interest of humanity, and, secondly, to withdraw the responsibility from Portugal which the press of Europe has attempted to cast upon us for authorising the transport of coolies from Macao to Cuba, and thus as it states, protecting slavery. This accusation is quite untrue, unjust, and without precedent; to justify us, it is enough to understand the laws which we have made and which are in force in our colony of Macao. All necessary measures, sanitary and protective, have been adopted and put in execution, and almost every day have to be employed. The Government of Portugal is bound to protect in Portuguese territory all persons of whatever nation making labour contracts when the representatives of the countries of which they are natives cannot do so. China has no representative either in Havana or in Peru, while the Peruvian and Spanish Government cannot accept the protection of a Portuguese Consul for persons who are not Portuguese; and for this reason the Minister for Foreign Affairs said he had drawn up a convention which would be laid before the Cortes, in which clauses quite new and special were introduced, by which clauses our Consuls are directed and empowered to protect all emigrants from any country, and to investigate all labour contracts, employing all means to prevent any emigrant from being compelled to serve against his will, also to render all those services which the Government of a civilised country ought to furnish to persons placed in such a position. The Government of Peru has accepted these conditions, and the Minister considers that any abuses which have existed in connection with coolie emigration must now cease.

The Foreign Minister has laid before the Cortes a White-book comprising 135 documents, preceded by an interesting report referring to the negotiations of a treaty of commerce with Great Britain. It contains the whole history, accompanied by the documents, of the negotiation begun in 1866, and which has lasted until now without any result, to obtain a modification in the scale of duties on the export of wine to England. From all these documents it is to be inferred that our Government has done its best in this affair, but that the resistance of the English Government has been insurmountable.

UNITED STATES.

The San Francisco Chamber of Commerce has held a meeting at which the following memorial was adopted unanimously:—That the increasing claims of commerce on the Pacific Ocean, the opening of a more friendly intercourse with countries bordering thereon, and larger facilities for the transportation of passengers, and freight from this point to the Atlantic seaboard, require the permanent lines of first class steamships under more liberal patronage of Government, from San Francisco to China and Japan, as also to the British colonies of Australia and New Zealand. That the encouragement of these two lines of steamers by Congress semi-monthly to China and Japan, and monthly to the Australian and New Zealand colonies, is a matter of vital consequence to the people of the United States, inasmuch as it would undoubtedly result in diverting a large portion of the trade and intercourse with most of the countries and productive islands of the Pacific Ocean from the time-worn routes via the Cape of Good Hope or the Isthmus of Suez to the American Continent; that, in the opinion of this Chamber, it should be equally the policy of the Government to foster intercourse by sea as well as by land, and to grant reasonable subsidies to lines of mail steamers for the purpose of attracting and securing foreign commerce to our own shores as well as to extend assistance to lines of railroad for the purpose of facilitating and developing internal communication. That it is the earnest prayer of this Chamber that Congress should extend such assistance to steamers plying between this port and China and Japan as will enable them to secure permanently the vast advantages of the trade between these countries by the establishment of a semi-monthly line, and also by such other assistance to steamers plying between this port and the British colonies of Australia and New Zealand as will promote the important and increasing intercourse with these rich and rapidly developing countries.

NEW YORK MARKET REPORT.—APRIL 18.

TEA.

There has been a more active inquiry for Green, and prices are a trifle firmer. Black and Japan are in moderate demand, and steady at former rates. The sales for the week are 3,832 half-chests Green, and 1,500 do. Oolong, vessels not named.

COFFEE.—The absence of demand for Brazil and the gradual accumulation of stock weakens the market, and, though there have been no sales, holders are generally willing to make a slight concession. We reduce our quotations for all grades ¼ cent per lb. gold, remarking, however, that the revised rates are still entirely nominal, buyers holding aloof while the vexatious duty question is in abeyance. Java is only in jobbing demand at unchanged prices; the stock has been increased by the arrival of the Aztecs with about 12,000 mats.

CORDAGE.—Manufacturers have reduced their prices in sympathy with the recent decline in Hemp. Manila is ¼c. per lb. lower, and Sisal 1c. We now quote:—Manila Cordage, sizes above 12-thread, 19c.; 6 thread and 9-thread (¼ inch and 5-16 inch diam.), 20c.; 12-thread (⅜ inch diam.), 19½c.; Manila Hay Rope, 19½c.; do. Cordage, Bolt Rope Yarns, 21c.; do., 6-thread and 9-thread, 22c.; Tarred Manila, 18½c.; fine Tarred Manila Lath Yarn, 20c.; Sisal Rope, sizes above 12-thread, 16½c.; 6-thread and 9-thread, 17½c.

CAMPHOR.—China is quoted 17c. to 18c. gold (in bond).

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed is quoted $3; Cassia, $2.25 gold (duty paid).

FIRE CRACKERS.—The market continues firm with fair activity. Sales have been 2,000 boxes extra No. 1 at $2.40 to 2.42½ currency, and 5,000 boxes in bond at $1.10 gold.

GAMBIER.—The current quotation is 5c. gold.

GUNNY CLOTH is very quiet, and prices are nominal.

HEMP.—No transactions in Manila; prices are as last quoted.

INDIGO.—Manila quiet at 95c. to $1.5 currency.

RICE.—Rangoon continues in good request, owing to its being relatively lower than Carolina; the sales for the week have been 2,000 bags at $6.75 to $7.25 currency, and 3,500 bags in bond at $3.25 to $3.30 gold.

SUGAR.—The market has been very quiet. Refiners, finding a lessened demand for their product, even at lower prices, purchase sparingly, and the Trade buy only for immediate necessities. The receipts in the mean time have been large, and, as a rule, are offered quite freely, so that prices have given way ⅛ cent per lb. We note the sale of 1927 baskets of Java at 9 9-16c. to 9 19-32c.

SPICES.—Invoices are neglected, and the demand for store lots is only moderate; prices, however, are firm for most articles. Cloves have declined to 15½ to 16c. Pepper is very strong, with a disposition to sell small lots rather than large parcels at the ruling rates. Dealers are supplying the trade demand at $1.25 for prime Mace, 96c. for Penang Nutmegs, 17c. for Sumatra Pepper, and 18c. for Singapore, White 37½c., Cloves 50½c. to 16c., China Cassia 29c. to 30c., Batavia 22c. to 32c., Cassia Vera 25c.—all gold.

TIN.—The receipt of advices of the result of the Dutch Trading Company's sale of the 11th of April has caused an advance of 2c. to 3c. in this market, which at the close is firm at 42c. to 43c. for Straits and 52c. gold for Banca. Straits has been sold to arrive at 40½c. to 41½c., and Banca at 48c.

THE SINGAPORE RAILWAY.

WE give in another column the resolutions passed at a special meeting of the Straits Association on this very important subject, and which have no doubt been duly transmitted to the Colonial Secretary by the Chairman. Lord KIMBERLEY has now before him the united voice of the Straits community against the construction and working of the proposed railway by the local Government, as expressed, first of all, by the Legislative Council, after a lengthened inquiry, then by the inhabitants of Singapore in public meeting, next by the press of the colony, and now by the Straits Association here, composed of old residents in the Straits, still largely engaged in its trade and deeply interested in the prosperity of the colony. The united opinion thus unmistakably expressed is, that the proposed railway is essentially of a private character, that public money should not be expended upon it, and that the local Government should not meddle either with its construction or working, but leave the matter entirely in private hands. The docks and wharves in New Harbour, which the proposed railway is intended to connect with the town, are all private property. They rose one after another, as the wants of the trade demanded, without Government interference and without any aid from the public treasury; and if this railway is really a public necessity, it will be made in the same way, and may very safely be left to private enterprise and capital. We may just notice a very extraordinary argument in favour of Government constructing the railway used by one two speakers at the public meeting at Singapore. They maintained that it had become a necessity on the part of Government, in order to put an end to the rivalry existing among the wharf-owners! On the same principle the Government would require to take over the whole trade of the place, for every merchant is the rival of his neighbour; and it would be curious to inquire what injury is inflicted on the public by such rivalry, that the Government should be called on to put it down. What public harm has resulted from the competition among the dock and wharf owners? It is not long since there was only one dock in New Harbour. What were dock charges then, and what are they now? Suppose the docks and wharves were all taken over by Government, instead of being left in private hands, competing for public support, and worked on the most approved colonial system; would the public gain by the change? The thing is too absurd to require an answer. But it is said that a railway is quite a different thing, not this railway. Mr. GILFILLAN, in his able letter in the London and China Telegraph of February 5, and Dr. LITTLE, Mr. ADAMSON, and others, in their speeches at the Singapore public meeting, showed very plainly that the proposed railway is simply intended to accommodate the traffic between the private wharves in New Harbour and the town, and that it does not partake, in any sense, of a public character. It is, therefore, as clearly a work for private enterprise as the docks and wharves themselves, and a work in which we venture to say no Government can interfere without mischief both to public and private interests.

The unanimity of the Straits press is somewhat remarkable; for although the editor of the Straits Observer, in his capacity of advocate, speaks in favour of Government interference, yet as editor he takes the trouble of writing two articles strongly in favour of the views expressed at the public meeting. He even goes out of his way to refer to a speech of Lord DERBY in support of those views, and deprecating the intervention of Governments in such matters. With the additional evidence on the subject now before him, all strongly opposed to Government intervention and the employment of public money on a purely private undertaking, as this railway evidently is, there can hardly be a doubt that Lord KIMBERLEY will now decide to carry out the views of the Straits community and leave the question where they wish it to be left, and where it was left by the Legislative Council—entirely in private hands. As already said, if the railway is really wanted the wharf-owners and the public, if let alone, will soon find out the way by which the work can be best accomplished.

THE CONSULAR SERVICE IN CHINA.

THE Select Committee on the Diplomatic and Consular Services met again last week, when Sir R. ALCOCK was examined at some length upon the condition of the Consular Service in China, respecting which he expressed a very decided opinion that it was both "under-manned and underpaid," undermanned as regarded the number of officers required to keep the staff at the ports in efficient working order, and underpaid as regarded the necessities of the position of the officers employed. He stated that the annual value of the trade with China was more than £42,000,000, that it gave employment to upwards of 7,000 vessels under the British flag, and that the delegates of the Shanghai Chamber of Commerce in their able report upon the trade of the upper Yangtsze, had shown that this trade had a tendency to increase at the rate of from £2,000,000 to £3,000,000 a-year. He further expressed his opinion that the large increase of the trade for the last few years was due to the opening of new ports, which were subsidiary to the great depots of Hong Kong and Shanghai, and that the withdrawal of a Consulate from any of those ports would be followed by a diminution in the value of the trade between China and Great Britain. We need hardly say that we perfectly concur with these remarks, so far at least as the underpayment of Consular officers is concerned, and, as facts and figures are stubborn things, we would refer our readers to "Appendix I.," given by the Shanghai delegates at the end of their report, from which it will be seen the value of British produce exported to China from the United Kingdom in 1858 (the year in which the Treaty of Tientsin was concluded) was £2,876,447, whilst ten years later, after the new ports on the Yangtsze and in the Gulf of Pechili had been opened, this value had risen to £7,621,644. Such figures need no comment, they tell their own tale; and there can be no doubt that if China were tapped, so to speak, at other points, along her extensive seaboard and upon her great rivers, a largely increased consumption of our manufactures would be the result; but these points should be selected with care, and only after due consideration. The fact is that with the increase of our Consular ports a corresponding increase has taken place in the value of our export trade to China, and that the cost of the whole Consular Establishment there represents a very small per centage on the value of our total trade with a country which contains within its borders perhaps one-third of the human race. Our Consular officers in China, however, must be more encouraged than they have been of late by increased rates of pay and more liberal arrangements as to retiring allowances, or the country that employs them will eventually be the loser. Unless, indeed, their present status be improved, the advice which in all seriousness we would give to any young man who may contemplate entering the service would be equally short and emphatic as that once tendered by Mr. PUNCH to persons about to marry—"Don't."

IT will be seen by our Lisbon correspondent's letter in another column, that the Minister of Foreign Affairs at Lisbon, has at length come forward with a proposition to establish first-class Consular establishments in Peru and Cuba, with special instructions to protect Chinese immigrants. So far so good; but this does not meet the case. It is prevention, not cure, we require. It is idle to contend for a moment that the Chinese go on board at Macao as free emigrants. They are cajoled and deceived, and hence the fit of frenzy which urges them to set fire to the ship or commit any other act which will procure their freedom. It is this that the Portuguese Government must prevent. Sir CHARLES WINGFIELD, M.P., and others propose that the British Government should act in concert with the Chinese Government and forbid this emigration from Macao. This is not practicable, inasmuch as Macao is Portuguese territory; and although the Chinese Government always dispute that it is ceded in perpetuity, there can be no question that Macao and its harbours are de facto under the rule and possession of the Portuguese.

THE Consular reports which we publish in another column from Batavia and Manila will be read with interest at this time, while a Commission is sitting to inquire into the working of the Consular Service. The report of Mr. RICKETTS, the paid Consul at Manila, is very exhaustive, and we trust that our Government will see fit to procure from the Spanish Government at Madrid such facilities as the French and German Consuls possess, that we may be the better able to carry out the rights and wants of British subjects.

WE most heartily commend the proposal of the Rev. J. EDKINS and his coadjutors at Peking for the establishment of a "Society for the Diffusion of Useful Knowledge." The undertaking seems indeed grotesque when we remember the vast population which surrounds the promoters; but they are the sort of men who do not "despise the day of small things." The induction of but a handful of the intelligent Chinese at Peking into Western notions will be instrumental in permeating the masses.

CONSULAR REPORT FROM BATAVIA.

(By Acting Consul Fraser, Nov. 24.)

The Consulate of Batavia embraces entire Java, Sumatra, the Dutch possessions in the Moluccas, Borneo, and the islands in Gaspar, and Billiton Straits. The Consul's residence is Batavia, and the appointment is at present filled by Acting Consul Mr. W. T. Fraser, late Vice-Consul at Samarang, and for ten years engaged in the Consular affairs at this port, and at Sourabaya and Samarang. The newly appointed Consul, Mr. N. McLean, will take charge at Batavia on the 1st December next.

The work of the Consulate is increasing yearly, while the fees are decreasing, owing to the numerous means of communication. Java is now much more visited than formerly, and the Consul's time is much more taken up by rendering advice and assistance than it ever was previously. The Consul is always at his post from 9.30 A.M. till 4.50 P.M., and his duties consist in engaging and discharging seamen, noting and extending protests, drawing out powers of money, bottomry bonds, and other legal documents, carrying on the general correspondence with the Home and the Netherlands Indian Governments, giving advice and assistance to British ship-masters and seamen, settling disputes, holding Naval Courts, and taking measures for the recovery and salvage of wrecked or lost property, caring for the affairs of the British Church Establishment, Her Majesty's ships of war, and other matters too numerous to mention here. Her Majesty's Consuls at this and other ports come far more into contact with all departments of the Netherlands Indian Government than any of their colleagues, and have very much more Consular business to transact and Consular responsibilities to bear.

The Consul here received no allowance for office expenses, but being allowed to trade, has the Consular office with his mercantile office. The fees, as above stated, are given to the clerks, they aggregated—in 1868, £259 19s. 4d.; in 1869, £242 12s. 4d.; in 1870, £272 19s. 8d.; the eleven months in 1871, £123 19s. 4d.

There are at present only two unpaid Vice-Consulates under my jurisdiction, namely, at Sourabaya and Samarang, and these appointments being held by partners in my mercantile establishments at these ports, no office expenses are allowed. The fees are, as at Batavia, given to the Consular clerk.

My position has always been most friendly with the various Departments of the local Government, who have invariably done everything in their power to render me assistance when I have required it in the discharge of my Consular duties My colleagues and myself are upon precisely the same footing with regard to immunity from the militia service. The appointment of Consul merely gives a certain status to the person holding the office, but no advantage accrues from it.

The present table of fees I consider quite satisfactory, and have never heard any complaints made regarding it by British ship-masters.

The instructions for the Consular Service received from the Government and the Board of Trade are so voluminous that it is almost impossible for a Consul to act always in strict accordance with them. It is most requisite that a revised edition of the Consular Instructions be issued, embracing both the original and supplementary instructions.

With regard to the Consular Service in Netherlands India, I consider it most necessary that, owing to the large arrival of British bottoms that now visit the various ports under my jurisdiction (and which is certain to increase), that unpaid Vice-Consulates be appointed at the following places: Passarœan, near Sourabaya, Maccassa in Celebes, and Padang in Sumatra. The rank of the Consular officer at Batavia might also be Consul-General without any increase to the present salary of £200 per annum, should this be thought advisable by Her Majesty's Government. Her Majesty's representative would then be on an equality with the French Consular Officer.

MANILA.

(By Consul Ricketts.)

The jurisdiction of this Consulate extends over the whole of the Philippine Archipelago, from latitude 5 deg. to 20 deg. N., and from long. 118 deg. to 127 deg. E.

The following statement shows the number and tonnage of vessels entered and cleared from this archipelago during the years 1868-70:—

	Entered.		Cleared.
Vessels.	No.	Tonnage.	No.	Tonnage.
British	71	42,638	70	42,392
United States ...	37	34,032	36	32,824
German	8	2,966	8	2,966
French	4	1,470	4	1,470
Other nationalities...	9	4,638	7	4,030
	129	85,744	125	83,582
	British Tonnage.		British Tonnage.
Spanish	100	27,810	98	27,225
	229	113,554	223	110,807

Last year the number of British vessels entering the ports of this archipelago rose to 98, with 55,286 tons.

The average values of the exports from the Philippines for the years 1868-70 were:—

Countries.	Value.
Great Britain, Australia, Hong Kong, and Singapore	£1,380,440
United States	963,654
California	116,666
Spain, and all other parts of Europe	91,250
Total on private account	£2,552,010
To Spain on Government account	416,666

From the foregoing statement it will be noticed that Great Britain and her colonies were the chief consumers of Philippine produce. A certain portion of the export trade to the United States was also carried on by some of the British mercantile firms in Manila.

The following gives the number of the subjects of each State residing in the Philippines:—British subjects, 150; French, 26; American, 31; German, 34; Swiss, 20; Belgian, 3; Italian, 2; Portuguese, 2; Turkish, 4; total, 272.

Germany, the United States, Denmark, Belgium, Switzerland, Portugal, Italy, and France maintain Consular officers in this country; all of these, with the exception of the French Consul, are engaged in commerce. The staff of the French Consulate consists of one Consul and one Chancelier, the former receiving 30,000f., and the latter 8,000f. per annum. The French Consul is allowed 300f. a year for stationery, and 1,000f. for other office expenses. The duties appertaining to this Consulate relate chiefly to commerce. Situated, however, as the Philippines are as regards Borneo, Sulu, Labuan, Sarawak, Singapore, Hong Kong, and China, they are not altogether without interest in a political point of view, and hence the character of this post may be termed politico-commercial.

RENT, LIVING, ETC.

Since the year 1858, or, rather, since 1863, the year in which this country was visited with a severe shock of earthquake, the rent of houses has risen 100 per cent.; the rent of a small house with a thatched roof is from £5 to £8 a month; the rent of a better class of house varies from £16 to £26 a month. The price of meat has more than doubled since 1858, beef is now 6d. to 10d. a pound, and is bad at any price; butter, 5s. to 7s. a pound; potatoes, 1d. each; small chickens, 1s. each; fruit and vegetables, wine and beer, are all much dearer than in Singapore or Hong Kong; ice, £3 11s. a month; firewood, £1 10s. to £2 a month; drinking water and bathing water have in many places to be purchased. The rates of wages vary; thus, wages of cooks are from £3 to £6 a month, other servants from £1 to £2 a month, but this does not include their maintenance. Seven or eight servants are also required for a family, as in India. The distances being somewhat great, a carriage is a matter of necessity. The first cost of the same, with a pair of country ponies, may be reckoned at the least at £200 sterling.

SALARIES.

The salaries given by first-class mercantile firms are £1,000 to £1,200 per annum for head clerks, in addition to which they are partly maintained. Junior clerks £500 to £700 sterling per annum, and partly maintained. The salary of the Consul at Manila in 1858 was £1,000 sterling, in addition to which he was permitted to collect the fees on his own account; these at that time amounted to about £250 sterling. The salary of the Secretary was then £300 sterling per annum. The pay and allowance of the Consul is now £1,300 sterling, or about the same as it formerly was, and in reality rather less than that of a head clerk in a mercantile firm. The Secretary now receives £300 sterling. The staff of this Consulate consists of one Consul and one Secretary.

At present I have the office in my own house, as I find it more convenient for business.

A far greater amount of fees was formerly taken, owing to the charges having been fixed at 7s. instead of 2s. for engaging and discharging seamen; further notarial charges were made for drawing up protests, and a commission was received on the sales of condemned vessels; these charges have long been discontinued.

There are three Vice-Consulates within this jurisdiction, namely Sual, Cebu, and Ilo Ilo. The Vice-Consul of Sual receives a salary of £400 sterling per annum, and is permitted to retain all the fees collected by him. The average amount of the fees collected at Sual during the years 1868, 1869, and 1870, was £1 10s. The Vice-Consuls of Cebu and Ilo Ilo receive no salary, but are entitled to retain the fees. During the time Mr. Kerr had charge of the Vice-consulate of Cebu no fees were levied by him. The present Vice Consul, however, of that port collects fees, and has taken on this account during the present year the sum of £12 sterling. The Vice Consul at Ilo Ilo states that the amount of fees collected by him during the last year was £2 4s. 6d., and that he estimates £20 sterling to be a good average. Previously to Mr. Higgins's time no fees were levied at Ilo Ilo.

The principal advantage which any one engaged in trade derives from holding the rank of Consul is that it acts as a patent to him, and enables him to extend his correspondence and connection. The individual in such cases probably benefits by the rank conferred on him, but the community suffers, as the Consul, who is also a merchant, has little time left for the management of public affairs; further, if as a merchant he be desirous of securing his own welfare, he will, in his capacity of Consul, seek at all times to avoid any discussion with the authorities, and hence he is in reality debarred from upholding the rights of those who call on him for his interference; in short, the occupation of a merchant is altogether incompatible with the duties of a Consul.

Of the uncertainty of the duration of royal edicts in this country an instance was lately furnished, in the matter of the differential duties, which were re-introduced about six weeks after the date of their abolition. On the other hand, German and French Consuls residing in Spain, in addition to the privileges above mentioned, enjoy, under the guarantee of Treaties, personal inviolability, except in those cases in which they are known to have committed any grievous crime.

The attributions of a British Consul in this country being undefined, his acts are always liable to be questioned—representations to the authorities on behalf of British subjects have frequently to be made, and however calmly put forward they are as a rule received with a bad grace; this, among other things, causes reference and creates delay in the transaction of affairs of even the simplest nature; but matters would probably assume a different aspect, if a Consular convention somewhat similar to that made between Spain and Germany, and signed on the 22nd of February, 1870, at Madrid, were entered into between Great Britain and Spain, and extended without reserve to this Colony. I say without reserve, as the clogging a Treaty with conditional clauses leaves the door open for chicanery and disputes, and destroys the very end for which it is intended.

The French convention on the subject of the functions and privileges of Consuls is in some respects better than the German, but both these arrangements are more or less incomplete; for instance, the action of Consuls is restricted to the imprisonment of deserters only; but this power might, without any difficulty, be extended to the imprisonment and arrest of all persons composing the crews of vessels whom the Consul may find it necessary to confine, whether it be for breach of discipline or anything else. It should also be stipulated that the term of imprisonment in all such matters rests solely in the hands of the Consular authority, and that Consuls have a right to sit as judges in differences between seamen without the interference of the local authorities, so long as the tranquillity of the port is not disturbed. The local authorities should also be required to enforce the decrees of the Consul, if necessary.

The right of deciding civil cases between our own people, not seamen, by arbitration, and of having those decisions acknowledged and respected by the tribunals of the country is also desirable; indeed this would be a great boon to persons residing in a country where justice is either tardy or expensive, or impossible to be obtained. As regards any interference by the authorities in matters relating to the estates of deceased subjects, this should be restricted solely to those cases in which any claims are brought against the estate of a subject dying intestate which the Consul refuses to acknowledge, or when the succession is disputed by third parties.

The German Convention limits the action of Consuls in salvage cases; the French Convention, however, allows no interference on the part of the authorities in these matters; the latter then might be adopted in this respect instead of the former. Little or no distinction is made in either of these Conventions between the attributions and privileges of those who are Consuls' Envoyés and those who are engaged in commerce, and yet this is a matter which ought not to have been altogether passed over in silence; but of this hereafter.

Another great difficulty which a British agent has to deal with in this country when called on to protect the interests of the subjects of his nation proceeds from the course adopted by the Spanish Government, of refusing to admit as applicable to this Colony the Treaties which have hitherto been entered into between Great Britain and Spain. Such being the case I would suggest that some new Treaty arrangement be entered into, defining the rights, privileges, and exemptions of our people residing here, or resorting here for purposes of trade, and according to them the same privileges as have been or may at any time hereafter be granted by Treaty or otherwise to the subjects of any other nation.

Relative to the collection of fees. I am inclined to believe that it would be advantageous to the interests of all parties, supposing the present shipping charges were abolished and replaced by one uniform charge on the tonnage of vessels, masters would then know exactly what they were required to pay, many differences would be avoided, and the revenue arising from this source would be increased. French vessels, in addition to the payment of a fee for every service rendered at the Consulate, are subjected to the charge of 2d. a ton up to 300 tons; our shipowners then would hardly complain if in lieu of all other charges they were called on to pay a fee of but 1d. a ton for every ton register, from 100 to 1,000 tons.

The overt acknowledgment of the political character of our Consuls Envoyés, on the part of the State of receiving them; the admission of their judicial authority in differences between seamen as hereinbefore explained; the drawing a line of demarcation between this class of agents and those who are merchants; and the accurate definition by Treaty of the status and functions appertaining to each class,—can alone remedy this state of things, and secure to such as are Consuls missi a proper degree of freedom in the exercise of their duties. And here, as a means of determining the status of these agents, I would suggest:—

That the title of Consuls and Vice-Consuls be alone conferred on such as are paid functionaries of the States;

That these, without any exception, be prohibited from engaging either directly or indirectly in commercial pursuits;

"That those agents who are merchants receive the appellation of "Commercial Agents."

That a jurisdiction be alone permitted to those who are Consuls and Vice-Consuls' Envoyés, and that the functions of commercial agents be restricted solely to the signing ships' papers, to the performance of notarial acts, and to the repatriating seamen when in distress.

THE STRAITS ASSOCIATION AND THE SINGAPORE RAILWAY.

At a special meeting of the Straits Settlements Association, held on the 18th April, to consider the resolutions against the construction by the Local Government of the proposed Singapore Railway, passed at a general meeting of the inhabitants of Singapore on 23rd February last, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted.

1. That the resolutions passed at the public meeting held at Singapore on the 23rd February, and the letter of the Chairman of the Association in Singapore with reference to that meeting, be now read.

2. That this Association cordially agrees with the resolutions passed at the aforesaid meeting, protesting against the construction and working of the Singapore and New Harbour Railway being undertaken by the Colonial Government.

3. That the principles at stake in this question command the assent of this Association, and appear so indisputable that they cannot fail to be respected by the Colonial office, and that this Association understands those principles to be—that public money should not be applied to a purpose essentially of a private character,—that only the very gravest considerations of Imperial policy (which it cannot be pretended are concerned in the proposed railway) can justify the Colonial-office in enforcing the expenditure of the revenue of the Colony against the wishes of the people, as distinctly expressed in public meeting, and by the deliberate decision of the Legislative Council.

4. That the resolutions now passed, and a copy of those passed at the public meeting in Singapore, be forthwith transmitted by the chairman to the Right Honourable the Secretary of State for the Colonies.

THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN ENGLAND.

The 36th Synod of the above body was held in London last week, and the report on the mission work in China was one of the most interesting features of it. A detailed statement was given of the work progressing at each of the ports in China, drawn up and presented by Mr. Hugh Matheson. Alluding to Formosa the report says:—

Mr. Ritchie tells us that in December last he had the privilege of baptising on one Lord's-day at Kamana 53 adults and 7 children, and on the following Sabbath at Kongana, 31 adults and 3 children. In one of his visits to Baksa he was accompanied by Commander Bax, of H.M.S. Dwarf, who addressed a congregation of about 400 persons in such a way as to bring tears to many eyes, and at the close, one of the deacons rose and requested Mr. Ritchie to thank this naval officer for his visit and for joining them in their services. In this group of villages occupied by the Aborigines 183 members were added to the Church during the past year. The statistics for the year are interesting:—

At Kongana the mandarin, formerly hostile, is now a convert, and seeks to preach the faith which he once destroyed. Among the Chinese on the island there have been many conversions, but chiefly at the inland station of Alikang, where thirty-three have been added to the Church. At Tang-kang, with a population of 10,000, fourteen adults have been baptised—two being educated men; one has helped in securing the present place of meeting of the Church, and the other since his conversion has exerted a most beneficial influence on his neighbours. During the last autumn Dr. Maxwell and Mr. Ritchie made a journey to the northern end of the island for the purpose of seeing for themselves the work of grace among the Sekhoan or civilised aborigines in that part. It originated in the Gospel having been carried by one of their number from the hospital at Taiwanfoo some time previously. Hearing of this work, two native helpers were despatched to the district, and had been absent about five months.

Mr. J. E. Mathieson presented the treasurer's report relating to China, which he said was exceedingly encouraging. He mentioned that there were now as many as fifteen missionaries and forty-five teachers engaged in the work of the Church, representing a large amount of agency of the best kind, on the extension of which depended the growth of our mission in China. The largest item of expense was for the salaries of six students, who represented the Church's College in Amoy, under Mr. Douglas and his fellow-labourers. None of their present evangelists had yet been settled as pastors over single congregations; but it was felt necessary that for the salvation of our fellow men in that country there should be thoroughly trained men such as these, who would by-and-by be settled as pastors over some of the outlying stations. The expenses of last year were only £200 in excess of the expenses of the previous year, and this fact showed the economical and careful way in which the funds were taken care of. During last year they received from all sources a sum of £7,000, which was sufficient to meet all the expenses of the Mission; but he would say at once that that sum would not suffice for the expenses during the current year, for they would require at least £9,000.

The Rev. Dr. Fraser moved the adoption of the report of the Foreign Mission. He expressed his gratification at the fact that the threatened disturbances and difficulties in the prosecution of the Missionary work in China had been quitted. The work went steadily on as before, and he thought they ought to acknowledge the conduct of the English Government in this respect, for there had been some serious apprehensions that they would have pursued a timid policy and given way to unreasonable prejudices. The past year had been one of great progress, many stations on the mainland had been added to the Church; but at the same time they ought to observe that a considerable number had been suspended in consequence of relapsing into inconsistency. They (the Church) ought to think about this and encourage their brethren to be faithful and thorough by severe and rigorous discipline; and to assure them that they felt a great deal more satisfaction in having churches in which, even though they were small in number, discipline was exercised in accordance with the rule of the New Testament, than in having a long list of names of nominal assemblages in which no notice was taken of those that walked disorderly. The chief blessing, he proceeded to say, had been received in the island of Formosa, where the number of adult communicants baptised had been doubled within the past year, and many idols utterly abolished. He thought it would be well if part of this report were read to the congregations of the Church; for he had not read for a long time anything so well worth reading and telling to other people as the narrative now presented. (Applause.) They had been reminded of India, and they ought to keep that in mind; for it was acknowledged that they were debtors to India for the sake of Jesus Christ. As their friends in Scotland, doing most for India, cared for and helped China, so they, doing most for China, ought to show their interest in India, both China and India having such peculiar claims upon this country as part of our empire, and contributing so largely to the national dignity and wealth. The third fact which he would notice was a painful one. During the past year £500 less had been given by those in England to what was now a great and prosperous mission. God had been very kind to them, but they had not risen to the height of the occasion. God had heard their prayer, and had kept open doors for them and the missionaries of other societies which the heathen had been most anxious to shut. Yet they had not produced a sufficient supply of missionaries to go into these doors, and occupy on anything like an adequate scale the immense villages and teeming cities of China. Even with the small band of missionaries which they had God had given them a larger result in China than in England. In China 380 adults had been baptised and added to the Church; but the net increase in England was only 237 communicants. Although in one respect God had given a larger increase in China than at home, yet they spent £50,000 more upon their Church work here, sending a sum of £5,000 to do the great work in China.

The Rev. Carstairs Douglas, missionary to China, feared that a few both of ministers and office-bearers of the Churches might think that during the past year he ought to have been amongst them stirring up the cause of missions. Some six or seven years ago the various Protestant missionary societies in a certain part of China had urged him to write a dictionary of the language, and he regretted to say that this work was so heavy that he found it difficult to make known to the Churches the work of the Gospel as he should like to do. He had, however, the satisfaction of knowing that this dictionary would lessen the work of other missionaries who went out there. The attempts of the Government to interfere in the missions to the country had had the effect of stirring up sympathy and rendering the cause of the missions more secure than ever before. Lately he had visited colleges in Ireland and Scotland, and in the latter country, especially, he had seen a good deal of the students, some of whom seemed anxious to devote themselves to this work. Recently he had received a letter from the Church at Pechuia (China), which he would roughly translate:—"Now in your country, both great and small, your Church, your minister, deacons, and members have set to preach the Word of God, step by step labouring to do good of men. We have received benefit from your country, and we pray God you may receive grace continually, and that you may enjoy happiness without limit." Enumerating the advantages of Britain at length, the writer proceeded: "And even in the air you have balloons—(a laugh)—and down in the sea you have diving-bells; and then you have that electricity sending messages many thousands of miles more quickly than sound or light. You have also steam, causing the immense waves to be moved, though it is light." But this, the writer proceeded to say, was caused by God and not by man. Britain had sent missionaries out to China, where they had toiled greatly, and they earnestly begged that this country, which had many ministers, would send out more missionaries to China to carry on and extend the preaching of the Gospel. This, continued Mr. Douglas, showed the feelings of gratitude of the natives, and their desire to encourage further mission effort among them. At present the young congregations around Amoy contributed every year £110—a small sum in itself, but important when contributed by men who a few years before had been worshipping idols. They had also made some progress in the training of native preachers. In a letter he had received that day he read that two of their students had passed their examination, in view of being appointed pastors at the next election. The reason why they had not proceeded sooner in these appointments was that those whom they appointed first should be thoroughly good and trustworthy men, who should be an example to those that followed. They had also satisfactory intelligence from Singapore, where the people were offering to subscribe more than £200 a-year for missionaries among the Chinese there.

Dr. Maxwell, medical missionary from China, said: Formosa is an island about 230 miles long, and, as approached, has the appearance of three terraces. There is a vast plain almost occupied by Chinese, who have emigrated from various parts, and who now amount to about three millions, the religious idea being much the same as on the mainland. Dr. Maxwell at length described the various parts of the island, with a description of its inhabitants, showing that in working their way among the hills they had met with a most affectionate welcome. There is a range of mountains extending for 180 miles, covered with forests and inhabited by savages, who are not actually cannibals, but savages in the lowest degree. In many of the clans a man was not allowed to marry until he could prove he had killed his man, and they had a practice of tattooing their faces to denote how many they had slain. The mission has been able to secure a firm footing in the plain, and also in the second district lying midway between this plain. He described the various mission stations in various parts of the island, with a statistical account of the members attached to each. They had not been able to reach the savages, though he had visited them, when he remained two nights, and had gained much information concerning some of the plans that would be required to reach them by missionaries. The insurmountable barrier was their language, for in passing from one mountain to another you also pass from one dialect to another. This, he said, would show some of the difficulties that attended their work; but they would be able to reach them. There is also a field of great interest beyond these mountains, on the eastern shores of Formosa, to which emigration has been going on for the past ten years, and he hoped by following the track of the emigrants they would be able to visit them. Dr. Maxwell described some of the trials and persecutions they had received in attempting to plant a station in one part of Formosa, and had it not been for the kindness of a foreign commissioner of customs, they would not have been able to have had a building in which to commence their work. Obtaining his premises they began, and were delighted to find each day as many as seventy come for medicine. In a short time the patients were reduced to three or four per day. This was owing to placards being posted throughout the city stigmatising them as murderers of the worst degree, for if they healed those who were sick at first they used medicines that would manifest itself by a deadly disease breaking out over the bodies of those who took them. In this manner the authorities managed to frighten the populace, and at one time their lives were in danger, and they were obliged to leave and take refuge in a seaport town, where they stayed for about a year and a half, when they again made an attempt to extend towards the east, but again met with difficulty and danger. These persecutions, Dr. Maxwell said, excited not only in England, but in the Church on the mainland, Amoy and Swatow, interest and prayer on their behalf. He would commend the work especially to the prayers of the Church. The Church had done much in that respect already, but not so much as lay in its power to do. He hoped the addresses the Synod had heard would tend to the stirring up of the various congregations to family prayer, which would redound to their own spiritual advantage if from day to day they remembered the heathen abroad. They should expect a tithe, at least, of those who passed the Divinity Hall to devote themselves to the Lord's work to the heathen, and he did not think a tithe was too much. In conclusion, Dr. Maxwell said he should not rest till he saw the Church moved in this direction with respect to the millions in the heathen world. (Applause.)

PETITION FROM SINGAPORE.

Mr. Matheson mentioned an application which had been made by the Presbyterian congregation at Singapore for admission into this Church, and he read the petition presented. It set forth that the Presbyterian congregation at Singapore numbered sixty members, including four elders and six deacons; that it had been in existence fifteen years, but hitherto had not been connected with any other Presbyterian congregation; that there was a strong desire growing up among the people to put an end to this isolation, as shown by a unanimous resolution directing the office-bearers to apply at a convenient opportunity for admission to any one of the British Presbyterian Churches; that the recent arrival of a new minister of the Free Church was considered to be a fitting occasion for such a step; that it would be desirable to draw more closely together the links connecting them with the English Presbyterian Church; and therefore, in order to effect this, and to further the work of the Church in Singapore, they requested the English Presbyterian Church to take the Singapore congregation as one of the congregations under its care, to assist it. In connection with this petition had come a guarantee of £200 a year towards the support of a missionary; and their friends in Glasgow, many of whom were connected with Singapore by trade, had appealed to them to take this into consideration. They had replied that with their hands so full already they could not see their way to ask the Church to sanction the adoption of any new station which would entail the expenditure of money; but if the people in Glasgow in connection with those at Singapore would guarantee this £200 a year for five years, and came to them to ask them to supply a missionary to labour among the Chinese, he had no doubt the committee would feel themselves authorised to take such a missionary under its protecting wing.

Mr. Matheson moved—"That the Synod have listened with satisfaction to the petition of the Presbyterian congregation at Singapore which has now been laid upon the table, and resolve to grant its prayer, and to receive the said congregation under its care, attaching it to the Presbytery of London, and recognise its minister as one of the Ministers of their Church, and member of Presbytery." Seconded by the Rev. William Ballantyne, and agreed to.

Monetary and Commercial.

Extraordinary meetings have been called of the Anglo-Mediterranean—British Indian Submarine.—Falmouth, Gibraltar and Malta,—and Marseilles, Algiers, and Malta Telegraph Companies, to take into consideration terms of amalgamation which have already been agreed to by the directors. It is proposed to issue to the stock and shareholders of the four companies fully paid shares of £10 each in a new company, to be formed by a consolidation of the four undertakings, in exchange for their shares and stock, in the following proportions, viz.:—For each £100 nominal amount of such shares or stock in the Anglo-Mediterranean Company, £200; Falmouth, £120; Marseilles, £100; and British Indian Submarine, £120. These relative proportions are based upon a computation of the present receipts and an estimate of the prospects of the several concerns. The share capital of the new company required for the above distribution will be £3,397,000, but it is intended to fix the nominal capital at £3,800,000, as further sums may hereafter be required for extensions. The Reserve Funds, amounting together to about £70,000, will form the basis of the Reserve Fund of the amalgamated undertaking.

The directors of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company have issued their report, with a statement of accounts, for the year 1871. A distribution for the past six months is recommended of £4 15s. per share—viz., a dividend of £2 15s. from the "profit and loss account," and a bonus of £2 per share from the "insurance account." The increase in the receipts and the diminution of the disbursements have been sufficient to augment the surplus on the "working account" by the sum of £54,700 4s. 7d., while the "repair and renewal account" shows a balance of £13,159 3s. 9d., and the "insurance account" of £231,169 2s. 9d. The company's connection has been renewed with British Honduras, and a mail once a month is to be conveyed between Jamaica and Belize. At the meeting held on the 24th inst. the report and accounts were unanimously adopted.

Bar silver has been sold at 60¼d. per oz. standard, chiefly for the Continent, there being no demand whatever for the East. Mexican dollars of new coinage have been sold at 60¼d. per oz., a reduction of ¼d. in price, the demand not being so good. The old coinage remains as last quoted, 62¾d. per oz.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

There has again been a succession of auctions, both of India and China Teas, sales having taken place on nearly every day during the past week; business by private contract has consequently been limited, and prices in many cases have ruled easier. The sales of the 22nd, 23rd, 24th, and 25th comprised 16,077 packages, of which 15,150 packages have been sold without reserve. The deliveries for the week were 3,601,445 lbs., against 3,402,174 lbs. last year.

Black.—Red leaf kinds: Some large parcels of siftings, of old import as well as new, have been sold at public sale at a decline of ¼d. to ½d. per lb. Broken-leaf kinds have sold rather lower; fair to good common, at 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 1½d. per lb. must be quoted ½d. to ¾d. per lb. easier. In the fair to good and fine kinds of Kaisow but little has been done; finest show no change. Pak Lin kinds: Those with good leaf have been saleable. Black-leaf kinds: The low qualities continue to be sold at public auction without reserve at from 7d. to 9d. per lb.; fair to good common have sold ½d. to 1d. per lb. lower, the fair medium kinds from 1s. 2d. to 1s. 3d. are in request; good medium have been dull of sale; in fine to finest a few sales have been made at a decline of 1d. per lb. Amoy kinds show no alteration. New make Canton kinds: Sales to some extent have been made from 11d. to 1s. 5d. for common to good, 2s. 2d. to 2s. 4d. for fine quality. Oolongs: The sales made at auction have again been at rather lower prices. Souchongs remain without improvement. Scented Teas: Capers show no material alteration. Orange Pekoes: Business has been to a moderate extent at about previous prices. Uncoloured Japans have sold at public sale at rather lower prices for common to good kinds. Green.—The demand continues good, and prices have been fully maintained, those offered at public sale selling with spirit. Canton kinds have been dull.

SILK.

There is no change in the market to report.

COFFEE.

The inquiry during the past week has been exclusively for the coloury descriptions of Plantation Ceylon and supplies of this sort at the public sales have been taken off at steady prices. The ordinary qualities of Plantation also Native Ceylon have been dull and have sold at a decline of 1s. per cwt. The latest rates paid have been—Plantation, triage 67s. to 71s., ordinary to coloury small 70s. to 75s., ordinary to fine ordinary pale and grey Demarara kind at 71s. 6d. to 73s. 6d., low middling grey and dull 74s. 6d. to 76s., middling 76s. 6d. to 80s., fine middling 87s. 6d., fine bold 91s., peaberry 86s. 6d. to 92s. 6d. Native low good ordinary 65s. 6d., good ordinary to real good ordinary 66s. to 66s. 6d., fine bold 69s. 6d. to 70s. An offer of 62 bags mixed Singapore has been quitted at 63s. to 63s. 6d. per cwt.

SUGAR.

Owing to the continued light landings throughout the United Kingdom the deficiency in the stocks in the four ports is further increased to 19,500 tons, which imparts a strong tone to the market, and with a good demand prices show an upward tendency. A speculative enquiry has also been apparent, especially for Manila, and a large business has been done at advanced prices. The following are the details of the week's transactions.

Manila: On the spot 12,500 bags and 350 tons Zebu at 25s., 2,000 bags common clayed (duty 4s.) at 28s. 6d., 7,500 bags fair clayed (duty 4s.) at 29s., 2,200 bags superior unclayed Taal at 25s., 6,000 bags old do. at 23s. 6d., 200 tons do. at 24s., and 3,200 bags fair clayed, current at 30s., superior 31s. COMMERCIAL TREATIES.

Just published, 8vo., 10s., cloth boards.

HERTSLET'S TREATIES.—An Index of Subjects to the entire Series (xii. vols); forming a complete Digest of all the Engagements existing between Great Britain and Foreign Powers, by Treaty or otherwise, relating to Commerce, Navigation, Extradition, Trade Marks, Marriages, Wills, &c., &c. Compiled by EDWARD HERTSLET, Esq., Librarian and Keeper of the Papers of the Foreign-office.

By the aid of this Index the statesman, jurist, and merchant can readily obtain every information he may desire with regard to the commercial relations between Great Britain and Foreign Powers.

A work of importance to all classes of the financial and commercial public.—Times.

It epitomises the entire collection, and must prove an important contribution to the professional library of the lawyer, while it will probably find a place on, and never be absent from, the table of every merchant.—Morning Post.

The value of the collection for the commercial man, or for the jurist, is unquestionable. A work of high interest and importance for the future historian.—Daily Telegraph.

Here any man may have international law, as far as it is laid down by treaties, at his fingers' ends; political engagements being alone excluded.—Graphic.

It will be found most useful to members of the mercantile community. It may also, with advantage, find a place on the shelves of those members of the legal profession whose course of business . . . is likely to be affected by the documents contained in the collection.—Law Journal.

It is a synopsis or digest of the whole work.—Justice of the Peace.

It ought to be in the library of every English Consul abroad; no man-of-war should be allowed to put to sea without a copy; whilst at home it must be equally acceptable to the merchant and the politician.—Spectator.

To the mercantile community it must be simply invaluable.—London and China Telegraph.

It will prove of great value to lawyers, merchants, politicians, and others.—Globe.

A laborious work, of inestimable value to the statesman, and to lawyers whose practice lies in the direction of international law.—Law Times.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

AND PILLS.—GRATIFYING RESULTS—No phase of external ailments can present itself which is irremediable by the early and diligent use of the above-named remedies. The merest blotch upon the skin, and the deepest ulcerations of the flesh yield with the same certainty to the detergent and healing properties of this celebrated Ointment. Bad legs, burns, eruptions of the skin and scrofulous sores can be cured with great facility by the use of this Ointment aided by Holloway's purifying Pills. Under this treatment the foulest ulcers become clean, and in a few days florid granulations appear, which gradually grow and fill up the cavity with firm and healthy flesh. No drawback nor relapse need be feared.

JAPAN NEWS BY PACIFIC MAIL.

The Pacific Mail steamer America, from Yokohama, March 26, arrived at San Francisco on the 18th ult. The following is the summary of the advices as telegraphed to New York:—

Political affairs are exceedingly quiet. The first Japanese fair under the direction of the Government will take place at the sacred city of Koto on April 10, and will last fifty days. Foreigners are allowed to visit it and the suburbs for a period of sixty-four days, enabling them to show their manufactures. This is considered the virtual abandonment of their exclusive policy and one of the results of the visit of Iwakura to America.

The reception of the news of the hearty welcome given to the Japanese Embassy in California by all parties there is highly appreciated in Japan by natives and foreigners alike.

General Williams and forty Japanese students have left for America. Among the latter are some high relatives of the Mikado.

For the tea season, just over, the exports were 1,000,000 pounds less than for the same time last year.

Two Japanese men-of-war leave Yokohama April 1 for Europe, via the Suez Canal, to meet the Embassy, returning via New York and San Francisco.

Great fears are entertained at Jeddo of the loss of the Japanese steamer Kinsu Maru, formerly the American steamer Ta-Kiang, which left Jeddo for Kobe January 5, and has not since been heard of.

COMMUNICATION WITH WESTERN CHINA.

IT is a fact beyond dispute that in our trading operations with China we, as yet, do but touch the hem of that vast empire. It is true that the Treaty Ports afford us so many points of contact from which our goods circulate in their immediate vicinity, but the heavy transit dues levied upon articles of foreign manufacture in the interior effectually prevent their sale beyond a very limited area. That our trade with China is only in its infancy, and is capable, under more favourable circumstances, of being vastly extended, a glance at the lists of our imports into China compared with those we carry to India makes at once apparent. For the finer and more miscellaneous articles of exchange which constitute the commerce of other countries, there is at present no demand amongst the Chinese, and our coarsest cottons alone find a ready sale in the open markets. This is only what must be expected when we recollect that the teeming populations of the western and richest provinces are still complete strangers to the use of foreign goods, and know nothing of the advantages which would arise to them from the free barter of the inestimable sources of wealth which exist beneath and on their soil. The expenses and difficulties in the way of their communicating freely with the Treaty Ports completely close those markets to their produce, and unless some direct opportunity be afforded them of engaging in foreign trade, they must inevitably continue to stagnate in their present isolated condition. The obvious remedy for this state of affairs is to be found in establishing a practicable overland route through Burmah into Western China. The effect of the Treaty of Tientsin has been to treble the value of our export trade to China. These figures enable us to form some idea of the enormous impetus which would be given to our trade with China were the western provinces open to our merchandise. This is so obvious that it is difficult to understand the hesitation on the part of our Government about at once taking steps to obtain this great national advantage. A pamphlet, written by Mr. ROBERTSON GLADSTONE, entitled "Overland Communication with China," calls our attention to the condition of the case as it at present stands. It will be in the recollection of all interested in the subject that two overland routes have been proposed from Rangoon to Western China; the one ascending the Irrawaddy to Bhamo—a distance of 930 miles—and from thence turning eastward through a mountainous country to Tali-foo, in Yunnan; the other proceeding direct from Rangoon to Kiang Hung, on the Chinese frontier, a distance altogether of barely 500 miles. In addition to the obvious advantage of the diminished distance, this latter route offers the further inducement of being available for traffic all the year round, an advantage which the navigation of the Irrawaddy denies to the former. About four years ago Her MAJESTY'S Government, in consideration of these facts, ordered a survey to be made of the route to Kiang Hung. But, from some unexplained cause, after 250 miles had been surveyed, with results most favourable to the undertaking, the work was suddenly suspended. The reports of travellers have proved that the difficulties in the way of opening this line of communication—arising either from physical or political causes—are comparatively trifling. The distance to be traversed is less than that from London to Aberdeen, and in the conveyance of goods from England to Western China by this route a saving would be made in point of mileage of a voyage considerably longer than that from London to New York. If, then, we take into consideration the enormous expansion which such a direct communication with the western provinces of China would ensure to our trade with that country, and the facilities it would afford for rapid and extended intercourse with the Chinese people throughout the empire, the inducements which should make the Government complete the survey already half accomplished appear overwhelming. We would paraphrase Sir ROBERT PEEL'S celebrated advice to the Conservative party, and say to the Chambers of Commerce throughout the kingdom, "Agitate, agitate, agitate," and with such a plain prima facie case in their favour, even the most obstructive Secretary of State could not long refuse to sanction, at least, a preliminary survey of the whole line of country.

THE CHINESE AND JAPANESE TREATY.

THE Chinese and Japanese Treaty, a translation of which we published in The London and China Telegraph of the 22nd ult., is worthy of notice, as being the first Treaty concluded between two Oriental nations under circumstances less cogent than the stern necessities of war. It has originated from no desire to avert impending hostilities, nor has it been wrung from a conquered people by their conquerors. It owes its origin solely to the desire of the two Governments so to regulate the trade and international relations of their subjects as best to foster the former and encourage the latter. Like all first attempts, however, it is far from perfection, and, indeed, falls short of what we should have expected from nations which have had considerable experience in negotiating treaties of commerce with Western Powers. The first thing that must strike everyone who studies its provisions is the absence of any reference whatever to the trade carried on between the two countries; and in this appears conspicuously the Oriental character of the contracting parties. To Eastern statesmen the importance of encouraging trade appears as nothing compared with the due observance of diplomatic forms and Court ceremonies. Hence we find that in the Treaty under consideration only those articles from the treaties with Western nations which refer to the official intercourse between the contracting parties have been paraphrased, while the provisions for the extension and encouragement of trade have been entirely omitted. We are far from saying that the Treaty is valueless—for it at least shows a desire on the part of Chinese and Japanese statesmen to enter into amicable relations with foreign countries—but we cannot but regret that a more practical turn has not been given to its terms. The only provisions it contains of any importance are those which refer to the right of each nation to appoint consuls at the ports open to trade in the territory of the other, and unfortunately these provisions are so worded as to leave but little doubt that they will become practically dead letters. To anyone acquainted with the traditions of Chinese and Japanese statesmen, the idea of their appointing ministers to Yedo and Peking, and consuls at the Ports, who shall be prohibited from engaging in trade, and who shall therefore be dependent on a fixed salary for their livelihood, will appear at once an impossibility. It may very properly be that these provisions were inserted merely to affirm the right of either party to appoint a minister and consuls in the territory of the other, and that the present intention is that the alternative agreed upon, viz., that in the case of "either State having no consul at a Treaty port, its subjects "who may be resident there shall be subject to the local autho- "rities," will be adopted in practice. To such an arrangement there could be no objection, since no such inequality exists between the laws of the two nations as to render the demand on the part of either for ex-territorial rights over its subjects necessary. It is not difficult to understand the motive for inserting Article XVII., which provides that "the books of "either country may circulate freely in the other, and may "be purchased by its subjects." Those acquainted with the state of literature in Japan will know how great a value is set by the people of that country on Chinese writings. The classical and religious works of China have been adopted wholesale by the Japanese, and form part of their national literature. The writings of the sages of China are as highly honoured in Japan as in China itself; and the difference between the literature of the two countries cannot be said to be greater than that between the works current in any two provinces of the Chinese Empire. No let or hindrance has ever been offered to the free circulation of the books of either people; and the existence of the Article is perhaps, therefore, due to the devout respect paid by the people of both nations to the "printed page." The whole Treaty is thoroughly characteristic of its authors, and is of greater importance as an indication on their part of a desire for progress, than as being likely to affect materially the well-being of either State.

THE "QUARTERLY REVIEW" ON THE CHINA TRADE.

THE new number of the Quarterly contains an article on the the above subject, will be of more than ordinary interest to our readers. The writer sets out with estimating the population of China at no more than 200 millions and the history of that Empire at 2,000 years; and then proceeds to inform us of other "mysteries, which modern authors, writing like living men of living men," have penetrated and disclosed, taking, by way of model, the late Mr. WINGROVE COOKE, who, he says, "had hardly been a month in Hong Kong" in the capacity of special correspondent of The Times, when he wrote disparagingly of what he called "your twenty-years-in-the-country-and speak-the-language men." Heartily sympathising with this extraordinary prejudice against experience, the writer proceeds to claim for himself the merit of the following remarkable discoveries:—1. That a considerable amount of agricultural wealth, and an inexhaustible store of mineral wealth, are not utilised in China. 2. That the existing means of communication are of the most defective kind. 3. That there is still a large available opening for the extension of British trade in manufactured goods. And 4. That the people are as a rule well-disposed and anxious to cultivate commercial relations with Europeans.

Having made these remarkable discoveries (which will scarcely take our readers by surprise) the writer proceeds, with a calmness amounting to genius, to remark that "in "minerals the Chinese Empire has been generally under-"stood to be rich. Both gold and silver are found in almost "every province of the Empire." And, according to a "competent writer" in our own pages the China coal-fields cover an area of upwards of 400,000 square miles. After this and some other similar pieces of information have been acquired, we cannot wonder that the writer complains grievously of the want of roads and vehicles in a land where Baron RICHTHOFEN says, "freight by land is from twenty to forty times more expensive than by water." Famine is a chronic scourge in China. With various soils and a capricious climate, scarcely a season passes in which some portion of the Empire is not visited by drought or inundation. Large sections of the Chinese population are unable to procure the necessaries of life, though possessed of workable minerals sufficient to buy all the cereal productions of China; while other sections are forced to supply their immediate wants by cultivating crops for which their soil is not adapted, to the neglect of their natural agriculture—all for want of better means of intercommunication. The navigable rivers above Canton are still closed against foreign steamers; and the trade channels communicating with the Yangtsze through the Poyang Lake are in urgent need of steam service. The Liang River and the Tungting Lake Channels southward, and the Han River northward from the great central mart Hankow, have likewise been put forward as desirable steam lines—and there are others not less important. "But," proceeds the author, "the thought which seems to "obtrude itself most forcibly on all classes of travellers in "presence of the actual obstacles to commercial prosperity "in China is that of the introduction of railways. The "unanimity with which this is put forward is remarkable. "Mr. ALABASTER, Mr. MARKHAM, and Mr. OXENHAM, from "the official side, dwell on the need existing for railways on "the lines of their respective journeys, and the facility with "which they might be constructed." The delegates of the Shanghai Chamber of Commerce and the missionary travellers are all of the same idea. It would be impossible to guess at the amount of expansion of which foreign trade with China is capable; but Sir RUTHERFORD ALCOCK, writing to Lord CLARENDON in 1869, estimated it at ten times greater than at present.

Thus recent writers unveil a magnificent field for the spread of our commerce in China; nor is it tolerance merely, but sympathy and welcome, which foreign visitors meet with in the interior. Unfortunately, however, progress in China is not a mere commercial question, to be discussed solely in its bearings on the interests of the population. Our commercial intercourse with the people cannot be separated from our diplomatic intercourse with the governing body; and it is within the domain of the latter that the chief, if not the only, real difficulties arise. The existence in the Chinese Government of two parties, divided on questions of foreign policy, has been brought prominently forward in the official correspondence laid before Parliament since 1858. One, known as the "anti-foreign," or "war" party, is understood to be pledged to the expulsion of foreigners from the soil of China at all risks; the other, whose views do not admit of so clear a definition, is called the "peace," the "Liberal," or the "Moderate" party; and its policy appears to be to hold the balance between the claims of foreigners on the one hand, and the headstrong resistance of the extreme section of its own order on the other. At heart, therefore, the whole ruling body in China is opposed to the presence of foreigners in the country. Sir RUTHERFORD ALCOCK incidentally describes the salient features of office-holding in China as the "power of irresponsible taxation." There appears to be no personage in the Empire too exalted in station to receive common bribes; for Sir R. ALCOCK singles out for special remark "the high authorities in Peking, in the several Boards, and in the Palace."

In our relations with a Power so constituted and so circumstanced as the Government in China is, it would appear that the gentle aid of diplomacy can find no place. The position attained by foreign nations in China could only be, in the words of Sir R. ALCOCK, "created force—naked physical force;" and his declaration that "to maintain or "improve that position we must still look to force in some "form, latent or expressed, for the result," is entitled to the gravest consideration. Moral suasion, as exerted by England individually, having proved unavailing, and coercive measures being out of the question, there would seem to be little hope at present of escaping from the dead-lock in our Chinese affairs, unless it be from the concerted action and co-operation of all the Treaty Powers. If the co-operative principle was ever to be adopted, after the massacre of Tientsin was surely the time for this country to show her adhesion to it by espousing in the Far East the common cause of civilised mankind. Her MAJESTY'S Government, however, held aloof, or interposed only so far as to proclaim their determination to remain passive, thereby virtually sheltering the instigators of the Tientsin massacre from the consequences of their crime.

THE contract lately concluded by the directors of the P. and O. Company with the Italian Government for the conveyance of the weekly mails between Venice, Ancona, Brindisi, and Alexandria for an annual subsidy of f.500,000, will not involve any change in the working of the Company's contract with the English Government. Their steamers, after landing at Brindisi the mails, passengers, &c., will proceed on to Ancona and Venice, and in like manner start from Venice for Alexandria, calling at Ancona and Brindisi, receiving the British mails and passengers at Brindisi, for India and China, at the time appointed in the contract, viz., every Monday morning. It is expected that the formalities necessary to inaugurate this contract will take about two months. The present service, known as the Adriatico Orientale (or Palmer's line), will then cease, the Company receiving an indemnity from the Italian Government for retiring. The rates of freight and passage money chargeable on to Venice will be notified in due time by the P. and O. Company.

FROM a Parliamentary return just issued we have the names of all student interpreters appointed to China, Japan, and Siam. The list opens with the name of G. S. MORRISON, appointed in 1847, and ends with G. BROWN, appointed to China 3rd July, 1871. The total number so appointed is 111, of whom thirty-three have died, retired on pensions, resigned, or been dismissed, leaving seventy-eight now in service. Many of this number are now holding the posts of Consuls, Vice-Consuls, and Interpreters. Those who still remain as Student Interpreters are receiving a salary of £200 per annum, and it was chiefly this class of officers which Sir HARRY PARKES so warmly defended at the Commission of Inquiry which we lately noticed.

MR. J. F. LOWDER, of the Japan Consular Service, who returns to his post by the P. and O. mail steamer leaving Southampton on Thursday next, has been called to the bar of Gray's-inn. Chief Justice SMALE has obtained an extension of leave, and will not return to Hong Kong until October next.

LITERATURE.

Letters and Journals of James, Eighth Earl of Elgin. Edited by Theodore Walrond, C.B. London, JOHN MURRAY.—This is at once a valuable contribution to current biography, a just memorial to a great man who was summoned away while yet the task to which he had devoted himself was little more than begun, and a text book for all who would inform themselves impartially concerning the Asiatic races and our national relations with them. The volume will be perused with interest by our readers—especially those chapters which describe Lord Elgin's missions to China. From several extracts given it is apparent how much interest he took in the labours of the missionaries, and at the same time with what breadth and calmness of view he handled a subject "peculiarly liable to exaggeration on one side or the other." His reply to an address praying him to obtain a separate decree of toleration in favour of Protestantism, and to procure greater liberty for Protestant Ministers to travel and preach in all parts of China, contained words of grave warning which have a special interest when read by the light of recent events. But perhaps to no incident in his life does there attach more importance or authority than to the speech which he delivered at the Mansion House on the occasion of his final return from China. In responding, after giving an account of the objects that had been sought, and the results that had been achieved in the Far East, he concluded his speech by impressing on the merchants of England, that with them must now chiefly lie the responsibility of aiding or retarding the development of China, and thus of determining the place she shall hold in the commonwealth of nations. Few more valuable or interesting volumes have issued from the press this year, and we have great pleasure in commending it to our readers.

The following extracts from the correspondence refer to Lord Elgin's first mission to China in 1858, the capture of the forts on the Peiho, and the conclusion of the Tientsin Treaty. It was arranged that the combined forces should meet at the mouth of the Peiho, but a delay of some weeks occurred waiting for the arrival of the gunboats. At length the difficulties were surmounted, and the forts were captured :—

May 21st.—I have spent during the last three weeks the worst time I have passed since 1849, and really I have not been capable of writing. The forts were taken yesterday. The Chinese had had several weeks to prepare, and their moral was greatly raised by our hesitations and delays. The poor fellows even stood at their guns and fired away pretty steadily. But as they hardly ever hit, it is of very little consequence how much they fire. As soon as our men landed they abandoned the forts and ran off in all directions. We have hardly had any loss, I believe; but the French, who blundered a good deal with their gunboats, and then contrived to get blown up by setting fire to a powder magazine, have suffered pretty severely. I fancy that we have got almost all the artillery which the Chinese Empire possesses in this quarter. . . . This affair of yesterday, in a strategical point of view, was a much more creditable affair than the taking of Canton. Our gunboats and men appear to have done well, and though they were opposed to poor troops, still they were troops, and not crowds of women and children, who were the victims of the bombardment at Canton.

Yamun, Tientsin.—May 30th.—I hardly yet realise to myself where I am. I started at about 4.30 P.M. yesterday from the Furious, crossed the bar at the forts at the entrance of the river, picked up Gros and the French mission, whose vessel could not get on, and moved on to this place. The night was lovely—a moon nearly full. The banks, perfectly flat and treeless at first, became fringed with mud villages, silent as the grave, and trees standing like spectres over the stream. There we went ceaselessly on through this silvery silence, panting and breathing flame. Through the night-watches, when no Chinaman moves, when the junks cast anchor, we laboured on, cutting ruthlessly and recklessly through the waters of that glancing and startled river, which, until within the last few weeks, no stranger keel had ever furrowed! Whose work are we engaged in when we burst thus with hideous violence and brutal energy into these darkest and most mysterious recesses of the traditions of the past? I wish I could answer that question in a manner satisfactory to myself. At the same time, there is certainly not much to regret in the old civilisation which we are thus scattering to the winds. A dense population, timorous and pauperised, such would seem to be its chief product. I passed most of the night on deck, and about four A.M. we reached a point in the centre of the suburb of Tientsin, at which the Great Canal joins the Tientsin or Peiho river. There I found the Admirals, Frederick, &c. Frederick had got this yamun for us, half of which I have had to give to my French colleague. It consists of a number of detached rooms, scattered about a garden. I have installed myself in the joss-house, my bedroom being on one side, and my sitting-room on the other, of the idol's altar. We have a letter informing us that the Emperor has named two great officers of State to come here and treat, and our Admirals are in very good humour, so that matters look well for the present.

June 4th.—I am to have an interview with the Chinese Plenipotentiaries to-day. I devoutly hope it may lead to a speedy and satisfactory pacific settlement; but I am sending to Hong Kong for troops, in order to be prepared for all eventualities. In sum, my policy has resulted in this :—I have complete military command of the capital of China, without having broken off relations with the neutral Powers, and without having interrupted, for a single day, our trade at the different ports of the Empire.

Tientsin.—June 5th.—To-day I went to have my first official interview with the Chinese Plenipotentiaries. I made up my mind, disgusting as the part is to me, to act the role of the "uncontrollably fierce barbarian," as we are designated in some of the confidential reports to the Chinese Government which have come into our hands. These stupid people, though they cannot resist, and hardly even make a serious attempt to do so, never yield anything except under the influence of fear; and it is necessary therefore to make them feel that one is in earnest, and that they have nothing for it but to give way. Accordingly I got a guard of 150 marines and the band of the Calcutta, and set off with all my suite in chairs, tambour battant, for the place of rendezvous. It was about two-and-a-half miles off, and the heat of the sun very great. The road carried us through several narrow streets of the suburb, then across a plain, till we reached a temple at which the Plenipotentiaries were awaiting us. A dense crowd of Chinese men—I saw not one woman—lined the route. Curiosity chiefly was depicted on their countenances; some looked frightened; but I observed no symptoms of ill-will. At the entrance of the temple were two blind musicians, playing something like squeaking bagpipes. This was the Chinese band. We marched in with all our force, which drew up in a sort of court before an open verandah, where refreshments were set out, and the dignitaries awaited us. I was received by the Imperial Commissioner, and conducted to a seat at a small table covered with little plates of sweetmeats, &c. One of the Chinese Plenipotentiaries sat on either side of me. It was a very pretty scene, and the place was decorated in very good taste with flowers, &c. As my neighbours showed no disposition to talk, I began by asking after their health and that of the Emperor. They then said that they had received the Emperor's orders to come down to treat of our affairs. I answered, that although I was much grieved by the neglect of the Prime Minister to answer the letters I had addressed to him, yet as they had on their cards stated that they had "full powers," I had consented to have this interview in order that we might compare our powers, and see whether we could treat together. I told them that I had brought mine, and I at once exhibited them, giving them a translation of the documents. They said they had not powers of the same kind, but a decree of the Emperor appointing them, and they brought out a letter which was wrapped up in a sheet of yellow paper. The chief Plenipotentiary rose and raised the paper reverentially over his head before unfolding it. I thought the terms of this document rather ambiguous, besides which I was desirous to produce a certain effect; so when it had been translated to me, I said that I was not sufficiently satisfied with it to be able to say on the spot whether I could treat with them or not; that I would, if they pleased, take a copy of it and consider the matter; but that I would not enter upon business with them at present. So saying I rose, moved to the front of the stage, and ordered the escort to move and the chairs to be brought. This put the poor people into a terrible fluster. They made great efforts to induce me to sit down again, but I acted the part of the "untrollably fierce" to perfection, and set off for my abode. I had hardly reached it when I received two cards from my poor mandarins, thanking me for having gone so far to meet them, &c.

June 12th.—I have gone through a good deal since we parted. Certainly I have seen more to disgust me with my fellow-countrymen than I saw during the whole course of my previous life, since I have found them in the East among populations too timid to resist and too ignorant to complain. I have an instinct in me which loves righteousness and hates inequity, and all this keeps me in a perpetual boil.

June 29th.—I have not written for some days, but they have been busy ones. . . . We went on fighting and bullying, and getting the poor Commissioners to concede one point after another, till Friday, the 25th, when we had reason to believe all was settled, and that the signature was to take place on the following day. . . . On Friday afternoon, however, Baron Gros came to me with a message from the Russian and American Ministers, to induce me to recede from two of my demands :—1. A resident Minister at Peking; and, 2. Permission to our people to trade in the interior of China; because, as they said, the Chinese Plenipotentiaries had told them that they had received a decree from the Emperor, stating that they should infallibly lose their heads if they gave way on these points. . . . The resident Minister at Peking I consider far the most important matter gained by the Treaty; the power to trade in the interior hardly less so. . . . I had at stake not only these important points in my Treaty, for which I had fought so hard, but I know not what behind. For the Chinese are such fools that it was impossible to tell, if we gave way on one point, whether they would not raise difficulties on every other. I sent for the Admiral; gave him a hint that there was a great opportunity for England; that all the Powers were deserting me on a point which they had all, in their original applications to Peking, demanded, and which they all intended to claim if I got it; that therefore we had it in our power to claim our place of priority in the East, by obtaining this when others would not insist on it. Would he back me? . . . This was the forenoon of Saturday, 26th. The Treaty was to be signed in the evening. I may mention, as a proof of the state of people's minds, that Admiral Seymour told me that the French Admiral had urged him to dine with him, assuring him that no Treaty would be signed that day! Well, I sent Frederick to the Imperial Commissioners, to tell them that I was indignant beyond all expression at their having attempted to communicate with me through third parties; that I was ready to sign at once the Treaty as it stood; bat that, if they delayed or retracted, I should consider negotiations at an end, go to Peking, and demand a great deal more, &c. . . . Frederick executed this most difficult task admirably, and at six P.M. I signed the Treaty of Tientsin. . . . I am now anxiously waiting some communications from Peking. Till the Emperor accepts the Treaty I shall hardly feel safe. Please God he may ratify without delay! I am sure that I express the wish just as much in the interest of China as in ours. Though I have been forced to act almost brutally, I am China's friend in all this.

A Grammar of the Japanese Written Language; with a short Chrestomathy. By W. G. Aston. London, J. SUMMERS.—In this new Japanese Grammar, by Mr. Aston, interpreter to our Legation at Yedo, we appear to possess the nucleus of all future grammars of the language, for he has ransacked the native literature itself, and has discovered there many grammatical treatises, the essence of which he has appropriated and condensed into the volume before us. The importance of the work can hardly be exaggerated, as we see now the Japanese every day among us, and their demands for our productions are yearly becoming greater. If we are to derive profit from this opening up of Japan, we shall have to study them as they are studying us. Whatever may be said of the Chinese literature and people, the Japanese are by no means contemptible. Their works of Art, and the products of their country, command our attention. Information on every point is to be found in the book, and hence the value of a good grammar. Mr. Aston goes to the very foundation, and explains in concise language the principles on which the book style of composition rests. A very interesting account is given in the introduction of the history of the language and its various styles of composition. A most complete table of the syllabac, evidently the production of a Japanese artist, and also extracts from various authors in the native character with translations and notes recommend the work as the most perfect of its kind.

Naval Science; a Quarterly Magazine for Promoting the Improvement of Naval Architecture, Marine Engineering, Steam Navigation and Seamanship. London, LOCKWOOD and Co.—Such is the title of the magazine which, under the editorship of Mr. E. J. Reed, C.B., formerly chief constructor of Her Majesty's Navy is to be devoted to naval matters, and if succeeding numbers are only equal to the first it is not difficult to predict complete success for the undertaking. We learn from the preface that the contents of each issue will be selected in accordance with a settled programme, and are to consist of three classes; first, articles suited to the general and wholly un-mathematical reader, and which are to be of such a character as not to require illustration by means of diagrams; secondly, articles which will necessitate the employment of diagrams but may be understood by those but little versed in symbolic science; and thirdly, those intended for professional and scientific readers. This arrangement is fully carried out in the issue before us, which gives us papers on such popular subjects as the "Structure of Iron Ships," which has been of late so frequently before the public, and the "Loss of the Megæra." We have little hesitation in assigning the authorship of the last-named essay to the pen of the editor. Equally interesting, although to other classes of readers, will be found articles on the "Stability of Ironclads," the "Rifling of Naval Guns," the "Stowage of Merchant Ships," and the "Rational Method of Teaching Navigation." On the whole, we congratulate Mr. Reed upon his new enterprise, which will occupy an important place in periodical scientific literature.

The Shilling Peerage, Baronetage, Knightage, and House of Commons. London, R. HARDWICKE.—These useful publications are issued for the present year in a new form, being bound up in one volume. They fully maintain the merits of accuracy and completeness which have in past years secured the reputation they have earned as valuable works of reference.

The Presbyterian Missionary Record for the present month includes among its contents a brief but comprehensive sketch of "Japan and its People." The author is Dr. Williamson, of Chefoo.

THE CHINA MISSION OF THE ENGLISH PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

On Wednesday, the 1st inst., the annual missionary meeting of the English Presbyterian Church was held in Exeter Hall, which was densely crowded. The chair was taken at seven o'clock by the Right Hon. the Earl of Cavan, who was supported on the platform by ministers of different denominations, English Presbyterian and United Presbyterian ministers, and a large number of well-known laymen, amongst whom were Messrs. Hugh M. Matheson, Donald Matheson, Carstairs Douglas (Amoy), J. L. Maxwell (Tai-wan), &c.

The proceedings having been opened with a short address from the Chairman, Mr. H. M. Matheson stated that it was not usual at meetings such as the present to deliver the annual reports, but, as most of them were aware, it had already been given in to the Synod of the Presbyterian mission. It would be useful, however, in three or four sentences to give those present the leading facts and figures connected with the operations of the Mission during the past year. He might therefore state that the Mission (which was established in 1847, and was, therefore, exactly twenty-five years old) had nine ordained missionaries, and one missionary elect; four medical missionaries, forty-five native evangelists; and that the districts occupied were those of Amoy, Swatow, and Formosa. The new members received in 1871 numbered 380; the total Church members 1,367, with a professing Christian community of 6,000 souls. (Cheers.) The annual expenditure of the Mission was about £8,000; the sum required for the present year being £10,000. The next speaker would be the Rev. Carstairs Douglas, and he had great pleasure in announcing that the Senatus of Glasgow University had that day conferred upon Mr. Douglas the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

The Rev. Dr. Carstairs Douglas commenced by observing that the Mission in China was divided into three parts—Amoy, Swatow, and Formoso. Around each of these places they had stations to the number of fifteen or eighteen. It was the custom to call this work "Chinese Mission Work," but it must be remembered that one part of it was not among Chinamen at all. A very important part of the work in Formosa was carried on with an aboriginal race allied to the Malayan race, who were to be found all over Southern China. In this way their work was divided into two parts. In the interior of the Island of Formosa the work was carried on amongst these half-civilised aborigines, a part of that same great family of the human race which included the Polynesians and the people of the Island of Madagascar. The whole of the work at Swatow and half the work in Formosa was among the Chinese people, and it was found more difficult to work amongst them than amongst those he had previously described. Again they might divide their work into two parts; first in regard to the language in which it was conducted. He did not mean to say that any language but the Chinese was used, but the mission had to be conducted in two dialects of the language. A word of explanation was here necessary, for what they called dialects in Europe were not what was meant by that term there. The so-called dialects of China were for the most part languages as different from one another as were, for instance, English, German, and Danish. In consequence of this their work had to be divided, the one branch comprehending the Swatow mission, the other branch comprehending the Amoy and Formosa missions. The language of Swatow was by itself, though comparatively near to that spoken at Amoy, but between their missions in Amoy and Formosa there was entire community of language. The mission at Amoy was planted twenty-five years ago. After being carried on for about ten years, the next occupied of the mission stations was Swatow. The latter was a part where there was no missionary whatsoever of any Christian Church. In these circumstances, the Presbyterian mission, in addition to the work at Amoy, began also the work at Swatow, and then, many years after, work was commenced in Formosa. It had only been carried on for seven years. It was most interesting to consider in the light of recent events the manner in which they were led to begin that work, which was now by far the most promising and prosperous part of the mission out there. The people of Formosa were almost all emigrants from Amoy and its neighbourhood. There was constant intercourse between Formosa and the mainland, and some of the early converts at Amoy, who at times travelled backwards and forwards, told them (the missionaries) of the fact that the people of Formosa spoke the same language as those of Amoy, and then the native Christians of Amoy used often to pray for Formosa. When he was in England some nine years ago he pleaded hard that the Church would take up the Formosa work; and when he returned eight years ago it was in company with Dr. Maxwell, from whose lips they would hear how gloriously God had blessed his work and the work of his fellow-labourers. (Cheers.) The fields thus occupied now were fields entirely unoccupied before. It had been the policy of the Mission to concentrate their work in these three fields, for they found it far better to have two or three strong missions than six or seven weak ones. In Formosa they (the Presbyterians) worked entirely alone. In Swatow they had joined with them the mission of one of the American societies. In his own station, Amoy, there were two other missions—the mission of the London Missionary Society, with whom they had always acted in the most cordial and friendly spirit, and they with them (cheers), and the mission of another American society. At Swatow the work was of much the same sort as at Amoy, with this difference in the people of the former place, that they were more disorderly—indeed, they were regarded as the most disorderly people of the Chinese Empire. When the missionaries first went there they laboured under very great difficulties, and for three or four years without any result, so far as the human eye could discern, but now their progress was becoming more and more rapid—during the last two years somewhat more rapid than in Amoy. In the Amoy district the missionaries all lived together in the town, and regarded it as a centre of operations. From this point, and furnished with official passports from the Government of the Chinese Empire, they had been enabled to sow the seeds of the Gospel in seventeen places in the surrounding country. The activity of the natives themselves in some of these places was very gratifying. At one place they had provided a chapel capable of holding one hundred persons, and a room connected with it for the native preacher, the cost to the Mission Fund being only £4. (Cheers.) In another place similar work was done, the natives bearing the entire cost. The subscriptions towards mission work in all the Amoy district was close upon £110 last year. Amongst the converts were persons engaged in various trades connected with the heathen system, and, being obliged to relinquish these when they became Christians, they furnished thereby the best evidence of the thorough sincerity of their motives. The opposition of the Government was of a very annoying character; but so far from injuring the mission in the eyes of the people it was greatly advanced thereby. The answer of Earl Granville to the Chinese Circular was thoroughly satisfactory, and was such as the missionaries cordially approved. They had hopes that they would be able to commence work amongst the Chinese of Singapore and Penang, for which the Presbyterian congregations there had subscribed several hundred pounds, and had written home asking that missionaries might be sent. They were ready to bear the entire expense, and just as when he was at home last, he pleaded for the work in Formosa, so now, having heard of the glorious results of that work, he pleaded for Singapore and Penang, and the districts round about. In a few months he would return again to China, and as he could not hope to see their faces again, he earnestly invoked their prayers on behalf of Chinese evangelisation.

The Rev. Adolph Saphir moved a resolution:—"That this meeting has heard with profound thankfulness of the prosperous state of the mission in China;" which was carried unanimously.

Dr. James L. Maxwell, of Tai-wan, said that in the island of Formosa two great instrumentalities had been honoured of God in promoting mission work in China—the first was the simple preaching of the Word of God in chapels, the streets, or the villages; the second was the healing of the sick, and such evangelistic work as accompanies a mission hospital. The medical mission in Formosa had been specially useful in two ways—first, in the wide-spread diffusion of interest in the mission hospital, and bringing, as it did, patients of various classes from the north, south, east and west, who not only received attention to their bodily ailments, which was their particular desire, but the fact of their being resident in the hospital gave them an opportunity of being brought under the hearing of the Gospel from day to day. Dr. Maxwell then gave an encouraging account of three mission-stations in the island. The first was situated 120 miles to the north, the second fifty miles to the south, and the third between thirty and forty miles to the east of the head-quarters at Tai-wan. He minutely explained the circumstances which led to the establishment of the mission-stations, and showed their existence was attributable to the hospital, as in several cases they had been set on foot by men who had been inmates. If such had not been the case, they could not have expected to have reached them for years to come, as they were separated by a part of the country that was inhabited by savage tribes. The other way in which the medical-mission work commended itself to the respect of the Church was the golden opportunity which was given to the medical missionary and his evangelists of placing the Gospel before the patients from day to day; as what the missionaries had to regret most was the fleeting character of the multitude who attended the chapel, dropping in for a quarter of an hour, and receiving a slight impression, and then going away. They had opportunities of not only preaching to them at stated times, but going into the wards of the hospital, seating themselves beside them, and encouraging them. When the hospital could only contain ten patients, six were simultaneously present who were impressed with the truth, and who proved instrumental in forming three stations. This, he said, was enough to prove that the medical mission-work was exceedingly valuable in promoting the cause of Christ among the heathen. One thing which commended the mission hospital in China to the friends at home was the fact of its being singularly inexpensive, for the three hospitals which had been brought into existence in that island had not drawn upon the funds, so far as their erection was concerned, more than £150, and one can accommodate fifty and another thirty in-patients. (Applause.) The patients provided nearly everything. All the missionaries had to do was to supply them with a place to live in, medicine, such surgical aid as was required, and the Gospel. The inhabitants of Formosa lived in a hotbed of fever, which carried off thousands, and the medicine necessary was quinine, a most expensive medicine. His appeal to them would consist in this one item of medicine. Any donation of quinine would be as precious as gold if sent to the treasurer. He (Dr. Maxwell) could travel through Formosa without gold, but he dare not without quinine. People must not suppose that medical mission-work has been allowed to pursue its way unhindered, for, like preaching of the Gospel, it came in for a large amount of odium. Out of the fourteen chapels that existed in Formosa only three had drawn upon the funds of the Mission, the remaining eleven being built by the native Church. These chapels were capable of accommodating from two hundred to three hundred people, and if they had been built by the Mission would have cost from £50 to £60 each. They were monuments of the perseverance and self-denial that the natives had undergone to erect then. The mission work had been much honoured, and they had reason to be thankful for the healthy state of the Church in Formosa, in the activity of its members in carrying the truth from place to place, and the financial support they are rendering to the Mission. In conclusion, Dr. Maxwell said that throughout all the churches they had certain fixed subjects of prayer for every day in the week, such as the prosperity of individual stations in Formosa, the brethren at Amoy and Swatow, and for the mother Church in England, which enabled them to keep up a bond of fellowship, and which they found was working for good.

Dr. W. P. Mackay, of Hull, moved a resolution:—"That this meeting rejoices in the tokens of the Divine favour bestowed in connection with the Medical Mission work so largely employed by the English Presbyterian Church, and cordially commends this interesting department of their mission in China to the sympathy and support of the friends of the Gospel." This resolution was carried, and after several further addresses from the gentlemen present, the proceedings closed with a vote of thanks to the Earl of Cavan for presiding.

THE CHARTERED BANK OF INDIA, AUSTRALIA, AND CHINA.

An adjourned general meeting of the shareholders in this bank was held on the 1st inst.; Mr. Andrew Cassels in the chair. The Chairman said: Gentlemen, the business which calls us together to-day is of a purely formal character, and will only detain us a very few minutes. It will be remembered that our annual meeting, held on the 17th of last month, was adjourned to this day in order that we might announce to you the result of the poll demanded by the friends of Mr. Morrison. That result, decided by the scrutineers—Mr. A. Morrison and Mr. Hugh Oxenham, is as follows:—The motion was, "That Mr Joseph R. Morrison, who now retires by rotation, be re-elected a director." Stated briefly, the result was—for the motion, 375; against it, 548; the majority of votes against the re-election of Mr. Morrison as a director being 173. I have therefore to declare that the motion for the re-election of Mr. Morrison has been negatived.

Mr. J. R. Morrison, who professed to rise for the purpose of thanking his supporters, then said he had no alternative but to accept the decision to which the majority had come; and, although the result was certainly not such as he had wished, it was not one of which he was at all ashamed; for he felt confident if any gentleman on the board had been subjected to the same ordeal through which he had passed (that was, of having his colleagues on the direction voting against him), he would also have met with a defeat. The more agreeable task then devolved upon him of thanking those gentlemen who had honoured him with their support. He could not find words sufficient to express his gratitude for the just, genial, and generous sympathy which they had accorded to one who had been thus ignominiously thrown over, and that at a time when the affairs and prospects of the bank were improving. In conclusion, he hoped the new blood infused into the direction would prove far more beneficial than the old, and that the company might never have upon its board men less able to look the proprietary in the face than he had been.

The Chairman said, if Mr. Morrison had confined his remarks to simply thanking his friends for their support he (the chairman) should not have considered it necessary to say anything in reply; but as Mr. Morrison had dwelt at some length upon what he termed his grievances, he felt it was due to his colleagues and himself to state briefly why the directors had opposed Mr. Morrison's re-election. When they had first been made aware of the opposition that would be offered by a very large and influential section of the shareholders to his re-election, the general feeling among the members of the board had been that it would be advisable for them to remain neutral in the matter, deeming the question to be purely a shareholders' question, and, if there had been any exception to that feeling, he must say that it had been in Mr. Morrison's favour. At the committee meeting of the directors, on the Friday following the annual meeting, it had been pointed out to Mr. Morrison that he had, in his speech at the meeting, insinuated that which was neither generous nor justifiable—that the only effect of the shareholders ejecting him from the board would be that the allowance to which the directors were entitled would have to be divided among seven instead of eight members. Mr. Morrison had declined to withdraw those words, and placed himself in such direct and strong opposition to the opinions and feelings of the board that they had come to the unanimous decision that it would be well, and consistent with the best interests of the bank, that Mr. Morrison should not be re-elected. In conclusion, the chairman said they had adopted this line of conduct with considerable reluctance and pain, for it was always an ungracious task to be obliged to oppose an old colleague. He would only add, that an earnest desire to promote the interests of the bank superseded in their minds every other consideration.

The proceedings then terminated.

COURT OF EXCHEQUER

LANE V. LAY.

This was an action for wrongful dismissal and breach of contract. It was first tried on the 15th December last before the Lord Chief Baron, and a verdict was obtained for the plaintiff with damages £2,509. Subsequently in January a rule nisi was obtained by the defendant to show cause why that verdict should not be set aside, on the ground that there was no breach of contract. An application was made on the 30th ult., before the Lord Chief Baron, and Barons Bramwell, Cleasby, and Martin to make this rule absolute.

The facts of the case were as follows:—The plaintiff, Edmund Lane, who was a civil engineer, was, in 1870, engaged in London by the defendant, Horatio Nelson Lay (then acting as agent to the Japanese Government) to go out to Japan and perform certain duties in connection with works being projected and carried out by that Government, at a salary of 600 dollars a month (his engagement to extend to three years). It was further agreed upon between the contracting parties that the plaintiff should be provided with a free passage and a sum of £10 in addition, for his journey and travelling expenses; that he was to proceed without delay to Yokohama, and on arriving there should report himself to Mr. Morel, the engineer-in-chief, and to submit to his orders, or the orders of such other authorities under whom he would be placed; that he should obey the Japanese Government and all rules that might be imposed for the time being; that he should not absent himself without leave of his superior officer; that in case of his being guilty of insubordination, or drunkenness, or breach of engagement, it should be lawful for defendant to discharge him, and that in case of his subjecting himself to such dismissal from either or any of those causes he should forfeit six months' pay as liquidated damages. There were other provisions in the contract, one of which was that in the case of the defendant or the Japanese Government determining to put an end to the engagement before the period agreed upon, the plaintiff to receive three months' notice and 7,000 Mexican dollars. The plaintiff, on the faith of this contract, proceeded to Yokohama, where he duly reported his arrival. He then entered upon his duties, and gave his services exclusively to the Japanese Government and their works. After an occupation extending over several weeks, he was suddenly called upon to sign a document containing a series of new regulations, drawn up by Mr. Morel, the engineer-in-chief. Considering that those regulations were utterly opposed to the provisions in his original contract, the plaintiff refused to sign them, whereupon Mr. Morel would not permit him to perform any more work for the Japanese Government. The plaintiff, finding remonstrance useless, and his further services absolutely refused, returned to England. He immediately communicated with the defendant in London. Mr. Lay, who had then ceased to act as agent to the Japanese Government, approved of the course he had taken under the circumstances. The plaintiff was, however, compelled to bring his action against him; but it was really against the Japanese Government, or their agents, the Oriental Bank, who defended it.

Sir John Karslake, Q.C., and Mr. Murray supported the rule, contending that there was no breach of contract or wrongful dismissal in this case, inasmuch as the plaintiff could have appealed to the Japanese Government at Yedo or the British Consul against the conduct of Mr. Morel; that he had no right to return to England at the time he did; that, by so doing, he discharged himself from the service of the the Japanese Government; and that the damages could not exceed three months' salary at £125 a month, and the penalty of £1,500.

The court refused the application, thereby confirming the verdict for the plaintiff, the damages being reduced to £1,750.

COURT OF BANKRUPTCY.

LIEBERT AND ROGERSON.

This was an application on behalf of the trustee under proceedings for liquidation by Messrs. Liebert and Rogerson, merchants and commission agents, of Leadenhall-street and of Manchester, for an order on Messrs. Barnett, Hoare, and Co., bankers, for payment of a sum of £1,334, paid to or retained by them on the 7th of January, 1871, on the ground that such payment or detention constituted a fraudulent preference.

The facts appeared to be that prior to their suspension Messrs. Liebert and Rogerson kept banking accounts with Messrs. Barnett, Hoare, and Co. in London, and with the Consolidated Bank at Manchester; and it was their custom to draw cheques on their London bankers and to pay the same into the Consolidated Bank at Manchester, and to draw against such cheques for the purposes of their Manchester business. They were also in the habit of discounting bills with Messrs. Barnett, Hoare, and Co., and on the 3rd of December, 1870, that firm discounted a promissory note made by the debtors for £1,334, and payable at six months' date upon a promise to give as collateral security a lien upon certain machinery. Afterwards Mr. Hoare, one of the members of the banking firm, applied unsuccessfully to Mr. Liebert to give him the promised security, and on the 4th of January, 1871, Messrs. Barnett and Co. received a letter from Liebert and Rogerson, of Manchester, asking to be allowed an over draught of £2,000, on the ground that the death of Mr. Rogerson, sen., had tied up a considerable portion of their capital; but Messrs. Barnett declined to accede to the request. On the same day a cheque for £3,383, drawn by the Manchester house upon the account of the firm at Messrs. Barnett's, was presented for payment and dishonoured—the balance in hand at that time being £2,550 only. Finding that other cheques were being drawn by the debtors, Mr. Hoare, on the 6th of January, called on them, and again required security for payment of the note of the 3rd of December, when the debtors agreed to pay the note if the bank would discount a bill of Messrs. Ogilvie, which was coming forward on the following day, for £2,123, and hold the balance at their disposal. Messrs. Liebert and Rogerson then stated that the "lock-up" was only temporary, pending the settlement of Mr. Rogerson, sen.'s, affairs, and that they expected their position would be strengthened in the end. Messrs. Barnett acted upon this request on the 6th January, and discounted the bill of Messrs. Ogilvie; and on the 8th the debtors stopped payment. The question was whether, under these circumstances, the retention of the £1,334 by Messrs. Barnett amounted to a fraudulent preference.

The Chief Judge held that the transaction which the trustee sought to impeach was not a fraudulent preference. From the affidavit of Mr. Hoare it appeared that his firm had lent money on a promissory note payable at six months upon a contract by the debtors that they would give security on certain other property. The note contained not merely an obligation to pay at the end of six months, but it was accompanied by a a condition to give security. Messrs. Barnett and Co. were, therefore, entitled either to payment of the note or to insist upon their security being given as agreed. Failing to obtain security they were entitled to receive their money, and the payment having been made in good faith, and for a valuable consideration, it could not now be impeached. The application of the trustee was therefore refused.

WITH regard to the Burmese mission now on its way to this country the Pall Mall Gazette informs us that two of the members are respectively named the Padein Woon and the Pangyet Woon. Both were educated some time time ago at the Doveton College at Calcutta; but the Pangyet Woon is greatly superior to the other Woon, both in manners and address, from having resided eight years at Paris, where he took several university degrees. But while his Majesty of Ava is resolved to form European alliances, he is sadly ignorant of European diplomacy. The mission is accompanied by a respectable retailer of groceries and hardware of Rangoon, named Mr. Edmund Jones, who has recently been appointed by the King to be a guide to his officers, and has been invested with the real tsalway, or order of golden strands. This is a far higher mark of distinction than the star-shaped bauble which his Majesty designed two years ago for the first time, and which he has recently conferred upon the English Premier.

THERE will shortly be launched from the building yard of Mr. J. G. Laurie at Whiteinch, Clyde, a large steamer for the firm of Messrs. Thos. Wilson, Sons, and Co., Hull, for their India and China trade. This vessel is 330 feet long, keel and fore rake, 37 feet beam, and 28 feet 9 in. deep, and will be propelled by a pair of compound engines of 350-horse power. She will be fitted with all the latest improvements for light and ventilation. This vessel is of the gross register of 3,300 tons, and will be named the Hindoo.

GERMANY.

HAMBURG, April 30.

The Senate of Bremen have sent down to the Burgerschaft of that city for their consent and approbation the draft of a Bill of unusual importance and interest, being nothing more nor less than a proposal for the alteration of the currency. It does not at all militate against the measures already taken by the German Parliament for an uniformity of the monetary system of the Empire; on the contrary, it is quite in accordance with its provisions, and calculated even to promote and facilitate its execution when the time arrives, which, however, I fear is still a long way off. Prince Bismark, who opened the session of the German Parliament, gives in his speech a catalogue of the Bills that will be introduced; but not a word is to be found indicating the intention of the Government to lay before them the important Bill for the definitive settlement of the currency question, although at the close of the last session a resolution was passed to request the Chancellor to bring it in during the course of the present one, that it may finally be disposed of without further loss of time. It is, however, but fair to add that the Minister of Finance stated at the time that he could not promise compliance with the wish of the House, as there were other subjects connected with it which required long and serious consideration. The fact is—and it is no secret here—that it is the intention of the Government to include in the Bill comprehensive regulations concerning public and private banks, and the prohibition, or at least some efficient control and limitation, of the issue of paper money, which, as is well known to your readers, is as plentiful in Germany as blackberries. And on this subject it is no easy work to reconcile all the conflicting interests, and perhaps vested rights, of the various States, and bring all the Governments to sacrifice some of their attributes of sovereignty without a compensation of some sort. But it is to be most devoutly hoped that Prince Bismark, who has already done such wonders in uniting all Germany under one Empire, and who enjoys in such an eminent degree the confidence both of the Government and the people, will find some way of solving the problem, and surmounting the difficulty to the general satisfaction of the nation. This accounts for the delay.

In reverting to the Bremen proposal I need hardly remind your commercial readers that that little free State, with scarcely a hundred thousand inhabitants, has been placed from time immemorial in the anomalous position of having its own exclusive monetary system, which is different from that of any other part of Germany, even in its palmiest days of separate systems; or, indeed, any other country in the world. Their unit of value is the so-called "Louis d'or thaler," which is the fifth part of the ancient Hanoverian "pistole," divided into six dozen "grotes." Bremen therefore possesses nominally a gold currency, but has never coined any money of its own, except the grotes, which bear the impress of the key, the armorial bearings of the city and State, to indicate its being the entrance to the heart of Germany. On the contrary, they have always managed to make their payments by means of German gold crowns, which have a fixed value, and are declared a legal tender at the rate of 8 2-5 thalers for each. But as a necessary consequence, when, in times of scarcity, neither crowns nor Louis d'ors were to be obtained, a law was passed giving a fixed value to a great variety of foreign gold coins of recognised standard, and this of course creates the utmost confusion, and enhances the difficulties of making cash payments. It is, therefore, now proposed to introduce on the 1st of July next the Prussian system at present in force, which will thus assimilate their currency with that of the rest of North Germany at least. Thus the basis of the new arrangement is the new German gold mark, which is one-third of a Prussian thaler, and divided into 100 pfennigs, whilst at the same time, and during the present period of transition, the double and single silver thalers as well as the smaller coins used in retail for change—such as the pieces of ten, five, two, and one groschen—are all to be made legal tenders to a certain amount, though no one is to be obliged to take in one payment more than ten thalers' worth. It is a singular fact that opposition to this project was made where it was least to be expected, for no less than 202 merchants and frequenters of the Exchange protested against it, on the sole ground—as far as I can ascertain, for they certainly gave no reasons for their dissent—that they had not been consulted on the matter. The 25th of April will, however, in future be held as a memorable day in the annals of our sister city; for on that day the Burgerschaft, after a very short debate, finally passed the Bill by 63 to 44 votes, and as it will it come into operation on July 1, Bremen is practically the first German State to inaugurate the new coinage with the mark, subdivided into 100 pfennigs, as the unit of value, and the only astonishing part of the business is how they never came to join the Prussian, or at least some other German monetary system long ago.

In the face of the above mentioned facts, and considering that the change is to be made in the course of only two months, your readers will scarcely be surprised to hear that the axe is about to be laid to the root of the tree of our venerable institution—the Bank of Hamburg, or perhaps only to its traditional money of account, known as the Hamburg Mark Banco. Of course nothing is settled yet, except that it is doomed to become a thing of the past as soon as the new law is promulgated for all Germany, which, however, as explained above, is not destined to take place this year. But the example set by Bremen in thus voluntarily going ahead and anticipating events brings the momentous question home to the legislature of this city, whether it would not be expedient to act in the same manner and substitute at once the new gold mark for the antiquated mark banco. The Chamber of Commerce and the Board of Trade are now engaged in studying the question, and perhaps in my next letter I may be able to report progress.

From Copenhagen we learn that the steam frigate Tordenskjold, lately employed in taking out and laying the submarine telegraph cable in the Far East, is found to be so defective and unseaworthy that the expense incurred by a thorough repair would be out of all proportion to the service that may be expected to be got out of her in future. She is therefore advertised to be sold by public auction on the 1st May.

The iron steamer Secunda, Captain Haye, is to leave this port for Akyab, via Suez Canal, the first week in May.

☞ Herr Joham Heinrich Riebe has been appointed Swedish Consul at Bombay.

COMMERCIAL.

Tea continues to be firmly supported, with a fair amount of sales for the execution of orders from the interior of the country. The following were also sold by importers:—199/4, 822/8, and 231/16 chests Congou, per Lord of the Isles. In cleaned rice the dealings have been on a limited scale; of rough 10,000 bags of Rangoon, per John Bertram, have been sold to millers for delivery on arrival. In Cassia Lignea there is no alteration to report. Flores continues to sell at 16 to 16¼ sch. bco. Pepper is firm, Singapare not to be had under 7¼ sch. bco., and Penang is quoted 6⅞ to 7. Camphor is in demand, and the price has risen in consequence; 2,000 lbs. of Simaruba have been sold by importers. Oil of Star Annis is looking up.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVED.—Friso, from Singapore.

HOLLAND.

ROTTERDAM, May 1.

The members of the Second Chamber are still debating upon the Bill proposing to levy an income-tax, and notwithstanding that the discussions have already lasted ten days, and that about thirty members have taken part in the debate, it is still impossible to foretell what the fate of the Bill will eventually be. We have advanced so far that the general consideration of the measure is finished, and progress is now being made with the details, with regard to which there is a shower of amendments put forward; and still the general opinion prevails that all this time and trouble will be thrown away—that the Bill will be ultimately rejected. Several Liberal members already declare that they will vote against the measure, and at the same time they express their opinion that it is only an economical question, and not a political one, so that they maintain the able and esteemed Minister, Mr. Blusse, need not, in the event of its rejection, feel himself obliged to resign. Mr. Thorbecke, the Premier, has made his re-appearance in the Chamber. His health seems to be thoroughly restored, so that all the on dits about his intention to take a lengthened rest are evidently unfounded. The Conservatives had flattered themselves with the hope that this must happen, and that a ministerial crisis would follow if the Income-tax Bill is out-voted.

I am glad to state that the loan issued by the Steam Shipping Company "Nederland" is for the most part subscribed, and it seems very probable that the remaining capital, f.3,500,000, will shortly be taken up by our capitalists, notwithstanding that the debut of the company was not very promising. But with good management matters may improve. This we have already experienced in the case of the Rotterdam Bank; there was a time when the state of this institution seemed to be so bad that the shares were at a discount of 75 per cent., whilst now 10 per cent. premium is paid. The same changes have occurred with regard to the International Trading and Credit Company of Rotterdam, which is now in a flourishing condition, as is proved by the report and balance to be published in a short time, the general annual meeting being advertised to take place on the 3rd of June. The Bourse is still very flat, and the quotations have undergone little change.

The Belgian papers tell us a good deal about a "fraternisation" fete which will be given in the month of July next. It is impossible for me to tell you the true signification of this international festival. A certain ex-Dutch officer, Mr. Beynen, has taken the initiative, and in conjunction with a committee has undertaken the organisation of the fete, for which the Brussels Town Council has granted a credit of 30,000 francs. The Conservative papers are of opinion that this manifestation will have a political character, but I do not think this is the case. Of course the festival will be very agreeable to the Flemish party in Belgium, who desire most heartily to fraternise with the Dutch. But in Holland there prevails some coolness with Flemish brethren, and, notwithstanding that the Dutch are quite willing to hold a feast with them, it is nonsensical to believe that the affair can become a political manifestation. I hear that the councils of our principal towns will be invited to attend the feast in Brussels, which—and this is certainly very strange—will at the same time be in celebration of the 14th anniversary of King Leopold's accession to the throne of Belgium.

Some months ago the agent of Mr. Reuter wired from Batavia that the whole crop of cloves had been destroyed by a storm. Of course this news greatly influenced the market. It has, however, created much astonishment that the Java papers have not published up to this time one single line in confirmation of the statement. In general much complaint is made here about the incompleteness of the commercial and shipping news in the Java papers, whose editors seem to be of opinion that they do their duty well in reprinting the articles of our magazines.

The Dutch American Agricultural and Emigration Company has held a meeting in Amsterdam. It was resolved to send agents to California in order to treat with the Government and the managers of railway companies for the selling of land. Mr. J. A. Obreen will accordingly start this month, and he will be followed soon by other agents. It is very astonishing that not the least endeavour is made here to reinforce the European element in Java by emigration.

An important sale of pictures has taken place at Amsterdam. The collection of Mr. Roell-Hodson was brought under the hammer and realised f.233,299.50. The principal pieces were bought for an English nobleman, viz.: a Hobema for f.49,500, a G. Netscher for f.16,610, a G. van. de Velde for f.44,550, an E. de Witt for f.29,700.

Some days ago an East Indiaman was launched from the yard of Mr. Smit at the Kinderdyk. She is named the Industrie, is of 900 lasts tonnage, and will be commanded by Capt. C. B. Brandligt. It is not many years since that almost every week vessels of this character were launched.

In several towns the carpenters and other workmen have struck for an increase of wages. In most cases the masters have agreed to their demands. It is of public notoriety that in general our workmen do not earn sufficient to cover their necessary expenses.

The Staats Courant publishes most satisfactory news from the coast of Africa. It is almost certain that the transfer of our settlements to England will be effected without any trouble or difficulty.

ROTTERDAM, May 2.

Notwithstanding that the reports about the illness of Princess Henry became more favourable, we have received a telegram that she died yesterday morning. The Princess Amalia Maria de Gloria Augusta, of Saxen-Weimar, was born at Ghent, the 20th May, 1830, and was married in 1853 to Prince Henry.

(BY TELEGRAM.)

The Chamber has rejected the first section of the Income Tax Bill, and the Government has withdrawn the measure.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

We have again but little change to report in the general features of our market, the business doing continuing on a limited scale at unaltered rates for most of the leading articles. Sugar, however, has been dealt in to some extent at improved rates, and Tin has again advanced.

COFFEE exhibits continued firmness at the prices of the late public sale, which are readily paid, and for some numbers even a partial advance, but the reservedness of holders checks transactions. Sales have been closed of the following shipments of private importation: 357 bags Java, ex Helena Henriette, at 40½c., 683 do. ex do. at 40c. to 44½c., 300 bs., ex Loch Awe, at 39½c.; 400 bales Java, ex Henrietta Gerardina Susanna. Total stock, 708,600 bags, against 853,900 bags in 1871.

SUGAR keeps very firm. About 15,000 baskets Java have been disposed of at the prices of the March sale to f.¼ higher. Holders generally ask a further advance at present. The Trading Company's May sale has been announced to take place here on the 24th inst., comprising about 56,000 baskets Java, stored in our different ports.

TEA.—The result of the public sales of China and Java held at Amsterdam on the 25th ult. was as follows:—

Monetary and Commercial.

Extraordinary general meetings of the Anglo-Mediterranean Telegraph Company, the Marseilles, Algiers, and Malta Telegraph Company, the Falmouth, Gibraltar, and Malta Telegraph Company, and the British Indian Submarine Telegraph Company have been held, at which resolutions authorising the proposed amalgamation of these companies were carried unanimously. The conditions upon which the amalgamation is to be effected were fully explained in our last issue.

At the meeting of the Singapore Gas Company, held on the 30th ult., the directors' report—which was published in our issue of the 22nd ult.—was adopted, and the dividend recommended therein, at the rate of 7½ per cent. per annum, less income-tax, was declared on the preference and original capital, leaving £19 to be carried forward. The retiring directors and auditors were re-elected.

At the meeting of the Chartered Bank of India, adjourned from the 17th ult. to allow of the re-election of Mr. Morrison, a retiring director, being decided by ballot, it was announced that the re-election had been negatived by a majority of 173 votes.

The resolutions passed at the meeting of the National Bank of India, held on the 29th ult., will be found in full in our advertisement columns.

We learn by telegram that another Bill repealing the import duties on tea and coffee has been introduced in the United States Congress, and has been passed by both Houses. The measure will take effect from the 1st July.

The suspension is announced of Messrs. G. Maruti and Co., of Great Winchester-street-buildings, silk merchants, a firm of two or three years' standing, with liabilities supposed to amount to about £30,000. It is feared the prospects of the liquidation are very unfavourable.

Tenders were received at the Bank of England on the 1st inst. for bills on India to the amount of £600,000. The only amount allotted was £2,500 to Madras. The minimum was fixed as before at 1s. 11d. Tenders on Madras at 1s. 11d. will receive in full. This result shows an important feature—an almost complete cessation in the demand for the means of remittance to the East, which is a considerable point in favour of our Money Market.

Bar Silver continues to decline in price, and now stands at 5s. 0⅛d. per oz. Mexican dollars are unaltered, the old coinage standing at 5s. 2¾d. and the new at 5s. 0¼d.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

No change of any importance has taken place in the market during the past week. The daily auctions, of both China and India Teas, have monopolised the attention of the trade, and it has been very difficult to sell by private contract without giving way in price. Public sales were held on the 26th and 30th ult., and 1st and 3rd inst., comprising 18,851 packages, of which 18,257 packages sold without reserve. The deliveries for the past week have been 3,526,398 lbs., against 4,599,616 lbs. last year.

Black: Red-leaf kinds: Siftings have been sold at public sale at very low prices. Broken leaf kinds have been forced off at auction at easier rates. Fair to good common have been saleable to a limited extent at the reduction quoted in our last. In fair to good and fine kinds of Kaisow very little has been done. Finest are unchanged. In Pak Lin kinds there is no alteration. Black-leaf kinds: Low qualities can only be sold at auction without reserve, and have been forced off at 7d. to 9½d. per lb. Fair to good common have been quiet at previous prices. Of fair medium to fine descriptions several parcels received from America have been sold at auction without reserve, realising from 1s. 3d. to 1s. 9½d., which prices are about equal to previous quotations. Amoy kinds are unchanged. New-make Canton descriptions have been sold to a small extent at about our last quotations. Oolongs: Some sales of common to fair have been made at auction at rather easier rates. Souchongs are difficult of sale, although prices are low. Scented Teas: Capers are as previously quoted. Orange Pekoes show no material alteration. Uncoloured Japans are unchanged. Green: The market continues very strong, and prices have been fully maintained at the recent sales at auction. Canton kinds are not inquired for.

SILK.

There has been very little change in the market. Chinas are a little easier in price, and with less enquiry, but in Canton Tsatlees there has been a good business doing at strong rates, with very large deliveries, Loong Kongs, however, are still neglected, and hardly any business in this silk has been doing. Japans have attracted more attention of late, and at low prices some considerable parcels have changed hands the deliveries are beginning to show that consumers are using this silk more freely. The deliveries for the past month show a good total, the figures being:—China, 2,632; Canton, 1,324; Japan, 804; Bengal, 373; total, 5,133 bales.

COFFEE.

Advices which have been received from New York to the effect that the proposition to wholly repeal the present duty (equal to 14s. per cwt.) had become law, to take effect on the 1st July, have caused a favourable reaction in this market, and prices have mostly advanced. Ordinary descriptions below the value of about 75s., especially Native Ceylon, have met an active and extensive demand, and prices show a recovery of 1s. 6d. per cwt. from the previous depression. A good supply of Plantation[] Ceylon[] at auction has also met an improved demand, and sold readily at an advance of 1s. per cwt., viz.:—Triage and ordinary, 65s. to 71s.; small grey to colory, 71s. to 75s. 6d.; low middling grey, 74s. to 76s. 6d.; middling, 77s. to 80s. 6d.; good middling to fine middling, 81s. to 88s. 6d.; pea-berry, 87s. to 92s. 6d. By private contract sales and resales have been effected of about 7,000 bags Native Ceylon, good ordinary 67s. to 68s., closing at the latter price, fine ordinary 68s. 6d. to 69s. For arrival business has been done in Native Ceylon at 68s. 6d. up to 69s. at the close.

The deliveries last week were barely one-half those of 1871, being nearly 900 tons less; the landings included 500 tons foreign kinds, and were only 500 tons less than last year, so that the surplus in the stock is increased to 4,000 tons. The quantity of Ceylon Coffee afloat for Great Britain is estimated as follows:—Plantation, 221,516 cwt., against 258,120 cwt. at the corresponding date of 1871; Native, 51,583 cwt., against 36,145 cwt. The quantity of Coffee landed in the seventeen weeks ended April 27, 1872, was, of Ceylon, 9,639 tons, against 8,417 tons during the corresponding period of 1871; of all descriptions, 16,902 tons, against 15,544 tons. The quantity entered for home consumption was, of Ceylon, 2,301 tons, against 3,277 tons; of all descriptions, 4,359 tons, against 6,161 tons. The quantity exported was, of Ceylon, 4,545 tons, against 7,985 tons; of all descriptions, 11,005 tons, against 16,710 tons. The stock on April 27 was, of Ceylon, 11,934 tons, against 10,760 tons; of all descriptions, 21,462 tons, against 17,471 tons.

SUGAR.

The supply has been greatly reduced, and business has been much restricted in consequenee, although an active demand contiues to prevail, and transactions have been small in comparison with the extensive sales effected last week. The following are the details of the business done:—

Manila: No sales at auction; privately on the spot 1,000 bags unclayed Taal at 24s. 9d., 3,000 bags Zebu unclayed price not reported, and for arrival 500 tons Zebu unclayed, distant shipment, at 20s. 9d. quay terms for Liverpool.

Java: In auction 680 mats low quality (duty 4s.) at 24s. 6d.; privately 900 baskets greyish white (duties 5s. 8d. and 6s.) lying in Bristol at 37s. 9d., and 1,900 baskets good quality (duty 5s. 3d.) at 35s. 9d.

Penang: In auction 980 baskets date sort bought in at 24s. 6d. to 25s.

The movements of last week caused no variation in the stock as compared with that of the previous week, the landings being larger and equal to the deliveries, but owing to the heavy landings and increased stock in the corresponding week last year, the relative deficiency in the stock is increased to 26,000 tons. Stock, April 20, 31,928 tons, against 54,561 tons. Stock April 27, 1872, 32,071 tons, against 58,144 tons. The quantity of Sugar landed in the seventeen weeks ended April 27, 1872, was, of Penang, 1,199 tons, against 295 tons in the corresponding period of 1871; of Manila, Java, and China, 10,581 tons, against 8,231 tons; the quantity entered for home consumption was, of Penang, 778 tons, against 803 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 9,648 tons, against 9,808 tons. The quantity exported was, of Penang, 8 tons, against 98 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 849 tons, against 619 tons. The stock on April 27, was, of Penang, 870 tons, against 2,370 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 12,152 tons against 25,598 tons.

The Dutch Trading Company announce 56,000 packages Java for their next public sale on the 24th inst.

CAMPHOR.—China: Influenced by the favourable result of the Dutch sale of the 26th ult. (at which the whole quantity offered was placed at a figure equal to £4 11s. to £4 12s. for good Japan), the market here shows some advance, sales having been effected at £4 7s. 6d. on the spot, and £4 8s. 9d. afloat, and at the close there are buyers of floating parcels at £4 10s., but no sellers. Japan: No supply.

CHINA GRASS.—In the total absence of demand the whole of 1,763 bales (a large quantity) recent arrivals has been retired from auction, without a bid being made; the nominal value of very fine white is £55.

CHINA ROOT.—No business doing; the nominal quotation is 23s. to 25s.

CHINA PRESERVES.—At auction 390 cases ginger were offered and bought in at 7½, and 50 cases Chow-Chow were withdrawn.

COIR GOODS.—Public sales of large extent have been held, and for Yarn prices have been in some cases rather cheaper; 1,045 bales Cochin sold, very common and common qualities at £26 5s. to £29, roping £27, good common and low middling mixed at £29 10s. to £31, medium to good medium at £31 5s. to £33 10s., a small lot £34 15s., fine £40 to £41 5s.; 45 tons in dholls sold, roping yarn at £26 10s. to £27 10s.; common coarse to good common at £26 to £28 15s., middling £31 5s. to £31 15s.; 1,120 bales Ceylon partly sold, low middling to middling £30 to £32, good middling £34 to £34 15s., good £38 5s., fine to superior £46 to £51 15s.; 91 tons ditto in dholls all sold, very common £26, common to good common at £27 10s. to £29, low middling to middling at £29 5s. to £32 15s., good medium to good £34 10s. to £36 5s., fine £40. Of 549 bales Cochin Fibre offered 320 bales middling sold at £24 to £24 10s.; 1,292 coils (16 tons) Cochin Rope chiefly sold, 2½ inch at £33 15s., 1½ to 5 inch at £30 15s. to £31 5s., 4 to 6 inch at £28 15s., inferior quality 2 to 4 inch at £27 to £28 10s. per ton. Afloat.—Yarn: About 1,909 tons Cochin and Ceylon, against 864 tons Cochin and Ceylon same time last year. Fibre: 296¼ tons, against 105¾ tons. Stock here not published, but is very heavy. The following resolution has been carried in the Public Sale Room, "That in the opinion of the buyers of Coir Goods, on and after the 5th of July, interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum be allowed on all payments prior to the usual three months' prompt.

COCOA-NUT OIL.—The demand for Ceylon has improved, and transactions to a considerable extent have been entered into privately at £36 to £36 10s. Cochin is quoted £42 to £42 10s. per ton. Stock, 7,168 tons, against 5,706 tons. Afloat, 5,777 tons Cochin and Ceylon, against 5,038 tons Cochin and Ceylon same time last year.

COLOMBO ROOT.—Also without transactions; nominal value 40s.

CUBEBS.—No transactions.

CUTCH.—The market is very dull, and only a few small sales have been effected at prices showing a declining tendency.

DRAGON'S-BLOOD.—Market steady. At auction of 24 cases offered, half sold—lump, very good at £8; common, £4 17s. 6d. to £5; dust, £3 13s. per cwt.

EBONY.—Ceylon out of supply, and would realise high prices.

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Anniseed has improved, and about 300 cases sold on the spot up to 11s. per lb. and afloat at 10s. 9d., but has since become quieter, and at the close sales have been made of 60 cases on the spot at 10s. 6d. Cassia firm, and only small sales made at 5s. 8d. to 5s. 10d., holders generally asking 6s. Nutmeg steady; 3 cases at auction sold at 7d. to 7¼d. per oz. for good quality.

GALLS.—China have slightly advanced in the course of the past fortnight, a considerable quantity having been disposed of at £2 15s. 6d. to £2 16s. 6d. for fair but rather dusty, £2 16s. to £2 16s. 6d. for good, and £2 12s. 6d. for smooth egg shaped. The quantity afloat being small, present rates will probably be maintained for some time to come. Japan: Market steady, but there is no stock in first hands, and we have no transactions to report.

GALANGAL ROOT.—Sales to small extent have been effected at 15s. 6d. per cwt, being 6d. decline.

GAMBIER.—The principal business in this article has again been in floating parcels, of which about 1,100 tons have been sold at lower rates; March-May shipments at 18s. 6d. to 19s., March 19s. 1¼d. to 19s., and February 19s. 9d., ex ship, all faults. On the spot scarcely anything has been done; 844 mats Cubes were bought in at 24s. 3d. per cwt.

GUTTA PERCHA.—Market firm, but quiet, and a better trade is looked for later on, as the quantity sold in Holland was about 400 tons. Of 504 baskets at public sale, only a small proportion sold; fair and good 1s. 6d. to 2s.; mixed 1s. 4¾d.; white 1s. 3¼d. to 1s. 3¾d. per lb.

GUMS.—Benjamin: Siam steady; large stock of common; of 75 cases at auction, a few only sold—fine, partly run, £19 5s. to £20. Sumatra firm; and of 117 cases offered, half sold—fair to good 2nds, £3 to £8 12s. 6d.; 3rds, 60s. to 82s. 6d. Copal steady; 593 cases at auction chiefly sold, good bold 35s.; fine in block, 31s. 6d. to 32s. 6d.; drossy soft block, 20s. to 20s. 6d. Damar quiet; of 687 cases at auction, part good sold at 60s. 6d. for Batavia. Gamboge steady, but quiet; small sales at previous values; 7 cases at auction retired.

HEMP.—The market continues steady, with a fair but not active demand; about 1,100 bales have been sold privately during the week, realising for brown, £42 to £45; fairroping, £50; Quilot, £66 per ton.

HORNS.—At public sale yesterday a large supply of Buffalo was offered, chiefly heavy weights, which sold at a decline, the lighter weights being quitted at an advance; 21,290 (21 tons) Manila were partly sold, 1,062 to 1,000 horns at 34s. 6d.; 35,597 (46 tons) Siam were partly sold, chiefly 792 to 662 horns at 40s. to 41s., a few lots lighter at 39s. 6d. per cwt.

HIDES.—No sales since those reported on in our last issue.

ISINGLASS.—The market for good qualities is firm at last quoted rates but lower descriptions are neglected.

INDIA RUBBER continues dull; small sales of Borneo afloat effected at 1s. 9½d. per lb.

JAPAN WAX has slightly recovered from the depression lately apparent, the result of large supplies being thrown upon the market. Business to fair extent has been done during the interval at the following rates:—fine saucers 85s. to 86s.; a few lots at 86s. 6d.; good 85s.; slight mixed with soft 83s. to 83s. 6d.; good but slightly stained with dirt 82s. 6d. to 83s.; yellow 81s. 6d. to 82s. per cwt.

MUSK.—There is still a good demand, but arrivals have been large; 10 tins grain retired from public sale, but sold subsequently at 56s. per oz.

ORCHELLA.—An offer of 36 bales Ceylon was quitted at 45s.

PEPPER.—Black: The market is inactive at a slight decline. Singapore rules at 7d. per lb., at which only moderate sales have been effected. In Penang a fair trade has been done at 6½d. for good, at which figure a small part of 1,396 bags at auction were sold; of Siam 916 bags were offered and retired. White has been quieter and a shade easier, with only small private trade; of 651 bags at auction a few sold at 1s. 2d. to 1s. 1¾d., and some for delivery in the last four months of the year at 1s. per lb.

PLUMBAGO. The demand for the better qualities of Ceylon continues good on export account, and full prices have been paid; dust is also dearer; 1,251 barrels in auction partly sold, low to good bold lump, 18s. to 29s. 6d., very fine bright, 33s. 6d. to 34s., chips, 8s. 9d. to 22s. 6d., dust, 6s. 3d. to 9s. 9d. per cwt.

RATTANS.—Firm at previously ruling rates; Penang, 5s. 6d. per hundred canes.

RHUBARB.—The market for China is steady; good sun dried is very scarce, and about 4d. per lb. higher. Of 159 cases at auction about three-fourths sold—bold, but rather dull greyish fracture, 3s. 6d. to 3s. 7d.; darker coat, 2s. 11d. to 3s. 2d.; medium ditto, rather preferable fracture, 2s. 6d. to 2s. 8d.; pale fracture, good bright coat, 1s. 11d. to 2s. 3d.

RICE.—There has not been much doing in the market, but prices are firm for white Bengal, of which the supply is limited; cargo Bengal is fully 3d. lower—soft grain kinds are neglected. The rates paid on the spot have been Rangoon, 9s. 1½d. to 9s. 3d., Bassein, 9s. 6d. to 9s. 7½d. Ballam, 8s. 3d. to 8s. 9d., low to fine white Bengal 10s. 3d. to 13s. 9d. per cwt. Afloat, 661 tons Rangoon have been quitted at 10s. 1½d., 1,400 tons ditto at 10s. continental terms; 1,000 tons ditto at 10s. ex ship; 1,000 tons Necransie at 9s. 7½d. ex ship; 500 tons Askoolie at 10s. to 10s. 4½d., and 400 tons white Bengal at 11s. 3d. to 12s. ex quay.

SAGO.—Market steady, but quiet; of 379 bags at auction, nearly half sold at 17s. 6d. per cwt. for fair small. Flour very quiet, and cheaper; of 1806 bags at sale, few only placed at 15s. 9d. per cwt. for good, and sales since at 15s. 6d.

SAPANWOOD.—Manila and Siam: Stocks continue very small, and holders consequently maintain their firmness. Of 18 tons Manila offered, 6 tons sold at £11. Ceylon: Also scarce and firm, 3 tons in public sale quitted at £10 7s. 6d.

SPICES.—Cassia: Lignea quiet, and no trade to report. Vera also dull; 170 packages Singapore retired. Buds quiet. Cloves quiet; of 43 packages Amboyna at auction, 1 lot sold at 4½d. per lb. for ordinary; slightly damaged. About 20 cases Penang sold privately at 1s. 2d. for good quality. Cinnamon: Only retail business doing in Ceylon at steady rates. Nutmegs quiet; of 104 cases in auction, half sold, 73's at 3s. 4d.; 109's 3s. 3d. to 3s. 1d. Mace cheaper; of 32 cases offered, one-third sold at 2s. 11d. to 3s. 9d. per lb. for ordinary broken to good pale.

STICKLAC.—Market quiet; a few cases of Siam reported sold at £4 10s. per cwt.

SHELLS.—Without transactions.

STAR ANNISEED.—Little doing in the absence of arrivals; 5 cases sea-damaged sold at £6 5s. per cwt.

SOY.—China quoted 2s. 2d. to 2s. 3d. per gallon, but no sales effected.

TAPIOCA.—The market has been rather quiet, but towards the close a little more activity has been apparent, and about 1,000 bags Singapore are reported sold at 2½d. to 2¾d. per lb. for good to fine. At auction of 2,354 bags Singapore offered one-fourth sold at 2¼d., of 223 bags Penang, part sold at 2d. for dingy, and of 316 bags Pearl, part were placed at 23s. to 23s. 6d. Flour quiet; 435 bags retired.

TOBACCO.—2 bales Manila sold at 1s. 2d. to 1s. 3¼d.; of 12 bales Sumatra offered 2 bales sold at 2s. 5d., 26 bales Java sold at 6¼d. to 6¾d.

TURMERIC.—China: Firm at 16s. to 17s. per cwt. Java: Unsaleable.

TIN.—Straits is quiet at last mail's rate, viz., £158 on the spot and afloat; Banca and Billiton are also unchanged, being quoted respectively £162 and £160. The notable feature of the market has been the continued large deliveries, which amount to 2,974 tons from stock here during the first four months of the year, against 1,943 tons for the same time 1871. Banca in Holland is held for f.97, and Billiton floating at f.95.

ARTICLES OF EXPORT.

MANCHESTER GOODS.

Since the 26th ult. the Market has assumed a somewhat easier tone, and producers have had some reason to complain of the difficulty of obtaining orders, but the small concessions they have been prepared to grant have not been sufficient to induce business except on a limited scale.

WOOLLEN AND WORSTED GOODS.

There is no change in the Leeds market for Woollens and Worsteds. The current quotations are:—

Spanish Stripes, 62 in., 19 yards, Elephant Chop, 3s. 7½d. per yard for scarlet; Long Ells, 30/31 in., 24 yards, Lion Chop, 34s. 6d. per piece for scarlet; Camlets, best SS, 30/31 in., 58 yards, Elephant Chop, 85s. 0d. per piece for scarlet; Lastings, 31 in., 30/31 yards, Lion Chop, 75s. per piece for gentian; Brocades, 31 in. 29 yards, Half Moon Chop, 27s. 3d. per piece for scarlet.

By the aid of this Index the statesman, jurist, and merchant can readily obtain every information he may desire with regard to the commercial relations between Great Britain and Foreign Powers.

A work of importance to all classes of the financial and commercial public.—Times.

It epitomises the entire collection, and must prove an important contribution to the professional library of the lawyer, while it will probably find a place on, and never be absent from, the table of every merchant. —Morning Post.

The value of the collection for the commercial man, or for the jurist, is unquestionable. A work of high interest and importance for the future historian.—Daily Telegraph.

Here any man may have international law, as far as it is laid down by treaties, at his fingers' ends; political engagements being alone excluded.—Graphic.

It will be found most useful to members of the mercantile community. It may also, with advantage, find a place on the shelves of those members of the legal profession whose course of business . . . is likely to be affected by the documents contained in the collection.—Law Journal.

It is a synopsis or digest of the whole work.—Justice of the Peace.

It ought to be in the library of every English Consul abroad; no man-of-war should be allowed to put to sea without a copy; whilst at home it must be equally acceptable to the merchant and the politician.—Spectator.

To the mercantile community it must be simply invaluable.—London and China Telegraph.

It will prove of great value to lawyers, merchants, politicians, and others.—Globe.

A laborious work, of inestimable value to the statesman, and to lawyers whose practice lies in the direction of international law.—Law Times.

INVENTED BY

EUG. DEVERS, QUIMICO.

PATENTED S.G.D.G.

PREPARATIONS for the Toilet, and particularly Soaps; Powders, &c. for the Teeth; Toilet Washes, and Vinegars, have of late assumed an importance in proportion to the demand for them. Foremost amongst these is GLYCERINE, a remarkable unctuous substance, which softens the skin without greasing it; its valuable qualities were quickly recognised by the most eminent physicians. Experimented on by MM. Dumarquay and Sutom (See "Reports and Memoirs of the Biological Society, 1836," &c.).

GLYCERINE CREAM for the skin.
GLYCERINE TOILET WATER for baths and ablutions.
GLYCERINE ELIXIR for the mouth.
GLYCERINE POMADE against scurf.
GLYCERINE SOAP for chaps and chilblains.
GLYCERINE ANTIPELLICULAIRE to prevent the hair falling off.
DULCIFIED GLYCERINE CREAM SOAP for the beard.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

A fair trial is all that is asked to prove the sterling and superior merits of this Ointment, and to demonstrate how much more successful it is in curing old ulcers, inveterate sores, and disfiguring eruptions than any other application. When properly used it lessens the inflammation which invades parts adjacent to the wound or ulcer, whereby much local pain is immediately assuaged, and in the course of an hour or two the most satisfactory results invariably follow, which will steadily advance to a thorough and permanent cure. This treatment, so much at variance with the old fashioned views of cauterising, blistering, leeching, &c., has by common assent been pronounced to be the greatest blessing to persons thus afflicted.

TANJONG PAGAR DOCK COMPANY

VICTORIA DOCK, SINGAPORE.

This Company's Granite DRY DOCK, 450 feet in length, 65 feet width of entrance, and 20 feet depth of water on the sill, was OPENED on the 17th October, 1868. In the high tides of the North-East Monsoon there is a foot to eighteen inches more water.

In connection with the Dock is a complete range of workshops, fitted with steam machinery, driving all descriptions of engineers' tools required in the construction and repair of vessels and machinery, and a foundry for iron and brass castings.

The Company's extensive Wharves and Godowns for receiving and storing cargo immediately adjoin the Dock.

Having an efficient European staff in each department, the Company is in a position to guarantee the best workmanship, executed with every possible despatch, as well as low rates of charges.

These advantages, and the great facilities which the proximity of the Dock to the town offers for the transport of materials, &c., enable this Company to adopt a very low scale of charges for ships' work of all classes.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN.

YOKOHAMA.

Dates by the present mail reach to the 26th March, the same as received via San Francisco on the 8th inst. The outward P. and O. mail of Jan. 26 arrived out on the 16th, and the following French mail of Feb. 2 on the 23rd March.

On the evening of the 22nd, about eight o'clock, a fire broke out in the rear of the houses on the Homura-road, known as No. 166. The flames rapidly spread to the front, and by the time the engines got into play the houses were past being saved. However, by the exertions of the steam fire engine brigade, the fire was kept under in the rear, while the American engine, which threw a very powerful jet of water, aided by the Yokohama fire brigade and the Japanese engines eventually extinguished the fire.

The state of the currency is perplexing; it has fluctuated much during the past few months, and the silver yen, which but a short time back stood at six and seven per cent. premium, has now fallen to three and three-quarters discount. It is difficult to ascertain the causes of this great fluctuation, and impossible to give anything like a satisfactory analysis of them. But there is always one unfailing resource in Japan, when matters are contrary; it is expressed in the formula, "When in doubt blame the Government."

The following refers to the show of flowers, birds, dogs, and other animals promoted by Mr. W. H. Smith, of the Club:—

We may now say with confidence that the show will in every way be a thorough success; the entries have been even more numerous than the most sanguine of its supporters could have supposed, and as the list has remained open until to-day, instead of closing at the time originally named, we may look for an extensive catalogue. It would be perhaps somewhat premuture to enter at any great length into the various objects which will be exhibited; we should rather defer our remarks until the publication of the catalogue, but we may say a few words on the matter. The first class which the visitor will see on entering the grounds will be the dogs, which are to be arranged, each in a separate pen, along the terrace, convenient places being assigned to the monkeys and cats near the same spot. There are, we understand, about eighty dogs entered, and we look forward with some curiosity to the judges' awards in this class. On the Archery ground will be placed the birds in cages, and the mice and rats will also find a location there. The pheasants and other game birds will be placed on an open plot near one of the butts, and a path parallel with the shooting ground will be assigned to the geese, ducks and other fowl. On the Croquet lawn will be placed the plants, and as these number some three hundred we may expect to find this a most interesting class. At this season of the year there cannot be many flowers, but cherry trees and similar flowering trees will form the staple, most of the exhibitors being Japanese, foreigners contributing the dogs and animals. On the carriage stand are to be the cattle, the carriages, and the numerous list of articles which come under the denomination affixed to class twenty. In the band-stand will be a collection of stuffed birds, and some Chinese curios, which require to be under shelter.

The following items are from the Japan Herald:—

It is stated that the Grand Duke Alexis in the course of the summer will pay a visit to the East, and that Japan is included in the programme of his movements, on his way to Saghalien, the Amoor, and other Russian territory in this part of the world.

The Japanese Governmen thave issued a circular to the foreign representatives, informing them of the holding of an Exhibition at Kioto, and requesting them to make known to their respective countrymen that that city will be thrown open to foreign visitors for fifty days, and to notify residents that foreign articles will be received by the Kioto Society for exhibition there. This act of liberality, by abandoning a useless restriction on the part of the Government, has created a very favourable impression. The Exhibition will be opened on the 17th April. The Government has published a list of native articles to be shown, numbering over sixty, and consisting of ancient and modern art, useful and ornamental manufactures, agricultural, and mineral products, and a variety of other objects.

The Government intend despatching shortly two men-of war to Europe, which are now being got in readiness for that purpose. They are to be absent for one year, on a tour of observation and exercise. The first port at which they touch is Hong Kong, whence they will proceed via Suez Canal, to Europe, visiting the principal ports there, and returning home via New York and San Francisco.

Three high officials—among whom is Mr. Motono, the second superintendent of the Custom-house here—have been sent by the Government of Shanghai, in order to study the mode in which Custom-house business is conducted there, with a view to introduce the system here. They are to be absent for about a month. Great complaints have been recently made by foreigners respecting the obstructive manner in which some of the Custom-house officials carry on their duties.

An assault of a very aggravated character was committed upon Messrs. Swabey and Cousens by the Japanese police, two gentlemen engaged in commercial pursuits in Yokohama, who went out shooting up the Yedo river.

HIOGO.

We have advices from this port to the 21st March; the Pacific mail from New York Jan. 7 was received on the 7th, and the P. and O. mail from London Jan. 26 on the 18th March.

We (Hiogo News) mentioned at the beginning of the year how the Japanese were improving the native town of Kobe, and since then they are certainly not relaxing in their efforts to encourage the shipping trade of the port. We now hear that the Government has determined to utilise a patent parallel slip which has been lying for some time past unused at Yedo, by erecting it on the beach here between the ground set apart for the railway and the Vulcan Ironworks. This will be no small affair, as it will occupy all the site indicated, and will be capable of taking up ships of twelve feet draught of water, if not more. This will make it available for repairing, should the occasion arise, of even the steamers of the P.M.S.S. Company, and as the advantages connected with it will be opened to all classes of vessels, it is easy to see what additional importance it will give the port in the eyes of shipowners and commanders.

It is only a few days ago we recorded the launch of a new steamer, the Berlin, for Messrs. Lehmann, Hartman and Co., and now we have to note the launch of another steamer from the yard of the Vulcan Iron-Works. We do not know that the Wunquamaru will be any particular benefit to the public generally, for although she is expected to be the fastest boat in our local marine, we understand that she will be devoted to carrying treasure between Hiogo and Osaka. Her dimensions are as follows:—Length, 120 feet; draft, 2 feet 6 inches; breadth, 18 feet; depth, 6 feet; horse-power, 80. The boat herself was built by Lewis and Stockwell, of London; and the engines, which are oscillating, and of first-class construction, were made by Watt and Co., of London and Birmingham. Of course her light draught would tell against her in a sea-way, but she has been built to pass over the bar at Temposan at all states of the tide, and we have no doubt that she will be found perfectly well suited to the work that is required of her. The christening ceremony was performed by Mrs. Marshall, and all the arrangements in connection with the launch were thoroughly successful.

NAGASAKI.

NAGASAKI, MARCH 16 (VIA SAN FRANCISCO).

Several American steamers from Hiogo, en route for Hong Kong, have called in here for coal. There is nothing remarkable about their movements beyond that they have on board copper, which it is supposed is intended to finally reach London. I hear that some copper has been sent direct to London from Hiogo—I think by the Argonaut.

How the mails are arriving I am unable to tell you, as we seem to be receiving them anyhow. This evening the French and English mails of the 19th and 26th January arrived, but the London and China Express of 5th and 12th idem have not yet turned up. Probably the latter may be with the mail via San Francisco, detained by the snow, and not likely to reach here for some eighteen days yet. This is the second month in succession the mail by this route has been detained, which makes it unreliable in winter time.

The British barque Serpent was the first vessel to leave this port for Tientsin; she will be followed by the British steamer Miaka to-morrow.

CHINA.

—o—

SHANGHAI.

Our advices from this port extend to the 29th March; the French mail from London, Feb. 2, arrived out on the 21st, and the following P. and O. mail of Feb. 9 on the 23rd March. The following summary of the news is from the North China Herald:—

An important document concerning the position of foreigners in China has appeared in the Peking Gazette. Prince Kung and his colleagues memorialise the Emperor regarding the tenor of treaties, and the orders that have been issued for their observance. Still the British Minister has complained that foreigners are treated disrespectfully, that merchants are overtaxed, and that justice is not dealt out by the authorities, in case of monetary defalcation by Chinese traders. This is not as it should be; and the Prince requests the Emperor to issue more stringent orders for a faithful observance of the treaties, and that due respect be shown to the officials and people of foreign States. The native officials should be ordered to acquaint themselves with the treaties, to issue notifications requiring their observance, and to settle monetary questions promptly and properly. The Emperor has assented to these proposals. We have often pointed out the necessity for an Edict of this kind, and we believe Mr. Wade has often urged the matter upon the Tsung-li Yamen. Even the present document is not so explicit as it might be; but it is still an important step in the right direction, and we congratulate Mr. Wade on the success which has attended his new representations.

We have received a copy of Part I. of the "Returns of Trade at the Treaty Ports in China for the Year 1871"—published by the I.M. Customs. The object of this publication is to give a concise abstract of Trade and Customs Revenue Statistics since 1864; and it is exceedingly well compiled for the purpose. The forms of the tables in the present volume are altered in some respects from those previously used. A small table shows the total export of tea to foreign countries for each year since 1865. The year just past figures for 151,000 piculs over 1869, which is the next highest. An interesting return is given of the number of steamers and sailing vessels which have entered and cleared from the several ports during the past four years. It is almost needless to say that the number of the former has increased steadily. There is a table showing the total annual Customs Revenue at each port since 1864. The balance of elasticity is considerably in favour of the North over the four Southern ports. Shanghai, last year, contributed Tls. 2,730,955, and yet cannot afford a dredging machine to facilitate the entrance of the ships which bring this great revenue. The gross value of the trade of Shanghai during 1871 was Tls. 123,526,396—ten million taels in excess of 1868, which is the next highest year.

A meeting of the Asiatic Society has been held, C. W. Goodwin, Esq., president, in the chair. The president read a paper by R. Swinhoe, Esq., Her Majesty's Consul at Ningpo, on the Aborigines of Hainan; and Dr. Macgowan one on the Mutton Wine of the Mongols, and Analogous Preparations of the Chinese. Some comments passed on the papers, and most of those present ventured on a slight sip of the curious preparation, which Dr. Macgowan had procured from Mongolia to illustration his paper.

The election of municipal councillors for the ensuing year has taken place; the nominations having been exactly equal to the number required no poll was held. The newly elected council are :—Messrs. O. C. Behn, W. H. Condit, M. Coryell, John Dent, R. I. Fearon, S. M. Moses, H. Murray, A. Paterson, and A. Zimmern.

The annual meeting of members of the Yacht Club was held on the 22nd March. The treasurer's statement of accounts, showing a balance of $370.98, was read and passed. The first race of the spring season, for a cup value $100, was fixed for the 30th March, the course being from off the Recreation Ground twice round Halfway Point. Messrs. A. J. Little and S. A. Viguier were re-elected Commodore and Vice-Commodore respectively, Mr. J. Wilson treasurer, and Mr. J. B. Dudfield secretary; Capt. Barton and Messrs. Condit, Croal, Farnham, and Hill being appointed the committee. A resolution was passed to allow the boat winning one race for the Challenge Cup to fly a distinguishing pennant, besides receiving, as hitherto, a $50 cup, till she loses the positon to another boat.

A meeting of the Cricket Club was held on the same day. The accounts show a balance of Tls. 74, after paying arrears of rent (Tls. 1,350) up to the end of June last, and sending home Tls. 181 for new gear. Messrs. Groom (President), Anderson, Case, Chambers, Bird, Fitzgerald, and Souper were elected a committee for the current year. A meeting of the members of the Gymnasium was held on the 27th. The accounts show a balance n hand of $933. Messrs Lindsley, Pryer, Cordier, Grose, and iSchultz (Secretary) were elected a committee for 1872.

A formal meeting of members of the Shanghai Club has been held, to confirm the resolution which had been adopted at the previous meeting, in regard to the keeping of rooms for members or visitors who might wish to occupy them for short terms.

At a meeting of the Gas Company the accounts showed a net profit for 1871 of Tls 25,024. Tls. 18,000 have been paid to shareholders as a dividend at the rate of 12 per cent., and it was agreed to carry the balance to reserve. Messrs. J. T. Brand, Clarke, Forbes, Goodwin, and Miller were elected directors for 1872.

A Newchwang correspondent writes that, on the 2nd March, loaded carts were still crossing the river on the ice, which looked solid and not likely to break up quickly. 8/4 Shirtings have been sold at Tls. 2. Stocks of produce in town were very large, prices were a little lower, and buyers were holding off in anticipation of a further decline.

A meeting of land renters has been held at Chinkeang. The accounts showed a balance in hand, at the end of February, of Tls. 217.60. It was resolved to collect a tax of 5 per cent. from owners of house property in the Concession, and a tax of $10 per lot on land, during 1872. Messrs. Cinny, Salter, and Detring were elected Municipal Councillors for the present year. The question of erecting a wharf in front of the Concession was discussed, and resolutions in favour of the scheme passed. It seems to be thought likely that the Chinese authorities may consent to make the wharf, in consideration of taking wharfage dues on all imports and exports to the extent of one tenth of 1 per cent. ad valorem. These dues to be collected, and the wharf to be managed by the Customs. Negotiations are to be opened with the Chinese authorities, by the Municipal Council, with this view.

The death of the famous Tseng Kwo-fan is announced.

HONG KONG.

The dates extend to the 4th April. The Outward mail of 16th Feb. arrived on 28th March, and that of 23rd on 1st April.

The Legislative Council met on the 25th March, when various measures for dealing with the criminal population were brought forward and passed the first reading. They provide for the oral examination of prisoners brought before the magistrates, for the punishment of offenders who return to the colony after receiving a conditional pardon, and for dealing with habitual criminals. So far as can be judged on a first reading, the various ordinances appear likely to be of much benefit to the colony, as there is no question that having to deal with a population like that of Hong Kong under all the safeguards provided by English law had much to do with the difficulties connected with the protection of life and property. The ordinance for the reconstitution of the Supreme Court, whereby the procedure will be facilitated, the Court of Summary Jurisdiction abolished, and a Judge and Assistant Judge appointed to the Supreme Court, was among the ordinances read. Its effect will be to assimilate the Court in Hong Kong to that which exists in Shanghai under the Order in Council, and which has been found to work very satisfactorily.

H.E. the Governor has refused to grant the petition for the release of Abdool Moosah and Noor Mahomed, the defendants in the conspiracy case. The despatch from the Acting Colonial Secretary on the subject states that the matter was fully investigated, and is not of such a nature as the Executive would be justified in interfering with.

The barque Glint, which was sunk in the harbour in consequence of her collision with the P. and O. steamer Geelong, has, after much trouble, been successfully raised by the Chinese contractor.

The Hon. Mr. Ball, Acting Chief Justice, sentenced Mr. Welsh, a merchant, to fourteen days' confinement, without option of fine, for contempt of Court in publishing a letter commenting upon the Judge's conduct in certain proceedings. The lessee of the Daily Press, Mr. Bell, in which paper the letter was published, was called upon to retract and apologise for the remarks, and was given until the 6th inst. to do so.

The China Mail says :—Since our last report on the Macao coolie market the following ships have sailed :—For Callao, the Spanish barque Rozalia with 450, the Peruvian ship America with 690 emigrants. For Havana, the French barque Bengali with 287, and the Spanish barque Altagracia with 360. There is at present only one ship loading for Havana, viz., the Spanish barque Roza del Turia, which will probably take some 300 coolies. Business is pretty brisk for this time of the year, and if the new Governor encourages the emigration, two or three steamers will be chartered to convey coolies during the summer months. It is whispered in some quarters that the new Governor has come with some instructions, the exact nature of which is not yet made known ; but it is feared that they emanate from the pressure brought to bear by the Court of St. James's upon the Lisbon Government. O que for soara.

We are informed that the Algerine, late one of H.M. gunboats, has been sold to Mr. John Joel for $6,000.

It being in contemplation to issue a Chinese newspaper, to be printed at the China Mail office, the projectors desire to secure the support of the foreign public in their enterprise. They have therefore issued the following prospectus :—The proposed paper will be issued every other day, with an extra or supplement on intervening days.

The widely-expressed regret at the discontinuance of Notes and Queries on China and Japan has induced the publisher of this journal to contemplate the issue of a publication similar in object and style, but slightly modified in certain details, provided that a sufficient subscription list can be guaranteed before the publication of the first number. The publication will be edited by Mr. N. B. Dennys, the projector and original editor of Notes and Queries on China and Japan, who ceased to conduct it owing to his absence from China, but has recently returned. It is proposed to issue The China Review, or Notes and Queries on the Far East at intervals of two months, each number to contain about sixty octavo pages, occasionally illustrated with lithographs, photographs, woodcuts, &c., should the papers published demand, and the circulation justify, such extra matter.

Our readers will remember that at the beginning of the Shan-sin-fan excitement a placard was widely spread in Tung-kun district calling upon the people to show themselves worthy of their reputation for courage, &c., and appointing the 30th of July last as the day fixed for the destruction of the Protestant and Roman Catholic chapels in that district. The memorable 30th of July came, thousands of people attacked the chapels, which were razed to the ground after being robbed of everything. The Roman Catholics made no complaint, but the German Consul, we understand, applied to the Chinese authorities on behalf of the Protestant missionaries, and negotiations are still going on. No indemnity has been paid as yet, and the Chapel and Dispensary, which had done so much good to the Chinese, are in ruins up to this day.

We learn from our Macao correspondent that H.E. the Russian Admiral Fedorooski visited the Holy City, and during his stay inspected the various places of interest, notably the barracoons. On visiting the one erected by the late Governor, H.E. Admiral de Souza, the Admiral expressed his admiration of the organisation adopted by the Government in this establishment, on the gate of which is to be seen in large Chinese characters the exact conditions under which the emigrants are to engage themselves; their stay in this barracoon is for a period of three days, during which time they are visited by properly appointed inspectors, whose business it is to inquire among them if any had been brought there against their wish, and to let them perfectly understand that they are free to return to their homes if they wish. It is to be hoped the present Governor will strictly maintain the same system inaugurated by his zealous predecessor, who will shortly leave for Europe, carrying with him the kindest and best wishes of those who have the welfare of our city at heart; and we fully believe, from what we already know, he will doubtless do so. The Admiral, on leaving, expressed his thanks most warmly for the courtesy shown him by the Governor and the leading gentry.

The last inward mail brought to Hong Kong the Viscount de San Januario, who, having been relieved from the Governorship of Portuguese India, has been appointed Governor of Macao, in place of Governor Souza, who is to proceed home. Governor Souza will come over to Hong Kong, and will proceed to Lisbon by the Messageries steamer leaving this on the 10th. His Excellency will be accompanied by his aide-de-camp, and private secretary. The sensible portion of the Macaese much regret his Excellency's departure, his three years' tenure of office having been very peaceful, upright, and constitutional. The Jornal do Commercio and other leading papers of the Portuguese capital, in commenting on the late display of the Chinese Customs cruisers in Macao harbour, praise Senhor Souza's tactics and diplomatic abilities.

The Viscount de S. Januario will shortly proceed to Peking to ratify the Treaty.

We are glad to notice that the Chinese Insurance Company appears to occupy so thoroughly satisfactory a position as to permit not merely the division of $15,000 pro rata amongst contributing shareholders but a dividend of 12 per cent. amongst the shareholders generally.

We regret to record that Mr. C. D. Williams, one of the oldest American residents in Hong Kong, dating, we believe, from 1845, committed suicide in the hotel. He was about to proceed to open H ainan as American Consul.

The China Mail has the following important item on the vexed udience question :—

We hear on unimpeachable authority that the obstacle hitherto re garded as insuperable, and inevitably urged whenever the vexed question of Imperial audience to Western Ambassadors at the Court of Peking has been mooted, is now likely to be soon set finally at rest. H. I. M. Tung-che is to celebrate his nuptials and take the reins of Government into his own hands in the early part of the approaching September. The ladies selected to fill the places of first, second, and third ladies in the Imperial harem are :—first, the daughter of a literary graduate named Chung-ee; second, the daughter of the Prefect of Leen-chow, in this province ; and third, the daughter of another graduate named Tsay-sang-ah. The daughter of the Tartar General at Canton would have been the Empress-elect, but that her age exceeded that of his Majesty, and she was thus rendered ineligible.

At the meeting of the Union Insurance Society the following report was adopted :—

The Directors have the pleasure to present to the shareholders the second half-yearly report on the business of the Society to the 31st December last, showing at that date a balance at credit of $39,138,929, in addition to the sum of $250,000 representing the paid up capital of the society.

From the annexed balance sheet it will be seen that the net premia collected from the 1st July to the 31st December, 1871, amount to $30,370,296. The claims for the six months it will be seen amount to $7,996,372, which include total losses to the extent of $55,992 per Homer, Nancy, Azoff, Meta, Caliph, and Agnes Banfield. The net premia subsequently earned, viz., from the 1st January to the 15th inst., aggregate about $85,000.

The directors regret to say that the further losses reported during the past six months are estimated at $147,000, which includes total losses to the extent of $112,000 per Yangtsze, Fuhle, Suwonada, Olaguivel, Louise Struve, and Sperwer.

Of the directors,—Mr. James Whittall has been re-elected by the board to fill the vacancy which was caused by that gentleman's departure from the colony in April, 1871.

In accordance with the provisions of clause 103 of the Articles of Association, Messrs. T. Pyke and S. D. Sassoon retire from office, but being eligible for re-election offer themselves accordingly.

The auditors, Messrs. J. Hart and C. Morland Kerr, retire, but are eligible for re-election and offer themselves accordingly.

T. PYKE, Chairman.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

—o—

SINGAPORE.

Dates by this opportunity extend to the 11th April. The outward mail of the 8th March (P. and O.) arrived on 9th April. The following summary is from the Straits Times :—

Sir Harry Ord, Governor of the colony, returned to this settlement in the steamer Pluto on the 30th March, and landed privately at Tanjong Pagar Wharf, proceeding at once to the Council Chamber, where he was received with a guard of honour, and entered under the usual salute from Fort Canning. The Government officials and some of the residents paid their respects to him, after which he went to Government House. The day being observed as a general holiday, the attendance of residents was probably more limited than would otherwise have been the case, many being absent from town. His Excellency's return has not been marked by any important changes in the position of matters here, and reticence is the order of the day to all officials as to any changes contemplated, and especially as to the two questions of greatest interest to the public—the waterworks and the railway.

Lieut. Satterthwaite has been gazetted as Assistant Colonial Engineer and Surveyor General, and Capt. Innes and two corporals of the Royal Engineers also arrived by the mail ; the latter are intended, we hear, for the Survey Department, and Capt. Innes comes out as Deputy Colonial Engineer. Mr. Campbell, the new Acting Lieut. Governor of Penang, arrived in the same mail steamer with H. E. the Governor, and has assumed charge of his duties, relieving the Honourable A. N. Birch, who, before leaving Penang, was presented with an address by the community of that settlement expressing their regret at his departure, he having been very popular there. No intimation has yet been given of the meeting of the Legislative Council, and nothing is known as to when this will take place ; there are no important measures to be introduced that we are aware of, and therefore little interest is felt as to the opening of the session.

In a few days more the changes in the military force for this colony will have been completed, and for the future the measure of protection we have enjoyed from the presence of these forces will be materially lessened. The Madras regiment now here is to be withdrawn, and has received orders to embark for India in H.M.S. Orontes. expected here from Hong Kong about the 15th inst. ; and as the Indian Government requires its troops for home service, the departing regiment is the last we shall have stationed here. We cannot but regret their departure as a loss to the colony ; the men have been uniformly well behaved, and have, when occasion required, been of valuable assistance to the police in checking riot ; and the departure of the officers will be a permanent social loss to the European residents.

The second criminal session of the year opened at the Court-house on the 8th, before his honour the Chief Justice. The calendar is a small one, but the Chinese will-forgery case, which promises to be a cause celebre, will probably occupy several days. There were three cases of murder, two of which have been tried, and sentence of death passed on the prisoners, and the third has been postponed, on the motion of the Attorney-General, till next session, to enable the Crown to obtain the evidence of certain material witnesses. The other business of the session will probably be disposed of in a few days. The lightness of the calendar is a source of congratulation, indicating, as it does, that there is no increase of crime among our Asiatic population, notwithstanding the heavy list of cases for trial that awaited the Chief Justice on his first arrival, and proves that these were due only to the riots that prevailed here in October last.

The Chinese population remain pretty quiet and orderly, though during the past two or three weeks there has been a strong ill-feeling between two secret societies here—the Hai Sans and Ghee Hoks—the former endeavouring by petty annoyances to provoke the latter to some overt act of hostility, which would afford them a pretext for creating a riot. The police have been vigilant, and have so far succeeded in preventing any serious outbreak, and will, it is hoped, be able to maintain order.

The arrivals via the Suez Canal have been the Zadkia on the 5th from Glasgow, and Ulysses on the 8th from Liverpool. The only departure has been the Ajax for London.

Landed property in Penang has increased this year to 50 per cent. in value. The premises of the Telegraph Department was sold some eighteen months ago for $6,000, and was resold this week to a Chinese merchant for $9,000. The premises of the Ice Manufactory was bought by Mr. Kaw Sim Kong about four years ago for $2,500, and realised this week $8,800 ; the new owner, we understand, is a wealthy Chinese carpenter belonging to Canton. Houses in Pitt-street and Prangin-road have also increased to a like percentage, which is attributable to the late great improvements made by the municipality in that locality, as well as to the safety they find on having the police-stations in close proximity to them.

IMPORTS.

YOKOHAMA.—The market had been tolerably active, the chief demand having been for Cotton Yarn, the quotations for which had advanced. Grey Shirtings had met with only moderate inquiry, and at the close prices were weaker. A few sales of 7 lbs. T-Cloths and Drills had taken place at a slight advance in value for the former. Metals were unchanged in price. Quotations :—G.E. Grey Shirtings, 7 lbs., $2.32½ to 2.40 per piece ; do., 8¼ to 8½ lbs., $2.50 to 2.55 ; do., 9 to 9¾ lbs., $2.85 to 2.90 ; G.E. White Shirtings, $2.60½ to 2.80 ; T-Cloths, 6 to 7 lbs., $1.90 to 2.25 ; Cotton Yarn, No. 16 to 24, $40 to 41 per picul ; do., No. 28 to 32, $44.50 to 46 ; do., No. 38 to 42, $41 to 42 ; Camlets, S and BBB (Black), $11 to 11.50 ; do., SSS (Scarlet), $19 to $19 50 ; Cloth, medium and broad, $1.10 to 1.35 per yard ; Lastings, $13 to 13.50 per piece ; Long Ells, assorted, $6 to 6.50 ; Orleans and Lustres, plain, $4.75 to 6 ; do., figured, $5.50 to 7.

HIOGO-OSAKA.—The business of the month had been of a moderate character, but with very little variation in prices. There was a moderate demand for Yarn and Grey Shirtings, but the market for the latter goods closed rather weaker. Dutch Drills were in less enquiry. Black Velvets were again dearer. Camlets : A few sales reported. Black Lustres slightly lower, with but little demand. Mousselines de Laine declined in value. Blankets nominal. Nail Rod Iron : In the absence of stocks, business limited, and prices rising.

HANKOW.—The market during the early part of the fortnight was much depressed, but under the influence of more favourable advices from Shanghai a general improvement in Grey Cottons had occurred. Grey Shirtings :—7lbs. and 8¼lbs. firm at Tls. 1.75 to 1.77 for the former, and Tls. 1.92 to 2.01 for the latter. 9¾lbs. to 10lbs. steady at Tls. 2.60 to 2.95 per piece. White Shirtings : Tone of the market more healthy, and fair sales of 56 to 64, reed transpired. T.Cloths : Considerable sales of 7lbs. ; at the close prices favoured sellers. Drills : A few transactions in English at Tls. 3.08 to 3.10 per piece. Fancy Cottons : Little business done in any descriptions. Woollens and Worsteds : Camlets in better request, at an advance. Spanish Stripes and Long Ells unchanged. Metals : Lead ; sales limited and quotations showed a decline of 5 candareens per picul. Quicksilver : Weak at Tls. 83.00 per picul.

SHANGHAI.—On the 13th March the Piece Goods market began to show signs of renewed activity. The enquiry, then slowly developing itself, soon became very excited, and an extensive trade in Shirtings, Grey and White, and in T Cloths, at improved rates, was the result. The purchases for the most part were for early clearance and the anticipated heavy orders from the inland provinces, where supplies are supposed to be light and wanted. Attention was exclusively devoted to the above staples for a time, but, as the fortnight advanced, the demand became more comprehensive, and a business had been done which had been seldom equalled at this port. A slight improvement, consequent on this reaction, is reported from Hankow ; and Tientsin news is also rather more favourable. Grey Shirtings: Reported settlements 7 lbs. 145,000 to 150,000 pieces, 8¼ lbs. 220,000 to 230,000, 9¾ to 10 lbs. 10,000. Closing characteristics: Prices steady, and good common chops of 7lbs. and 8¼ lbs. goods wanted at Tls 1.75 to 1.76, and 1.92 to 1.94 per piece respectively. The highest point reached had been Tls. 2 per piece for Dewhurst's Eagle 8¼ lbs., but only a few had been quitted at that figure, and a foreigner was the reported buyer of the chief portion. Amongst natives, resales of this chop and weight had taken place at Tls. 1.97½ to 1.98½ per piece. White Shirtings: Settlements estimated at between 40,000 to 45,000 pieces, at prices ranging between Tls. 2.05 to 2.20 per piece for 64 to 66-reed, on which counts the demand had chiefly run. Small lots of extra fine sold, to arrive, at Tls. 3.55 to 3.75 T-Cloths: An enquiry sprang up, and fair transactions in almost every weight and grade had been of daily occurence. Quotations: Tls. 1.27 per piece for Dewhurst's T 6lbs. Tls. 1.47 to 1.48 MT 6 lbs. Tls. 1.47 T 7 lbs. Tls. 1.63 to 1.64 MT 7lbs. Tls. 1.88 to 1.90 8 lbs. Drills: Prices had strengthened, and were decidedly firmer; were it not for the fear generally entertained that the supplies of both afloat are excessive, a marked rise would take place. English and Dutch still absorbed the dealers' attention, and the sales consisted entirely of these makes. Jeans: English Goods taken at slightly improved rates. American and Dutch Jeans in request, but out of stock. Sheetings: Sales at rather easier rates; best settled at Tls. 4. Fancy Cottons: In very limited demand, and all classes except Chintzes declined in value. Woollens: Business on a small scale, but value of all kinds fairly maintained, and in one or two instances an advance had been established. Best Crape Lustres, Tls. 4 50; ordinary wanted at Tls. 3.80 to 3.90. Camlets found buyers at about last rates for assortments, and at an advance of 2 to 3 mace per piece for suitable single colours. Long Ells Scarlet C.P.H., Tls. 6.35, Assorted, Tls. 5.52½. Crape Lastings, Tls. 7.50. Figured Lustres, Tls. 4.70 per piece. Metals—Iron: 14,000 bundles Nailrod taken at Tls. 3 to 3.15 per picul. Lead: Prices favoured buyers, who offered only Tls. 4.75 for L.B.

HONG KONG.—The market generally remained unchanged, although values had a downward tendency, owing to the slackness of demand. Stocks were beginning to accumulate, and unless an active inquiry from the consuming districts should set in, prices of many of the staples would probably decline. Cotton Yarn: Although our quotations were unaltered, prices were not strong; demand for 38/32s very small; 38/42s unsaleable at present. Grey Shirtings: 7 lb., few buyers at former rates; stocks limited, but dealers would not operate at any advance; 8.4 lb. in fair supply, chiefly of common chops, and holders had accepted a decline of abont 2 to 3 cents per piece; 10 lb. wanted to small extent at $3.55 to 3.60 for Hand and Branch chop. White Shirtings: Neglected. White Irishes not in stock, and inquired for "to arrive" at $4.20 to 4.30 for No. 1, and $3.70 to 3.80 for No. 2. T-Cloths: Common 6 lbs. still in small stock, but large sales to arrive and late arrivals had led to some quietness, native dealers being fairly supplied; 7 lbs. common difficult to move; 6 lbs. Mexicans could not be quitted; 7 lbs. Mexicans declined; Hand and Branch quoted $2.17½ 8 lbs. Mexicans with drooping tendency. Drills: English makes held by dealers; American not in stock. White, Fancy and Dyed Goods: Brocades and Spots in moderate demand, stocks light; Dyed Damasks declined about 25 cents, and weak at this reduction; Turkey Red Shirtings and Chintzes unchanged; Gentian Twills not in request; Handkerchiefs lower; Velvets, very small stock, and held firmly. Woollens and Worsteds: Medium Cloth neglected, season being over; Spanish Stripes difficult to move, even at a decline; Blankets of good colour and assortment found buyers at former quotations; Scarlet Long Ells in very small request; Assorted offered at a fall of 20 cents; Camlets still in moderate compass; Lastings and Crape Lastings difficult to move; Figured Lustres showed a downward tendency, but Plain were asked for. Metals: Nail Rod Iron held fairly, but dealers refused to pay any advance; Bar, Hoop, and Round all wanted; business small, owing to absence of supplies; Iron Wire improved 25 cents; Steel firmer; Quicksilver better; WB Lead unsaleable, LB quiet at former rates.

MANILA.—The market had been quiet during the fortnight, but stocks were held firmly, and importers showed no disposition towards a concession in prices, in which no alteration had taken place.

BATAVIA.—Messrs. Houghton and Co. report that the speculative demand lately apparent in the market has passed away, and business generally is restricted, owing to the indisposition of dealers to pay the high prices which were demanded by holders. Stocks were however light, and a fair business might be expected shortly to commence.

SINGAPORE.—Messrs. Boustead and Co. report:—The market for Piece Goods had been quiet during the past fortnight, but prices keep steady, and holders firm, advices from Manchester being favourable. The quarterly list shows a moderate stock of goods in first hands. 39-inch Grey Shirtings 8¼ lbs. in fair inquiry at $2.62½ to 2.65; 7 lbs. taken to some extent at $2.22½ to 2.25; 6 lbs. in small stock and good inquiry, at $1.97½ to 2.02½. 45-inch 8 lbs. out of stock. No inquiry for 9 lbs., which are nominal at $3 to 3.10. 32-inch Grey T-Cloths 7 lbs. fair inquiry at $1.92½ to 1.97½, 6 lbs. saleable at $1.70 to 1.75. In lighter weights little done. 36-inch Grey Supers: No. 1 in good demand at $2.05 to 2.07½; nothing done in Nos. 2 and 3. 32-inch Grey Madapollams: Stocks low and fair inquiry for 2½ lbs., and 2¾ lbs. at $19 to 19½. 36-inch White Shirtings: Fine qualities in good request, and considerable sales reported. Medium qualities of favourite make asked for, but low counts neglected. 45-inch: Stocks exhausted and much wanted. Grey Yarn in speculative inquiry, and firmer. 18-24's at $102½ to 107½; 40's at $130 to 131, with a few sales at $132½; 30's dull at $110. Turkey Red best quality at $142½ to 145 for 12 lbs., and $130 to 135 for 10 lbs. Dark Green at $84 to 87. No demand for Imperial Red. Woollens: 12 lbs. Scarlet Long Ells wanted at $7.75 to 8. Inquiry for Lastings fallen off and nothing done. Figured Lustres out of stock, and frequent inquiries made for them. Metals: Iron in good demand, and, owing to firmness of holders, prices show a further advance. Govan Flat Bar sold at $3.45. Nailrods at $3.40 to 3.50, holders ask $4. Yellow Metal in limited request at $24¾ to 25. Pig Lead: Small lots of L B placed at $6. Sheet, in no demand. Steel: Sales of tubs at $4.05 and cases at $4.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

YOKOHAMA.—The market had been exceedingly quiet, in fact it may be reported almost as closed for the season, as beyond a few small shipments to be made per Pacific Mail steamers there would be no further export. Settlements since our last report had been about 400 piculs only, making the total since last American mail about 1,400 piculs; these settlements had been chiefly of the medium grade, but there had been some small parcels of finest and choice purchased. Prices were nominal. The John Milton sailed on the 18th March for New York with 606,526 lbs.; there was no other vessel loading.

HIOGO-OSAKA.—Business during the last month had been conducted on a very limited scale, settlements amounting only to 800 piculs of low grades, leaving little or no stock. The Caenarvonshire was under despatch with about 400,000 lbs., the greater part of which was from Nagasaki. After the departure of this vessel business for the season would be closed.

SHANGHAI.—Black: No transactions reported during the interval. Stock remained as before, about 300 chests. Green: The settlements consisted of one small chop country Tea; 276 half-chests at Tls. 27.0.0. The stock of 913 half-chests was wholly made up of local-packed Teas.

FOOCHOW.—Some 2,000 chests Congou settled, leaving a stock of 600 chests.

CANTON.—Small purchases of scented Teas made at full prices. The picking of the new leaf had commenced in the neighbourhood, but it would be premature to pass an opinion at present on the quality; 1,770 boxes of new Taishan Congou from Macao, shipped by the last P. & O. mail steamer.

SILK.

YOKOHAMA.—Settlements, as reported, indicate an increase of activity in the market, but actual purchases formed only a proportion of the business done, the dealers having preferred in many cases to ship their Silk to Europe under advance, rather than accept lower prices on the spot. About 550 piculs constituted the settlements, the greater portion of which had gone forward by the mails of March 12 and 19, and stocks were reduced to less than 600 piculs. Quotations were to some extent nominal, and although a small reduction was apparent on some descriptions, it was almost counterbalanced by the advance in exchange.

HIOGO—OSAKA.—No business has been transacted in this market during the interval.

SHANGHAI.—The fortnight's settlements, including some country contracts had amounted to 800 bales, a portion of which was for America. The only noticeable purchases had been "Donkey" and "Cat and Bee" chops of Tsatlees both at Tls. 550 and 560, which figures had been offered and refused for Dragon chop, while the few remaining bales of Koo-fong-sings were held for Tls. 570, Tls. 565 having been offered, and refused. A few inferior Kahing Taysaams had been bought at very full rates. Szechuen and other outside Silks formed the great bulk of the settlements. Except for Tsatlees it was almost impossible to give quotations, owing to the small and common nature of the stock; it is only owing to the few above-named transactions that approximate quotations for these can be given. Settlements for the fortnight, Chinas 800 bales. Total settlements since 1st June, 1871, 48,700 bales; 1870, 32,200 bales; 1869, 40,600 bales. Comparative unsold stock on this market on the 28th March, 1872, under 300 bales; 1871, 700 bales; 1870, 400 bales.

STRAITS PRODUCE.

SINGAPORE.—Tin: 3,400 piculs sold during the fortnight at $38 up to $38.37½, and the market at the close was firm at the higher quotation, there being very little in stock. Gambier, after having advanced to $4.45 suddenly declined to $3.95, at which about 10,000 piculs were contracted for. The market was firmer at the close, and dealers refused to sell under $4.15. Black Pepper: Firm at $14.50, at which price considerable contracts had been made. White, in brisk demand at $23½ per picul. Pearl Sago: Nominally worth $3.50; no transactions. Sago Flour: Less enquired for, and rates had a downward tendency, Singapore being quoted $2.80, and Sarawak, $2.95. Tapioca: Flake, scarce, and worth $4.87½ per picul. Bontyne Coffee: nominally worth $16.75; none at market. Cow Hides: In less demand, and declined to $18½ per picul. Buffalo Hides: In good demand, and best descriptions worth $11½ per picul. Buffalo Horns: In fair demand at $9½ per picul. India Rubber: A small arrival taken at $56½ per picul. Borneo; last sold at $42½ to $43; none at market. Gutta Percha: Sales of first quality at $80 to $85 per picul.

THE REVOLT IN THE PHILIPPINES.

SIR,—The statement in an article in your issue of the 12th Feb. that the revolt here of 200 native artillerymen showed that Spain was as unsettled in her colonial as in her home government, is incorrect with regard to the Philippines; the revolt was but the work of a few visionaries, and was entirely against the general good sense of the community. Spain has the faults of a nation not yet commercial, and distracted by party; but your article may do much more harm than good, and may be thought to indicate the existence of prejudice to an extent which few foreigners here would own.

Our imports and exports are certainly small, the latter amounting to little over 15,000,000 of dollars in 1871, and a foreigner can make more money in a month in China than he can here in a year; but still we are improving; not many years ago the writer remembers that the production of Ilo Ilo sugar was but some 500 tons a year, and last year it reached over 30,000 tons.

Philip II.'s beautiful but impracticable dream for his pet islands, called after him, was not to be fulfilled in this world; but yet they have been preserved to their natives, and how few Malays can be found in Singapore after our short occupation; want is unknown in them; every village throughout their length and breadth has its church and school-house, many of the former really fine buildings, as are many of the houses far distant from the capital. With the exception of the savage tribes in the interior every native is taught to be a Christian, and vaccination and education are compulsory; indeed, every village furnishes its monthly report of the number of children of the required age present and absent from school, and the reason for absence is given. A few years ago a French Bishop travelled through Luron speaking Latin alone; and but the other day the officers of an Italian frigate which had been long cruising on this side of the Cape exclaimed, on hearing the music of their own masters rendered with such feeling and evidence of cultivation, "Al fine stiamo in paese civilizzato."—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

Manila, 30th March, 1872. AN ENGLISHMAN.

RUSSIA IN THE FAR EAST.

A correspondent, writing from St. Petersburg, says:—The Government has continued the subsidy for ten years longer to the Russian Steam Navigation Company, the ships to be transformable into transports when necessary. This line of communication with the East is not the only one in view. A caravan belonging to a M. Kousnetsoff is gradually working its way to China, and should it succeed it will probably be followed by many others. In addition to this northern route, according to the Russian Meer (World), the construction of a railway from the Caucasus-Rostow line to the Russian frontier on the Arax (Aras), thence to be carried on to meet the projected line from the Persian Gulf to Tauris, has been definitely decided on. Europe will thus be connected with India by the shortest and cheapest route, which will lead to a colossal trade. According to the writer, "the project of certain English companies, and others, to construct a line from India, via Asia Minor and Turkey, can only be motived by the desire to deprive 'us' (Russians) of the transit, which is ours by right, and by the fear of seeing it fall into our hands. The realisation of this project would be a fatal blow to the prosperity of our midland railways." In the St. Petersburg Gazette we are told that the Russian trade in tea for 1871 has increased 27 per cent. In 1870 the revenue from that source amounted to 8 4-10 millions, and in 1871 to more than ten millions. The Canton teas, prohibited a few years ago, now bring in a revenue double that of any other article of trade.

Now, on the supposition that England would be the loser by the formation of direct lines of communication between Russia and the East, and the consequent development of Russian trade, the question arises as to how she is to prevent the evil. By another war? The issue of the Crimean War gives but little encouragement for such a step. That war showed the Russians where their weakness lay, and, by strongly exciting the national feeling, gave rise to national enterprise, which has resulted in the country being covered with railways, and in the consequent working of the large fields of coal she possesses; in the absence of a deficit, owing to the great increase of trade; and in the universal and national desire for a large fleet and a mercantile navy. Should any other war against her be successful for a time, it would be but for a time, as Russia is too powerful to be cooped up with impunity, and would seize the first opportunity of regaining that she had lost. England would have a bitter enemy, bent upon doing her all the mischief she could in her Indian possessions, the northern key to which she would find it difficult to keep. She would have to contend against some Indian difficulty every time she wanted her hands free to act in any European or American complication. The Russian dominions are already so large that the possession of India would be a cause o weakness rather than strength, rendering her still more vulnerable than before, whereas friendly commercial relations with England would make their interests identical, and every disturbance in India would be felt by both alike.

Evidence of the Affinity of the Polynesians and American Indians with the Chinese and other Nations of Asia, derived from the Language, Legends, and History of those Races. By the Rev. W. Lobscheid, Hong Kong, 1872.—The flippant and off-hand manner in which subjects which have occupied the attention of the most learned men of Europe for generations are treated in this pamphlet makes it difficult to know how to notice it. To refute in detail the arguments of its author would be to give to it an importance to which neither by right nor courtesy has it any claim. A writer who can describe Buechner, the learned author of "Kraft and Stoff," as "either an ignoramus or a bold deceiver" is plainly one whose literary productions may be safely consigned to oblivion. The following passage will supply a fair idea of the calibre of the pamphlet before us:—"The Polynesian kolu, akolu, ekolu, three, is the tri of the sanskrit. If we substitute a T for the K, and take into consideration the impossibility of the Chinese and their cognate tribes to pronounce two consonants together, then we are not surprised to hear in the streets of Hong Kong teli, toli, tolu for three, a sound resembling that heard in New Zealand and Tahiti." In this sort of way Mr. Lobscheid considers that he has "given unmistakable proofs of the affinity of the Polynesian language with the Chinese and cognate tongues."

DEATH OF DR. ALEXANDER THOMSON, OF SWATOW.—The Convener of the Foreign Missions Committee of the English Presbyterian Church has received, by telegram from China, the painful intelligence that the medical missionary, Dr. Alexander Thomson, of Swatow, has been lost at sea. He was a passenger on board the steamer Rona when that vessel was run down by the French mail steamer Ava near Amoy.

THE new steamer Cyphrenes, built at Dundee for Messrs. Shaw, Maxton, and Co.'s China line by Messrs. Alexander Stephen and Sons, is one of the finest steamers in the trade. Her cargo capacity is about 2,200 tons; the saloon and cabin accommodation is superb. The power 250. She leaves on the 15th for the Straits and China, under the command of Captain Frain.

WE notice by the Madras papers that Mr. H. J. Tarrant, Barrister-at-Law, of the Middle Temple, erst of the Hong Kong Bar, and who we mentioned some time since as officiating as Recorder of Moulmein, has been appointed to act as Clerk of the Crown and Crown Prosecutor of Madras during the absence on leave of Mr. J. D. Mayne.

LORD ELGIN IN CHINA.

THE publication of the late Lord ELGIN'S private correspondence is one of the most interesting events connected with the history of our relations with China. While newspaper correspondents, and others, interested in the result of his negotiations with the Chinese were applauding his acts and firmness, he was privately deploring the circumstances which made those acts necessary, and that firmness unavoidable. The natural kindliness of his disposition revolted against the measures of coercion which the consideration of the wants of his countrymen compelled him to adopt, and in the spirit of a true Englishman, as soon as he found how powerless the Chinese were to resist our arms he resented the idea of any longer employing them in such an unequal contest. Indeed, his whole correspondence breathes the spirit of a true gentleman, whose undeviating rectitude, kindly feelings, and domestic affection recal to our minds that noble pattern of an English gentleman—Lord COLLINGWOOD. The combination of gentle affection in private life and inexorable firmness in the discharge of official duties was a prominent characteristic of the two men, and as with the French fleet in sight on the eve of Lord HOWE'S victory we find COLLINGWOOD remembering that it was his little daughter's birthday, and calling down blessings on her, "lest he should never bless her more," so—amid all the difficulties which were gathering fast round Lord ELGIN on his voyage to China—with the Indian Mutiny in view—he writes to Lady ELGIN, "I have got dear BRUCE'S large "speaking eyes beside me while I am writing, and mine "(ought I to confess it?) are very dim, while all these "thoughts of home crowd upon me." Naturally to a man of such sensitive feelings the horrors of Eastern warfare—the results of Eastern treachery—appeared particularly hideous, and the atrocities committed by the French soldiers and English sailors at the taking of Canton so disgusted him that he wrote in his diary, "If things do not mend within "a few days, I shall startle my colleagues by proposing to "abandon the town altogether, giving reasons for it which "will enable me to state on paper all these points. No "human power shall induce me to accept the office of "oppressor of the feeble." Such are the sentiments we should expect to find from a man like Lord ELGIN, but while longer experience of the Chinese character in no wise lessened the generous impulses of his nature, it taught him that measures of coercion and retribution were necessary to compel a nation devoid of honour and destitute of truth to fulfil their pledged word and to act up to their treaties. This is strikingly obvious if we compare for a moment the destruction of the Summer Palace, and the ruthless vandalism of which it was the scene, with a letter he wrote to Lady ELGIN but a few months before that event, in which he says, "Can I do anything to prevent England from calling down "on herself GOD'S curse for brutalities committed on another "feeble Oriental race? Or are all my exertions to result "only in the extension of the area over which Englishmen "are to exhibit how hollow and superficial are both their "civilisation and Christianity? . . . The tone of the two "or three men connected with mercantile houses in China "whom I find on board the steamer is all for blood and mas-"sacre on a great scale. I hope they will be disappointed."

Throughout the whole correspondence the gradual progress made by Lord ELGIN in arriving at a just appreciation of the situation in China, and of the characters of those with whom he was brought into contact, is plainly observable. For instance, it may safely be said that at a later period of his stay in China he would have taken pains to modify the charge against the mercantile communities implied in the above quotation; and a more intimate acquaintance with our earlier intercourse with Commissioner YEH would undoubtedly have altered the opinion of the Arrow question expressed in one of his first letters. It is not to be denied that were the Arrow case to be judged per se, it would justly be considered "a scandal to us," but taken as the last of a series of outrages on our national honour, it formed an act for which it was not only politic, but necessary, to call for reparation. That reparation was refused, and, in the words of Lord ELGIN, "though we were forced to act almost brutally, we were China's friend in all this."

THE subject of Chinese labour still engages the attention of the southern planters in the United States. It appears that a company has been formed with a capital of $200,000 for the purpose of carrying out this project. The emigrants are to be engaged at wages of $8 per week (query per month) with all found. They are to be sent round by the steamers of the Pacific Mail Company to San Francisco, and transferred to the company's steamers for Panama, thence to New Orleans and other ports of the Southern States. They are to be engaged in China as voluntary emigrants, and after arrival be put under contract for four years, at the expiration of which they may return or enter on a new engagement. This is all very pretty, but the company will find it more difficult than they imagine to induce the Chinese to engage on these terms. The cruel experiences of their countrymen in Peru and Cuba have destroyed their confidence in promises to be carried out in the far-off Western world. If the company could once get a batch to write well of their treatment tens of thousands would follow.

IN the House of Commons Mr. RYLANDS asked the Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs if any portions of the Consular reports had been expunged. Lord ENFIELD admitted the fact, and gave as a reason that some of the Consuls had gone into matters extraneous to those subjects, or made remarks of a personal character, touching departments, foreign Governments, and individuals, and these have been omitted. In one case, the Consul alluded to the reorganisation of the Board of Trade; another referred to the constitution of the Foreign-office, and a third commented upon the strange discrepancy existing between the English law and the laws of Moses on the subject of bigamy.

FOLLOWING the example of the United States, the Canadian Legislature has abolished the duties on tea and coffee. The American Baptist Missionary Board have asked for an indemnity for their house destroyed at Ningpo.

THE ROTTERDAM BANK.

The annual meeting of shareholders in the Rotterdam Bank was held at Rotterdam on the 8th inst. The Directors' report appeared in our issue of the 26th ult.

The Chairman, M. de Mouchy, stated that the sound position of the Bank, and the satisfactory dividend which had been declared, was principally due to the ability and energy of the Directors, to whom he expressed his warmest thanks. Several questions to which the report had given rise were then answered by Mr. Muller. A Shareholder asked if the managers had decided upon the course hereafter to be followed with regard to business in Java, and whether the managers intended to maintain their own representatives, or entrust the agency to private firms. Mr. Muller replied that nothing had been decided as yet, but that the proposals which the Directors would submit to the Commissioners would certainly be influenced by a desire to maintain the co-operation of the Bank in the commerce between Java and Europe. He expressed the hope that the negotiations recently resumed between the Bank and Mr. Bigold about an old claim upon that gentleman, who disputed its correctness, would shortly be brought to a satisfactory conclusion. The Tjandi-Roibor liquidation, upon which a large sum had been written off in 1870, appeared now, under the able and careful management of Mr. Mathien, and under the superintendence of Mr. Cauters, to be giving satisfactory results, and would probably cause no further loss. The heavy loss arising out of the failure of Messrs. Musch and Grebner was very much to be regretted. Mr. Muller related the facts which had given rise to this state of things, which appeared to show that there had been too much confidence exhibited and too little control exercised by the head agency.

The meeting then proceeded to the election of two Commissioners in place of Messrs. Bunge and Grausberg, who, according to the statute, could not be re-elected this year. By a large majority Messrs. L. Pincoffs and F. T. Plate were appointed, and accepted office.

Monetary and Commercial.

—o—

The traffic over the Great Northern Telegraph Company's lines during the month of April was as follows:—On the European lines, 36,334 telegrams; revenue, f.105,866. On the China and Japan lines, 2,083 telegrams; revenue, f.75,630. Total, 38,417 telegrams; revenue, f.181,496.

The directors' report and the accounts of the Deutsche Bank (Actien Gesellschaft) of Berlin have been issued, and will be found in our advertising columns. The report shows that a satisfactory progress has been made by the Bank, and that the business continues to increase. The profit realised for the year 1871 has amounted to a sum of 389,980 thalers, out of which a dividend of 8 per cent. has been paid to the shareholders.

The accounts of the Bank of Rotterdam for the year 1871, with the balance-sheet, will also be found in our advertisement columns. The meeting of the shareholders was held at Rotterdam on the 8th inst.

Bar Silver stands at 60½d. per oz. standard. There is not the slightest demand for the East, and purchases are made only for Holland. Mexican dollars of both descriptions have declined in value—the old coinage to 62d. per oz., and the new to 59½d. per oz.

The amount of bullion by the P. and O. Company's steamer Delta, which left Southampton on the 9th inst., was in gold—to Madras, £783; to Bombay, £6,000; to Galle, £60; in silver—to Shanghai, £13,900; to Hong Kong, £15,300; to Gibraltar, £2,000; total in gold, £6,843; in silver, £31,200.

BOARD OF TRADE RETURNS.

The Board of Trade returns for April show an extraordinary development of commercial prosperity. The declared value of the exports during the month was £21,033,516, against £16,848,442 in April, 1871, and £17,335,470 in April, 1870; while the increase in the four months is equal to 24 per cent., as compared with the corresponding period in either of the previous years. The augmentation is chiefly in metals and woollens, but many other items have profited, and in very few is there a falling-off. The following are the principal articles which show an improvement on the month: Alkali, chemicals, coal, copper, cotton, yarn, and manufactures—the latter 16 per cent.—earthenware, haberdashery, hardware, iron and steel—50 per cent.—linen manufactures, machinery, woollen yarn, woollen manufactures—60 per cent.—and unenumerated articles. The only instances of diminution, and these are for trifling amounts, are in apparel, firearms, beer, linen yarn, saddlery, and telegraph wire. The estimated value of the imports is as follows: April 1872, £28,367,787; April 1871, £29,105,367; April 1870, £28,199,545; four months ended 30th April, 1872, £114,525,203; 1871, £104,351,344; 1870, £84,962,227.

The following is an extract from these returns of those figures which refer to our export trade with China and the Far East.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

—o—

TEA.

The constant public sales have again fully occupied the attention of the trade. Business by private contract has been on an unusually small scale, and prices have in nearly every kind of Black Tea ruled in favour of buyers. Green Teas on the other hand have been exceptionally well maintained, the abolition of the duty on direct imports to America from the 1st July next having had some effect in stimulating purchases. The deliveries for the past month have been unusually large, amounting to 15,700,000 lbs.

Black.—Red-leaf kinds: Siftings have been sold to some extent from 4½d. to 6d. per lb., showing a decline of fully 1d. per lb. Broken-leaf kinds have been freely offered, and also show a reduction of 1d. per lb. Fair to good common have recently been sold rather lower, the quotation being 1s. to 1s. 1d. per lb. Fair to good Kaisows have only been saleable in small quantities at a decline of ½d. to 1d. per lb. In fine to finest but little has been done. Pak Lin kinds show but little alteration. Black-leaf kinds: The low to clean common kinds have been in large supply; the demand is limited, and they have been forced off at public sale, without reserve, from 6d. to 9½d. per lb., showing a decline of fully 1d. per lb. Fair to good common have been also difficult of sale, from 10½d. to 1s. per lb., being ½d. per lb. decline. Fair medium kinds, from 1s. 1d. to 1s. 3d., have been better supported, but latterly they have become less saleable. Good medium to fine kinds have been sold to a limited extent at 1s. 4d. to 1s. 8d., showing ½d. to 1d. per lb. reduction. In finest but few transactions have taken place. In Amoy kinds the low qualities have sold at a decline of ½d. to 1d. per lb. Canton make kinds: Common have been sold from 10d. to 11d., per lb., fair from 1s. 1d. to 1s. 3d., good 1s. 4d. to 1s. 5d., and fine to finest 1s. 8d. to 2s. 4d. per lb., showing rather easier rates. Oolongs: Common to good have been sold at public sale at a decline of 1d. per lb. Souchongs have been difficult of sale, and prices have ruled in favour of buyers for all kinds. Scented Teas—Canton Capers: Common to medium kinds have sold at ½d. to 1d. per lb. decline; fine have been firm. Foochow kinds show no change. Canton Orange Pekoes have been slow of sale at about previous prices. Foochow kinds: Fair to good medium have sold rather lower. Uncoloured Japans: Sales have been made at public sale at low prices for common to fair quality, the finer kinds remaining firm at full prices. Green: The market has been very firm, and a large business done, chiefly at public sale. Very high prices continue to be paid for the finer grades, whilst the common to fair show some improvement, especially Young Hysons. Hysons have also been in good demand at better rates. Canton made Gunpowder have been dull of sale.

SILK.

There has been no change in the market.

COFFEE.

There has been only a moderate demand displayed during the week, and but little business has been done. Prices are, however, steadily maintained at the advance established last week. The current rates for Ceylon on the spot are—Plantation, triage 56s. 6d. to 70s., small 72s. 6d., low middling to middling 75s. to 77s., bold 77s. 6d. to 78s., peaberry 88s. to 88s. 6d. Native, low good ordinary 67s. 6d., good ordinary 68s., fine bold 70s. 6d. to 71s. There is some demand for Native afloat, and dearer rates have been paid. 100 tons and 600 bags have been sold at 70s. guaranteed good ordinary.

SUGAR.

The supply continues very short, the total stock being reduced to less than 80,000 tons. There has been but little demand, and the business has been small. The only sales of East India description have been 1,900 baskets date Penang, which have been sold at 23s. 9d.; 2,700 bags low unclayed Ilo Ilo Manila at 25s., and 100 tons unclayed Taal Manila at 24s. 6d. For arrival 500 tons unclayed Taal Manila, May-June shipment, have been sold at 24s. 6d., also 200 tons Ilo Ilo at 25s., both landed terms.

COCOA-NUT OIL.—No change in the market.

CUTCH AND CAMPHOR.—Without transactions.

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Anniseed has been in active demand, and prices have advanced, closing at 11s. 3d. on the spot, and 11s. 6d. afloat. Citronelle has also been more inquired for, and business has been done at 2⅜d. to 2 3-16d., and for arrival 50 cases per steamer just arrived have been sold at 2 3-16d. per ounce.

GAMBIER.—Market quiet at a slight decline. On the spot of 574 bales of fresh import offered, 200 bales sold at 21s. 6d. For arrival 250 tons March-April-May shipment have been sold at 18s. to 18s. 6d. ex ship.

GALLS.—An offer of 80 cases China was quitted at £2 14s. 6d. per cwt., and subsequent offers of 94 cases have been taken at £2 15s. to £2 15s. 6d.

GUMS.—Benjamin: At public sale of 44 cases Siam offered 19 cases fair first run sold at £19 to £19 15s., and 2 cases good siftings at £12 5s., the remainder being bought in, first, free £26, run £20 to £25, dark hard run £15 5s., rather dark seconds run £10, siftings £8. Of 52 cases Sumatra 4 cases fair greyish seconds sold at £8 15s., the remainder chiefly bought in at £9, thirds 90s. Damar: 30 cases Batavian were bought in at 60s., and 143 cases from Singapore at 60s., less pale 58s.

HEMP.—The market for Manila is steady, fair roping being quoted £49 to £49 10s. per ton.

HIDES.—At the periodical sales held yesterday the supply of East India Kipps, although smaller than at the last sales, was again large There was rather more demand for export, and a larger proportion found buyers. Prime qualities were scarce, and previous rates were obtained; but the supply of all other descriptions being in excess of the demand, a further reduction of ¼d. and, in some instances, of ½d. was established. Buffalo met a limited demand, and of the moderate supply only a portion sold. Kipps: Of 15,180 Penang and Singapore offered, 13,000 sold, light 6⅞ to 7¼ lb. at 8¾d. to 9¼d., heavy 8⅞ to 15⅛ lb. at 8d. to 8¾d., small 4¼ to 4⅝ lb. at 9d. to 9½d., thirds 6½d. to 6¾d., fourths 5d. Buffalo: Of 1,660 Singapore and Penang offered, 1,100 sold, best 30½ to 32⅜ lb. at 5¾d. to 6d., first heavy 37½ lb. at 5¼d., seconds 4¾d. to 5d., 526 Batavian were withdrawn.

PEPPER.—Black: The market continues dull, and there is little demand except on lower terms. Privately 250 bags Penang have been sold at 6¼d. cash. White has been more inquired for, and Singapore has sold on the spot at 1s. 1⅝d. to 1s. 1¾d., and for arrival at 1s. 1⅝d. to 1s. 1¼d.; in auction 470 bags met a steady demand, and a portion sold at firm rates; of 370 bags Singapore 150 bags sold at 1s. 1⅜d., 100 bags Penang being bought in at 1s. 1½d.

PLUMBAGO.—Of 714 barrels Ceylon, chiefly of old import and ordinary qualities, offered, only 250 barrels low dust sold at 4s. 6d. to 5s. 3d., the remainder being bought in, fair lump 27s.

PRESERVES.—50 cases China Ginger have found buyers at 6¼d. to 6¾d.

RICE.—The tone of the markets is extremely quiet, and scarcely any sales have been effected. On the spot 250 tons Raree and Soolie Ballam have been sold at 8s. 4½d. to 8s. 6d. quay terms; a floating cargo of 1,000 tons Rangoon is reported to have been sold at 10s. 1½d. open charter.

SAGO.—At auction 1,676 bags were offered, but there was little demand for small and nearly the whole was bought in, large selling firmly. Of 1,576 bags fair to good small pearl, the sound was bought in at 17s. to 18s., 150 bags sea damaged selling at 16s. to 16s. 6d, for first class; 100 bags large sold at 18s. 6d. to 19s.

SHELLS.—The periodical sales were held on the 7th inst., with the following result:—Tortoise: The quantities offered were moderate, and with a good demand; the bulk found buyers at firm prices to an advance of 2s. per lb.; of 6 cases (708 lbs.) Singapore, 60 lbs. sold at 19s. 6d. to 20s., the remainder being bought in at 20s. to 30s. Turtle: 2 cases Manila were withdrawn. Mother-o'-Pearl: The supply was small, and comprised no Singapore or Manila. Ear: 10 tons loose Japan offered were bought in at £12 per ton.

SPICES.—Cinnamon: 12 bales Ceylon sold, first sort 2s. 11d., second 2s. 9d., third 2s. 4d. Chips: Of 129 bags Ceylon offered 29 bags fair sold at 5d., the remainder coarse bark being bought in at 3½d. Nutmegs: Of 4 cases Penang 1 case average 72 to the lb. sold at 3s. 5d., 7 cases wormy Singapore sold at 9d. to 1s. Mace: 16 cases Singapore sold, good fair bold 3s. 9d., chiefly low dark and broken at 2s. 9d., with one lot at 2s. 10d., 50 cases broken Java sold at 3s. 1d.

TAPIOCA.—Of 317 bags Singapore 54 bags Malacca sold at 2½d., the remainder fine white Rio kind being bought in at 2¾d. to 3d. Pearl: Of 213 bags medium 81 bags good sold at 24s.

TIN.—The market has become quiet, prices have declined, and tend in favour of buyers. "Bear" sales for forward delivery have been made at various prices, varying according to the individual fancy of the operators. The current quotations at the close are—Straits on the spot, £155, afloat and for future delivery, £153 to £154; Banca, £162; Billiton, £160 per ton.

NEW YORK MARKET REPORT.—APRIL 27.

TEA.

The following is from Messrs. Beebe's Circular:—Business in Tea has been more active, and sales are reported from first hands of 31,300 half-chests Green, 18,200 half-chests Japan, 35,600 half-chests Oolong, and 2,000 half-chests Congou and Souchong. These transactions are largely speculative in their character, buyers believing that Congress will ultimately decide to repeal the duty, and sellers having little or no faith in such a result. Invoice sales of Green, Japans (of good medium to fine grades), and Amoy Oolongs (averaging good cargo or below) show some improvement in prices. Foochow Oolongs meet with but little inquiry as yet. Generally, the market closes with a firmer tone than for some time past. The distributing trade continues limited, and statistics show a falling-off in deliveries for consumption since the duty agitation commenced. The arrivals have been large in the meantime, and we have now to report a stock in bond about 14,000,000 lbs. in excess of last year at the same date.

The following are the current quotations (in gold, duty 15c. paid):—Greens (Moyune, Teenki and Fychow, in chops): Gunpowder, first quality, 93c. to 110c.; second, 68c. to 83c.; Imperial, first, 70c. to 85c.; second, 58c. to 73c.; third, 47c. to 55c.; Young Hyson, first, 80c. to 95c.; second, 67c. to 80c.; third, 52c. to 60c.; Hyson, first, 72c. to 85c.; second, 65c. to 75c.; third, 47c. to 56c.; Hyson Skin, 32c. to 42c.; Foochow Oolongs, common and good, 41c. to 47c.; superior and fine, 50c. to 65c.; finest, 70c. to 100c.; Amoy Oolongs, common and good, 42c. to 53c.; superior and fine, 55c. to 65c.; finest, 68c. to 75c.; Souchong and Congou, common and good, 27c. to 36c.; superior and fine, 42c. to 55c.; finest, 60c. to 70c.; Japans, common, 38c. to 42c.; medium, 48c. to 50c.; good medium, 52c. to 55c.; fine and finest, 58c. to 70c.; choice, 75c. to 89c.

The total receipts of Tea from China and Japan at the port of New York from Jan. 1 to April 20, 1872, were as follows:—Greens, 12,271,951 lbs.; Japans, 4,307,307 lbs.; Souchongs, 2,397,159 lbs.; Oolongs, 6,610,168 lbs.; other sorts, 83,397 lbs.; total, 25,669,982 lbs. The stock on Jan. 1 was 19,708,564 lbs.; which, added to the above total, gives a result of 45,378,546 lbs. as the total supply. Subtracting from this total the exports from Jan. 1 to April 20, 1,863,165 lbs., and the withdrawals for home consumption during that period, 10,756,399 lbs., there remains a total of 32,758,982 lbs., representing the stock on the last-named date.

SILK.

Mr. O'Donoghue's Circular reports that the business has been one of uninterrupted activity. Manufacturers have taken quite freely of all the better grades of re-reeled Haineen, Tsatlee and Canton, the stock of which, at no time large, is now very much depleted. There has been no material alteration in prices since the issue of our last Circular. A few parcels, however, of superior Haineen and Tsatlee re-reeled are held at figures slightly above our quotations. Usual reeled Tsatlees and Taysaams have participated to some extent in the general activity; but sales have been mostly at concessions. Some parcels of yellow Silk (Szechuen) have found a rather slow market, but manufacturers who have used them are confident that an improvement in regard to the cleanliness and uniformity of these Silks would insure them a good market here. Ex. fine grades of Canton R. R. continue extremely scarce. Ordinary grades of Cumchook are in light stock, and prices are firmly held at quotations. In Japan silks a few good parcels are offered at nominal figures; but manufacturers do not evince a disposition to give them a renewal of their confidence.

COFFEE.—The accounts from Rio Janeiro, per steamer and telegram, are considered favourable to the holding interest, but in the present position of the market they have no influence upon it, the causes so often previously referred to keeping it in a depressed and declining condition. The absence of demand is the great controlling power, and to this all other influences seem to bend for the present. Final action by Congress on the Duty question is now looked for at no distant day, and pending this the market is still in a state of abeyance. Quotations are nominal. By auction 600 mats Java have been sold at 20c. to 21½c., and 150 bags have been quitted on private terms.

CAMPHOR.—China is quoted 17c. to 18c. gold (in bond).

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Anisced is quoted $3 to $3.12½; Cassia, $2 to $2.12½ gold (duty paid).

FIRE CRACKERS.—The activity lately noticeable continues, and rates show a slight advance. business having been extensive. Sales have been made in bond of 10,000 boxes extra No. 1 at $2.42½ currency; 1,500 do. Gold Chop and Golden Dragon at $2.40 and $2.42½, usual terms; 1,000 boxes at $1.12½ gold; 4.000 do., $2.37½ to $2.42½ currency, duty paid; and 5,000 do., in bond, on private terms.

GAMBIER.—The current quotation is 5c. gold.

GUNNY CLOTH continues quiet at 16c. for Borneo.

HEMP.—The market for Manila, though quiet, is firmer and higher, holders having advanced their terms to 12c. to 12½c. gold; 800 bales have changed hands at 11½c. gold; 11½c. is freely offered for parcels to arrive, but there are no sellers below 12c. gold, either on the spot or afloat.

INDIGO.—Quiet, without change in prices.

RICE.—There has been no change in the market. Rangoon has continued in fair demand on former terms. The sales since our last report have been about 2,500 bags duty paid at $6.87½ to 7.25 currency, and 2,000 bags in bond at $3.25 to 3.50 gold.

SUGAR.—The market is very strong, for though the free arrivals have carried up the stock to the highest point of the season, holders forbear to place their goods upon the market to any extent, except the lower grades, which it is undesirable to place in store. The good and better qualities are mostly withheld, or only offered at very full or improved prices. The general market is, in consequence, very firm. In East India descriptions we note sales of 38,255 bags Manila ex Volunteer and Galatea, at 7¾c. to 8⅜c.; 41,006 bags Manila per Mutlah and Sylvia (before arrival); 1,000 bags on private terms, and 3,290 bags China also on private terms.

SPICES.—In invoices there has been little business, and the jobbing trade is not as active as usual at this period of the season; prices, however, are firm, inasmuch as some of the leading descriptions are relatively lower here than in the countries of growth. Pepper is strong, with an upward tendency. Dealers are supplying the demand at $1.25 for prime Mace, 95c. to 96c. for Nutmegs, 29c. to 30c. for China Cassia, 17½c. for Sumatra Pepper, 18½c. for Singapore, and 36c. for White. Cloves 15½c. to 16c.—all gold.

TIN.—There is but little business doing, and prices have given way, the current rates being—Straits 40½c. to 41½c., Banca 50c. gold.

CASUALTIES.

The Yrurac Bat (str.), Larrinaga, which vessel left Liverpool, May 1, for Singapore &c. (via S.C.), put into Queenstown on the 4th, with machinery damaged.

The Strathmore (barq.), of London, Tomlins, from Singapore to Liverpool, which vessel sank in the Mersey, April 8th, had been lifted and carried into Tranmere bight, and it was expected that in a few days she would be floated and removed to the graving dock; later advices, however, state that the vessel had parted aft of the windlass bits, and that the fore end still remained in midchannel. Very little cargo had been lost, and vigorous efforts were being made to discharge her.

Advices from Mauritius, dated April 5, state that the C. J. (French barque), Le Fevre, from Bangkok to Marseilles, with a cargo of rice, put in there, March 15, leaky, and with her hull strained and mizenmast cut away, having encountered a hurricane, Feb. 22, in lat. 14 S., lon. 100 E.; she had discharged a portion of her cargo and commenced repairing.

The Glensannox (str.), Copello, which left London, May 4, for Singapore, China, &c. (via S.C.), put into Cowes on the 8th with a slight derangement to her machinery; she will proceed on the first opportunity.

The Liberator, which arrived at Falmouth, May 7, from Jamaica, reports that on April 21, in lat. 40 N., lon. 55 W.; she boarded the Mallard (barque), of London, from Java to Boston, 135 days out, with mainmast, foremast, mizentopmast, and bowsprit gone, and with all her boats stove, having encountered a heavy N.W. gale, April 16; she was also short of provisions.

Advices received from Texel, dated May 5, state that the Pieter Adolph, Jaski, from Banjoewangie, had grounded in entering the Schulpengat.

MISCELLANEOUS.

At ST. HELENA.—April 2, Maassluis, Kuchler, from Sourabaya; Buston Vale, Anderson, from Colombo.

Off ST. HELENA.—April 1, W. E. Gladstone, from Ceylon; 3, Dallum Tower (ship), from Ceylon; Ortelius (Dut. ship), from Sourabaya; 6, Mayola (barq.), from Ceylon; 7, River Eden (barq.), from Singapore.

The Avon, Rennie, which sailed, April 20, from London for Shanghai, was thirty miles S.W. of the Lizard, May 1, having been becalmed four days.

The Constantia, Christian, which sailed from London, April 27, for Hong Kong, put back to Deal May 6.

At MAURITIUS.—April 2, Craig Ellachie, Bentley, from Singapore.

The Admiralty have invited tenders for the conveyance of 98 tons of stores to Hong Hong.

The Kenilworth, of Bristol, from Java to Rotterdam, 133 days out, passed Prawle Point, May 8, with cargo sea damaged.

DEUTSCHE BANK,
ACTIEN GESELLSCHAFT.
(BERLIN.)

ANALYSIS of the DIRECTORS' REPORT, presented to the SHAREHOLDERS on the SECOND ORDINARY GENERAL MEETING, in Berlin, on the 1st MAY, 1872.

The Net Profits for the year 1871, amounting to Thalers 389,980 1 sgr., represent 11 4-10 per cent. on the Capital employed, and have been appropriated as follows:—

Thalers	66,915	0	0 to Reserve and Special Reserve Funds.
	33,830	0	0 as Bonus for Directors, Managers, and Staff.
	170,833	10	0 as a First Dividend of 5 per cent. to Shareholders.
	102,500	0	0 as an Additional Dividend of 3 per cent. to Shareholders.
	15,901	21	0 Carried Forward to New Account.

The facilitating of commercial relations between Germany and foreign countries, especially the transmarine markets, is one of the chief purposes for which the Deutsche Bank was created in 1870 in Berlin, with a capital of 5,000,000 Thalers, of which 3,000,000 Thalers were paid-up immediately.

Shipments of produce from Colonial ports for German Account being generally paid for by drafts on London, which are much more negotiable than Bills drawn upon Germany, the Deutsche Bank, in order to carry out its programme, has entered into an arrangement with the German Bank of London, Limited, for the purpose of enabling German firms in foreign ports to reimburse themselves freely on London for their shipments to Germany.

This arrangement has worked very satisfactorily from its establishment in the middle of the year 1871, at which time the German Bank of London, Limited, was started in London as an independent establishment, under the English Limited Liability Act.

With a further view to the development of the foreign trade of Germany, the Directors of the Deutsche Bank have considered it necessary to be represented in the principal ports of Germany. A Branch was therefore established in Bremen on the 1st July, 1871, and the success obtained by it led, towards the end of the year, to the determination to set up a second branch in Hamburg, which has, since then, commenced operations.

As another step in the same direction, coinciding with the approaching unification of the German Monetary System, which will facilitate the negotiation of bills drawn from colonial ports direct on Germany, the establishment of Branches of the Deutsche Bank in Shanghai and Yokohama has likewise been decided upon. The management of these Branches has been confided to some of the former Agents of the Comptoir d'Escompte, who are men of considerable local experience in the East, whither they are now returning.

In order to meet the new requirements, the capital of the Bank has been raised by successive calls of 20 per cent. each on the 20th April, 20th July, and 20th September, 1871, to 5,000,000 Thalers, which amount has been further increased by a new call of 5,000,000 Thalers on the 2nd January, 1872, to 10,000,000 Thalers, or £1,500,000 sterling, fully paid-up.

The German Inland business of the Deutsche Bank has likewise increased in the course of the year, and there is every prospect that it will continue to progress favourably.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

Thousands of instances might be cited in which general debility, low spirits, and nervous irritations, the consequence of dyspepsia or indigestion, have yielded to a short course of this alterative medicine. These Pills soon give tone to the stomach, renovate the digestive powers, purify the blood, and give strength to the whole system. Sluggishness of the body and depression of the mind are succeeded by a cheerful activity of the physical and mental functions. Indigestion is the parent of so many evils, and is so common, so universal a complaint, that it is a great blessing such a remedy as this invaluable medicine should have been discovered. No one need suffer from indigestion with these Pills at hand.

Summary of News from the Far East.

CHINA.

SHANGHAI.

Our advices from this port extend to the 5th April; the French mail from London, Feb. 16, arrived out on the 3rd April. The following summary of the news is from the North China Herald:—

The Imperial acknowledgment of the message concerning Tseng-kwo-fan's death was received at Nanking on the 28th March. It is said to be very gracious and sympathising. The great Viceroy's remains are to be buried at the public expense, and a Commissioner will be sent from Peking to represent the Emperor at the funeral. The family are to be escorted to their home at Hunan with great state; and Tseng's eldest son is to succeed to his title of Earl. Ho, the present Futai of Kiangsu, is to act as Viceroy, and it is thought possible the appointment may be confirmed.

New brooms sweep clean. One of the first acts of the late Taoutai, now happily gone to Hunan, was to issue a proclamation forbidding women to worship at the Loong-hwa Pagoda, as is their custom during the third moon. The new Taoutai has just followed the example. He considers the practice to be highly immoral, and threatens to punish severely any who may dare to disregard the prohibition. The priests, also, at the temple, will be rigorously dealt with if they permit female worshippers on the premises. The whole thing, as we have before explained, is pure verbiage; women will go there just as much as ever. It probably does not lie within the Taoutai's power, much less within his desire, to stop a festival which is made the occasion of a general picnic by the whole country side.

The Taoutai has issued the following proclamation, in regard to the sale and shooting of game during the hot season:—Shen, by Imperial decree Honorary Provincial Treasurer, Superintendent of Customs of the Province of Kiang-nan and Intendant of the Circuits of Su-chau-fu, Sung-kiang-foo and Tai-tsang-chow, issues the following proclamation:—I have received a letter from the U.S. Consul-General, H.E. Mr. Seward, of the 11th day 2nd moon, 11th year of Tung-chi, in which it was stated that the Municipal Council has requested that the sale of the different kinds of game should not be permitted during the spring and summer, and after the 15th of this month (i.e., 23rd March), and the U.S. Consul-General requested me to issue a proclamation of prohibition to that effect. I have not only replied to this letter, but I think myself in duty bound to issue a proclamation to that effect, and I hope that all the people living within the settlements will obey accordingly. Respect this, Tung-chi, 11th year, 2nd moon, 12th day, (20th March 1872).

late. In digging up the old ones, the plate was found recording the laying of the first foundation stone as follows:—

Underneath were the usual coins—a George IV. and a Victoria shilling, a William IV. sixpence, and an East India Company's half-cent d. 1845.

In the Mixed Court, another of the Chinese implicated in the attack on Messrs. Farnham and Rohl has been convicted. This man, a collector of taxes from the fishermen, named Pao-lau-erh, was proved to be a ringleader. When the party arrived at Chuensha, he had spied out the purpose of their visit, and, it is believed, went down and excited the villagers of Poo-mwan-tang to attack them. It was proved that he had been present there, and that when after Mr. Farnham's Chinese employes had been tied up and beaten once, and the villagers, beginning to fear the consequences, were disposed to let them go, he persuaded them to resume the ill-treatment. He was sentenced to receive 200 blows, andergo one month's cangue before Mr. Farnham's house, and to pay $30 to the Chinese maltreated. The Taoutai has confirmed this sentence, together with that on Chang-wen-hiang, reported by us last week. In that issue we noticed also that a military mandarin, named Cheng-ting-tsie, was convicted of complicity and handed over to the Taoutai for punishment; he has now been degraded. Two soldiers who were taken into custody with this man, when he was arrested, have been set at liberty; it having been shown that they were not in the village at the time of the attack. A Chinese was sentenced to eighty blows on the mouth (which we think should have been protested against as cruel) and 200 on the thigh. A second man was sentenced to ten months' imprisonment in the Chihsien's prison, and another to be cangued for two weeks. Altogether nine people have been tried, of whom six are thus convicted and disposed of; nineteen, however, still remain to be tried, so that the whole of the charges arising out of the affair will take some time to settle.

The Norna reports that while on the passage from Swatow, the weather being very thick, she ran ashore off the N.E. end of Chookea, in the Sarah Gally Channel, Chusan group. Everything having been got in readiness to leave her should she prove to be seriously injured, Captain Mooney succeeded in backing off, when it was found that a leak had been caused between the forefoot and foremast. As the leak did not, however, appear to threaten immediate danger, Captain Mooney resolved to proceed on his voyage, using the means at his command to keep the water under, and holding the boats in readiness to be taken to if required. Fortunately this did not become necessary, and the steamer proceeded safely till the next morning, when, a heavy cross sea rising, she rolled so much that the starboard gun went by the board, and the leak became so seriously aggravated that at midnight, when the harbour-master's hulk was reached, it was resolved to beach her, there being eight feet of water in the fore compartment. She has since been taken off by the tugs Orphan and Bunker Hill, which brought her safely into the Old Dock.

The barque Rifle, which left here on the 29th March, collided with a junk anchored outside the Beacon the same evening. It is alleged that the junk displayed no light, while the weather was thick and dark at the time. The Rifle had her starboard forecastle stove in abaft the cathead. The damage is estimated at about Tls. 1,100. No lives were lost.

There was a mistake in the translation we published last week of the important memorial lately addressed by Prince Kung and his colleagues to the Emperor, regarding the position of foreigners in China. Instead of the passage, "There has been no intention on the part of the peaceable and well-conducted to wrong (the people of) China; and the officials and people of China have on their part behaved with all civility;" the translation should run, "There has been no intention on the part of the well-conducted and peaceable to wrong (the people of) China; and towards the officials of China also they (the well-conducted foreigners) have behaved with all civility."

A meeting of shareholders in the China and Japan Marine Insurance Company has been held. The accounts show a balance available for distribution at the end of the year of Tls. 98,089, after providing for all possible outstanding losses and claims. It was resolved, in future, to pay, first, a dividend at the rate of 12 per cent. to all shareholders, to return two-thirds of the remainder to contributors, and to carry the remaining third to reserve.

A meeting of trustees and subscribers to the Chinese Hospital has been held. The accounts show a balance in hand of Tls. 526. Mr. Francis was elected a trustee, in the stead of Mr. Cameron, and Mr. Alabaster, a member of the committee, in the stead of Mr. Hanbury.

Entries for the S. Y. C. Spring Rifle meeting have been closed. The number is about the same as last year. The representative team for the season, to meet any challenges, will be selected from those members whose scores show the best average in the approaching competition.

The first Regatta of the S. Y. C., for the Club Cup, came off on the 30th March. Five yachts entered, but only four started; the Phantom won easily.

The following is from the Shanghai Courier:—

We are informed on official authority that Chung How has been appointed a member of the Tsung-li-Yamen at Peking.

It is stated that M. Annecke, the Charge d'Affaires at Peking for Germany, will shortly visit Shanghai for the purpose of conferring with the merchants, preparatory to the revision of the Prussian Treaty. From Hong Kong we learn that Mr. Wade also contemplates visiting the ports on a tour of inspection.

The Transit-Pass question has been advanced an important step by the issue of a notification by the Taoutai of Chinkiang, to the effect that all foreign merchandise shall go absolutely free of inland duty into every part of the interior of China on payment of the half-duty fixed by treaty, and that passes will be issued indifferently to Chinese and foreigners. This is the first time the settlement of the vexed question of Transit-dues commutation has been acknowledged in any official proclamation of the Chinese Government.

We hear that a well-known commercial man, who has the advantage of being also an accomplished Sinologue, has imported a cylinder printing press and all the necessary plant and type to enable him to start a Chinese newspaper on a much broader basis and with a more extensive scope than anything that has preceded it. It is intended for the Chinese generally, and will be circulated in every part of the Empire where agencies can be established. It will contain commercial news, reports of legal cases, and general intelligence likely to interest the Chinese; and a number of literary Chinamen of advanced views have been engaged to indoctrinate the Chinese into the public discussion of all questions of general interest.

The steamer Parana has brought an immense supply of material for the engineering and shipbuilding operations of the arsenal at Kaouchang-meaou. Among other things there are fifteen immense armour plates weighing many tons each, intended, we presume, to enable the mandarins in charge to make initial experiments in the construction of ironclads.

During the last two weeks the competitive examinations for the Shanghai hsien have been going on at the Examination Hall near the Little East Gate. Four days were occupied, intervals of rest being allowed. About 250 students came forward, of whom nearly 200 passed, and were encouraged to prepare for the provincial examination at Sunkiang.

HONG KONG.

Dates extend to the 11th April. The outward French mail of 1st March arrived out April 10.

The Governor, Sir Richard MacDonnell, left by the present mail. It is presumed that his health would not permit a longer detention. Sir Arthur Kennedy was due on the 16th April. A public dinner was given to Sir Richard at the Town Hall. Considerable dissatisfaction existed that no invitations were sent to the press. We are without any report of the proceedings at the dinner. What reason the committee had for this course is not stated.

On the departure of Sir Richard MacDonnell the China Mail says:—

We would offer a few words of farewell to one whose best efforts have, for a long period, been devoted to local interests. The chairman, at last evening's dinner, most happily hit a national weakness in remarking that his Excellency having not unnaturally failed to please everybody, on all occasions, had really preserved one of our most dearly-cherished privileges—the right to growl. We may fairly claim to have participated in this privilege, and our expression of regret at H.E.'s departure will not therefore be deemed the less sincere. Improved police, improved roads, waterworks and telegraphs, piracy suppressed, public solvency in place of insolvency, and many other benefits too numerous to detail at length, are the outward visible signs of the success of an administration as honourable to his Excellency as it has been beneficial to the colony. Of the present experiment for the suppression of gambling we may speak hopefully, though sufficient time has not yet elapsed to permit us to pass a definite judgment—its recent inauguration being in our eyes its chief defect. Taken as a whole, Sir Richard MacDonnell's career in Hong Kong has most fairly earned the sincere gratitude of the colony, and in expressing our concurrence with the complimentary language addressed to him yesterday we but endorse the general feeling of the colony. That he may have a pleasant passage home, there to meet his family and friends in the enjoyment of good health, that he may be spared to rise yet higher in the service of which he is so efficient a member, we most sincerely desire. May Hong Kong ever find a Governor as zealous for its honour and position, as careful of its finances, and as able a ruler of men as Sir Richard Graves MacDonnell!

The Daily Press says:—

H.E. the Vice-Admiral Sergio de Sousa, aide-de-camp of his Majesty the King of Portugal, and ex-governor of Macao, arrived here by the steamer Poyang, accompanied by over thirty of H.E.'s friends, among them the Viscount do Cercal, Mr. L. Marques, (president of the Municipal body), Baron do Cercal, Secretary Castro, Captains Balsemao, Baracho, and Corte Real, and Messrs. B. Fernandes, Carneiro, Rosa, Pachecos, &c. During the passage several hearty toasts were drunk to the tunes of the Macao band, which had been specially sent over. The concourse of people on the wharf at Macao, several ladies included, was very large, and loud were the vivas raised, to be drowned only by the noise of innumerable bombs and crackers—the offering of all the Chinese merchants, who, numbering over fifty, had each that morning wished "a good wish" to H.E. As the Poyang steamed out, three of the forts on the passage saluted and dipped their ensigns. Few governors had such a "Bota fora," and carried such evident demonstration of respect and sympathy. Impartial people confess they could not have had a milder or more conciliatory governor; in fact, H.E. has erred by being too lenient. May H.E. from the high position he is going to reassume, by his sovereign's side, always show an interest in the welfare of Macao. A guard of honour from the 10th Regiment awaited H.E., who landed under a salute from the battery.

The following is the average amount of bank notes in circulation in Hong Kong during the month ending 31st March, 1872:—

Banks.	Average Amount.	Specie in Reserve.
Oriental	$738,458	$250,000
Chartered Mercantile of India, London, and China	527,921	200,000
Chartered of India, Australia, and China	479,250	200,000
Hong Kong and Shanghai ...	1,034,640	400,000

The Postmaster-General's report for the year 1871 states that the gross revenue of 1871 was $8,900 less than in 1870. Of the decrease $4,000 are out of the Colonial, and the remainder out of the Imperial Revenue.

Mr. Russell, the present junior police magistrate, being about to leave, the Gazette notifies the appointment of Mr. F. W. Mitchell as acting police magistrate, and Mr. John Simpson as acting collector of stamp revenue. Mr. Tonnochy takes Mr. Russell's place as assistant superintendent of the fire brigade.

The Portuguese amateurs gave a performance at the above theatre, a large number of ladies and gentlemen being in attendance. The first piece, a comedietta entitled "As Duas Bengalas," was admirably acted by Messrs. F. G. Kraal and J. M. S. Alves. The second, a dramatic scene, was well executed by Mr. J. M. S. Alves, who, as usual, showed himself a capable actor. The third piece was a comedietta, "Por Causa d'um Algarismo," Messrs. F. J. Machado and D. A. da Costa being very amusing in their impersonations. The entertainment concluded with a tragedy, "A Morte de Catimbao," which was much appreciated. The band of Her Majesty's 110th Regiment was in attendance, and played some choice selections in their usual good style.

At the meeting of the Legislative Council the Governor laid the following despatch before the members:—

Downing Street, 8th Feb., 1872.

SIR.—I have informed you by a telegram sent this day that it is expected that Sir Arthur Kennedy, who succeeds you in the Government of Hong Kong, would leave Southampton on the 28th instant to relieve you. I am glad to have been thus enabled to meet your wishes as to your departure from the colony. I avail myself with pleasure of this opportunity of recognising the vigour and ability with which you have administered the Government of the colony. I have the honour to be, &c.,

(Signed) KIMBERLEY.

THE COURTS ORDINANCE.

H.E. said the labours of the present sitting would be materially lightened owing to the receipt of a telegram from the Secretary of State, saying:—"Postpone legislation on reconstruction of courts until Mr. Pauncefote's return, who is at work on the subject." H.E. thought this very fortunate, as Mr. Pauncefote would come out with a full knowlege of what the Home Government would sanction.

The China Mail says:—We are glad to note that the petition in favour of Mr. Welsh has been so far successful that his release has been granted—subject to the condition that the petition should be withdrawn. His lordship, by the way, wishes his utterance on this head to "be recorded." May we, with all due respect, ask where? In the archives of the Court, or in the obscure diurnal publications of the colony? If the latter, the record, at his lordship's valuation, will not amount to much, and we rather wonder (in a very respectful manner) why the phrase was used.

We notice that Mr. Malet, C.B., proceeded to his post at the Legation, Peking. Among the passengers also we observed Lord Blandford, who thus extends his pleasure trip to the northern Treaty Ports.

The Spanish Consul sent the following interesting letter to the Colonial Secretary:—

SIR,—I have to beg that you will be good enough to inform his Excellency the Governor that I have just heard that at Government House, it has been reported Mrs. Checa is not my legitimate wife and that the same rumour has been freely circulated in the society of this Colony.

This you must know wounds my honour in the most horrible way, and as it is quite impossible for me to discover the author of the calumny it is absolutely necessary that until I can receive the necessary legalised certificates from Madrid, which by telegraph I sent for to-day, his Excellency the Governor will take such steps as his own honour and conscience may dictate in order that a stop may be put to these calumnious scandalous statements, for which I assure you and his Excellency there is not the slightest foundation.—I have the honour to be, Sir, your most obedient servant,

LEON CHECA.

THE CHINESE DEPUTATION TO H.E. SIR R. G. MACDONNELL.

A deputation from the Chinese community waited on H.E. Sir Richard Graves MacDonnell yesterday at Government House, where a few guests were assembled, amongst whom were Vice-Admiral Shadwell, Admiral de Souza, Captain Arthur, H.M.S. Iron Duke, G. von Overbeck, Esq., Baron de Mello, and several other gentlemen, also several ladies. There was an idea prevalent that the deputation would appear in full robes, but for some reason, perhaps the sudden rise of the thermometer, this expectation was disappointed. The deputation was introduced by M. S. Tonnochy, Esq., acting Registrar-General, who explained to his Excellency that the addresses which were to be presented were not yet ready in their proper form, i.e., inscribed on two banners, for the reason that it was supposed his Excellency would not leave till the 18th inst., and the work was to be ready by the 17th. They begged to present his Excellency with the accompanying plate and album.

An elaborately finished silver cup, and an album containing photographs entirely of Chinese execution, were here exhibited, after which a Committee-man of the Tung-wa Hospital read in Chinese an address, of which the following is a translation:—

An address presented to his Excellency Sir Richard Graves MacDonnell, K.C.M.G., C.B., on his departure from the colony, by the Directors and Corporation of the "Tung Wa" Hospital, on the 10th day of April, 1872.

TWO SCROLLS.

1.—Your eminent reputation is esteemed in the Western Regions;

For an age will your meritorious name illumine a country's history.

2.—Your new schemes pervade the sea borders;

For a thousand years will your kindness and love dwell in people's hearts.

A FAREWELL ODE.

Bearing the axe of office you came from the west, with a commanding and dignified carriage.

Your merit in your six years' career of Government will be cherished in people's remembrance.

You have bestowed favours on all, natives and foreigners, without partiality.

Letting kindness and firmness guide your actions, your laws have not been secret.

To record your virtue a tablet is prepared, as our love for you is doubled at your departure.

Your kindness for the people has caused the opening of a hospital—(lit. club).

You are the first to start a benevolent custom.

Your plum grove (a name for hospital) ought to be celebrated in song like the Kom-Tong tree.

Henceforth on all sides will the sea borders resound with ballads (in your praise.)

(True translation).

M. S. TONNOCHY, Acting Registrar-General.

Mr. Tonnochy then remarked that the next address was also not yet completed, but a copy was ready for presentation.

The following is a translation of this address:—

Congratulatory address upon the good government of his Excellency Sir Richard Graves MacDonnell, Knight, Governor for Great Britain over the Island of Hong Kong, commander of the land and sea forces.

From the time when Governors began to come to Hong Kong, we consider our Governor MacDonnell is the chief. Since he has taken up his post at Hong Kong he has been most active and loyal. Being leader he has looked carefully after those employed under him, and has behaved with toleration towards his subordinates. His officers have cordially assisted him; the police have carried out his orders without presuming to impose or deceive; but doing their duties with strictness evil doers have hidden all traces of themselves; his benevolence and goodness have imbued themselves in others. He has put a stop to and done away with the passion for gambling.

Having pity on us Chinese people, who had no means of getting medical attendance, he put himself at the head of the merchants and gentry, and hurried on to complete a work, and was the first to build a hospital, an edifice both lofty and wide, so that the sick might find protection therein. All these are the benefits of his Government; they are innumerable.

His banners are returning to the West—when shall we meet again?

What shall we offer as our farewell?

An elegant banquet spread for a farewell dinner!

The guests with their cups in their hands delaying the wheels of his carriage! With longing hearts!

A Governor returning to his country! The waves rise not! The steamer carries him along!

The whales and the crocodiles hide in their holes!

The trains starting! A beautiful and peaceful road.

His mind in happy repose, and body in robust health!

His deeds more meritorious, and his name more fragrant!

His happiness and his life extended!

His descendants prosperous!

The 3rd day of the last month of the year. Yam Shan.

M. S. TONNOCHY, Acting Registrar-General.

Mr. Tonnochy further stated that the Nampak-hongs had intended to present an address, but not only was theirs not ready but there was no copy of it yet prepared.

His Excellency then addressed the members of the deputation, and said he was aware that it had been understood he was not to leave till the 18th instant; that was the day originally fixed, and he quite understood how it was they were not ready for his earlier departure. He thanked them for the goodwill expressed in the addresses which had been presented to him. He intended it not as merely a conventional compliment, but as what he really and sincerely felt when he said that nothing connected with his administration had given him greater pleasure than the improved tone of feeling that existed between the Chinese community and the Government. They must have observed that more reliance was placed on them than had ever been the case before. He had received deputations there, and they had talked over the provisions of the law together. He thought the assistance which the Chinese community had given to the Government of late years—during the last two or three years especially—in detecting crime, in giving early information to the Government, and in other matters, had been of the greatest service. The district watchmen, he thought, had worked very usefully and well, a fact which was illustrated by the number of crimes detected and the number of criminals brought to justice by their means. He knew the Chinese community put their hands in their pockets to maintain this force as an auxiliary to the police, and the Government and the community in general were proportionately indebted to them. In saying this, he was saying what he really felt, and he would be very glad if it were fully explained to them by the Registrar-General. He should report, and had always reported to the Queen's Government, his satisfaction at the assistance rendered thus to the Government by the Chinese community. He was very glad to have assisted in the building of their new hospital, which he believed was destined to be a lasting benefit to their countrymen. Some observations had been made in some of the journals to the effect that the Governor had expressed some mistrust in the Chinese community with reference to this institution. He wished them to understand clearly that he never had, and never intended, to imply such mistrust. At the time of the Ordinance which constituted the Corporation connected with the Hospital, certain natural guarantees were introduced, that in the case of the successors of the present body and in all generations the Government might have the means of visiting and supervising the Hospital, and taking care that the objects for which it was founded should be carried out. This was done in the case of all institutions at home, and in the like manner power was reserved here, but he never meant to imply any special distrust, and he thought his expressions were improperly wrested to convey that meaning. He was obliged to them for the feeling addresses they had presented, which he should preserve as a memento of his administration here. There were, however, certain rules in the Queen's service which prevented Governors or other officials from receiving presents of pecuniary value, such as plate. They would not imagine that he undervalued the gift, or the feeling which prompted them to present it, and he hoped the Registrar-General would explain this to them fully. There was nothing in which the Queen was so particular as the receipt of presents by her officers. He was aware that in China it was customary to receive them, and no doubt they had followed their custom in offering a present to the head mandarin here, but he had explained why he could not accept it. They must be assured of his gratification at the kind feeling which led them to offer it. He hoped, in conclusion, that there would soon be an improvement even on the improved tone of the relations between the Chinese and the Government. Certain laws had been passed in his time which they had greatly assisted the Queen's officers in carrying out. The recent regulation with regard to gambling had been eminently successful, and he hoped every householder would assist in giving early information to the Registrar-General or the Colonial Secretary, and do all in their power to put down a vice which, though practiced throughout China, had brought this colony into great disrepute. A measure which had been passed by him was regarded as successful, inasmuch as crime was diminished, and gambling was diminished, during the time that the latter was licensed, but now they were fortunate enough to have been able to disconnect the colony from the appearance of getting a revenue out of it. He commended these subjects to their earnest consideration, and as a parting request begged them to assist the Executive, as much for their own benefit as for that of any foreigner.

The deputation then withdrew.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

—o—

SINGAPORE.

Dates extend to the 19th April. The outward French mail of 15th March arrived on 15th April.

The grand jury have made a formal protest against the insufficient accommodation of the Supreme Court. The Chief Justice in reply said:—As to the first matter mentioned in their presentment, that of the want of accommodation and general unsuitableness of the present building for Court purposes, he regretted that such was the case, but he believed the Government were perfectly aware of it, and he trusted that in the course of time it would be remedied. Certainly he felt sure any representation made by such a body of influential residents as the grand jury would have due weight. With respect to the second matter, the interpretation that had already, as the grand jury said, been represented to the Government, and he had received the most satisfactory assurances from Government that endeavours would be made to give effect to his wishes in this matter. It should also be remembered that the obtaining of efficient interpreters here was not an easy matter, and that, consequently, there was a great deal of allowance to be made on this point; but having received this assurance, he felt certain that every effort would be made to place this branch of the Court establishment upon a more efficient and satisfactory footing.

With respect to the inconveniences suffered by the grand jurors themselves, the Chief Justice would do all in his power to remedy the matters complained of. There were, of course, some matters over which he could have no control, but in time he hoped to get things in little better working order, and so far as possible he should try to avoid the delays and inconveniences to which the grand jury were subjected. He was aware of the importance of their time, being obliged to leave their business, at great inconvenience to themselves, to attend to their duties at the session, and they should have every facility that could be afforded for the despatch of their business as speedily as possible. In conclusion, he dismissed the grand jury with the thanks of the colony for the very able manner in which they had discharged their duties during the present session.

The Straits Times says:—

On dit in Malacca. 1. That a letter, sent by H.E. Sir Harry Ord, per S.S. Telegraph, to the Dutch authorities at Tanah Puteh, near Siak, asking them to give up Rajah Mahdie, of Salengore notoriety, who is in their custody there, was disregarded on account of it having been sent by a merchant steamer instead of by a man-of-war. The Dutch will willingly give him up to a man-of-war. 2. That Captain Ord, at present in Penang, on the departure of the Lieut.-Governor of Malacca, Captain Shaw, for England, will proceed to Malacca to take his place as Lieut.-Governor, and also to perform the duties of sitting magistrate. 3. That the Sharpshooter, on her way from Malacca to Singapore last Sunday, came into collision with the Chinese junk Soon Eng. 4. That the steamer Maha Rance, now styled Eastern Star, has been sold by Tan Eng Siew to Messrs. Peek Hac Tiang Hok and Co., Chop Sin Kim Hok, of Singapore.

With reference to Rajah Mahdie, we are authorised to state that the Government made no demand for his extradition to the Dutch authorities, but, learning that he had got several tonkangs with gunpowder and ammunition at Bencalis, and that he was supposed to be contemplating a hostile expedition from thence to Salengore, the Government caused a letter to be written to the Resident of Siak informing him of what was stated regarding Rajah Mahdie, and he at once expressed his intention of not allowing any such hostile expedition from his territory. We do not know whether the Home Government approved or censured the spirited course taken by the Government here in the Salengore affair. Be that as it may, the community here and in Penang fully endorsed what was done, and will be ready again to back up the authorities in any measures they may take to keep things undisturbed as they are in Salengore. We trust, therefore, that a vigilant eye will be kept on this Rajah Mahdie and his followers, and that he will be dealt with shortly and sharply, should he attempt to reopen the quarrel in Salengore.

The Sarawak Gazette has the following:—

The christening of the Rajah and Ranee's twins took place on Easter day, in presence at evening service of the whole congregation. The ceremony was performed by the Right Rev. the Bishop. The elder of the twins, the Rajah's heir, was named James Harry, his sponsors being Admiral Sir H. Keppel, Major Nicoletts and Lady Edwards; his brother was named Charles Clayton, his sponsors being the Hon. the Resident, Bishop Macdougall and Lady Maxwell. In celebration of the event, their Highnesses the Rajah and Ranee entertained the whole of the European community at dinner on Easter Monday, when between seventy and eighty ladies and gentlemen sat down. The Rajah was shortly to pay a visit to his Highness the Sultan of Brunei, with the view of inducing the Sultan to open the trade of the coast under his rule to subjects of Sarawak who had been excluded for some year, past.

The S.S. Royalist left for Labuan and Brunei, taking with her Messrs. Houghton, Chapman, Gueritz, and also the Datu Bandars Abang Kasim, Abang Matasan, Inchi Ersat, Inchi Bakar, Minggat, and thirteen followers. We hear that at Brunei they will await the arrival of the Heartsease, which vessel left for Brunei direct on Friday morning with H.H. the Rajah, Mr. W. Paul, and a German photographer on board. Rumour says that the Rajah has important business at Brunei with the Sultan.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

CHEFOO.—Messrs. Wilson, Cornabe, and Co. report as follows:—During the first three weeks of the month of February business generally, owing to the native dealers being all absent in the interior spending their New-Year holidays, was at a complete standstill, but within the past few days a reaction has set in, and Imports generally are now in fair enquiry. Stocks of Grey Shirtings and T-Cloths are almost exhausted, and first arrivals will command about the same as quoted below. Drills are not so much wanted. Woollens are in little enquiry. Metals: Nail Rod and Bar Iron are dull of sale. Lead is in fair demand, and holders are firm for an advance. Quotations are as follows:—Grey Shirtings, Tls. 1.77 to 2.00 per piece; White Shirtings, Tls. 2.00 to 2.05; T-Cloths, Tls. 1.72 to 1.92; Spotted Shirtings, white, Tls. 2.30 to 2.35; dyed, Tls. 2.95 to 3.00; Brocades, white, Tls. 2.35 to 2.40; dyed, Tls. 2.95 to 3.00; Long Ells, scarlet, Tls. 5.80 to 6.00; assorted, Tls. 5.30 to 5.40; Lastings, Tls. 11.00 to 11.50; Spanish Stripes, scarlet, Tls. 12.50 to 13.00; assorted, Tls.1 1.50 to 12.00; Metals: Bar Iron, Tls. 2.60 to 2.65 per picul; Nail Rods, Tls. 2.30 to 2.40; Lead, Tls. 4.80 to 5.00; Steel, Tls. 4.00 to 4.10; Quicksilver, Tls. 43 to 44 per flask.

SHANGHAI.—Nothing of special importance had occurred in the market since last mail on 27th inst., nor had the inquiry for manufactured Goods been at all steady. On one or two occasions appearances were in favour of activity and steadiness, but they were nipped in the bud by holders raising their demands to rates which the dealers did not deem safe, and consequently the business of the week had been comparatively small. Clearances, however, had been going on satisfactorily. The latest news from Hankow stated that Grey Shirtings and T-Cloths had been in good demand, while other goods had been receiving a fair share of attention. Grey Shirtings: The chief event of the week had been a purchase of about 20,000 pieces of 7 lb. goods, at Tls. 1.7.8 for ordinary, and Tls. 1.8.0 for Dewhurst's Eagle Chop, the greater portion being floating cargo. This weight had attracted most notice, and, the stock of it being very light, holders had been enabled to establish a slight advance. Of 8½ lbs. the settlements had not been remarkable; still, they sum up a very fair business, prices ranging between Tls. 1.8.9 to 2. For the heavy Cloths there had been no demand. White Shirtings: Settlements very trifling, and almost exclusively of 64 to 66 reeds, at former quotations. Finest qualities still wanted. T-Cloths: Prices demanded by holders had checked the growing disposition to operate in this import lately evinced by dealers. For 18 by 18 Mex. 7 lbs. Tls. 1.6.5 had been generally asked, while Tls. 1.6.0 to 1.6.3 had been the prevailing offer. 6 lbs. and 8 lbs. inquired for occasionally, but little done. Drills: Sales of English 15 lb. at Tls. 3.1 per piece. Sheetings: Large sales of American, at Tls. 3.8.5 for second quality. Jeans: Not a single settlement reported. Fancy Cottons: Gentian Shirtings in good demand, and improved from 5c. to 1 mace. Dyed Spotted sold at Tls. 2.7.5 to 2.8.2. Brocades at Tls. 2.9.0. A desultory business in other articles at former quotations. Woollens: Beyond recording a firm market, we have nothing to say regarding Woollen Goods. Metals: Iron—Nail Rod: Receipt of telegraphic news of higher prices at home made holders even firmer than before, and an advance on their former demands had entirely put a stop to business. Lead—Dull; rates unchanged. Coals remain as last quoted.

HONG KONG.—There had been no alteration of any importance in the market during the week.

SAIGON.—The following were the ruling prices of the principal staples:—Grey Shirtings, 8¼ lbs., $2.73 per piece; 7 lbs., $2.30; Supers, No. 1, $2.20; No. 2, $2.25; T-Cloths, 7 lbs., $1.95; 6 lbs., $1.75; 5 lbs., $1.52 per piece; 4½ lbs., $1.30; 4 lbs., $1.20; Irish Linen, No. 150, $1.85; No. 120, $1.72.

SINGAPORE.—The market had exhibited little change during the week. The latest quotations were:—Mule Twist, 40s, $132½; Shirtings, 8¼ lbs., $2.62½; 7 lbs., $2.22½ to 2.25. T-Cloths, 5 lbs., $1.40 to 1.42½; 6 lbs., $1.72½ to 1.70; 7 lbs., $1.90 to 1.92½; Cambrics, 15s and 16s, $34.

CASUALTIES.

The Yrurac Bat (str.), Larrinaga, which vessel left Liverpool, May 1, for Singapore &c. (via S.C.), put into Queenstown on the 4th, with machinery damaged.

The Strathmore (barq.), of London, Tomlins, from Singapore to Liverpool, which vessel sank in the Mersey, April 8th, had been lifted and carried into Tranmere bight, and it was expected that in a few days she would be floated and removed to the graving dock; later advices, however, state that the vessel had parted aft of the windlass bits, and that the fore end still remained in midchannel. Very little cargo had been lost, and vigorous efforts were being made to discharge her.

Advices from Mauritius, dated April 5, state that the C. J. (French barque), Le Fevre, from Bangkok to Marseilles, with a cargo of rice, put in there, March 15, leaky, and with her hull strained and mizenmast cut away, having encountered a hurricane, Feb. 22, in lat. 14 S., lon. 100 E.; she had discharged a portion of her cargo and commenced repairing.

The Glensannox (str.), Copello, which left London, May 4, for Singapore, China, &c. (via S.C.), put into Cowes on the 8th with a slight derangement to her machinery; she will proceed on the first opportunity.

The Liberator, which arrived at Falmouth, May 7, from Jamaica, reports that on April 21, in lat. 40 N., lon. 55 W.; she boarded the Mallard (barque), of London, from Java to Boston, 135 days out, with mainmast, foremast, mizentopmast, and bowsprit gone, and with all her boats stove, having encountered a heavy N.W. gale, April 16; she was also short of provisions.

Advices received from Texel, dated May 5, state that the Pieter Adolph, Jaski, from Banjoewangie, had grounded in entering the Schulpengat.

MISCELLANEOUS.

At ST. HELENA.—April 2, Maassluis, Kuchler, from Sourabaya; Buston Vale, Anderson, from Colombo.

THE "DAILY TELEGRAPH" AND MR. WADE.

The following is one of the Daily Telegraph's facetious lucubrations. It is, of course, distasteful to us to find China affairs so handled:—

Her Britannic Majesty is represented at Peking by a diplomatist who is an adept in the art of continuous undaunted "pegging." Mr. Wade never releases from the pressure of his screw the luckless mandarin who is responsible for foreign affairs. Between presenting protests, requiring explanations, and importuning for new concessions, he has always something on hand. One of his latest achievements is rather a weighty matter, for which the commercial public will owe him corresponding gratitude. It had fallen within his observation that when John Chinaman could with impunity vent his personal feelings towards the barbarian, he was singularly ingenious in devising occasions. If an official, he might exercise his fancy in multiplying taxes unknown to the Treaty of 1860, or he might distribute one-sided justice from the bench when called upon to adjudicate between Celestials and strangers. Foreign merchants who stood to natives in the unpleasant relation of creditors, very frequently failed to hasten liquidation by an appeal to the local magistracy. Chinamen who lacked the little brief authority requisite to render themselves legally disagreeable would take a shorter way to ease their patriotic souls by insulting or molesting foreigners. Mr. Wade has been, as usual, assiduous in representing to Prince Kung the backwardness of the Celestial population in learning that first lesson of international courtesy—respect for treaties. Prince Kung has turned an ear to his reproaches, and addressed, along with his colleagues, a memorial to the Emperor that assumes a more friendly attitude towards the barbarian than any previous State document in which his existence has been recognised. It owns that here and there in the interior there have been instances of surcharges at the Custom-houses, while "in the matter of debts, if there have been occasionally accounts due by foreign merchants to Chinese long outstanding, those due by Chinese to foreign merchants long outstanding have neither been few nor small." Prince Kung candidly credits the British Minister with having made all these discoveries, and offered an explanation of them in the fact of magistrates boasting that they had never read the Treaty. The memorial expresses a Ministerial opinion that people of foreign States coming to trade in China are undoubtedly entitled to be treated with civility. It warns the Chinese public generally, and Mandarins in particular, that they have no right to persist in maintaining towards such people a feeling of contempt or disrespect, still less to levy duties not sanctioned by the Treaty. It appeals to native shrewdness and self-interest by inquiring how foreign Governments can be asked to make their subjects pay sums which they owe when amounts owing to them are in arrear. In accordance with the recommendation of his Ministers the Emperor has issued an edict ordering all the heads of provincial Governments to see that local officials read and understand the Treaties. The Mandarins who administer the affairs of trade are required by it to cause a remission of all duties overcharged and an acceleration of the payment of outstanding debts. Peking has adopted the language and the logic of Manchester. If every triple tail in the Empire could be endowed with Prince Kung's sagacity, Manchester practice would soon follow. The vigilant eye of Mr. Wade may in time frighten the Mandarins into a comprehension of rules which hitherto they have disdained even to read.

UNITED STATES.

In our issue of the 3rd inst. we published a telegram which stated that a Bill repealing the tea and coffee duties from July 1 had been finally passed by Congress. We now learn that this Bill was an old measure which was passed by the House of Representatives at an early period of the present session. This Bill, which was taken up by the Senate on the 30th ult., stood as follows:—"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that from and after the passage of this Act tea and coffee shall be placed on the free list, and no further import duties shall be collected upon the same." The measure was, on motion of Mr. Scott, amended so as to take effect July 1, and to apply to goods then in warehouse, any duties that may have been paid on them to be refunded, and was then passed. It is as follows:—"On and after July 1 next, tea and coffee shall be placed on the free list, and no further import duty shall be collected from the same; and all tea and coffee which may be in public stores or bonded warehouses on said July 1 shall be subject to no duty upon the entry thereof for consumption, and all tea and coffee remaining in said stores on said July 1, on which the duties shall have been paid, shall be entitled to a refund of the duties paid." The New York Shipping and Commercial List says:—This result, however distasteful it may be to some, in the light of a purely economical question, will relieve the business mind of a vast weight of suspense. Ever since the proposition was first made to relieve these commodities from duties, at an early stage of the session, the market has been unsettled, and, as dealers have been without any definite basis of values, trade, as a matter of course, has been restricted to the smallest possible limit. But now that the question is settled, and the market is left subject only to the natural laws of supply and demand, trade, it is fair to assume, will speedily resume its normal condition. The losses that have been sustained by importers and dealers in tea and coffee, while Congress has for months been making a battledoor and shuttlecock of their interest, it would be impossible to estimate, but they are known to be very large; and this fact should stand as a perpetual lesson to our law-makers, that in thus trifling with great commercial interests they wantonly inflict an irreparable injury upon the whole country. As to the propriety of remitting taxes so evenly diffused among the whole people as were those on tea and coffee, we have given our opinion in previous issues. We have thought, and still think, it a mistake, but, as the duties have been remitted, it were unprofitable to pursue the matter; suffice it that there is no possibility of imposing any tariff tax that will pay so much in revenue and cost less to the people. According to the revenue collected on these two articles during the last fiscal year the Government will lose some nineteen millions, as follows:—on tea, $8,322,994.67; on coffee, $10,969,098.77; total, $19,292,063.44. What the country will gain is not so apparent; but it is certainly to be hoped, where there is so much of positive loss, it may be balanced by some possible gain.

The proposal that an increased subsidy should be granted to the Pacific Mail Steamship Company on the establishment of its semi-monthly service to China and Japan has been revived, the "Postal Appropriation Bill" as reported to the Senate by a committee of that body containing a provision the same as was before proposed, for doubling the service and subsidy, but with one important change. This change consists in substituting for the words "San Francisco" the words "some port of the United States on the Pacific coast," so that the Bill appropriates $1,000,000 for steamship service between some port of the United States on the Pacific coast and Japan and China, and directs the Postmaster-General to contract for a term of ten years for carrying a semi-monthly mail on the said route, at a compensation not to exceed the rate per voyage now paid for the monthly service, and upon the same conditions and limitations as prescribed by the existing acts of Congress in reference thereto, and the contracts made in pursuance thereof. The measure also contains provisos as to the size of the steamships to be hereafter accepted for the said service, the right of Government to use them in time of war, &c. The effect of the alteration will be to leave the selecting of the port optional with the Postmaster-General, and also to allow him to contract with some steamship company other than the Pacific Mail Company, running steamers perhaps to the terminus of the Northern Pacific Railroad on Puget Sound. California representatives assert that this proposition, as in the interest of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company and against San Francisco and the Pacific Mail line, will be opposed by them.

NEW YORK MARKET REPORT.—MAY 4.

—o—

The final adoption, by both branches of Congress, o the Bill relieving Tea and Coffee from all duties, relieves the dealers in those commodities of a weight of suspense; and as this is believed to be about all the action that will be had this session in reference to the tariff, there is some improvement in trade, though some little time will be necessary for the adaptation of affairs to the new order of things before activity may be expected.

TEA.

The settlement of the duty question, making Tea free, has caused a decidedly better feeling in the market, and there has been an active inquiry for all descriptions. Dealers have been pursuing the hand to mouth policy for some time, and are consequently very poorly supplied, and the bulk of the stock is now in this city. The trade have come forward quite freely, and considerable sales have been made, the inquiry favouring Oolong, though all descriptions are held with increased firmness, and are in good demand. The sales foot up about 31,000 half-chests Oolong, 3,300 do. Green, and 3,500 do. Japan.

COFFEE.—The market for Brazil, since the passage of the Bill making the article free of duty from and after July 1, including all then in bond, presents a decidedly more cheerful and buoyant feeling, inasmuch as the suspense and uncertainty so long hanging over it is now removed, and thus relieved, all parties begin to look forward to an early resumption of the legitimate trade of the country, so long interrupted by the agitation of the Duty question. As nearly all the large dealers and jobbers hold insignificant stocks, and the country is unusually bare of supply, it is seen that a renewal of supplies will bring activity, and with that activity higher prices are naturally expected. The market for the other descriptions partakes of the improved feeling, and with some increase of demand for home use, better prices have been realised, quotations for some descriptions being ¼c. to ½c. per lb. higher, the improvement in Java being ¼c. to 1c. gold. The sales include 4,000 mats Java, in lots, from first hands, at 21c. to 23½c. gold.

CAMPHOR.—China is quoted 17c. to 18c. gold (in bond).

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed is quoted $3 to 3.12½; Cassia, $2 to 2.12½ gold (duty paid).

FIRE CRACKERS.—The market is quieter, but former prices are steadily maintained. The sales have been 2,000 boxes extra No. 1 at $2.40 to 2.45 currency, and 2,000 boxes "Eagle" and "Golden Dragon" chops at $2.40 to 2.42½ currency.

GAMBIER.—The current quotation is 5c. gold.

GUNNY CLOTH continues quiet at 16c. for Borneo.

HEMP.—The stock of Manila is moderate, but large arrivals are expected, and though holders generally are firm, the absence of demand renders our market dull and nominal—11½c. gold is however refused for parcels, both on the spot and to arrive.

THE Select Committee on the Diplomatic and Consular Services have adjourned till Thursday, the 6th of June. It is not contemplated t examine any more witnesses, the volumes of Consular Reports which have recently been issued by the Foreign-office, and which bear upon the present inquiry; supply much information in detail, and the Committee will very probably proceed at once to prepare and consider a final report.

Navigating Sub-Lieutenants Henry Donegan, Alfred B. Scott, Edward E. Greaves, and Henry C. Roche, and Engineers George Ball, George Ryder (first-class assistant), Caleb J. North (second-class assistant), William H. Greaves (second-class assistant), and Samuel Bond (acting second-class assistant), have been appointed to the Iron Duke for disposal in the China Squadron.

MESSRS. J. and G. Thomson have launched from their yard at Govan on Clyde a screw steamer of about 600 tons and 100 horse power. She has been named the Bintang, and proceeds shortly to the consignment of Messrs. Guthrie and Co., Singapore, for local service.

The Gibraltar, late screw ship, of 5,724 tons, has been converted at Devonport into a training and school ship for boys, and is to be stationed at Belfast.

General Sir John Pennefather, late Governor of Chelsea Hospital, was buried in Brompton Cemetery on the 15th inst.

THE FRENCH IN CHINA.

WHETHER M. GIQUEL has done the Chinese any good in raising for them an arsenal at Foochow may be very well doubted, but that he has rendered a service to (his own) the French Government, in regard to their action and policy in China, there can be no doubt. In an article in the Revue des Deux Mondes he points out the monstrous pretensions put forth by the French representatives in China. Possessing only the credit of some half-dozen French mercantile establishments at Shanghai, they insisted on appropriating land equal in extent to all the other Treaty Powers, and which—to prove the hollowness of their demands—is now bought or rented by the British and other nationalities. The seizure of the so-called French Settlement was a pure and simple robbery—no more or less. This, coupled with the article in their Treaty which stipulates for the restoration of all property, in land or houses, possessed by Roman Catholic priests during the past century, is sufficient to show that the aims of the French in China can be summed up in the word "appropriation." Again, M. GIQUEL most wisely impresses on the French Government that unless they put some restraint on their missionaries they may look out for another "Tientsin Massacre." He appears to have no hesitation in believing that this movement was caused by and directed entirely against the intolerable assumptions of the Jesuits and priests. We commend M. GIQUEL for the bold manner in which he has enunciated his views, and we can assure the French Government that no better advice could be given. We can now more fully appreciate the spirit in which the late Lord ELGIN was constrained to speak of the overbearing conduct of his allies in the Anglo-French expedition to Peking. This alliance, we all know, was condemned by all persons having a knowledge of China and the Chinese. It was one of the most foolish and short-sighted acts ever committed by an English Government. Lord PALMERSTON must certainly have gained some important advantage in his relations with the French Government, or he would never have consented to such a suicidal course.

BY the last mail from Washington it is reported that the Senate has again taken into consideration the proposed increase in the subsidy to the Pacific Mail Company. They have probably been urged to do this in consequence of the establishment of a British line across the Pacific to Japan and China. The New York Journal of Commerce on this company says:—"We do not see why we should not have "two lines between our Pacific ports and the Empires of "China and Japan."

THE Deputy Master of the Mint, in his report on our coinage for the year, makes allusion to that of other countries, and with regard to Japan says:—The Government of Japan has determined on producing a gold coinage at their mint at Osaka, the first coin to be a piece of the value of 20 yen, composed of 9-10ths of pure gold and one of alloy, containing 30 grammes of pure gold. The smaller coins will be pieces of 10, 5, 2 and 1 yen.

LORD ELGIN ON JAPAN.

IF the late Lord ELGIN could only now look on Japan, that country "so bright and so fair," his heart would indeed be charmed. It would be peculiarly acceptable to his benevolent character to see the fruit of his Treaty of 1858. His visit to Japan is described in his correspondence as a delightful change to the irksome duties involved in the Treaty with China, the performance of which was a daily martyrdom to him. In his correspondence from Yedo he writes:—

"I consider this the most interesting expedition I ever made. The total absence of anything like want among the people, their joyous, though polite, respectful demeanour, the combination of that sort of neatness and finish which we attain in England by the expenditure of great wealth with tropical luxuriance, made me feel that at last I had found something which entirely surpassed all the expectations I had formed. And I am bound to say that the social and moral condition of Japan has astonished me quite as much as its material beauty. Every man, from the Emperor (who never leaves his palace) to the humblest labourer, lives under a rigid rule, prescribed by law and custom combined; and the Government, through its numerous agents, among whom are hosts of spies, or more properly inspectors (for there is no secrecy or concealment about this proceeding), exercises a close surveillance over the acts of each individual; but in so far as one can judge, this system is not felt to be burdensome by any. All seem to think it the most natural thing in the world that things should move in the orbit in which they are placed; the agents of authority wear their two swords; but, as they never use them except for the purpose of ripping themselves up, the privilege does not seem to be felt to be invidious. My interpreter, a Dutchman, sent to me by the United States Consul-General, has been two years in the country, and he assures me that he has never seen a Japanese in a passion, and never saw a parent beat a child. An inexhaustible fund of good temper seems to prevail in the community. Whenever, in our discussions on business, we get on rough ground, I always find that a joke brings us at once upon the level again.

The last move in the right direction which we have from Japan, is a telegram announcing the promulgation of a decree, annulling the edicts formerly issued against Christianity. We trust that both Protestant and Roman Catholic missionaries, will make a prudent use of this fresh assurance of the Japanese Government, to carry out friendly relations with Western Powers.

PRINCE KUNG'S MEMORIAL.

SELDOM has the mail from China brought such unmixed good news. It is a red letter one. The few instances we have had to record of enlightened action on the part of the Government have been generally neutralised by obstructive conduct on the part of the provincial authorities, and when these latter have shown a disposition to carry out loyally the terms of the Treaties their zeal has been checked by unmistakable hints from Peking. Now, however, for the first time, both the Tsung-li-Yamen and the provincial Governors appear to be united in their endeavours to mete out justice to foreigners and to enforce without reserve our Treaty rights. A memorial, the importance of which can hardly be over-estimated, appearing as it does at a moment when the Audience Question is about to be discussed, has recently been presented to the Throne by Prince KUNG and his colleagues on the subject of foreign relations, the whole tone of which is well calculated to inspire us with confidence for the future. It is possible that the disrespect lately shown to Mr. WADE in the streets of Peking may have been the moving cause of its presentation, since great stress is laid in it on the importance of treating the foreign Ministers residing in Peking "with high consideration," and if this is the case the gamins of Peking are to be congratulated on having been the innocent causes of the publication of so important a document. The PRINCE reviews with a satisfaction which we can scarcely share, the general conduct of the officials and people of China towards foreigners since the signing of the Treaty; but still he thinks that there might possibly have been isolated cases in which foreigners have been unjustly and improperly treated. He is confirmed in this supposition by the fact that Mr. WADE has complained to the Tsung-li-Yamen "that the "people of China are in the habit of behaving disrespect-"fully to the officials and people of foreign States; that the "Chinese authorities, so far from taking steps to restrain "them, do, on the contrary, display an unfriendly spirit, and "that the common people, under the influence of what they "are constantly seeing and hearing, become actuated by this

"in a yet more serious degree; that the merchants are "overtaxed by the Custom-houses; that in some instances "they suffer by a want of vigilance on the part of the offi- "cials to whom they should look; that in some they are "defrauded by the Government bankers or by ordinary "traders, and that the authorities, instead of compelling the "debtors to pay, screen them from justice; the result of "which is that there is an arrear of cases, the accumulation "of years, unsettled." Further, Mr. WADE complains "that "in a discussion on business with the magistrate of the dis- "trict of Kwang-tsi in Hu-peh, the local authority stated "that he had never read the Treaty." If these grievances have any real foundation in fact, and the PRINCE does not deny that they have, he thinks that an end should at once be put to them, and he urges the EMPEROR to issue stringent orders insisting on the faithful observance of the Treaty, and on the just settlement of all foreign claims against China- men. Further, he would have the natives warned against treating foreigners with disrespect, and he recommends that provincial Governors should be ordered to see that their subordinates are acquainted with the terms of the Treaties. Mr. WADE is to be congratulated on having elicited this memorial from the Yamen. It contains a confession of abuses which have hitherto been either denied or explained away, and it will at least be a powerful lever in the hands of the foreign Ministers should similar causes of complaint again arise. But above and beyond this let us hope that it marks the commencement of a new era in our relations with China, and that it is but a prelude to more important con- cessions which are to follow. The time chosen for its pub- lication is significant, and it may very possibly have been intended to prepare the minds of the people for the announce- ment that the Government is at length determined to ac- knowledge our equality as a nation with themselves, and to admit our Ministers into the Imperial presence. Let us hope this will prove to be the case.

As a fitting accompaniment to Prince KUNG'S memorial we hear from Kiukiang that the Superintendent of Customs at that port has sanctioned the issue to native merchants of Transit Passes to protect goods of foreign origin—their own property—to marts in the interior. The import- ance of this step will be at once apparent, and should the example thus happily set be followed at the other open ports the impetus which will be given to trade will be beyond calculation. It is possible to suppose that in issuing this order the Superintendent has been solely actuated by a desire to secure the Transit Duties which had previously been collected at Chinkeang and Ningpo; but this consideration does not alter the value of the advance gained nor diminish the hope that a similar desire to benefit their own exchequers at the expense of those of their neigh- bours will induce other superintendents to adopt the same course. It is a coincidence worthy of remark that the pub- lication of these concessions to our interests should be synchronous with the announcement of the death of the most powerful opponent of foreigners in China. In TSEN- KWO-FAN the anti-foreign party have lost their chief sup- port, and by his decease is removed the principal obstacle to the more enlightened course which Prince KUNG appears now willing to follow.

Monetary and Commercial.

The half-yearly meeting of the P. and O. Steam Navigation Company will be held on June 6, to declare a dividend.

The imports of tea during last month, as stated in the Board of Trade Returns, were slightly smaller than in April, 1871, but a much larger proportion of the total consisted of Indian growths, as was also the case during the previous months of this year, more than two-thirds of the total increase in imports for the four months (which amounts to over 3,000,000 lbs.) having consisted of these kinds. Home consumption for the month shows a falling off of 1,250,000 lbs., and four months of nearly 1,500,000 lbs., but exports show an increase of more than 1,000,000 lbs. for the month, and of more than 500,000 lbs. for the four months. The official stock on 30th ult. showed an excess of over 6,000,000 lbs., being nearly 102,000,000 lbs., against 95,500,000 lbs., at the same date of the previous year.

The Produce Markets Review has the following remarks upon the sampling of Tea in bond.

We have recently received many communications complaining of the very unsatisfactory character of a large proportion of the Tea accepted by the dock and public warehouse keepers in exchange for that taken from the packages for samples. Several of the cases to which our attention has been called have been of the most glaring description. In one instance some half-chests of very fine Moyune Gunpowder, sold at 4s. 1d. per lb., had been sampled, and some common Twankay, worth less than 1s., had been placed in the package as an equivalent for what was taken out. In another case, some Congou, worth about 10d. per lb., was substituted for fine Moning. A letter has been addressed to the proprietors of all the bonded Tea warehouse in London, calling their attention to the matter, and requesting that a closer examination should be made into the value of the Tea tendered as returns, and we trust that some practical benefit will result.

Tenders for £600,000 in bills on India were received at the Bank of England on the 15th inst. The amounts allotted were— To Calcutta, £528,800; Bombay, £58,000; and Madras, £13,200 The minimum was fixed at 1s. 10½d. on all the Presidencies, showing a decline of ¼d. Tenders on Calcutta and Madras at 1s. 10½d. will receive about 56 per cent., and on Bombay at that price in full. These results show a further diminution in the demand for remittances to the East.

Bar Silver is very quiet, there is no demand whatever for the East, and the limited amounts to hand are taken for Holland. The price may be considered as steady, at 60⅛d. to 60¼d. per oz. standard. Mexican Dollars remain as last quoted, the arrivals having been very small.

IMPORTS FROM THE STRAITS, JAVA, CHINA, AND ALL PARTS EAST OF INDIA.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

During the past week the market has been very quiet; the amount of business continues unusually small, and where Importers are anxious to close invoices lower prices have been taken. The quantity offered at public sale has been rather smaller, both of India and China Teas, but the former continue difficult of sale, even at the low prices current. Public sales have consisted of 14,214 packages, of which 13,966 packages have been sold, all without reserve. The deliveries for the week have been 3,016,481 lbs., against 2,695,741 lbs. last year. The only arrivals have been a few parcels of Tea, per Overland steamer.

Black.—Red-leaf kinds: siftings have sold at former low prices. Broken-leaf kinds and fair to good common show no change, the demand being limited. Fair to good Kaisows are only saleable in small parcels at rather easier rates. In fine to finest there is but little doing. Pak Lin kinds remain without material change. Black-leaf kinds: the demand for the low qualities is sluggish at about previous prices. In fair to good common but little has been done. Fair medium remain steady, with a moderate demand. In good medium to fine a few sales have been made for export at rather easier prices. Finest remain firm. Amoy kinds show no improvement. In New-make Canton kinds sales have been made, at public auction, from 10¼d. to 10½d. per lb. for common. Fair are difficult of sale at rather lower prices. About 1,700 boxes new season were sold from 2s. to 2s. 2d. per lb. Oolongs: Common have been taken for export at rather better prices, in fair to good the sales making are at low prices. Souchongs have been sold, at public sale, for fair to good quality at the decline last quoted. Scented Teas: Common Canton Capers sold from 8d. to 8½d. per lb. at public auction; good are saleable in small parcels at previous prices. Orange Pekoes, Canton kinds, have been rather more inquired for. Foochow kinds remain dull of sale at previous prices. Uncoloured Japans have commanded rather better prices, owing to export inquiry. Green: The market remains firm. The demand for export being good, and prices for common to medium kinds, especially of Young Hysons and Imperials, have an upward tendency. Canton Gunpowders have been difficult to move at previous rates.

SILK.

There has been more business doing since the commencement of the month, owing, no doubt, to the unfavourable weather that has prevailed on the Continent, and the fears lest the European crop may to a certain extent be compromised. China Silk seems for the moment out of favour with buyers, and the business done has been comparatively small, while prices have receded rather than otherwise, classic No. 3 Tsatlee having in one or two instances been sold at 27s. 6d. In Canton Silk there has been a fair amount of business without any material alteration in prices. In Japan Silk there has been an active demand, resulting in a large speculative business at an advance in prices of 6d. to 1s. per lb. Deliveries, 1st to 15th inclusive, China, 1,125 bales; Canton, 429; Japan, 520—total, 2,144 bales.

petition. Prices for Plantation Ceylon show an advance of 6d. per cwt. upon last mail's rates, and Native is firm at previous prices. The range of prices is as follows:—Plantation: Triage and ordinary 67s. 6d. to 71s., small 71s. to 76s., fine fine ordinary pale grey 74s. to 75s., low middling grey 75s. 6d. to 77s., middling 77s. 6d. to 80s. 6d., good middling bold 82s. to 84s., pea-berry 83s. to 91s. 6d. Native: ordinary 65s. 6d. to 67s., low good ordinary 67s. 6d., pea-berry 73s. 6d. to 74s., fine bold 72s. 6d., per cwt. For arrival 300 tons Manila have been sold, price not reported; 1,000 bags Native Ceylon have been sold at 70s., guaranteed good ordinary.

SUGAR.

The market during the week has been strong and active, supplies being scarce and the demand extensive. Prices have advanced 3d. to 6d. per cwt. upon last week's prices. A considerable business has been done in floating cargoes also at advanced rates. The following are the details of the business in East-Indian descriptions:—

Manila.—On the spot 3,000 bags and 100 tons Ilo Ilo unclayed at 25s. 6d.; 71 casks 86 bags re-packed at 25s. to 26s. For arrival 1,250 tons Ilo Ilo, May-June shipment at 25s. 6d., and the floating cargo per James Lister, 1,400 tons Ilo Ilo, at about 25s. 1½d. landed terms.

China.—For arrival 6,700 bags and 450 tins low brown China at 24s. 6d. landed terms.

Penang, Java, &c.—Privately 200 bags date Penang at 25s.

The landings for last week were about 2,000 tons less than in 1871, and the deliveries being only 500 tons, the deficiency in the stock is further increased, being now 30,800 tons, or equal to fully one-half. Stock May 4, 30,550 tons, against 59,877 tons. May 11, 30,583 tons, against 61,379 tons. The quantity of Sugar landed in the nineteen weeks ended May 11, 1872, was, of Penang, 1,313 tons, against 306 tons in the corresponding period of 1871; of Manila, Java, and China, 10,870 tons, against 10,946 tons; the quantity entered for home consumption was, of Penang, 904 tons, against 1,114 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 11,085 tons, against 11,196 tons. The quantity exported was, of Penang, 8 tons, against 112 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 899 tons, against 654 tons. The stock on May 11, was, of Penang, 858 tons, against 2,056 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 10,954 tons, against 26,890.

CAMPHOR.—China: About 200 cases have been sold privately at £4 10s. per cwt., and 174 cases in public sale were quitted at £4 7s. 6d. per cwt., but the market at the close is quiet, and there is now but little doing, but prices have not given way. Japan: No business done.

CHINA GRASS.—No transactions, nominal quotation £55.

COIR GOODS.—Moderate supplies of Yarn offered by auction went off slowly, and prices experienced a further decline, a good portion being bought in. Fibre was nearly all bought in. Of 1,491 bales Cochin Yarn about 800 bales sold, roping at £26 10s., low medium to medium at £29 to £31 15s., a few lots good medium to good at £33 to £36 10s., 5 tons in dholls sold at £27 10s. to £27 15; of 132 bales Ceylon part sold, good bright even at £40, of 100 tons ditto in dholls about one half sold, common to good common £26 to £28, low middling to good middling £28 15s. to £32 15s.; of 11 tons Bombay 7 tons sold at £25 to £27. Of 326 bales Cochin Fibre only 20 bales good fair sold at £25 10s.; 195 coils (3¼ tons) Ceylon Rope chiefly sold, 3 inch at £27, 2¼ to 2¾ inch at £27 15s. per ton. Afloat.—Yarn: About 1,691 tons Cochin and Ceylon, against 1,491 tons Cochin and Ceylon same time last year. Fibre: 279¼ tons, against 162¼ tons. Stock here not published, but is very heavy.

COCOA NUT OIL.—A fair business has been done in Ceylon at 35s. to 36s. 6d., according to quality; of Cochin only small sales have been effected at 40s. to 41s. per cwt.; 89 casks Zanzibar in auction part sold at 37s. to 37s. 3d.; and the bulk of 272 casks Sydney at 32s. to 36s. 6d. per cwt.; Stock 7,168 tons, against 5,705 tons; Afloat—about 5,153 tons Cochin and Ceylon, against 1,295 tons Cochin and Ceylon same time last year.

COLOMBO ROOT.—Quiet; 44 bales found buyers in public sale at 32s. per cwt. for fair mixed.

CUBEBS.—Market continues dull; out of 305 bags at public sale only a few were quitted at 25s. per cwt. for fair grey and stalky.

CUTCH.—There is very little enquiry, and the limited business transacted has been at lower prices. The nearest quotation which can be given for both Pegu and Penang is 25s. to 26s. per cwt.

DRAGON'S-BLOOD.—Market steady, but transactions unimportant; current quotations—good lump £8, common £4 17s. to £5, dust £3 10s. per cwt.

EBONY.—Ceylon is firm, but no transactions are reported.

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed is less active, and there are sellers at 11s. 3d., with but little inquiry. Cassia firm, but business limited. Nutmeg steady. Cinnamon continues scarce and is much wanted. Citronelle quiet; of 133 cases at sale, mostly sold at 2⅜d. to 2¼d. per oz., Fisher's at 2½d., being previous value. Lemon Grass firm; 30 cases sold at 4⅜d. to 5d.

GAMBIER.—The market on the spot continues very quiet, and there have been few transactions since our last report. In auction 400 bales pressed cubes were bought in at 22s.; of 2,350 mats cubes offered 1,700 mats sold, fine free pale 24s. to 24s. 6d., the remainder being bought in at 23s. 6d. Privately 25 tons block now landing have been sold at 19s. 9d. ex ship. Afloat a considerable business has been done, chiefly in late shipments (March to May sailing) at 18s. 6d. per cwt.

GALLS.—China are steady at the late advance, with business to fair extent in public sale at £2 15s. to £2 17s. 6d., chiefly at £2 16s. 6d. to £2 17s. Japan: No stock.

GUTTA-PERCHA.—Very quiet, but holders firm; supplies at the auctions all bought in.

GALANGAL ROOT.—Quiet, with a downward tendency; no business of importance done.

GUMS.—Benjamin: Siam continues steady, but there is a large stock of common; of 44 cases at auction, half sold—fine part blocky £19 10s. to £19 15s.; Sumatra also steady, and of 52 cases few only sold—good seconds £8 5s. to £8 15s. Copal steady; 549 cases mostly retired. Damar quiet and cheaper; of 238 cases offered one-fourth sold at 52s. to 54s. for middling Batavian in sorts; good has realised 56s., but there are no sellers now thereat. Gamboge steady; 15 cases at auction retired.

HEMP.—The market for Manila is steady and firm, and 126 bales at auction were quitted at last quoted rates viz., £49 to £49 10s., for fair roping. Privately about 2,000 bales have been taken for future delivery at £47 10s. to £48 10s. per ton, and at the close the quotation has advanced to £50.

HIDES.—No business since the sales reported on in our last issue.

HORNS.—Firm at last quoted rates; 14 tons Siam Buffalo in auction were retired.

INDIA-RUBBER.—East Indian descriptions are scarce, and supplies would realise high rates.

ISINGLASS.—The periodical public sales embraced 112 cases and bags, of which a large proportion was sold; Leaf good and very good thick realised 3s. 8d. to 4s.; thin pale fair to fine 3s. 5d. to 3s. 10d.; smaller 2s. 10d. to 3s. 3d.; rough 2s. 4d. to 2s. 9d.; inferior 1s. 5d. to 1s. 6d. Pipe good and fine pale 3s. 9d. to 3s. 11d.; good long 3s. 5d. to 3s. 7d.; dark and mixed 2s. 5d. to 2s. 9d.; pickings 1s. 6d. to 1s. 10d.; purse or cake fine bold 2s. 7d. to 2s. 8d.; middling 1s. 6d.

JAPAN WAX.—Market firm, and fairly active; the offers at auction have amounted to 440 boxes, and of this supply about two-thirds has been quitted at £4 5s. 6d. for fair, and £4 7s. 6d. to £4 8s. 6d. per cwt. for fine saucers.

MUSK.—Market firm, and 28 caddies at auction have realised rather higher prices, fair and very good selected well-shaped pods, 41s. to 47s. 6d. per oz.; rough and bally, 21s. 6d. to 22s. 6d.; wet pickings, 35s. Of 9 tins fine Grain offered 4 sold at 57s. 6d. to 58s. 6d.

PLUMBAGO.—The market for Ceylon continues firm. At auction Thursday 916 barrels were offered and met a good demand, 620 barrels finding buyers, good lump and chips sold readily at extreme rates; the bulk consisted of dust, which sold steadily; fine bold clean bright lump sold at 35s. to 35s. 6d., middling dull 27s. 6d., ordinary small mixed 21s., fine chips 25s., fair 19s. to 22s. 6d., middling 17s., good dust 11s. 6d. to 12s. 6d., chiefly low and ordinary dust at 5s. to 8s. 9d.

PEPPER.—Black: Singapore is ½d. per lb. lower. Small retail sales privately; and at Public Sale of 517 bags offered, half sold at 6¾d. per lb. Penang has experienced a rapid decline; large sales have been effected for cash at 6d., and with prompt at a shade more; 5¾d. with cut-in-lots at 6d. has been accepted at auction for about 300 bags. White: Is about ¼d. to ½d. per lb. lower; 923 bags at auction have been mostly sold, the last prices being 1s. 1¼d. to 1s. 1½d. per lb. for middling to fair, a few lots fine bold up to 1s. 2¼d. Afloat, a little business has been done at 1s. 1¼d. for June shipment.

RATTANS.—Firm at previous rates; 8,800 bundles Singapore, chiefly damaged, sold at auction at 5s. 1d. to 5s. 2d. per 100 canes.

RHUBARB.—The market for China is steady, but there is rather less demand. Of 122 cases at auction, about half sold—bold selected bright coat good pinky fractures realising 4s. 4d. to 4s. 6d.; medium do., 2s. 10d. to 3s.; high dried rough coat, grey and pinky fracture, 1s. 3d. to 1s. 6d.; bold dull rough, 10d.; inferior wormy, 4d. per lb.

RICE.—The cold and wet weather which has prevailed has given a firm tone to the market, although the business done has been to no more than the average extent, and prices show no material alteration. On the spot white Bengal has been sold at 11s. 9d. to 12s., Ballam at 8s. 4½d., and 8s. 3d. landed terms. In auction the cargo of 13,798 bags Rangoon per Oxford was offered, and the sound portion was all bought in at 8s. 9d. to 9s., but 5,400 bags sea-damaged sold—first class at 8s. 3d. to 8s. 9d., second at 8s. to 8s. 6d., third and re-packed 7s. 6d. to 8s. The sound has since been sold privately at 8s. 7½d. and 9s., chiefly the former price. For arrival, 200 tons ordinary white Bengal, April steamer, have been sold at 10s. 1½d., and 100 tons low ditto at 9s. 7½d. both quay terms; an arrived cargo of 17,200 bags Bassein has been sold at 9s. 4½d. ex ship.

SAGO remains steady, but quiet; of 2,091 packages (chiefly bags) at auction, only a small proportion sold at 17s. to 18s. per cwt. for fair to good even small. Flour rather dull; moderate sales of good effected at 15s. 9d.

SPICES.—Cinnamon is inactive in the face of large sales advertised. A considerable quantity of common Chips offered at auction met no demand. Cassia Lignea quiet; no business to report. Vera and Buds dull. Cloves quiet; no transactions. Nutmegs 1d. to 2d. per lb. lower; 200 cases in auction sold—78's at 3s. 3d. to 3s. 4d.; 105's 2s. 10d. to 3s. Mace also lower; of 89 cases offered the bulk sold at 2s. 9d. to 3s. 9d. per lb. for ordinary broken to fine.

SAPANWOOD.—Manila and Siam: Stocks small and holders firm; no business to report. Ceylon: Firm at last quoted price, viz. £10 7s. 6d. per ton.

STICKLAC.—Siam in limited stock and good inquiry; holders are very firm; 106 boxes fine offered in auction were bought in at £4 15s. per cwt.

STAR ANISEEDS.—Quiet; prices unaltered.

SOY has further declined; of 68 casks China in public sale only a few were quitted at 2s. 1d. to 2s. 2d. per gallon for fine quality.

TIN.—Subsequently to our last report the market showed further weakness, and prices were again reduced, but within the last few days an improvement is noticeable, and the market has become firm at the following quotations:—Straits, on the spot, £145 10s., afloat £153 to £154; Banca £160; Billiton £160 per ton.

TAPIOCA.—The market has been firm, and large transactions are reported at full rates. Auctions have embraced 1,526 bags Singapore; about half sold at 2¼d. per lb. (1 lot 2⅜d.) for very good white, and 2¼d. to 2⅜d. fair pinky; of 778 bags Penang few only sold at 2¼d. for ordinary greyish, and of 529 bags Pearl two-thirds sold at 22s. to 24s. for good to fine bullets; Flour rather easy, 384 bags sold at 1⅝d. to 1⅞d. for fair to good.

TURMERIC.—China: Firm at the last quoted rates, viz., 16s. to 17s. per cwt. Java: Very dull.

VERMILION.—We note the arrival of 50 boxes China which have not yet been placed upon the market.

Messrs. French and Smith report as follows:—Iron in great demand. Scotch Pig still continues to advance. Copper.—On the 14th. inst. the smelters declared an advance of £5 per ton, but as this advance had been obtained before; the official declaration has had no effect on the market. Lead very firm. Spelter weaker.

MANCHESTER GOODS.

Since the 10th inst. the Market has gradually improved in tone, with a good demand both for Yarns and Goods at the prices accepted last week. Producers have advanced their quotations ½d. to ¼d. per lb. for Yarn, and 1½d. to 3d. per piece for Shirtings, to which enhanced rates buyers have not responded freely, so that the business has been restricted. At the close, however, there is much firmness at the annexed quotations.

CASUALTIES.

A telegram received from New York states as follows:—The Mallard, from Pasaroeang to Boston, had been towed into Halifax, N.S., leaky, and with loss of mainmast.

The Pieter Adolph, Jaski, from Banjoewangie to Texel, which grounded in entering the Schulpengat, sustained damage to copper and probably to false keel, the hull is, however, tight.

The Catharina Maria, van Amerongen, arrived at Brouwershaven, from Tjilatjap, reports that in lat. 1.38 S., lon. 16.29 W., she spoke the Leucothea, Crowell, from Sourabaya to this port, which had experienced a hurricane eastward of the Cape of Good Hope, during which the master, one of the crew, and all the boats were washed overboard, and the vessel got seven feet water in her hold; she requested to be supplied with a boat, which, however, the Catharine Maria could not spare, but she signalled that she did not require any further assistance.

The Letitia (Dutch barque), from Java to Amsterdam, 96 days out, was spoken on the 27th March, in lon. 19 W., as making three inches of water per hour.

The Caribou, from London to Foochow, was spoken, April 1, in lat. 3 N., lon. 22 W., with her main and mizen topgallantmasts carried away.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

are the medicine most in repute for curing the multifarious maladies which attack humanity, when wet and cold weather gives place to more genial temperatures. In short, these Pills never fail to afford relief in all the disturbances of circulation, digestion, and nervous energy, which at times oppress a vast portion of the population. Under the wholesome, purifying, and strengthening powers exerted by these excellent Pills the tongue becomes clean, the appetite improves, digestion is quickened, and assimilation rendered perfect. Holloway's medicine possesses the highly estimable property of cleansing the whole mass of blood, which, in its renovated condition, carries purity, strength, and vigour to every tissue of the body.

THE GREAT FIRE AT YEDO.

A spectator of the early part of the conflagration says it broke out in what was once an aidzu yashiki, just inside the Wadakura gate in that lower part of the castle called Marunouchi, and flew across the wide moat at a very sharp angle, and next attacked a yashiki a little to the left of the bridge which leads out of the Wadakura gate. It burnt a quantity of yashiki, including part of the War-office, and that of the ex-Prince of Tosa; it then jumped over the other moat. About ten thousand houses were burnt, placing fifty thousand people in the open at the lowest calculation. The loss of property must exceed a couple of millions of dollars. The yashiki where the fire originated was in the possession of the War-office, and used by them as a hay store. It was in charge of one man, who has, of course, been arrested. Thirty officials of the Foreign-office were burnt out, from the Vice-Minister downwards. Sawa and Date, both of whom have been Foreign Ministers at different periods, were also burnt out; and Date's son, the ex-Prince of Uwajima.

In Yokohama a notice was sent round the settlement on Thursday morning, at the instance of some gentlemen whom the accounts of this great disaster prompted to take immediate steps for the relief of the sufferers, calling a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce for this purpose. Captain Lane was requested to take the chair, and after a short discussion in regard to the best manner in which assistance could be rendered, a committee, consisting of Messrs. Bauduin, Walsh and Whittall, was appointed to express to the Governor of Kanagawa the readiness of the community to render such assistance, and to request from him information as to the number of houses destroyed and people thus rendered houseless. Power was also given to the committee to call another meeting should they deem it necessary.

In conclusion we may mention that the Governor of Yedo (his house was burnt too and he lost several hundred dollars in the flames) and his staff made a personal inspection of the scene of the fire, congratulating those who had escaped and condoling with those who were homeless. Assistance and provisions were also promptly forthcoming. The foreigners suffered early in the day for want of provisions, but on the arrival of the early coach the want was supplied. We may also state that Mr. Malcolmson deserve credit for the way in which he assisted those who were burnt out. Having escaped himself, he tendered his compound for the use of the ponies which were in the Yedo stables, and kept open house for any who desired it. Mr. Waters also kept open house, and Mr. Brinkley and Mr. Dohmen, the English Vice-Consul, gave assistance to the foreign community.

The same paper makes the following remarks upon the presumed mission of General Williams to the United States to raise a loan for the Japan Government:—"We sincerely trust this object has been misrepresented, as no greater folly could be conceived than the negotiation of such a loan in a country where the normal rate of interest is so high, and which is a borrower from other countries where, on account of the superabundance of capital, money is cheap. Financing of this nature will produce a most unpleasant impression abroad, and do more to shake the credit of this country and to produce distrust of its Government than any course which could possibly be pursued. We sincerely trust that the report is untrue, although we must confess to feeling the gravest distrust at this moment in respect of these and similar matters."

The flower, animal and bird show took place, and the weather being fine in the extreme, the success was complete. The collection of dogs was very good, the animals being fairly representative of their classes. The flowers were very fine, and we believe the Japanese sold a large number of their plants. The attendance at the show was comparatively large, the gross receipts being over $500.

The Japan Gazette gives the following account of what happened at the Palace of the Mikado on the night of the 25th March, which was at first reported as an attempt on the life of the Mikado:—

Yesterday all the officers of Satsuma, with 3,400 soldiers and 2,000 police of the same clan, sent in a demand for the immediate release of the men who went to the castle and asked to see the Mikado, and who were captured. The demand is that they be discharged without further examination, as they have done no wrong; and that the man or men who shot their companions shall be executed without delay.

The story as we now have it is:—These men were Samourai, reduced to poverty by the recent changes. They were from the provinces of Kishu, Owari, and Bishiu. Being in great stress as unemployed Samourai, and being unwilling to take menial employment, and unable to obtain any other, they resolved to come to Yedo and see the Mikado himself as to what could be done for them and those in the same condition. They walked as far as Simoda in Idzu, and there got into a junk, telling the owner that he must at once set sail with them for Yedo; that they had no money to pay him if he complied, but that they had swords which they would use if they refused. The man ordered sail to be set, and arrived with them at Shinagawa. About four o'clock on Tuesday morning they arrived at the outer gate of the palace. The lamp was burning, and they knocked and demanded admittance to see he Tenno. The guard asked who they were? They told him they were Samourai of the clans we have named. The guard answered them, that if that were so, they must be aware that was not the way to obtain audience of his Majesty, and they must go to their Ken and send in their business through the proper authorities and in the usual way. They said that they were determined to see the Mikado themselves and at once. So the colloquy continued until daylight, when the lantern was removed and the gate opened. They then rushed in, but found the second gate closed. They demanded that it should be opened, and this being refused some of them drew their weapons and did not at first strike the guard, but begun to dig them in the earth. They were then fired upon—with the effect already known. Great indignation has been expressed by the Satsuma men at their being fired upon. They say the men had done nothing wrong, and they affect to believe meant nothing wrong. They scout the idea of a conspiracy; and declare that the Mikado ought to have granted them an audience. Thus it is they make the peremptory demand, for the unconditional discharge of the men without examination, and the execution of the slayers of their companion. Saigo, who is the most prominent man in the Government, is as much annoyed as his fellow clansmen, at the guard having fired upon the men; so it is not improbable that the demand for the release will be complied with.

The Japanese Government is giving foreigners an opportunity for a very pleasant excursion. An exhibition is to be opened on the 17th April in Kioto; and all foreigners are permitted to visit the Imperial city during fifty days. Passsports must be obtained from the Consuls at Hiogo; and the limits of the city must not be transgressed during the stay in Kioto; guards wearing a distinctive uniform, and delegated especially to protect foreigners, will be stationed throughout the city, and will be on duty day and night. It is believed, also, that there will be a fixed price for hotel charges; so the whole arrangements seem to be complete and sensible. As a Hiogo paper remarks, the advent of foreigners will doubly increase to the Japanese the interest arising from the exhibition itself. Foreign exhibitors will be permittee to proceed there one week previously and to remain for the same period after its close.

A very serious fire occurred at Yedo on the afternoon of the 3rd April; no less than two square miles of the city was laid waste, 30 000 persons rendered homeless, and between 250 and 350 persons killed. The foreign houses burnt consist of Mr. Loureiro's, the Yedo Hotel, and the French Hotel, which are completely destroyed. The English Consulate and Messrs. Siebolds and Mr. Water's houses fortunately escaped, though very narrowly. The distress is described as overwhelming, and a meeting of the Yokohama Chamber of Commerce has taken place, at which a memorial has been sent to the Governor of Kanagawa, expressing the willingness of the foreign community to render such assistance as is in their power.

Some excitement was caused through the report that a foreigner had been cut down up country, but the fact turned out to be that a German American named Klein had, in a state of despondency, inflicted wounds on himself in his throat and wrist. He was found dangerously cut, but able to declare how the wounds had been caused.

The German residents of Yokohama have presented Mr. Zappe, the German Consul, with an address and a testimonial.

The Rev. Mr. Syle, of Shanghai, has accepted the invitation sent him to take the charge of Christ Church.

CHINA.

—o—

SHANGHAI.

Our advices from this port extend to the 12th April; the P. and O. mail from London, Feb. 23, arrived out on the 9th April. The following summary of the news is from the North China Herald:—

The energetic remonstrances which have been lately made about the Woosung Bar have at least called attention to the matter in Peking. The question seems still to be imperfectly realised, but that it is being considered at all is a great thing. Mr. Wade seems to have been as successfully imbued as Mr. Low with doubt as to "the practicability of permanently improving the Woosung Bar;" but everybody will by-and-by see that the permanent application of a dredger must assuredly cut a channel and keep it open.

Nine more of the Poo-mwan-tang villagers, forming the last of those arrested so far, on account of the attack on Messrs. Farnham and Rohl, have received sentences of various severity, from 300 blows downwards, at the Mixed Court, and seventeen in all have had their punishments carried out in the presence of Messrs. Haas, U.S. Officiating Interpreter, Franzenbach, German Interpreter, and Inspector Stripling, and have been administered with full severity. The man sentenced to ten months' imprisonment was so very old, being over seventy, that no other mode of punishment was possible. Another old man was punished by blows on the hand and a short term of cangue. The military mandarin who has been degraded has, it appears, suffered that indignity not for any active share in the row, but because, having passed through the village and seen Mr. Farnham's Chinese employés bound up, he still denied that he had been there at all on that day. These men, unlike the civil magistrate, are not responsible for the maintenance of public order in their district; otherwise, the fact that he had been in the village, seen the Chinese bound and confined, and must have learnt that there had been an unlawful disturbance, would have justified punishment of a different kind, in addition to loss of rank. We have already expressed an opinion that the punishment by blows on the mouth is cruel. The punishment is a thoroughly Chinese one, and based on a principle of criminal jurisprudence wholly contrary to Western procedure. The man who is ordered this punishment has told many and manifest lies, with a view to exculpate himself, while several witnesses have proved conclusively his guilt. For the lies he has told he is punished by blows on the mouth; for the guilt established against him, he receives two hundred blows on the thigh. As we have said, the principle of self-crimination is not only not accepted in the West, but is absolutely reprobated; and we think, where opportunity offers, while strict and vigorous justice may be done, the Mixed Court should be taught to modify the more barbaric of its practices through the influence of its foreign elements. As the investigation proceeds, facts come to light incriminating many more of the villagers than have been taken into custody so far, and it is likely that numerous arrests will yet be made. But all this while the real origin of the row is by no means made clear.

The result of the complaints regarding the conduct of native gunboat men in the Foreign Settlements, has been the issue of a proclamation by the Taoutai requiring them to behave more circumspectly in future.

A rather strange shooting case has occurred in Hongkew. A man named Stephens, formerly a pilot in Shanghai, and who had returned by the Priam, was out on the Broadway about 1 A.M., and, it is alleged, behaving rather noisily. No complaint was made to the police however, nor did he attract their attention; but a Canton Chinaman in the neighbourhood, feeling annoyed at the disturbance, raised his window and fired at the man several times with a revolver. Feeling himself wounded, Stephens made for the tavern where he lived, the keeper of which at once sent for the police. The Chinaman was arrested, and a Smith and Wesson's revolver, with four chambers recently discharged, found in his possession. He asserted that he had not fired at the man with the revolver, but had merely thrown out a few crackers to frighten him away, because he found he could not get to sleep, and had to be up to work early in the morning. Stephens was removed to the hospital, where a wound on the thigh, several inches in depth, was found. The Chinaman has lived many years in California.

Telegraphic communication with Hong Kong is again interrupted. These frequent breaks illustrate the value of having two strings to our bow. It is only ten months since the first direct telegram reached us. But we have come to look on daily communication with London now as a matter of course, and with two lines we are pretty sure of maintaining it. A junk will hardly lift the cable near Amoy at the same moment that fishermen steal a piece near Shanghai. One or other accident seems to happen pretty frequently, but they have always alternated hitherto; and experience proves, we believe, that either route works equally well. At first there was an impression that telegrams sent through Russia were not transmitted either so correctly or so expeditiously as by the southern line, and we believe there was some truth in the charge. But more skilled employés have been since engaged, and as the Great Northern Company have a line across Siberia entirely at their own disposal, the risk of error or delay is obviated, or is certainly not greater than by the Hong Kong route.

The meeting of the North China Insurance Company was held on the 8th April. The accounts made up to the 31st December, 1871, showed that at that date there was a credit balance of Tls. 996,218, in addition to the paid-up capital—Tls. 300,000. The directors' report went on to state:—

The net premia earned during the half-year ended 31st December, with interest accrued, &c., amounts to Tls. 496,572.58, and after paying losses and claims, agency and office charges, the working account leaves a surplus of Tls. 302,608.06 to be carried forward. Subsequent payments have been made, amounting to Tls. 93,285.23, which comprise, in addition to average claims settled to date, all total losses at present known. The outstanding risks are in respect of policies underwritten in 1871, for the termination of all of which sufficient time has not elapsed. In addition to the dividends declared prior to 31st December last, and included in the accounts, Tls. 150 per share, or Tls. 225,000, have since been distributed amongst the shareholders generally, and the directors hope to declare shortly a bonus to the contributors of premia out of the reserved third of the total profits. The period of three years, for which this company (1869-1871) was formed, having expired, the balance of funds in hand will be divided as soon as practicable, according to the terms of the deed of settlement.

At the meeting the chairman—Mr. F. Porter—said that the balance in hand, over and above the paid-up capital, and after paying the dividends set forth, included the one-third reserved share of profits, which could not be distributed until the actual amount of premia contributed by each shareholder was ascertained. It must also be borne in mind that some of the longer risks had not yet run off, and it was therefore necessary to keep money in hand to meet probable losses, besides which claims would still come forward which were in course of adjustment. The business of the whole term 1869-1871, so far as results at present showed, compared very favourably with that of 1866-68, the total premia being about Tls. 150,000 greater and the payment for losses and claims about Tls. 75,000 less. There would be about Tls. 400,000 due to contributors, to be divided as soon as could be. The report and accounts were unanimously passed.

It is said that a secret memorial has been lately addressed to the Emperor by a high official, protesting against the Foreign Arsenals, on the ground of their great expense. The establishments specially assailed are those at Foochow and Shanghai, which are certainly the most extensive and therefore the most assailable on the plea put forward. But there seems considerable room for doubt whether the plea is a genuine one, or whether the whole thing is not a party movement.

The Peking Gazette of March 5th contains a rather suggestive memorial from the Governor of Kiangsi, regarding the acquisition of munitions of war. He quotes an imperial edict dated the 6th of January 1871, which directed all Governors of provinces to state their views regarding the recruitment of the army, and ordered them to obtain the drill rules used by the troops at Tientsin and Shanghai who were being taught to use muskets and cannon. The memorialist did this, and also bought a quantity of munitions of war; but that was expensive and inconvenient, so he is going to establish an arsenal of his own.

Our Nanking correspondent sends a translation of the Imperial edict to which we referred last week, regarding Tseng-kwo-fan's death. It speaks in high terms of the late Viceroy's worth, and decrees him great honour. We mentioned last week that Ho, the present Governor of this province, has been ordered to take up the acting appointment of Viceroy. Ho is a Kwantung man, and an old friend of Tseng-kwo-fan's. It is supposed that this fact determined the appointment, as he has not a reputation for very marked ability. He is honest and painstaking; but the mandarins seem to think the times demand a man of more nerve than Ho is credited with. The Fantai, in the meantime, is to act as Futai.

Advices from Swatow report a continuance of large receipts of rice, more than absorbing all storage accommodation. A few weeks since a tiger made his appearance at a village only about seven miles from the harbour; the villagers gathered to the number of about 200, with weapons of different kinds, and sallied out to meet him. Instead of retreating, the tiger turned upon them, and eight men were wounded, one, whom Dr. Thompson, of Swatow, was called to attend, quite seriously. The animal was not captured at last accounts.

We are informed that as the Rona had just crossed the bar at Swatow, on the 2nd April, bound to Shanghai, in a strong wind and high sea, a Chinese deck hand, who was securing the anchor, was washed overboad. The steamer was at once stopped, and backed, and the second and third officers, Messrs. Bowen and Boyle, with four Chinamen, manned the gig, picked the man up, and had him on the deck in just four minutes after the engine was stopped. This service was attended with very considerable danger, the steamer being in the trough of the sea, and the man's escape was almost miraculous, as he must have passed under the wheel, and received a blow on the head which produced a severe wound.

HONG KONG.

Dates are to 18th April. The London mail of 8th March arrived out on 16th April with Sir Arthur Kennedy, the new Governor. The landing and reception of his Excellency was very enthusiastic.

After the landing, the new Governor proceeded to Government House and held a meeting of the council. Present: H. E. the Lieut. Governor, the hon. the Acting Chief Justice, the Hon. the Acting Colonial Secretary, the Hon. the Acting Attorney-General, the Hon. the Acting Colonial Treasurer, the Hon. Ryrie, the Hon. H. Lowcock, the Hon. W. Keswick, and the Hon. James Greig.

The Clerk of the Council having read the letters patent appointing Sir Arthur Kennedy, K.C.M.G. and C.B., Governor of Hong Kong, and revoking those granted to his predecessor, the oath of Supremacy was administered to his Excellency by the Hon. the Acting Chief Justice. During the reading of the oath, upon coming to the portion alluding to the descendants of the Princess Sophia, H. E. paused and asked whether this were the proper oath? Upon being assured that it was by the Acting Chief Justice, the reading was proceeded with, and H. E. kissed the Bible in attestation. Finally the oath of a Governor of Hong Kong was taken by Sir Arthur, and the two documents, signed by him, were handed to the Clerk of Councils for record. At the same instant the guard presented arms and the saluting battery commenced a salute.

His Excellency having requested the members of Council to be seated, then made a short speech. He had not, he said, intended when he came down to speak at all; but as his silence upon such an occasion as his being sworn in as Governor might be misapprehended, it were perhaps as well that he said a few words. He assured the members of Council that he much felt the responsibility which H.M. Government had imposed upon him in creating him Governor of this highly important colony, and he felt the disadvantage under which he laboured in succeeding so able an administrator as Sir Richard MacDonnell. He had known Sir Richard for many years, and they were, he believed, almost contemporary. In what Sir Richard had failed, it was quite possible that he (Sir Arthur) might not succeed. But he looked to the members of the council for a conscientious and fair support of all measures for the good of Her Majesty's service. They were all bound, as he was, by oath to use their best efforts to that end, and that end could only be attained by mutual confidence, respect, and good-will between all parties. They all knew what an immense amount of mischief one wrong-headed man—that was, his Excellency thought, the proper word to use in such a case—in a council might effect; so far as his reading had extended, he thought that the council of this colony had had great difficulties to encounter, and in the opinion of Her Majesty's Government (which was better than his opinion) its members deserved great credit. He ventured to hope that they would work well with him, and afford him honest and efficeint support.

H. E. wished at the same time to impress upon the minds of the members the fact that he never allowed any differences of opinion on political subjects to extend beyond the walls of the Council-room. He had been Governor of four colonies before this one, and had at times differed, and differed widely, with members of the Councils he had to do with. But he had never allowed official differences of opinion to degenerate into personal likes and dislikes. There was nothing he so reprobated as carrying public business into private affairs. If the members felt he deserved their support they would doubtless give it. They might find out that he was not very brilliant, or very clever, or much wiser than his fellow men, but they would assuredly find that he was very earnest in all that tended to the good of Her Majesty's service, and in this he hoped to find cordial support—(cheers). As a new comer he was greatly dependent upon such local information as was given him, and relied a good deal upon the Council in this respect. If they were honest and faithful in their efforts little more could be expected. H. E. had, he again remarked, not intended to speak, and what he had just said was simply to prevent any misunderstanding had he been silent. He had thought it best to say a few words and hoped that the members of the Council and himself would get on well together—(applause).

H. E. then declared the Council adjourned sine die, and, after a short conversation with the officials present, left the Council Chamber and returned to Government House.

EMBARKATION OF H. E. SIR R. G. MACDONNELL.

H. E. Sir Richard Graves MacDonnell, accompanied by Mr. Russell, left at 11 A.M., on the 11th April, per French steamer Tigre. Shortly before the hour named, a considerable crowd collected at Pedder's Wharf, where a guard of honour of the 1-10th regiment with the band had been drawn up to receive his Excellency. H. E. the Lieut.-Governor, Major-General Whitfeild the Acting Chief Justice, the Acting Colonial Secretary, the principal officers of the Military and Colonial departments, with H.M. Consul for Canton and many of the foreign Consuls, were present at the wharf. Upon H.E.'s arrival, the guard presented arms, the band playing the usual air. Sir Richard seemed to be in good spirits, and bade farewell to most of those present, individually. As he stepped into the barge to convey him on board, the battery commenced a salute.

A return of revenue and expenditure for 1871, including receipts and disbursements on account of the colony by the Crown Agents in England, is also published in the same issue, with the comparative statement for the years 1870 and 1871. The revenue for 1871 is $844,417.85, against $914,976.37 for 1870. The expenditure for last year is $894,208.84, against $877,224,10 for 1870. The returns do not appear to be as satisfactory as we had hoped, but we must reserve comment on their details.

Much to the surprise of most people the Hailoong has arrived here, and we may heartily congratulate her owners and crew in having succeeded in saving her. That under the peculiar circumstances of the case merely a small portion of the cargo has been totally lost is most creditable to all concerned. The Hailoong struck on a rock where the chart showed nine fathoms water, and was afterwards beached. H.M.S. Elk, after some few hours' search, found the rock, which is stated to have fourteen feet of water on it and nine fathoms all round. As already stated the guard on board the Hailoong had to fire into the Chinese in order to keep them away, when three were killed, and we learn that they sent on board the next day for money to pay for the burial.

The case of the Chinese Customs at Foochow against Messrs. Hedge and Co. for illegal traffic with two cargo boats was tried before the Confiscation Court, and the defendants were fined Tls. 50. Notice of appeal was given.

The Columbian clipper barque Noord Brabant was sold for $19,000. The purchaser is Captain W. Whyte, a well-known and popular shipmaster, formerly commanding the Onward (late Corriemulzie), and trading on the Australian line. The barque will now be rechristened the Forward, and under the command of Captain Whyte she will continue in the Portland trade.

The Oriente undertakes to open a subscription for the erection of a monument to the memory of Senhor do Amaral, late Governor of Macao, who was decapitated by the Chinese on 22nd August, 1849, near the Barrier at Macao.

An extraordinary meeting of shareholders in the Chinese Insurance Company (Limited) was held on the 13th at the head-office of the company, to confirm the special resolutions passed on the 23rd ult. There were present Messrs. H. Melchers in the chair, E. R. Belilios, O. H. Burrows, E. A. Hitchcock, A. Hancock, E. Norton, H. Kiær, Jameson, Barnes, E. Moore, J. B. Smith, and Pow Chow. The chairman, having read the notice convening the meeting, proposed that the special resolutions be confirmed; the motion was seconded by Mr. Hancock, and carried unanimously. The meeting then separated.

M. Chappedelaine has notified his appointment as French Consul at Canton, and Mr. Blancheton has taken his departure, possibly for Shanghai, where he is to fill the post of Interpreter.

Before the departure of the Rev. Mr. F. S. Turner, in the steamer Ajax, the native Christians of his congregation presented him with a laudatory address written on satin. The address eulogised the devotion of the rev. gentleman, who has been in China for a long term of years preaching the gospel of truth in connection with the London Missionary Society, and ascribed the wide spread of Christianity in this southern province of China to his efforts and those of his fellow-labourers in the mission field.

The United States Government are about arranging with the American Trading Company of Borneo for a site for a Naval Station to be located within the Company's concession on the north end of Borneo, and that a commissioner will be despatched by the mail following this to select the place and complete the final settlements.

HONG KONG DISTILLERY COMPANY v. WAHEE, SMITH AND CO.

An application to the Court of Chancery arose out of a bill in equity, filed by the plaintiffs, to 'cause defendants to give an account of money belonging to plaintiffs received by defendants from one of their partners, Mr. W. M'G. Smith, when the managing director of the Distillery Company. Mr. Toller, solicitor for plaintiffs, now moved for permission to serve a copy of the bill on two of the defendants only, as Mr. Victor Kresser, the third defendant, was absent from the colony. Application granted.

SIAM.

BANGKOK.

The Siam Advertiser has the following items:—

His Excellency J. M. Pereira, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary and suite, were ceremoniously conveyed in one of the Government steam yachts to the Santangprat'ate court. On landing his Excellency received the usual salute, after which a procession formed and escorted the Ambassador to the palace, where his Excellency had an audience with his Majesty the King. We learn that the Ambassador is the bearer of a letter addressed to both the First and the Second King, also the highest Spanish order, which has been conferred upon each of them by the Spanish Government.

H. M. the King of Siam, performed the last acts of respect to the remains of his deceased aunt, Pirâ: Ong Siâsâ:mâun. The ramains, in accordance with the customs of the country, and the rank of the Princess, had been conveyed to the Mane buildings that had been constructed at the temple Wat Cheng, and for the usual number of days crowds of relatives, attendants and spectators visited the scene to gaze upon the gorgeous urn, witness the theatrical performances, ministration of the priests, the fireworks, and receive the gifts that are scattered among the crowd and are usually given to distinguished persons.

These performances continued day and night for several days. Friday afternoon H.M. the First King ignited the fuse which conveyed the flashing flame to the urn and reduced the remains to ashes and charred bones. No invitations were sent to foreigners to be present, consequently there were present only a few, who were curious to behold such a scene.

The English church has just been whitewashed and painted. The inside of the walls have been changed from white to a light blue. The verandas have been covered with square Chinese tiles and the steps have been levelled. The worshippers in that edifice are indebted to our friend Mr. J. Blythe, manager of the Borneo Company, Limited, of this city, for these improvements. Complaints are made of the small number of attendants.

JAVA.

The New Batavian Handelsblad says:—

Official statistics show that during the two years following the doing away with flogging in 1865 the number of persons brought up and afterwards condemned was 20,000 less than during that year. The number of acquittals at the police courts increased by some thousands, and the number of cases dealt with at the same courts fell off by 25 per cent. The number of persons yearly flogged before 1866 amounted to 60,000; since that year the number of persons condemned for all kinds of crime has lessened by about 100,000 yearly.

An expedition is to set out for Berrouw (Borneo), to call the Sultan of that principality to account for the many piracies committed in his territory; the said Sultan had been decorated for his services to the Government. Counterfeit guilders are in circulation in Batavia, some of which have been so cleverly made and everything so well imitated, even to the inscription on the rim, that the sharpest eye can detect no difference from genuine ones; it is by the sound alone that the spuriousness is betrayed; other coins are of copper, silvered galvanically and more akin to the genuine ones as to sound, but more roughly finished. This industry is carried on by several persons in Netherlands India, there being another case of guilder counterfeiting pending in the High Court of Justice, but they do not appear to sin with regard to small change, probably because these small coins do not reward the trouble. In the Solo district some natives have seen an alligator, which bore on its back a big black snake with two ears; some days afterwards this couple showed themselves to two anglers of whom one was dragged into the water by the snake, so that his body could not be found. People are naturally very inquisitive to see this singular pair with their own eyes. In the report for 1871 of the Netherlands India Life Assurance Company, it is stated as a well ascertained fact from statistics spreading over a series of years, that persons who have passed a large and the best portion of their life in the tropics neither improve their chance of life nor lengthen the duration of their lives by leaving Netherlands India.

Mr. Mijer, the late Governor-General of Netherlands India, in a report framed by him on the coffee culture in Java, holds that the compulsory cultivation of that article ought to be kept up until it shall be possible to leave it to voluntary effort, but he adds that the time for the latter has not yet come; it would seem that about 2½ millions of persons are compulsory coffee cultivators, 10 per cent. more than in 1863, but, that notwithstanding the increased number of labourers, the Java coffee yield has remained, generally speaking, stationary since 1854, notwithstanding that prices have risen, owing to greater demand. During the same period, the Ceylon coffee out turn has increased colossally; in most parts of Java the cultivator is paid f.13 a picul for the coffee he brings in, that is, he is paid according to the produce, not according to the labour he performs. Thus, he gets nothing whilst the coffee trees are young, and is punished when wind and rain bring about failure of the crops, or for difference of soil and position (in some places, 175 trees yield a picul of coffee, elsewhere it takes from 700 to 800 trees to produce the same).

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

Dates extend to April 25. The outward P. and O. mail of March 22 arrived out April 22.

There has been a trial of importance, arising out of the detection of forged Java bank notes here to the amount of some 3,000 guilders,—a large quantity of similar notes having been discovered in Java. Three men who had been arrested on a charge of forgery and uttering these notes were tried, but acquitted, as there was no evidence that they committed the forgery or had tendered any of the notes with criminal intent; nor had the notes been found in the prisoners' possession. Strictures were passed by the Chief Justice on the manner in which the police had worked up the case against the prisoners, no less than three separate indictments, each containing several counts, having been made out, so that if one failed they might be caught in another.

The colony is now without any native infantry, the 19th Madras regiment having taken their departure for India by the transport Orontes. The military strength of the colony at present consists of a single European regiment, numbering only about 680 all told, officers and men, and a small detachment of artillery. Whether any reduction is to be made in the military contribution, or whether it is intended to replace the Sepoys by a local corps similar to the Ceylon Rifles, are matters of which nothing is publicly known.

Capt. W. Innes, R.E., having been appointed acting colonial engineer, vice Major McNair, R.A., his Excellency the Governor has been pleased to order that Mr. F. A. Sheppard revert to his own appointment of deputy colonial engineer.

A general meeting of the members of the Tanglin Club was held in the club rooms, when the annual accounts were passed, and the following members were elected on the committee for the current year:—The Hon. J. W. W. Birch, president; Louis James Fraser, Esq., hon. secretary and treasurer; Sagar Veevers, Esq., William Hole, Esq., H. Remé, Esq., J. L. Ogilvy, Esq., C. F. Wilkinson, Esq., Reginald Padday, Esq., committee.

The Straits Times publishes the report of the ex-Governor, Pope Hennessy, on the proposed union of Labuan to the Government of Singapore. No decision has been arrived at at the Colonial Office on the subject.

The next six months promise no relaxation from labour to the community of this place, the time-tables of both the P. and O. and French mail steamers having been so arranged as to bring their homeward mail steamers here on Saturdays and Sundays,—the P. and O. mails closing on Sundays and the French mails probably early on Mondays. Added to this is the probability that frequently both the outward and homeward French mails will meet here on Sunday, making the prospect anything but inviting, and an occasional holiday will be indeed a boon.

The arrivals via the Suez Canal have been the Lord of the Isles from London on the 13th, the Bengal from Liverpool via Calcutta on the 14th, the Antenor from Liverpool on the 17th, Parnassus from London and Erl King from Liverpool on the 19th, and Abbotsford from Liverpool on the 21st.

PENANG.

In the case of Sandilands, Buttery, and Co. v. the Municipal Commissioners, the Judge, Sir William Haskett, said that he looked upon it as a misfeasance on the part of the Municipal Commissioners that they did something they never had a right to do. Many cases were quoted from the Law Reports supporting the above view. Messrs. Sandilands and Buttery having waved their claim to damages, judgment for plaintiffs, with costs.

Commercial Report.

(For dates see first page.)

IMPORTS.

YOKOHAMA.—The large business lately done in Cotton Yarn continued, the demand being chiefly for Nos. 16-24, which had gradually advanced, and which closed at $42 to 42.50; Nos. 28-32 had also improved, and were quoted $45 to 45.75; Nos. 38-42 stood at $41.50 to 42.50 per picul. Grey Shirtings were quite neglected; T-Cloths and Drills were in less inquiry, owing to large supplies from China, but Turkey Reds were dearer. Fair sales of Lawns were reported at former rates. In Woollens there was no change, except in Mousselines, which were lower for all but Sky and White colours.

SHANGHAI.—The market had suffered what may be termed a relapse. The hopes created by the recent excitement had well nigh vanished, and extreme dulness again prevailed. The Northern merchants had bought little, partly because their advices had been discouraging, partly from the fear that prices here might decline, but chiefly because of their desire to know the result of their recent heavy purchases, to the clearance of which they had been devoting their attention. Grey Shirtings: Only a retail trade has to be recorded; buyers seemed determined to restrict their operations to actual wants until prices recede, whilst sellers generally were as resolute on holding for rates more in conformity with those ruling in Manchester. Prices throughout had been fairly steady, but, at the close, resales of 7 lbs. and 8¼ lbs. by the natives indicate a weak and declining market. The tone of the market for heavy Shirtings was rather stronger. White Shirtings: Not in great request; settlements, about 17,000 pieces at former rates; closing quotations weaker, with little or no enquiry. T-Cloths: Steady demand for Mexican descriptions, but checked somewhat by the firmness of holders. For 18 to 18-7 lb. T-Cloths, Tls. 1.63 to 1.65 had generally been asked, but buyers offered Tls. 1.60 to 1.63, and most of the sales had been effected at these latter rates. A few thousand pieces — very good quality — of this count and weight changed hands at Tls. 1.6.5. Of the lower counts only a few 6-lbs. taken, the selling prices being Tls. 1.24 to Tls. 1.27, but good 36 in. 8 lbs. T-Cloths had been in fair request, and 12,000 to 15,000 pieces of these had been placed. Drills: Business very trifling, settlements being under 10,000 pieces. Jeans: 2,550 pieces Dutch sold at Tls. 2.3.7. per piece and 2,500 pieces English at Tls. 2.3.5. Sheetings: 6,500 pieces American placed on the basis of Tls. 3.8.5 for second quality. In English nothing done. Fancy Cottons had received little notice, and with the exception of recording an improvement of 5c. to 1 mace per piece in the value of Gentian Shirtings, there is nothing to be said of this class of imports. Woollens: Market dull but extremely firm for most articles. Dark Blue Camlets wanted at advancing rates. A good assortment of CPH sold at Tls. 15.50. Of Long Ells small sales reported at Tls. 6.2.0 for ordinary chop scarlet, and Tls. 5.6.5 for assorted good quality. Transactions insignificant, and the market at the close by no means buoyant. In the other descriptions of Woollen goods there is nothing to report. Metals—Lead: weaker, but few buyers; L.B. changed hands at Tls. 4.6.5. Iron—Nailrod: 4,000 bundles sold at Tls. 3.20. Holders very firm, but natives will not yet agree to the terms offered by importers. Quotations unaltered.

HONG KONG.—The Mail steamers had brought fair additions to stocks of manufacturers which had also been further augmented by the arrivals of Glengyle str., Yangtsze str., and Africa str., from London; and the Hector str., from Liverpool. The demand for manufactured goods had been of a very retail character. Advices from all the consuming districts continued unfavourable, and as stocks were beginning to accumulate prices could not be considered firm. Importers were not anxious to supply the prevailing small demand, and consequently did not show any material decline. Cotton Yarn: Only 164 bales 38-42's sold at about former values; stocks of 16-24's large, and quotations weak; 28-32's in moderate supply and steady. Grey Shirtings; 7 lbs. still in small stock, but the absence of inquiry and pressure of several holders to realise arrivals had tended to establish a decline of 2 to 3 cents. Business 8.4 lbs. weight also retail of a nature. Rates, though nominally unchanged, weak. 10 lbs. weight asked for, but only favourite chops moved. White Shirtings: With the exception of the very finest all classes of these goods had continued stagnant, and quotations quite nominal; White Irishes declined. T-Cloths: 6 lbs. common declined about 5 cents, owing to re-sales by native holders; 7 lbs. tended downwards, stocks were rather heavy, and importers weak. A small sale of 6 lbs. Mexicans reported at $1.84; 7 lbs. Mexicans difficult to move; 8 lbs. forced on the market at a reduction of 5c. to 7c. Drills: English weak, dealers being well supplied with purchases made to arrive; American out of stock; Dutch lower; English Jeans without alteration. Fancy Goods: Spots and Brocades in small stock, and small inquiry at last quotations; Dyed Damasks quiet; TR Shirtings buyers at former quotations, supplies light; Chintzes dull; Gentian Twills difficult to move; TR Handkerchiefs could not be sold to any extent; Black Velvets held firmly; Blue not saleable; Velveteens firm. Woollens and Worsteds: A most trivial trade doing. Metals: Nail Rod Iron rather weaker owing to several parcels purchased "to arrive" at low rates being placed upon the market; Bar Iron still in small stock, and a further advance has to be noted; Round Iron firm; Hoop advanced 20c. to 25c., as there was none in stock; Steel difficult to move; Tin-Plates held firmly; Quicksilver declined owing to heavy arrivals; Lead almost nominal owing to a few anxious sellers; Yellow in fair supply and prices weak.

SINGAPORE.—The following is from Messrs. Boustead and Co.'s circular. The arrivals with general cargoes during the fortnight are the steamer Parnassus from Glasgow, the steamers Lord of the Isles, Erl King, and Abbotsford from London, the steamer Antenor from Liverpool, and Ellen Rickmers from Rotterdam. 39-inch Grey Shirtings: demand for 8¼ lbs. improved and considerable sales effected at $2,62½, with small sales at $2.65. 7 lbs. quiet. 6 lbs. in moderate request, 4 5-inch: 9 lbs. very dull, and to effect sales holders have accepted a reduction of 10 cents per piece. No stock of 8 lbs on hand. 32-inch Grey T. Cloths: Holders had pressed sales, and prices are in consequence slightly easier. Sales of 7 lbs. at $1.90 reported. 6 lbs. in moderate supply, but poor enquiry. Light weights meet with little notice. 32-inch Grey Madapollams in small stock, and improved demand at previous rates. 36-inch Grey Supers: No. 1 in good enquiry, which has been met at $1.95 to $1.97½ for ordinary, and $2.05 to $2.07½ for favourite makes. No demand for Nos. 2 and 3. 36-inch White Shirtings: during the early part of the fortnight there was a good enquiry for fine and medium qualities. Latterly the accounts from the outports have been unsatisfactory, and fine qualities are in less demand. 45-inch White Shirtings are scarce and much wanted. 36-inch White Spots are in small stock and fair request at $2.65 to $2.67½. 36-inch White Brocades are neglected. 45-inch White Cambrics: Prices are firm, but there is rather less demand. 15-16s are worth $33 to $34. 40s in active request at $23½ to 24. Little demand for low qualities. Imitation Irishes are quieter, stocks in second hands being considerable. 36-inch Dyed Spots and Brocades are in little demand. Velvets are not inquired for. T. Red Cambrics have been taken to a small extent at higher prices, $2.40 for 2¼ lbs. and $2.67½ for 2¾ lbs., but there is very little inquiry. T. Red Mulls meet with small request. Camlets are held firmly, but there is little demand. Scarlet Long Ells 12 lbs. are out of stock and in good inquiry. Scarlet Spanish Stripes are firm and supplies are in few hands. Brocade Lustres wanted at 22 cents or thereabouts. Lastings have not been asked for. Grey Yarn: 40s have been in fair request at quotations, and holders are asking higher rates. There are a few inquiries for 18-24s at $102½ to $105. T. Red Yarn of best quality is in small demand at previous rates, but holders seek an advance. Green Yarn is in good inquiry. Copper Sheathing is in limited inquiry, small sales of fine sizes at $29. Yellow Metal has been only moderately dealt in at $25 for the heavy and $25¼ to $26 for light numbers. Zinc Sheathing quiet at $8.75 to $9. Iron: A sale of English bar at $3.50. Nailrods, small sales at $3.50 to $3.62½, but now held for more. Swedish flat bar in little inquiry. Lead: L. B. and Co's. brand is in good demand, a sale on the spot at $6½ and latterly to arrive at $6.20, spot parcels are now held for $6.25. Stocks are moderate. Sheet continues dull.

TEA.

No later intelligence has been received from Foochow, and at the northern ports nothing of interest has transpired; at Canton, however, the prospects for the new leaf are said to be satisfactory, and at Macao further purchases of new Congous have been made, at prices which have not become public, but which are reported to be high. Small arrivals of new leaf at Canton had taken place at intervals during the fortnight, but had not been shown by the Teamen, as the quantity was too small to be of any service in forming an opinion as to the quality of the picking. The Teamen reported the receipts thus far to be of quality superior to last season, and that prices were higher, making the average about the same as last year's values. These reports need confirmation, however, as no musters had been shown. At Shanghai, no business had been transacted in either black or green, and no additions had been made to the small stocks previously reported on offer. At Yokohama, but little inquiry had existed, and only 250 piculs had been settled during the fortnight, leaving a stock of 1,200 piculs, in which there were few or no fine teas.

SILK.

YOKOHAMA.—The market had been very quiet, and only a few purchases of any moment had been made; settlements amounted to about 350 bales, of which about 50 bales were Tama, the remainder being chiefly Hamatski. Arrivals had fallen off considerably, and a further reduction in the unsold stock has to be noted. Prices for Hanks and Hamatskis were about $10 per picul easier, while other sorts remained unchanged.

SHANGHAI.—Messrs. C. J. Skeggs and Co.'s Circular says:—Transactions for the fortnight amount to about 600 bales, chiefly Re-reels and Yellow Silks, as the supply of other descriptions may be considered exhausted and the season virtually at an end. Chop Silks were finished up, as reported in our last circular, and the few Tsatlees, Taysaams, &c., amongst the settlements being so insignificant, we now withdraw all quotations, except for Re-reels, which are taken at prices ranging from Tls. 500 to 615, the latter being for America.

CANTON.—The market was quiet, and a slight reduction which had taken place had not produced any increase of business. Re-reels were still firm at last quotations, but there were very few offering. Settlements, for the French mail which left Hong Kong 10th April, 90 bales, for Pacific mail which left Hong Kong 12th April 125 bales, and for the present mail 55 bales. Stock, 100 bales Tsatlee, 30 bales Loongkong, 300 bales of common kinds, and a few bales of Re-reels.

COURT OF QUEEN'S BENCH.

FRASER V. THE TELEGRAPH CONSTRUCTION COMPANY.—AUXILIARY STEAMSHIPS.

This was an action by the shipper of goods on board an auxiliary screw steamer, the Hibernia, for delay in the voyage, arising from the steam not having been sufficiently used. The company had the Hibernia at Singapore, where it had taken some telegraph wires, and shipped a cargo of goods for the plaintiff to be carried to this country. The bill of lading described the vessel as a steamer, and it mentioned that it was, in fact, at liberty to touch at any ports for coal, but it was, in fact, a vessel propelled by sails, and in which the steam power was used only as auxiliary. The freight, however, was very low, 40s. a ton. The ordinary duration of the voyage by steam would be sixty-five days, but in fact the voyage took 135 days. The vessel took as much coal on board as it would carry, but this would only allow of steam being used occasionally, unless it was replaced, and, in point of fact, the steam power was only used in the China Sea, during calms at St. Helena, and in coming up the Channel. The delay in the voyage had caused the plaintiff damage, and for this damage he sued. The case was tried at the Guildhall on the 19th December last, before Justice Mellor and a special jury, and they found for the company, on the ground that as an auxiliary steamer it had been managed in the usual way, and that it was not usual to replenish the coal. Subsequently a rule nisi was granted for a new trial, and the present application on behalf of the plaintiff was to make this rule absolute.

After hearing counsel the Court decided that as the bill of lading described the vessel as a "steamer,' it meant that the voyage should be by steam-power; otherwise it would be deceiving and misleading the shippers of goods. They believed that auxiliary steamships were generally described as such. The plaintiff had supposed he was shipping his goods on board a steamer, whereas, in fact, it had not been propelled by steam-power. The contract by the bill of lading was not for an auxiliary steamer, but for a "steamer," and therefore the finding of the jury that the vessel was managed in the usual manner as regarded auxiliary steam did not avail. The meaning of the bill of lading was that the primary and principal motive power of the vessel should be steam, and that was the contract between the parties. But even if it would satisfy the contract that the vessel should be an auxiliary steamer, that implied that steam should be used to a sufficient extent. Neither question, however, had been put to the jury, and the verdict, therefore, could not be sustained, and there must be a new trial.

MARINE INSURANCE.—THE "BLACKADDER."—WILLIS AND SONS V. SAUNDERS, UNDERWRITER.

This was an action, tried in December last, before Baron Bramwell, to recover on a policy of insurance on the clipper ship Blackadder, and the defence was that the ship was not properly equipped, and was unseaworthy. The Blackadder was a new clipper ship, built for the London and China trade, and in the course of her first outward voyage it was stated that she encountered bad weather, and lost her mainmast. This caused serious damage to the vessel, and she had to put into the Cape to repair, and the plaintiffs sought to recover upon the policy in question for the loss they had sustained. On the part of the Underwriters it was submitted that the mast was not properly secured with the usual rivets in the cheeks, and that to this, rather than to the violence of the wind, the accident was owing. It was also urged that there was nothing in the ship's log book to show that the vessel experienced such violence as would account for the mast giving way if it was properly secured. For the plaintiffs, however, it was contended that the mast was properly secured, and the damage to the ship was solely attributable to the storms and perils of the sea. The jury found a verdict for the plaintiffs, but subsequently a rule nisi was obtained by the defendant for a new trial on the ground that the verdict was against the weight of evidence.

On the 23rd inst. an application was made by Sir John Karslake to the full Court (the Lord Chief Justice, Mr. Justice Blackburn, Mr. Justice Mellor, and Mr. Justice Lush) to make this rule absolute. After hearing counsel the Court granted the application, and a new trial will consequently take place.

THE CHINESE AND JAPANESE TREATY.

The Pall Mall Gazette publishes the following remarks upon the Treaty lately concluded between China and Japan:—

A recent number of the Overland China Mail contains what purports to be a translation of the Treaty and Trade Regulations lately agreed upon between China and Japan. That the translation is not strictly faithful is plain from a few obvious verbal inaccuracies which occur in it, but, judging from its general tenor, we believe that in substance it will be found to represent the terms agreed upon. In framing the articles the contracting parties have drawn largely on the foreign treaties as their models, and hence we find the opening passages teeming with general expressions of goodwill to the extent even of saying that in case of either experiencing injustice or wrong from another State, the one so injured shall "be entitled to assistance or good offices from the other." In framing the Trade Regulations the authors of the Treaty have even intensified some of the restrictions placed on foreign trade by the treaties. For instance, with absurd illiberality they strictly prohibit the subjects of either Power going into the interior of the country of the other; and should a Japanese merchant carry his goods into the interior of China, not only are his goods to be confiscated, but the offender is to be held amenable to his Consul. This is the more strange, since for centuries the people of the two countries have been closely united by the common bonds of religion, literature, and to a certain extent, language. So much is this felt to be the case, that it is especially agreed that the books of either country may circulate freely in the other, and it is considered necessary to prohibit natives of Japan from presenting themselves at the Chinese competitive examinations. The Chinese ports declared open to trade are the same as those known to us as the treaty ports, with the substitution of Kinchau in the Canton province for Kiung Chau in Hainan, but the only ports at which Chinamen are to be allowed to trade in Japan are Yokohama, Hakodadi, Osaka, Neegata, and Pezo. At these places convenient sites are to be pointed out by the local authorities for the erection of houses either for residence or business. The result of blindly following the trade regulations made by each country with foreign nations has had the effect of establishing some strange inequalities in the matter of trading penalties. For instance, it is agreed that if false entries or omissions be discovered in ship's manifests presented by Japanese captains to the Chinese custom-house, the goods shall be confiscated and the captain fined 500 taels, but "in Japan omissions shall incur a fine equivalent to the duty, and for false entries the fine shall be 125 dollars." Again, if a Japanese captain "presumes to land cargo before the manifest has been examined, he shall be amerced 500 taels, and the goods shall be confiscated." If a Chinese captain is guilty of the same offence in Japan, the goods shall be confiscated only. The same restrictions are to be enforced with regard to the trade in nitre, sulphur, and white copper as are laid down in our treaty with China, and rice is not to be transported from either country.

THE BRINDISI ROUTE.

The following letter detailing the inconveniencies experienced by travellers by the Brindisi Route has appeared in The Times:—Having a few days since crossed the Continent via Brindisi and Mont Cenis, I can most thoroughly corroborate all that has been stated as to the bad management at the Turin terminus of the Northern Railway of Italy, and the extreme incivility of such officials as have not been rendered gracious by a tip. But, indeed, the arrangements throughout this route seem made with the express intention of forcing travellers to journey either by Marseilles or the Brenner. After all kinds of unusual difficulties at Turin, we, the unhappy passengers, on arriving at Modane, were driven into a room to have our luggage examined. This room had but one small door for entrance and exit, at which the difficulty was still further enhanced by a demand for passports, recently declared to be unnecessary, and by the consequent delay in the case of the unprovided. The number of carriages provided here for the journey to Paris was miserably insufficient. I found myself in a coupe with four seats, in company with a gentleman, two ladies, and three children, who had to get in, there being no other places, at the last moment, and were subsequently compelled to pay the extra charge made for the coupe lit. We arrived punctually at Paris, but, as ingeniously arranged, just too late to catch the morning train at the Northern Railway for England, via Calais and Dover.

COINING FOR JAPAN.—The San Francisco Bulletin notes the arrival (at that place, by the China steamer, of $2,000,000 in Japanese nibo gold coins), sent to be put in shape for re-coinage. The Bulletin says:—"Some time ago the Government of Japan adopted a new style of coinage, closely resembling in size, shape, and value the coins of the United States. It was decided to call in the nibos for re-coinage. On investigating the subject, however, it was found that with the limited refining works of Japan it would take four or five years to accomplish the object. Negotiations were then opened with the Bank of California and the San Francisco Refining and Assaying Works, and arrangements were made with them for the refining of $20,000,000 of these Japanese coins, which are to be sent here at the rate of $2,000,000 per steamer, the first consignment arriving as already noted. These coins are flat pieces of gold, about an inch long and half an inch wide, containing 20 per cent. of silver, and valued at 53c. They are done up in small paper packages and subsequently packed in strong boxes. The labour required in removing the paper from the packages is immense. The coins are to be returned in fine gold bars of about 900 fine, all alloyed and ready to be converted into coin. The silver extracted therefrom will be returned in fine silver bars ready for coinage. In anticipation of the shipment just at hand, the Bank of California advanced $500,000 in fine gold by the last China steamer."

THE LONDON MISSIONARY SOCIETY.—About fifty missionaries of the London Missionary Society, with some ladies, met in Blomfield-street, Finsbury, to give an expression of their esteem to Mr. E. Stacey, who for more than thirty-seven years has been in the house of the society. The testimonial consisted of a purse of 150 guineas, with a handsome timepiece, and an address engrossed on vellum, stating that the presentation was the gift of nearly 150 missionaries who had been or are now labouring in various parts of India, China, South Africa, Polynesia, Madagascar, and the West Indies. The chair was taken by the Rev. R. Moffatt; prayer was offered by Dr. Turner; the address was read by Dr. Wardlaw; and after a suitable reply from Mr. Stacey, addresses were given by the Rev. Messrs. Blake, Bradbury, Gill, Mullens, Porter, Robinson, Sewell, Storrow, &c., all of whom spoke of the uniform courtesy, zeal, and intelligence of Mr. Stacey, and of the pleasure all had in this recognition of his long and valuable services.

THE GOSPEL IN JAPAN.—The Rev. Dr. MacGill, Foreign Mission Secretary to the Presbetery, Edinburgh, has made a statement to that body at their last meeting in regard to Japan. He stated that the Foreign Mission Board had agreed that the special attention of the Synod should be called to the present state of Japan, as offering peculiar opportunities for missionary work on behalf of that country, and that means be used, in conjunction with other Churches and societies, to influence Her Majesty's Government in the revision of treaties with Japan to secure the toleration of Christianity. Dr. Bell, Newcastle, moved that this resolution be remitted to the Foreign Mission Committee, to take all the means they think desirable in order to accomplish the object in view. The motion was unanimously adopted.

THE Anniversary Meeting and Dinner of the Royal Geographical Society takes place to-day. A report will appear in our next issue.

THE Queen has approved the appointment of Mr. C. G. Stahlknecht as Consul at Singapore for the German Empire.

TEA DRINKING.

A letter appeared from a medical authority last week to the effect that the poorer washer women and others of that class did themselves a more serious injury by vicarious tea-drinking than even alcohol. A champion now comes forward with the following defence:—

It will suffice for my object to appeal from Dr. Aldridge's dictum founded on his experience or practice in the North Staffordshire district, to the experience furnished by nearly a third of the human race spread over one-half of Asia. Chinese and Mongols both are inveterate tea-drinkers, and have been so as far as their history extends—two thousand years, at all events. This is a wider field for observation, and supplies the cumulative experience of many ages. The Chinese are more especially a tea-drinking race; tea is their common beverage, almost their only one; they drink it exclusively in the way Dr. Aldridge objects to—without milk or sugar. They take it with their meals, and at all intervals between when they are thirsty or tired or want refreshing—early and late and all day long. Yet, after years of residence among these debauched tea-drinkers, I cannot say that it ever appeared to me that they were as a people either deteriorated in health or furnishing any evidence of a lowered vitality in the rising generation. If any such cases came before me there was generally good reason to conclude the effects did not spring from immoderate addiction to their national product, tea, but the Indian exotic we have done our best to substitute for it—opium. The Chinese working classes as a body are remarkable for the amount of hard labour they can undergo, either in the field as husbandmen or on the road as coolies and porters. I have often seen them do a day's work under a burning sun and in an exhausting climate which few beef-eating or beer-drinking workmen in the temperate latitudes of the British Isles could easily match. How could this be possible if Dr. Alridge's theory about the deteriorating effects of tea-drinking and its connection with special diseases and lowered vitality in the rising generation had any foundation in fact? The mothers of each rising generation for so many successive ages and the children which spring from them are all fed upon tea and rice, rarely eating any animal food except fish. In some fifty or sixty generations the deteriorating effects ought to be very apparent if they had any existence, and any lowering of vitality through such a period must have left them very little left to draw upon. But so far from that, they are vigorous and healthy amid many avowedly deleterious influences of climate and conditions the reverse of sanitary.

HOLLAND.

ROTTERDAM, May 22.

The Liberal papers at length contain a semi-official communication with reference to the Ministerial crisis. The statement says that the King, who will start in a few days with Prince Henry for the Royal seat het Loo, has invited the Ministers who lately tendered their resignation to resume their posts. The Ministers, however, declined to withdraw their resignation, but have declared themselves willing to remain in office till the 1st of July, by which date a new Cabinet must be formed. The members of the Second Chamber have been convoked to meet to-morrow, in order to despatch the most pressing business, viz., the Amsterdam Canal Bill, and the War Budget of 1872. Of course the Ministers will make an official declaration to the members, and I have reason to believe that it will be in accordance with what I have told you. Several rumours are in circulation with regard to the composition of the new Cabinet, which it is quite unnecessary to repeat, because it is impossible to say how far they may be correct, but it seems certain that if a Conservative Cabinet should succeed to the Ministerial seats, it will be formed without the aristocratic element—a Ministry Heemskerk van Kuyk. As I conjectured in my last letter, the members of the Upper House only met to vote an address of condolence, to be forwarded to Prince Henry. This done they once more separated.

From several towns, and especially from the industrial districts, addresses of sympathy have been forwarded to the Minister of the Financial Department. The memorialists thank Mr. Blusse for his endeavours to replace the unjust licence-tax by an income-tax, and they regret that these endeavours were unsuccessful. Certainly a good deal of time must elapse before any Minister will again attempt to reorganise our miserable system of taxation, which for the greater part consists of that introduced by Napoleon I.

Among commercial men several items of news are circulating. It is said that the dividend of the International Credit and Trading Company, Rotterdam—the annual meeting of which will be held on the 3rd of June—will be very satisfactory, say 10 per cent., which is, I need not state, most creditable to the managers. The shares of this company are quoted 100¼. The dividend of the Netherlands Bank has been fixed at f.157, which is much less than that of last year. It is a fact worth being mentioned that the rate of discount at this establishment is very low (3 to 4 per cent.), and that it has not been altered since the 6th of June last year. Rumours are in circulation respecting the Commandiet Kas, now under liquidation, reflecting greatly upon the managers. I may be able to tell you something further with regard to these reports in my next letter. Lastly, I think it will be of interest to your readers in Java to hear that the firm of Messrs. J. C. Rueb and Zonen (sugar brokers) is to be dissolved.

The day after to-morrow another East Indiaman will be launched from the yard of Messrs. Smit at the Kinderdyk. She will be named de Liberaal, and will be the largest vessel of our commercial navy.

It is with much regret that I hear that the illness of Mr. Thorbecke has again taken an unfavourable turn, and that the same is said of the Prince of Orange, who could not attend the funeral of the Princess Henry. The condition of both causes much anxiety.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

The business done has been upon the whole on a limited scale, but a firm tone continues to prevail for most of the leading articles, and a favourable opinion is entertained as to the result of the Trading Company's public sales of Coffee and Sugar, to be held this week. The reservedness of holders of both articles has tended to check transactions by private contract, as the sales closed would have been of greater importance if the market had been better supplied. The demand for Refined Sugar has been very animated, and large contracts have been lodged for forward delivery. The public sales of Raw Silk (reported in my last) met with but a limited attendance of buyers, and the largest portion of the quantity put up was bought in.

COFFEE.—In the face of the Trading Company's May sale, the market has continued to exhibit increased firmness, and there are ready buyers at full prices; but the reservedness of holders causes transactions to be limited. Good ordinary company's Java is in short supply at 43½c., whilst pale sorts have changed hands at 44½c. to 45c. The business done from first hands embraces 885 bags ex Esmeralda, and 1,514 bags ex Henrietta Gerardina Susanna.

SUGAR continues to exhibit great firmness, and sales have been closed to an extent of about 3,500 baskets Java, both afloat and ex vessels recently arrived, in the proportion of f.½ above March prices for yellow, and at the parity of those rates for white Sugar. There is, however, very little on offer.

TEA keeps firm. No sales, however, have been closed lately from first hands.

JAVA TOBACCO remains dull, and the only transactions to note have been the sale of 551 bales Java, head mark, Kotta DB, afloat, per County of Sterling.

RATTANS.—Without transactions to report, but the article is well supported.

RICE.—The cargo of about 11,700 bags Java ex Laurens Koster has been disposed of at f.8.

SPICES.—The following sales have been closed, viz., several parcels ex Laju, Laurens Koster, Kaisow, and Noach III. 192 bags Black Pepper ex Rosalie were sold at a secret price.

COCOA-NUT OIL.—Small lots found buyers, Ceylon at f.25 and Cochin at f.27½.

TIN.—A dull tone has prevailed for this article, but towards the close it has become firmer. Banca has sold for public sales' prompt at f.95 to f.95½, and for delivery ex the next autumn sale at f.92½ and f.92. Old melted Java Copper Coin, Trading Company's import, has changed hands at f.58.

HIDES.—Several parcels, ex Laurens Koster, Hoek van Holland, Nestor, and Kenilworth, have changed hands.

INDIGO.—No sales are reported, but the market looks healthy. Several small shipments of Java came to hand by some of the vessels lately arrived, which will make their appearance in the market as soon as being sampled.

ARRACK.—I have to report the sale of 39/1 and 12/2 casks Sourabaya, ex Hoek van Holland, whilst 153 casks, ex W. W. Smith, changed hands at an advanced price.

SHIPPING.

FREIGHTS.—The Trading Company has chartered the following vessels to convey produces from India to Amsterdam:—Maibit, F. H. Popken, 609 lasts at f.74.55; IJmuiden, F. Zeylstra, 388 at f.74.90; Ary Scheffer, J. L. Besseling, 398 at f.75.43; Petronella, L. Vliedorp, 295 at f.75.43. To Dordrecht: Dordrecht II., C. J. Rotgans, 408 lasts at f.76.49.

DEPARTURES.—May 17, from Brouwershaven, for Batavia, President van Ryckevorsel; for Singapore, Ely; 20, from Texel, for Batavia, India Packet.

PASSENGERS OUTWARD.—For Java, per India Packet: Messrs. J. A. Woutersz and family; Miss C. A. Bodinguis, M. Capel, J. M. Oorbals; per Ada: Mr. M. van der Wielen, Mrs. Tyndale.

PORTUGAL.

LISBON, May 18.

The postal tariff between this country and Germany has been much reduced by the Convention lately negotiated at Berlin. The rate of postage for letters was formerly 70 reis, but it is now reduced to 60 reis. The scale of weight will be 50 grammes. Newspapers, books, and other prints, and patterns of goods will continue to pay a postage of 20 reis, but the limitation of weight will be increased to 50 grammes.

The Cortes were prorogued on the 4th inst. The special report presented by the Minister of Finance early in the session was accompanied by twelve propositions. Eight of these propositions were approved of, and several of them will be to the immediate advantage of the State by the establishment of new taxes and the increase of others already levied. The receipts from these new taxes are estimated at £250,000, and the effect upon the Budget for 1872-1873 will be to reduce the deficit to about £400,000. Amongst the propositions approved there was one the object of which is to change the system upon which taxes are collected. Hitherto they have been collected half-yearly, but in future they are to be paid in monthly instalments. This system has already been adopted in France with great advantage to the State, the Government obtaining the money much sooner than under the former system.

A commission, composed of many influential and patriotic persons, has been appointed to study the best means of checking emigration to Northern and Southern America. The emigration from all the provinces of the country has been extraordinary in late years. At this moment a great society has been constituted, and is using its utmost efforts to bring about a scheme that will be highly beneficial to Portugal, and perhaps to Spain, with regard to this subject of emigration. The society intends to obtain a part of the uncultivated lands of Portugal, which comprise about half the area of the country, and to cultivate them properly. For this purpose they ask several concessions from Government—viz., exemption from imposts during some years; liberty for the cultivation of tobacco; exemption from military service for their labourers, and some other conditions.

I was told that Dom Augusto, brother of the present King, is to be married to the daughter of the ex-Queen of Spain, Isabella; in the meanwhile it is assured that his Highness intends going abroad with his father to pay a visit to their relations in Germany.

LONDON: MONDAY, MAY 27, 1872.

THE CONSULAR SERVICE.

MR. MEDHURST, the Consul at Shanghai, in his examination before the Diplomatic and Consular Committee, urged some very important changes for the benefit of the service generally, which we trust will be done justice to in the report of the Committee to be drawn up forthwith. We would remind the Committee that the written statements which have been forwarded to them should be printed as an appendix. We understand several documents of this sort have been sent in during the past and present year. Mr. MEDHURST advocated the necessity for a real senior or chief Consul in China, who should be empowered to give advice to the junior Consuls on the coast in any emergency, instead of being, as now, compelled to await the directions of the Minister at Peking, which in the winter time is a delay of some thirty days. This recommendation has the more force since the establishment of telegraphic communication along the coast of China. If the Foreign Office do not carry out this suggestion they must arrange that the Minister at Peking should visit all the ports at least once a year, and at Shanghai it should extend over at least a month. The other recommendations of Mr. MEDHURST were as follows :—

The Consul at Shanghai should have local rank as Consul-General. The Consulate at Chinkiang should be re-established. That no port should be abandoned without a quid pro quo is obtained from the Chinese Government. That the union of Hong Kong and the Consular ports under one head was very undesirable, but the consolidation of the judicial functions for all China and Japan, including Hong Kong, would be advantageous. That a readjustment of Consuls' salaries should be carried out, having regard to the social requirements of each port, as well as to its commercial importance—the highest to be Shanghai, at £1,650. That after a certain term of years in the case of approved service, exceptional allowances should be given to Consuls, in addition to their salaries. That Consular pensions and allowances on leave should be granted on more liberal terms —more especially after lengthened terms of service, and that the public rooms in Consuls' quarters ought to be furnished at public expense.

That interpreters as a separate class shall be done away with. That assistants shall be better paid, and shall receive their salaries monthly instead of quarterly, as well as have their quarters entirely furnished by the public. That the Government should rather look to decreasing the number of assistants at each port in the future, than increasing them as suggested by Sir R. ALCOCK; my opinion being that with less men and better pay a larger measure of efficiency will be secured. That the staff of Chinese servants attached to the Consulates will bear looking into with a view to reduction. That the Gaol establishment at Shanghai should be handed over to the Municipal Council. That fees are all very low, and those on shipping would bear an advance. That the large expenses incurred at Shanghai on account of seamen and distressed subjects sent to hospital might be reduced by arrangement with local practitioners.

That the registration fee of $5, now imposed on British subjects, is obnoxious, and, if regarded as necessary to meet the expense incurred by Government in providing Consular and other institutions for the public benefit, they should be exacted under another name more descriptive of their true object.

THE SINGAPORE RAILWAY.

WE understand that a despatch from Lord KIMBERLEY to the Governor of the Straits Settlements, on the subject of the proposed railway between Singapore and New Harbour, went out by the mail of the 17th instant, leaving the construction of the line open to private enterprise, if a company can be formed fairly representing the various interests, and capable of providing effectively for the requirements of the public. As far as we understand the question, this is just what the promoters of the long line, in their application for a concession, engaged to do. In the first instance a company was formed, and the capital subscribed to construct a short line from the town to the dock and wharves of the Tanjong Pagar Company, which is the nearest wharf to the town, leaving the owners of the other four wharves and their friends to continue the line to the premises of the Patent Slip and Dock Company, the most distant of the five establishments in New Harbour, if they thought proper to do so, offering them at the same time running powers over their line. But this they declined, and applied to Lord KIMBERLEY not to grant a concession for a short line, as they were prepared to construct a line embracing all the wharves and providing efficiently for all interests involved. The question was referred to Singapore, Lord KIMBERLEY remarking that it might on inquiry appear desirable that the Government itself should construct the line. But after a lengthened inquiry the Legislative Council at Singapore decided that the work should not be done by Government, but that a concession should be granted to the promoters of the long line, subject to conditions securing its impartial and effective working. Lord KIMBERLEY, however, did not see fit to confirm the decision of the Legislative Council, on what grounds we have yet to learn, but thought that the construction and working of the line should be entrusted to the local Government. When this became known, merchants here interested in the Straits, and the inhabitants of Singapore, in public meeting, strongly remonstrated against the employment of the public resources of the colony on a work which they regarded as one of a purely private character, and in which the interests of the public were very slightly, if at all, concerned. These representations, we are happy to see, have had their effect, and Lord KIMBERLEY now leaves the question where it was left by the Legislative Council—open to private enterprise.

This is just what we anticipated when we last alluded to this matter in our issue of 29th ult.; for we felt sure, after the views expressed by Lord KIMBERLEY in his admirable despatch of 15th August last, on the finances of the colony, that he was not the Minister to disregard the wishes of the Straits community on a question of this kind, expressed, as they were, so temperately, but at the same time so firmly and unmistakably, at the Singapore public meeting and through the medium of the press. We may therefore trust that all idea is for ever abandoned of embarking the public resources of the colony in a purely commercial undertaking, as this railway evidently is, and that the promoters of the line that has been sanctioned will at once undertake the work. They have now the field quite open before them. The traffic which the proposed line is intended to accommodate is now conducted after the most primitive fashion, by bullock-carts along the common road. This rude mode of conveyance will of course soon be superseded, that is, if the rail will do the work more efficiently. These bullock carts, however, being the only opposition they have to dread, the competition cannot be very formidable, and we may expect that they would be soon run off the road.

THE report of the Postmaster-General of Hong Kong for 1871 is a marvellous document for so young a place. Mr. MITCHELL has certainly succeeded in exhibiting the extraordinary capabilities and energy of the settlement. But the solid results are even more astounding—a clear nett revenue to the colony of $37,566, or about £9,000. The report we have before us is taken from the Daily Press, and unfortunately does not give the particulars of the receipts, although the expenditure, amounting to $32,447, is fully detailed. We can only assume the receipts to have been $70,013, the expenditure $32,447, leaving a nett profit of $37,566. The following paragraphs allude to the Shanghai and Yokohama agencies :—

The increasing importance of Shanghai as a commercial entrepot is, however, such as to fully justify the erection of a post-office, and so long as the mail packets touch there, I consider, as I stated in the report of my tour of inspection, that as an investment, and for obvious reasons, it will be far more advantageous to the public to have a building erected specially for post-office purposes than to continue the present plan of paying rent and being liable to repeated changes.

The convention or agreement between the British Post-office and the local post-office at Shanghai, which had been in force for about four years, was abrogated in June last, and whilst the revenue has not been affected by the separation of the two offices no inconvenience has apparently been sustained by the public.

No improvement has taken place in the revenue of the Yokohama agency since the 24th March, when I reported a decline of about 5 per cent. therein, attributable to the opening of the Pacific Railway from San Francisco to New York, which has diverted most of the correspondence from Japan for the United States, and a portion of that for the United Kingdom from its former route by British packets via Hong Kong, to the less expensive and more direct route afforded by the United States packets, at present plying monthly between Yokohama and San Francisco; and it is probable that when these packets run fortnightly the usefulness of the British Post-office at Yokohama will be still further diminished, and its revenue likewise. The loss involved by the maintenance of that office is borne chiefly by the Imperial Post-office.

The Spanish Government having in June last entered into a contract for the exchange of mails between Singapore and Manila, the mail service between Hong Kong and Manila, which had been for many years conducted by vessels of the Spanish navy, was discontinued. The new service is carried on in connection with fortnightly English mail packets only, and the letters from Manila for transmission by the homeward French mail packets, and for the United States mail packets, are sent to this office by private steamers from Manila.

IN another column will be found the report of Mr. ex-Consul CASWELL on the trade of Saigon for 1871. This report is the last but certainly not the least of Mr. CASWELL'S. It is a most valuable addition to our knowledge of the French colony, and the value is considerably enhanced by its prompt publication by the Foreign-office. We trust that all Consular reports will now be similarly treated. We understand that Mr. L. HAUSCHILD, who is also a partner in the firm of Messrs. W. G. HALE and Co., is appointed Acting Consul, pending the question now before the Foreign-office of appointing a paid official as Consul.

THE Bill increasing the sudsidy to the Pacific Mail Company from $500,000 to $1,000,000 per annum for a fortnightly service to China and Japan has been passed by both Houses of the United States Congress. A time-table of the fortnightly service will be found in our advertising pages.

SAIGON.

(Report by Consul Caswell for the year 1871.)

The year under review has been a very prosperous and eventful one for this Colony. The trade done not only by far exceeds that of previous years, but the Government has evinced an eager desire to promote commercial interests, develop the resources of the country, and induce the investment of European capital. One important step in this direction has been to grant a handsome subsidy to a private individual to establish regular steam communication with all parts of the interior, by which means the Government transport service will be effected; the contractor at the same time having full liberty to employ the steamers for commercial purposes. Very satisfactory results are anticipated from this enterprise, which, it is said, will come into operation early next year. Another noticeable event in the annals of the colony is its connection by telegraph with Singapore and Hong Kong, which was satisfactorily effected by the China Submarine Telegraph Company, on the 31st July. This very considerably enhances the importance of the colony, giving it another undoubted advantage over its neighbouring, but less favourably situated, rice port, Bangkok. Steam communication with Hong Kong and Singapore has also greatly increased, and even in the rice-carrying trade sailing vessels are being superseded.

A few agricultural pursuits have been undertaken by Frenchmen, and, in addition to sugar-cane, some feeble attempts have been made to raise coffee; but, as should be expected in a new and comparatively but recently conquered country, there are many difficulties to be contended against by those who first embark in such enterprises, though, no doubt that, with the aid of Chinese labour, very satisfactory results may ultimately be arrived at. Immigration from China into this country continues to increase steadily, and for its satisfactory condition the Colony owes much to this industrious race.

On the other hand, however, very strenuous efforts have been made by the Government to increase the revenue of the Colony. Although import and export duties have been eschewed as injurious to trade, more objectionable and irksome taxes have been adopted; more particularly an augmentation of the capitation tax on Chinese, to f.25 annually for coolies and other classes in proportion, the maximum rate being f.300. Moreover, in order to have a better control over the Chinese population, the Government have recently adopted the rather original system of photographing every Chinaman in Cochin China.* One copy of the photograph is registered, and another affixed to the individuals "Permit de Sejour," an exception being made in favour of those paying f.300 per annum. Further, a native spirit farm has been introduced, and thus considerably over a third of the entire revenue of the Colony is now derived from opium, gambling, and spirit licenses, and some idea of the habits of the people may be formed by the large sums realised thereby.

The contracts entered into by the farmers (Chinese) for the present year are as follows:—

Opium	...	...	f.2,537,800
Gambling	...	...	2,338,880
Spirits	...	...	971,000

From these and other sources, the official reports published show that the "Budget des Recettes" has been raised to f.14,500,000, which, after meeting all direct expenses, cost of public works, &c., still leaves f.500,000 overplus, which goes towards the expenses borne by the mother-country.

Shipping.—The following is a statement of the British shipping which entered this port in 1871:—

Vessels.	Number.	No. of Tons.	No. of Crews.
Sailing ...	... 200	... 90,230	... 3,185
Steam ...	... 61	... 39,853	... 2,592
Total ...	... 261	... 130,083	... 5,477

And the annexed tabular statement published by the Chamber of Commerce shows that the aggregate number of vessels which loaded here was 528, of which 244 were under the British flag. This very large proportion is partly accounted for by the fact of the German shipping having been withdrawn from the trade during the late war.

Rice.—The exports, as shown by the annexed fully detailed statement, amount to 4,982,320 piculs, being 1,200,450 piculs in excess of last year. As I predicted in my last year's report, with high prices in China, shipments to Europe have been impracticable, and this will in all probability again be the case this season.

Sugar.—Under this head I have to report that the Company of which I made mention in my last annual report (the Indo-Chinese Sugar Company, Limited) has abandoned its project in connection with this country, and its factory has been disposed of to the original proprietors, who (with the aid of the French Government), are still sanguine of success. The causes which led to this action on the part of the Company are best explained by the following extract from the report published by the Directors:—"When the Company was first established it was supposed from all the information that had then come to the knowledge of the directors, after the most careful inquiries, that the Bienhoa districts in which the factory purchased is situated, not only produced a supply of cane sufficient for all the requirements of the mill, but that such cane could be purchased without difficulty from the producers at a reasonable price. In this expectation the directors regret to state they have been much disappointed. The quantity of cane grown on the Bienhoa District, no doubt, would be more than amply sufficient to supply the wants of the mill, if it could be purchased on anything like fair terms, but serious obstacles interfered to prevent this being done.

"These obstructions were twofold; firstly, the opposition of the owners of the native mills, more than 500 of which are established in the locality referred to, and who naturally did not feel inclined to shut up their mills in order to allow the cane to be sold to the factory; and, secondly, the undisguised hostility of the native chiefs and money lenders, who did all in their power to oppose and thwart the company in their endeavour to purchase cane from the native growers. It was on this account that the most strenuous exertions on the part of the agents of the Company were unable, in face of the difficulties alluded to, to secure more than a limited quantity of cane at a comparatively high price. At the same time it is due to the French Government to quote the following remarks which appear in the same report:—"It may be stated that the French authorities take a great interest in the factory, and are willing to assist the company in every way so far as lies in their power." The trade in all other articles of produce continues in the hands of the Chinese, and no statistics being published, it is impossible for me to give any returns. These remarks likewise apply to the principal articles of import.

* A contract to perform this rather extensive operation was entered into by a Chinese artist, who undertook to produce two copies of every individual at 25 cents (equal to about 1s.

CHINA TRADE RETURNS.

The first part of the "Returns of Trade at the Treaty Ports in China, for 1871," just published at Shanghai, consists of a valuable abstract of trade and customs revenue statistics from 1864 to 1871. The annual value of the foreign trade shows an almost uninterrupted, though small, advance from Tls. 105,300,087 in 1864, to Tls. 153,050,643 last year. Imports rose almost steadily from Tls. 51,293,578 in 1864 to Tls. 78,190,093 in 1871; and exports from Tls. 54,006,509 to Tls. 74,860,550. The customs revenue advanced in like manner from Tls. 7,874,257 in 1864, to Tls. 11,216,146 in 1871. Separating the trade returns for each country, we find the imports from Great Britain rising from Tls. 11,650,758 to Tls. 29,152,258; while the exports show only the slight increase from Tls. 36,327,556 to Tls. 39,808,696. The trade with India fell off from Tls. 25,879,748 to Tls. 21,157,133. On the other hand the trade with Hong Kong (where the imports come originally from Great Britain, America, India, the Straits, and other countries) advanced from Tls. 18,243,873 to Tls. 37,882,126. The trade with the continent of Europe rose from Tls. 1,480,256 to Tls. 4,346,640; and that with America from Tls. 7,665,880 to Tls. 12,098,850. There are few statistics of Russian trade till last year, when it appears that there were exports to the value of Tls. 445,142 to Odessa, and Tls. 1,087,577 via Kiachta. Of other countries, the following show an increased trade:—Australia, New Zealand, Japan, and Cochin China; and the following exhibit a decrease:—Java, Siam, British America, the Philippines, and Singapore.

Among imports Opium rose from Tls. 26,882,049 in 1870 to Tls. 29,261,513 last year. In the same time Cotton Goods advanced from Tls. 22,307,940 to Tls. 29,803,783; while Woollens fell from Tls. 6,535,262 to Tls. 4,765,876; and Metals from Tls. 4,044,600 to Tls. 2,438,547; Sundries rose from Tls. 11,021,828 to Tls. 11,869,607.

Exports of native goods rose in the same time from Tls. 61,990,235 to Tls. 74,860,550, of which the principal increase was in Tea; and re-exports show the slight advance from Tls. 2,154,465 in 1870 to Tls. 2,224,616 in 1871.

The total export of Tea to foreign countries rose from 1,192,138 piculs in 1866, to 1,679,643 piculs last year.

The vessels entered and cleared fell from 15,612 in 1866 to 14,963 in 1871; the tonnage, however, shows a slight increase.

The total annual revenue of each port shows a tolerably steady increase from Tls. 7,874,257 in 1864 to Tls. 9,543,977 in 1870, the last year given.

The direct foreign trade rose, in imports, from Tls. 71,000,278 in 1870, to Tls. 78,190,093 in 1871; and in exports, from Tls. 61,990,235 in 1870, to Tls. 74,860,550 last year. The total foreign imports into Shanghai rose from Tls. 47,212,034 in 1866 to Tls. 57,469,457 in 1871; and the net value of the trade of the port (i.e. foreign and native imports, less re-exports and native exports of local origin) from Tls. 35,063,036 in 1866 to Tls. 51,446,421 last year.

It is to be hoped our reception of this important mission will not contrast unfavourably with that provided by the United States. Every motive of policy and good feeling for a nation with which we have the most friendly relations should move us to make an exception to our usual careless and pococurante fashion of dealing with even the most illustrious guests. The Americans are wiser. They foresee that such an Embassy as this is destined to be followed by results both interesting and important in their bearings on the future relations of Japan with Western Powers, and the particular direction which Japanese development will take under Western influence. The Japanese are in a fusible transition stage, open to all impressions of outward things, and are gathering materials which will shortly be cast into some more or less durable form as institutions that must greatly determine the future character of the Empire and its foreign relations. If these should be thrown into American moulds at the outset it will be our own fault. We shall only be repeating the error we made some thirty years ago, when our disinclination to be troubled or to make any effort threw Egypt into the arms of France, and placed successive Pashas and Khedives under French influences, political, industrial, and military. Precisely the same tendencies are now at work in Japan. What is called an "English education," which is now going on at Yedo, is entirely in American hands. We know, therefore, the kind of history the rising generation of Japanese will learn. There are some 1,600 pupils at the Government Schools, the principal of which and some twenty sub-teachers are all Americans. An American fills the highest office a foreigner can hold in Japan—that is, Imperial Councillor—whose duty it is to frame codes of general laws. Four Americans compose a scientific commission to introduce new methods of agriculture, mechanics, mining, railroads, &c. Another has the revision of a system of internal finance and maritime customs. A few years more of unchecked success in these directions will give us an American edition of Japanese history, in which the "Kami" of Old Niphon will have difficulty in discovering any traces of the original national type. A little more apathy and negligence is alone required to clinch the work which American statesmen are steadily labouring to perfect, to the exclusion of all rivalry or competition with other nationalties. Much may depend upon the course taken within the next month, and the treatment the Foreign-office or Her Majesty's Government may see fit to give a mission the head of which is in reality, if not in title, the Prime Minister of Japan, and the most influential member of the reigning Emperor's councils. As the Embassy is composed of forty-nine persons, and many of these have been specially sent to make a careful study of our great public works and factories, it is clear that unless previous arrangements are made, and the services of proper persons secured in advance to aid the chief of the mission and his various vice-ambassadors and secretaries in the objects they have in view, much difficulty and dissatisfaction will follow close on their arrival. Decidedly, whatever else be done, some officer of social position and name should be appointed on the part of the Government to take charge of the mission and afford them all the counsel and assistance they may require in a new country. And if any other motive were wanting, the munificent hospitality with which the present Tenno and Sovereign of Japan received the Queen's son not three years ago ought to supply whatever is needed to secure due attention, even though it should cost a few pounds and entail an item in the Estimates. Our habits of parsimony in matters of State ceremony, where national interests are involved, must be quite unintelligible and inexplicable to foreigners. One of the first Powers in the world, and beyond all dispute the wealthiest, there is no third-rate kingdom in the East or the West that will not show a more liberal spirit, especially when hospitality to distinguished guests is in question. But any display of meanness in the present instance can only bear one of two constructions in the minds of the Japanese. Either they will think that the Americans are right when they claim for themselves the first place among Western Powers, and that we are neither as great nor as wealthy as they had been led to suppose; or that we are designedly discourteous from a feeling of contempt and disregard of their claims to respect as a nation. How commercial and all other interests will fare on the approaching revision of our Treaty with Japan if such should be the impression made upon the ambassadors accredited to the Sovereign of Great Britain our merchants are likely to be able to tell us in a very brief time. Indeed, considering how keenly alive they usually are to what may touch those interests, it is rather matter of surprise that they should not already have made their voices heard. It will avail little to cry out after the mischief is done.

JAPANESE PLANTS.

The Gardener's Magazine has the following:—

The vegetation of Japan is particularly interesting to British horticulturists, on account of the many extremely beautiful plants obtained thence for the decoration of our gardens. Hitherto these plants have not obtained sufficient attention, as I hope to be able to prove presently, my object in forwarding this note being to awaken, if I can, the attention of the public to a subject of real public importance. It is found that a considerable majority of the Japanese plants that have obtained a place in our gardens prove to be quite hardy. The noble Lilium auratum, the glossy green and richly golden forms of Euonymus japonica, and the splendid series of varieties of Aucuba japonica, may be named as examples. I do not intend to offer any list of plants, for your trade catalogues will supply one if it is required. It is my business to make some general remarks on the conditions of vegetable life in Japan, and to show how they correspond with the conditions of vegetable life in some parts of the British islands where man has done literally nothing to soften the forbidding ruggedness of barren nature. If relative latitude be alone thought of, the Japanese Islands appear unfitted to supply plants for our gardens; they lie between 31 deg. and 45 deg. north latitude, but Great Britain lies between 49½ deg. and 58½ deg. north latitude. The difference is considerable, and if we confine our attention to latitude as a key to climate, all the Japanese plants ought to require greenhouse treatment here. The parallel of 40 deg. north latitude, which cuts through the middle of Japan nearly, also cuts through the centre of Sardinia, the Island of Minorca, and the very centre of Spain and Portugal. Hence the interesting question arises how to account for the near agreement of Britain and Japan in respect of the conditions that govern the development of vegetation. The answer is not far to find. Take any good map on which is marked the isothermal lines, and an important step will be taken towards a solution of the problem. The mean temperature of the Japanese islands is nearly coincident with the theoretical mean of their latitude, but the mean temperature of the British islands is decidedly above the theoretical mean, for the great Gulf Stream is incessantly acting on all our western coasts. Hence it is not surprising to find that the climate of Nagasaki agrees very nearly with that of the southern parts of England. In respect of winter temperature, the Japanese climate is apparently far more favourable to vegetation than ours. I say "apparently," because, as an experienced traveller and constant observer of natural phenomena, I will not be led by the nose by the thermometer. I have known 10 deg. of frost (Fahrenheit) to occur at Nagasaki, and I have known the winter to pass without a single fall of the thermometer below 35 deg. But animal and vegetable life in Japan are exposed to cooling influences that the thermometer takes no notice of. In these islands fogs are frequent and extravagantly dense, and they are often followed by gales that threaten to sweep the islands clear of every tree and house upon them. The new comer in Japan is apt to sneer at the cities because the houses are only one story high; but when he has tasted a Japanese hurricane, he perceives a reason for low roofs, and can praise the rich men for being content with them. The climate of Japan is probably the most changeable and convulsive in the world, and the vegetation of the country is consequently subjected to trials of which we shall obtain no account by consulting the thermometer or the parallels of latitude. It is especially worthy of remark that wind acting on organic tissues has much the same effect as a lower temperature would have; and hence the Japanese plants are, generally speaking, considerably hardier than we might have expected to find them had we been content to form an opinion by a consideration of latitude only. The Japanese are great gardeners, and wonderfully patient in providing against the adverse influences under which their horticultural labours are carried on. Everywhere you meet with protected gardens, enclosed with wood jalousies to break the force of the wind. Their tea plantations are usually protected in this way. Now I wish the reader to quit Japan for a moment and look at Brighton; then let the mental eye rove westward to Lizard Point, and then turn north, say, as far as Llandudno, and how often will it be found that there is a lack of adorning vegetation to make complete some of our finest examples of marine scenery? In many instances, Japanese plants would do wonders for our sea-side resorts. But let us go back to Japan to consider the case. The Japanese islands are extremely narrow; a width of 100 miles is the utmost. Consequently you cannot get away from the sea and the sea breeze a greater distance than 50 miles anywhere, and, generally speaking, the inland districts are at the utmost only 20 to 30 miles removed from the sea-board. We may therefore consider the vegetation of Japan as wholly marine, and hence peculiarly adapted for introduction to our "sea-girt isle," and of course more especially for the southern and western districts that have a mild climate and a humid atmosphere. I send with these notes a reduced pen and-ink copy of a beautiful Japanese picture illustrative of the climate. Here are the protected gardens that tell of the hurricanes that sweep the country, and with wonderful fidelity the artist has depicted the rising of a dense fog in a succession of sharply-defined bands of different tints of cold grey.

EXTRACTS FROM LORD ELGIN'S CORRESPONDENCE

Peking, October 7th.—We hear this morning that the French and our cavalry have captured the Summer Palace of the Emperor. All the bigwigs have fled; nothing remains but a portion of the household. We are told that the prisoners are all in Peking. . . . . 5 P.M., I have just returned from the Summer Palace. It is really a fine thing, like an English park; numberless buildings with handsome rooms, and filled with Chinese curios and handsome clocks, bronzes, &c. But also such a scene of desolation. The French General came up full of protestations. He had prevented looting, in order that all the plunder might be divided between the armies, &c., &c.; there was not a room that I saw in which half the things had not been taken away or broken to pieces. I tried to get a regiment of ours sent to guard the place, and then sell the things by auction; but it is difficult to get things done by system in such a case, so some officers are left who are to fill two or three carts with treasures, which are to be sold. . . Plundering and devastating a place like this is bad enough, but what is much worse is the waste and breakage. Out of £1,000,000 worth of property, I dare say £50,000 will not be realised. French soldiers were destroying in every way the most beautiful silks, breaking the jade ornaments and porcelain, &c. War is a hateful business. The more one sees of it the more one detests it.

Peking, November 2nd.—Yesterday, after the mail had left, I mounted on horseback, and with an escort and Parkes and Crealock proceeded to the Imperial City, within which is the Imperial Palace. We obtained access to two enclosures forming the one ascended by a pathway in regular Chinese rockwork on a large scale and really striking in its way, and the work being a well-wooded, park-like eminence, crowned by temples with images of Buddha. The view from both was magnificent. Peking is so full of trees, and the houses are so low, that it hardly has the effect on looking down on a great city. Here and there temples or high gateways rose above the trees, but the general impression was rather that of a rich plain densely peopled. In the distance the view was bounded by a chain of lofty mountains snow-capped. From the park-like eminence we looked down upon the Imperial Palace, a large enclosure, crowded with yellow-roofed buildings, generally low, and a few trees dotted among them. It is difficult to imagine how the unfortunates shut up there can ever have any exercise. I don't wonder that the Emperor preferred Yuenmingyun. The yellow roofs, interspersed here and there with very deep blue ones, had, however, a very brilliant effect in the sunshine. After enjoying these views, I went to the Russian Minister's, and found him installed in a house got up a l'Europene, and looking very comfortable with his national stoves. He showed me his chapel also. This morning I got a letter from Gros, telling me that, in opposition to my advice, he had been to see Prince Kung. I told him that he ought to let the Prince come to see him first; but the Jesuits think that they can curry favour with the Chinese by making him condescend. They are quite wrong, as I am sure the result will prove.

THE DESTRUCTION OF THE SUMMER PALACE.

Having to the best of my judgment examined the question in all its bearings, I came to the conclusion that the destruction of Yuenmingyun was the least objectionable of the several courses open to me, unless I could have reconciled it to my sense of duty to suffer the crime which had been committed to pass practically unavenged. I have reason, moreover, to believe that it was an act calculated to produce a greater effect in China and on the Emperor than persons who look on from a distance may suppose. It was the Emperor's favourite residence, and its destruction could not fail to be a blow on his pride, as well as to his feelings. To this place he brought our hapless countrymen, in order that they might undergo their severest tortures within its precincts. Here have been found the horses and accoutrements of the troopers seized, the decoration torn from the breast of a gallant French officer, and other effects belonging to the prisoners. As almost all the valuables have already been taken from the Palace, the army would go there not to pillage but to mark, by a solemn act of retribution, the horror and indignation with which we were inspired by the perpetration of a great crime. The punishment was one that would fall not on the people that may be comparatively innocent, but exclusively on the Emperor, whose direct personal responsibility for the crime committed is established not only by the treatment of the prisoners at Yuenmingyun, but also by the edict, in which he offered a pecuniary reward for the heads of the foreigners—adding that he was ready to expend all his treasures in these wages of assassination.

Monetary and Commercial.

We learn by telegram received on Friday last that the Shanghai market has opened at 26s. for Red Peacocks.

The report of the British Indian Submarine Telegraph Company (Limited) for the six months ending 31st March last has been issued. The gross receipts in that time were £80,479 10s. 11d., and the expenses £19,482 9s. 4d. In addition to the interim dividend of 2 per cent. the directors now propose to pay 2½ per cent., making a total distribution at the rate of 9 per cent. per annum, and the balance of £7,559 11s. 7d. is carried to reserve. The report also refers to the proposed amalgamation with the Anglo-Mediterranean, the Falmouth, and the Marseilles Companies into a new company, to be called the Eastern Submarine Telegraph Company (Limited).

The directors of the Falmouth, Gibraltar, and Malta Telegraph Company have issued their report for the half-year ending the 31st March last. The revenue amounted to £46,248 4s. 5d., and the working expenses to £12,979 4s. 10d. An interim dividend of 2 per cent. for the quarter ending December last was paid, and a distribution is now recommended of 2½ per cent. for the March quarter, making together a total for the six months at the rate of 8½ per cent. per annum. The reserve fund now amounts to £9,866 7s. 11d.

The report of the Marseilles, Algiers, and Malta Telegraph Company states that the revenue for the quarter ending 31st March last amounted to £3,879 11s. 7d., and the expenses to £1,315 13s. 6d. The directors propose to distribute £2,500, equivalent to 5 per cent. per annum, as a final dividend, the arrangement for amalgamation with the other companies taking effect from the date above named.

The directors of the Anglo-Mediterranean Telegraph Company have issued their report for the eleven months ending 31st March. The net receipts have been £64,317 14s. 2d., and a dividend at the rate of 15 per cent. per annum, or 13¾ for the eleven months, of which £5 6s. 8d. has already been paid, is recommended, leaving a balance of £4,004 12s. 10d. to be carried to reserve.

A dividend of ten per cent. per annum, free of income-tax, for the year ending 31st December, 1871, was declared at the annual general meeting of shareholders in the Hong Kong and China Gas Company, held on the 24th instant. The directors' report presented at the meeting was as follows:—

In presenting the accounts for the past year, the directors are able to state to the shareholders that notwithstanding the reduction in the price of gas and the enhanced rate of coal freights, the financial position of the company is improved. There have been 506 new burners added during the year, and at the date of the latest advices the fitting department was well employed. After paying interest on the debenture debts, and writing off the balance of "accounts in course of extinction," there remains £5,672 11s. 11d. at the disposal of the shareholders, which the directors recommend should be appropriated as follows, viz.:—£5,000 in payment of a dividend at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum (£2,500 of which has already been paid as an interim dividend), £500 to be added to the reserve fund, and the balance, £172 11s. 11d., to be carried forward. Mr. James Phillips, who retires from the direction in accordance with the articles of association, being eligible, offers himself for re-election. Your directors, in conclusion, have pleasure in informing you that the works are maintained in a thorough state of efficiency, and that the officers of the company at home and abroad continue to merit the confidence of the board.

At the meeting of the P. and O. Company, to be held on the 6th proximo, a dividend of 3 per cent. will be declared.

The ordinary general meeting of the British Indian Steam Navigation Company (Limited) will be held on the 4th proximo, to declare a dividend.

The Court of Queen's Bench has decided to grant new trials in the actions "Fraser v. the Telegraph Construction and Maintenance Company," and "Willis v. Saunders," the first referring to the charter of the steamer Hibernia, and the latter to the insurance upon the China clipper Blackadder.

The Trident Marine Insurance Company has been formed, with an influential board of directors, with a view to meet the increased trade and altered circumstances of the Suez Canal route to the East. The capital is fixed at £400,000, in 20,000 shares of £20.

The P. and O. Company's steamer Indus, which sailed on the 23rd for Gibraltar, Malta, and Alexandria, with the heavy India and China mails, will, after discharging mails, passengers, &c. proceed through the Suez Canal to Bombay and China. She carries out over 2,500 tons, chiefly Manchester goods, for India and China.

Bar Silver is only in demand for Holland, but the price is not so firm, and can only now be quoted at 60½d. per oz. standard. Mexican Dollars, the arrivals having been very small, remain without alteration at 62d. per oz. for the old, and 59⅜d. per oz. for the new coinage. The Indus has taken £37,200 to China and the Straits.

The amount of bullion by the P. and O. Company's steamer Indus, which left Southampton on the 23rd inst., was in gold—to Bombay, £1,000; to Madras, £5,475; to Galle, £2,000; in silver—to Hong Kong, £32,933; to Shanghai, £3,600; to Penang, £800; total in gold, £8,475; in silver, £37,333.

IMPORTS FROM THE STRAITS, JAVA, CHINA, AND ALL PARTS EAST OF INDIA.

TEA.

The amount of business during the week has been very small, partly owing to the Whitsuntide holidays, and partly to the unusual stagnation in the market. The chief feature of interest has been the further arrivals of new season's new-make Congous, which have sold less readily and at lower prices. Other descriptions show no material change. The public sales have comprised 2,195 packages on the 17th, of which 1,221 packages were sold; 4,222 packages on the 22nd inst., of which 3,877 packages were sold, and 9,061 packages yesterday, of which 8,334 packages were sold, all being without reserve. The deliveries for the week amounted to 2,756,175 lbs., against 2,848,477 lbs. last year. The only arrivals have been of Teas per P. and O. steamer and French Mail steamer, via Southampton and Marseilles respectively.

Black: Red-leaf kinds: There has been but little done in siftings or broken-leaf kinds. Fair to good common remain steady, with a moderate inquiry. Fair to good Kaisows have been dull of sale. In fine to finest but little has been sold. Pak Lin kinds show no alteration. Black-leaf kinds: The low qualities show no improvement. Fair to good common have been neglected. Fair medium remain quiet but firm. Good medium have been difficult to move. A few parcels of fine have been taken for export at the recent decline. Finest have been supported. Amoy kinds have sold at low prices for ordinary quality. New make Canton kinds: Old season's show no alteration; about 3,000 to 4,000 boxes of new season have been sold from 1s. 9d. to 2s. 2½d. per lb., showing a decline of 1d. to 1½d. per lb. In Oolongs, Souchongs, and Flowery Pekoes there is no feature of interest for remark. Scented Teas: the business has been small. Common to fair Canton Capers have been difficult of sale; good in rather better request. Canton Orange Pekoes have been saleable in small parcels at previous prices; Foo Chow kinds at rather lower rates. Uncoloured Japans have been in moderate demand at fully previous prices. Green: The market remains steady. Several Invoices, offered at public sale, have realised very full prices for all kinds, the demand for export still continuing, especially for Young Hysons, Hysons, and Imperials. Canton kinds have been quiet at about former rates.

SILK.

The market has undergone no alteration since our last report.

COFFEE.

Early in the week an active demand prevailed for Ceylon, more especially for Native and other ordinary descriptions, and large sales were effected, both on the spot and for arrival, at prices 1s. per cwt. higher than those quoted in our last report. During the past few days the favourable result of the Dutch sale has imparted greater strength to the market, more particularly for all ordinary qualities, and at public sale the moderate supplies have been all disposed of with good competition, ordinary and grey Plantation Ceylon at a further advance of 1s. per cwt., and small sizes even more, and Native has met an active demand also at a further advance. The last prices paid have been—Plantation, triage 65s. 6d. to 70s. 6d., small grey 73s. to 74s., low middling grey and dull 76s. to 77s. 6d., middling 79s. 6d. to 81s. 6d., good middling 82s. 6d. to 85s., peaberry 88s. 6d. to 92s. Native, good bold pale 73s., peaberry 74s. For arrival a considerable business has been done in Native Ceylon, closing at 70s. 6d. guaranteed good ordinary. In other East India the sales have been 108 bags Penang at 68s. to 69s., 463 bags Government Java at 73s. to 73s. 6d., 200 bags Java at 72s., 100 bags Singapore at 69s., and 400 tons Manila (to arrive) at 70s. per cwt. By private contract Plantation Ceylon has been inquired for, and sold at full rates, medium 78s. up to 90s. for fine bold, Native at 70s. per cwt.

The Dutch Trading Company's sale of 76,600 bags Java, &c., held at Rotterdam on the 22nd inst., went off with improved spirit, and prices were not only about 1½c. to 2c. above the valuations, but fully 3½c. dearer than the previous auction in April, good ordinary selling at 44½c to 45c., against 41c. at the April sale The following is the result in detail:—

The market has reopened after the holidays with a quiet tone, but although there is less activity, prices are firmly maintained. There have been no transactions in Manila at public sale, but privately 3,600 bags clayed have been sold at 29s. 6d.; and the floating cargo per Maria Fidelia, 32,000 bags clayed Manila, has been sold for the United Kingdom, price not reported, but supposed at equal to 26s. 1½d. floating terms. Of Penang 1,622 bags soft qualities at auction sold readily at dearer rates, common brown at 28s., middling to good brown 29s. 6d. to 31s. 6d., low grey to middling yellow 32s. to 34s. 6d., good and fine semi-grainy 35s. 6d. to 37s.; of 329 baskets date sort, 30 baskets sold at 25s. 6d., the remainder being bought in at 24s. 6d. to 25s. 6d., but since sold at 24s. 6d., and 400 baskets ditto privately at 24s. 6d.

COCOA-NUT OIL.—Market without change.

CAMPHOR.—No transactions.

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed: Small sales have been effected at 10s. 9d. Citronelle: Sales of about 50 cases Fisher's have been made on the spot at 2½d. per oz.

GAMBIER.—At auction 150 mats Cubes were bought in at 23s. 6d.; privately a moderate business has been done on the spot at 21s., and for arrival 50 tons May-June shipment have been sold at 18s. 6d., ex ship.

HEMP.—The supply of Manila at auction has consisted of very low and ordinary qualities, chiefly offered with all faults, but the whole has been held firmly and bought in; 1,562 bales Manila import 1871 were all bought in, mixed partly brown (576 bales) at £58, the remainder very low and low mixed brown and Capiz offered with all faults at £33 to £88, a few lots good fair roping at £51 per ton. Privately £49 10s. has been offered and refused for July to December delivery.

PLUMBAGO.—In auction 79 barrels Ceylon sold, middling small lump at 26s., good chips 23s., fair dust 10s. 3d. to 10s. 6d.

PEPPER.—Black: The market is dull and declining; privately sales to the extent of about 800 bags Penang have been made at 5¾d. to 5¾d. for delivery at the end of the year; and at auction only 206 bags damaged have been offered, of which 45 bags Penang sold at 5⅛d., the remainder Singapore being bought in at 6¼d. to 6½d. White: About 400 bags Singapore have been sold for delivery at the end of the year at 11½d., and sales of 40 tons have been effected for arrival, May shipment, at 12⅜d.

RICE.—A moderate business has been done during the week at last quoted rates. On the spot, middling white Bengal has been sold at 11s., and Askoolie at 10s. 7½d. quay terms. For arrival 100 tons Askoolie April shipment have been sold at 10s. 3d. quay terms, and 700 tons Madras June-July shipment have been sold at 10s. 7½d. ex quay. The floating cargo per Giova, 800 tons Rangoon end of March sailing, has been sold at 10s. 1½d. open charter; a cargo of 1,300 tons Necransie May shipment has been sold at 9s. 7½d. open charter; and a cargo of 750 tons Necransie May shipment at 9s. 6d. MANCHESTER GOODS.

Since Friday last the Whitsuntide holidays have tended to restrict business, and neither buyers nor sellers have shown much disposition to enter into fresh operations. The tone, although quiet, has continued firm, and there is no change in prices; yet, so far as can be judged during the absence of so many for the holidays, the tendency is certainly in favour of sellers. Business at Manchester, as usual in Whit-week, will be generally suspended till Monday next, the 27th inst.

By steamers via S.C., or sailing vessels, f.p.a.:—To Yokohama, steamer 35s., ship 40s.; to Shanghai, steamer 30s., ship 40s.; to Hong Kong, steamer 25s., ship 35s.; to Singapore, steamer 20s., ship 25s. to 27s. 6d.

CASUALTIES.

The Leucothea, Crowell, from Sourabaya to Amsterdam, was spoken March 27, in lon. 19 W., making seven inches water per hour.

The Maria Elise, v. Deursen, arrived at Texel, May 5, from Batavia, and reported having been in collision with a vessel in the North Holland Canal.

Advices received from Lisbon, dated May 18, announce the arrival there, with loss of mainyard, of the Taffarette, Rocher, from Havre to Saigon.

The Sea Flower, Thomas, which arrived at New York May 8, from Manila, reports having encountered a heavy N.W. gale, lasting forty-eight hours, off Cape Hatteras, May 3, during which she sustained slight damage.

Advices from Marseilles, dated May 16, announce the putting back to that port of the Harmonie, Gadais, for Yokohama, which vessel had previously put into the Hyeres Islands on account of a leak.

Later advices received from New York, dated May 10th, state that the Mallard, Young, from Pasaroeang to Boston, which was towed into Halifax, N.S. 8th, was much damaged; she had encountered a hurricane, April 16th, in lat. 40 N., lon. 61 W., during which she shipped large quantities of water, which washed the stores, &c., out of her forecastle, and she heeled over to such an extent that the crew could not get at the air ports to prevent the water going down, and, as she began to settle, her masts were cut away; on the 17th the gale subsided, when the pumps raised large quantities of sugar, thick as molasses; she was supplied with provisions from three vessels.

MISCELLANEOUS.

At St. Vincent, C. V., April 12, Jessie Gilbert, McKenny, from Cardiff, and sailed, 15, for Galle.

At Mauritius, April 17, St. Philibert, from Singapore.

At Buenos Ayres, April 17, Gezina Brons, Groenewold, from Macao.

At Table Bay, April 8, Johan Anton, Muhlenkoff, from Macao; 10, Pandito, Courtois, from Samarang.

At Simon's Bay, April 11, Paralos, Châuvelon, from Singapore.

The Agra, from Hong Kong to New York, about which some anxiety has been felt, passed Anjer on April 9.

Advices received from Cape Town, dated April 18, state that the William Fruing, chevalier, from London to Hong Kong, put in there, 15, with six of the crew mutinous, who were sentenced to imprisonment.

The Admiralty have invited tenders for the conveyance of 24 tons of stores to Singapore, 96 to Hong Kong, and 41 to Colombo.

PROSPECTUS.

Two reasons may be advanced for the formation of a marine insurance company at the present time:—

1st. The steadily month by month increasing business of the country, as shown by both export and import official returns.

2nd. The altered condition of the trade to and from India, China, and Australia, now chiefly carried on by steam vessels, the large capacity of which concentrates in one bottom cargoes of unprecedented value.

A careful examination of the affairs of the various institutions conducted with prudence will show that no investment has of late years proved more lucrative than that of marine insurance.

The Directors of the Trident Marine Insurance Company (Limited), as a guarantee for the character of its operations, have engaged the services of an underwriter of many years' experience and of successful antecedents.

If no allotment be made the deposits will be returned without deduction.

Applications for shares to be made on the form annexed to the prospectus, and must be accompanied by a deposit of £1 per share.

Prospectuses and forms of application for shares may be obtained of the bankers and brokers, and solicitors, or at the Company's offices.

THE TRIDENT MARINE INSURANCE COMPANY (LIMITED).

No APPLICATIONS for SHARES will be received after THURSDAY next, the 30th May, 1872.

(By Order) ALFRED H. TOULMIN, Secretary.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

DISPEPSIA, DISORDERED DIGESTION.—Some persons are particularly prone to stomach and liver complaints, while in others these diseases are produced by sedentary habits, irregular living, or mental disquietude. The liver and stomach being distempered, the heart and lungs soon sympathise with them, and both mind and body shortly suffer. These admirable Pills act directly on these organs, and soon restore them to a natural and healthy condition. The impurities are discharged from the system, the respiratory organs are relieved, the heated blood cooled, and bilious secretions regulated; the heart's action becomes tranquil, the nerves acquire strength, health benignly dawns again, happiness returns, and the patient is thoroughly restored to easy digestion, cheering thoughts, and refreshing repose.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN.

YOKOHAMA.

The present (French) mail brings dates to the 16th April, but by the Pacific mail steamer Japan, which arrived at San Francisco on the 15th ult., we have advices one week later, viz., to the 23rd. The cargo by the steamer includes 1,872 packages tea, and 299 packages silk. The P. and O. mail from London, Feb. 23, arrived out on the 10th, and the following French mail of March 1 on the 20th April. The following is from the Japan Herald:—

It is doubtful whether we shall ever know the truth about the recent attempt to force an entrance into the Mikado's residence. The story, as it was first sent, officially, by the Japanese Government, to prominent foreigners in Yedo, seemed sufficiently alarming. It was said that a group of men, about ten in number, presented themselves at the gate near which the office of the Dai-jo-kuan stands and insisted upon being admitted; that they did, in fact, pass the first barrier, upon which the second opening was closed, and they were held in restraint in the small square between the double gates; that they were still importunate, some endeavouring to crawl underneath the heavy doors, and that a melee ensued, in the course of which five of the intruders were shot. The first prevailing report—that a political conspiracy, with the purpose of seizing the Mikado's person, had been detected—has given place to a belief that the would-be "interviewers" were a party of religious fanatics. A very clear story is in circulation in Yedo,—though to what extent it may be trustworthy nobody can say,—to the effect that they were pilgrims who had recently returned from the neighbourhood of the Fujiyama, where they had experienced a supernatural vision of some sort, relating to affairs of state, which they deemed it a sacred duty to impart in person to the Mikado; and that their persistence was a matter of pious zeal, rather than of contumacy or rebellion. It is quite possible that the Japanese Government at first attached unnecessary importance to the whole matter on account of the suspected presence of a number of dangerous ronins in the capital, against whom they have been taking a great many precautions, public and private, for some weeks. It may be that the original serious apprehensions were justified, or it may be that the present explanatory statements of the authorities are to be accepted with confidence. Just now it is impossible to decide between their first extreme anxiety, and their subsequent apparent unconcern. In the melee four of the intruders were killed and one other was severely wounded.

It is said that the loan from America to the Japanese Government will amount to $650,000 in greenbacks, and is intended for the improvement of the harbour and city of Yokohama. It will be gratifying to know that we are to have a wharf leading out from the western Hatoba 1,900 feet, to enable steamers and vessels to discharge their cargo under a covered wharf, similar to those of the Pacific Mail Company at San Francisco. Street railways are to be inaugurated through the streets of both the Japanese and foreign towns extending to the railroad depot.

A report of an alarming native outbreak reaches us from Yedo. It has been rumoured in that city that a great conspiracy, having for its object the assassination of all foreigners residing in Japan, had been discovered. The day fixed for its execution was the 4th day of the 3rd month. The Government were in a state of concern respecting it, and a large number of men, alleged of participation in the conspiracy, were arrested in Yedo. Numerous and extensive precautions have been taken, but all appears quiet again.

The animal, bird, and flower show recently alluded to has been held with great eclat. The number of foreign exhibitors exceeded the most sanguine anticipations. The exhibition was divided into twenty classes, for various breeds of animals. Another show, for flowers and vegetables, is to take place on the 27th April, when prizes are to be awarded.

The annual meeting of the Yokohama General Hospital has been held, at which the report of the committee and the year's accounts were read; some dissatisfaction was expressed at the loss that had been incurred during the year, and the meeting adjourned for the purpose of allowing time to consider the report and finances. At the subsequent meeting a committee of four gentlemen was elected, who were authorised to look into the hospital accounts, and the committee for the ensuing year was elected.

The lately appointed Superintendent of Customs at this port, Wooyeno, has been appointed third Minister of Finance at Yedo.

The 7th Battalion of the Mikado's troops has been disbanded, and the men are returning to their various provinces. The cause of this is said to be the disaffection of its members.

The Race Committee have announced the Spring meeting to take place on the 8th, 9th, and 10th May. Training has been going on for some time past.

A fire, destroying three large and newly-built stores in Main-street has occurred at the commencement of the month, in which a Japanese fireman lost his life.

Athletic sports for the marines stationed here have been held at the camp. The race in which civilians were allowed to compete was gained by one of their number.

HIOGO.

On the 30th March a deputation of the foreign residents waited on H.B.M.'s Consul, Mr. Enslie, and, in view of his translation to Nee-e-gata, presented him with a complimentary address. The Government steamer Denshinmaru has been in harbour twice lately with material for the telegraphic wire now in course of construction between Nagasaki and Yedo. It is understood that nearly all the posts have been erected, and that the stretching of the wire is being rapidly proceeded with at different points.

The Hiogo News complains against the proposed scale of hotel charges for visitors to the Kioto Exhibition as exorbitant and impolitic. The scale is 4 rios per day for first class, 3 rios for second class, 2 rios for third class, accommodation. It is said that they have since been reduced. It also complains of the trouble and annoyance occasioned by the Japanese tidewaiters being almost totally ignorant of English.

A foot race has been run to the Moon Temple and back, a distance each way of four and a half miles, with an ascent of 2,000 feet, finishing in a flight of some 260 stone steps. The competitors were Messrs. Sim and Blackwell, and the race was won by the first-named, who accomplished the distance in one hour and twenty-four minutes.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

NAGASAKI, APRIL 15 (VIA SAN FRANCISCO).

On the 13th the P. and O. mail of the 23rd Feb. was delivered here, fifty days out.

Import business is very dull, but purchases for export must be considerable in the aggregate. The British ship Solent is expected here shortly from Hiogo and Yokohama, and will complete her loading at this port and proceed on to London. Her cargo will be wax, tobacco, and general goods; the rate of freight is to be £4 10s. per ton of 50 feet, a rate which must be very satisfactory to her owners. No doubt you have noticed a great scarcity of vessels in this harbour; this has been of lengthened duration, and coals have accumulated to such an extent in consequence that the P.M. steamers take them if put into one picul bags, and make good freights across. Imagine mail steamers taking coals, but it is a legitimate business, which pays full price, $3½ to 4 per ton. We have had a few visits from men-of-war during the month, consisting of the arrivals of the Aspic, French gunboat from Hiogo; Colorado, American flagship from Hong Kong, en route for the north; and French corvette Segond, from Hiogo. The Thistle (British), and French Aspic left on the 6th instant, the former for Hiogo, and the latter for Hong Kong and Saigon. Remaining in port: Ermaz and Gornoshay (Russian), Segond (French). Exchange on London is nominal; Nebus are quoted 400 per $100. The past week has been marked by a continuous rain, which will, if it is succeeded by sunshine, be extremely favourable for the Tea crop.

Political events, as you know, very seldom take place here, but we have domestic events which help to break the monotony of a quiet place. The one now engaging the attention of the residents is the municipal controversy, which owes its origin to the want of funds to set the fire brigade in motion. All the municipal funds have been expended in rebuilding the old bridge over the Sagarimatz bridge, which should have been done by the Japanese out of the ground rents, if done at all. No meeting has been called by the municipal authorities for several years; neither have any accounts been made public, and it is quite reasonable that the land-renters should know all about their affairs if they wish to; but the Nagasaki Gazette has taken up the question from the Consular view of the case, and has lashed away furiously at some of the Bund residents, and would wish to impress upon the community the unlimited power possessed by the Consuls over the residents. Of course this style of writing has nettled the latter, and the end of the business, I expect, will be the extinction of the Gazette. Its articles are extensively interlarded with Shakesperean quotations, and are principally directed against front lot-holders who have figured at the meetings who are called "Ye lords of ye Bund, &c., &c." The Nagasaki Express views the question from the land-renter's side, and has made some very telling remarks in their favour, but they are almost if not entirely lost upon the other division. If the land renters choose to press Article 9 of the Land Regulations they could make it very uncomfortable for the Consuls, who acting as a Municipal Council have taken upon themselves the responsibility of disbursing money for purposes other than those for which the rates are collected. By refusing to call a meeting when requested to do so by a number of duly qualified land-renters they have, to say the least, placed themselves in a false position, and have made themselves quite as obstructive as the Japanese could have done. Rumour says that although all the Consuls agreed to refuse, it is in reality only one of them—the American Consul, who is determined not to be interfered with in carrying his point, which in other words is petty spite directed against Mr. Hunt principally; as he has had most to do with the fire brigade business. An amusing mistake appears in a letter from Mr. Mangum, who ironically congratulates the promoters of the fire brigade on their public spirit. As the promoters are the Consuls themselves the letter which was intended to annoy the residents has recoiled upon the writer.

The Japanese Government telegraph steamer Tomio-maru, having on board the section of the wire to connect this end with Simonosaki, for the overland telegraph to Yedo, has arrived, and the work of laying the wire is to be commenced immediately. J. F. Foster, Esq., Chief Assistant Superintendent, arrived here also by the Tomio-maru, and is in charge of the expedition; the laying of the wire is under the management of J. O. Fry, Esq. who proceeds immediately to erect it.

CHINA.

SHANGHAI.

The usual issue of the North China Herald for this mail has not been forwarded in consequence of the next P. and O. mail leaving only two days later, viz., on the 21st April.

HONG KONG.

Dates by the present mail extend to the 25th April. The outward French mail of 15th March arrived on the 24th April. The following account of the loss of the Rona is given in the Daily Press:—

LOSS OF THE STEAMER "RONA."

We regret to report the loss on Sunday night, 14th April, and under painful circumstances, of the above steamer, news of which was brought on Saturday by the steamer Yesso from Swatow. It appears that when she was about twenty miles north of Okseu, on her voyage from Shanghai to Swatow, she was run into on her starboard paddle-box by the M.M. steamer Ava, and was damaged so seriously that she sank almost immediately, the only people saved being the captain, second officer, and three Chinese, who were on the paddle-box, and were thrown by the force of the concussion on to the deck of the Ava. The captain fell with such force as to arrive on the deck senseless. The latter vessel proceeded to Amoy, whence the news was brought by the gunboat Dwarf to Swatow. There were between sixty and eighty Chinese passengers on board, and Dr. Thomson, of the Presbyterian Medical Mission at Swatow, and a lady, whose name is not mentioned, were also passengers. Beyond the above particulars nothing is yet known, but it appears that the thick smoke from the Rona, which was running before a stiff breeze, rendered her invisible, the night being very dark. It would of course be premature to come to any conclusion as to whether blame attached either to the captain of the Rona or of the Ava for the sad disaster, but it is to be hoped that it may prove to have resulted from an unavoidable accident. The latest accounts brought on by the Glengyle state that the Rona foundered instantly, and that there were no traces of anything left of her. The S.S. Ava was so badly hurt that she was compelled at once to proceed to Amoy for repairs. H.M.S. Dwarf immediately put out in search of the crew and passengers. The Ava's officers state that they smelt smoke some time before the collision, but saw no light, and could not account for it, when suddenly with a tremendous crash they ran into the steamer. The Chinese have a rumour that a boat with two Europeans and some natives has arrived at some part of the coast.

We are glad to state that a telegram has been received from Shanghai, showing that the recent catastrophe to the Rona was not so fatal as at first supposed. The following are named as having been saved:—Captain McInnes, Pilot Kofod, the second officer, and the first and fourth engineers, together with forty of the Chinese passengers.

At the first ordinary annual meeting of the Hong Kong Pier and Godown Company (Limited), it was found that there were not a sufficient number of shareholders present to form a quorum, and it was therefore dissolved, no date being fixed for the adjourned meeting.

H.E. Count Geoffroy, the new French Minister to Peking, arrived by the French mail steamer, and received the customary salute from the men-of-war in the harbour.

The Harbour Master's Report for 1871 has been published. It states that, in comparison with the year 1870, there is a very considerable increase of trade generally; the gross total of shipping is larger by 9,204 vessels of all nationalities, representing a carrying capacity of 983,057 tons. The junk trade has increased, and the trade within our own waters, from one part of the colony to another, has also increased, though the movements of the Chinese carried as passengers exhibit a total falling off of over 200,000.

The marked increase of steamer traffic is a fact so patent as scarcely to call for remark. The following figures will probably be interesting hereafter, when the change now taking place shall have been completed:—

Total of all vessels arriving, junks excepted, 1871	1,372
Total of all steamers arriving, 1871	692

Steamers thus forming 33·5 per cent. of all arrivals. These figures do not include the river steamers.

There has been no contract emigration during the year under review. A great feature in Chinese passenger traffic has been the introduction of Ordinance 8 of 1871—an adaption of the law to the altered conditions of passenger-ships previously much needed. The new Ordinance is a boon both to the charterers of steamers and to the Emigration officer; and it practically supplies the want, so keenly felt before, of a condensed code of Emigration law. Table XV. shows that 11,921 Chinese arrived in the colony over and above 208,404 who arrived and departed.

The Harbour and Coasts Ordinance, 1866, continues to work satisfactorily. The Chinese now thoroughly understand it, and their seagoing community recognise its requirements as part or their ordinary duties. The officers of the Department, in their duties afloat, are met with civility and good humour.

The following items are taken from the China Mail:—

The Prussian Treaty, or rather, the Treaty of the German Empire with China, is to be revised at the close of this year or the beginning of next, and it is rumoured that many concessions, startling to the minds of the stagnant Lord Eldons of Peking, will be demanded by the representative of Prince Bismark. The Chinese are said to be quaking in their shoes at the prospect, and are bidding for support to first one Legation and then another, entirely, it is to be hoped, without avail. The interests of China, no less than of the Western nations, are involved in the matter. Progress and assimilation to Western standards are essential to China's well-being, and a judicious amount of moral persuasion, backed by a fair display of force, is the kindest and most generous treatment for the sick man among the nations of Asia.

We understand that the Viceroy of Canton has appointed an official to proceed to Hainan and to make all necessary arrangements for the opening of the port. The carrying trade of the West Coast is very considerable, and we hope to see a new impetus given to shipping interests by the transfer of the cargoes, which now fill the many West Coast junks, from native craft to the safer, more expeditious and economical mode of conveyance in foreign steamers. The opening of the port will also not improbably lead to discoveries interesting to the geographer, naturalist, and man of science, as well as profitable to the man of business. The Flora and Fauna of the island have been but little examined, and of the race of aborigines who inhabit the inner hills absolutely nothing is known. We may expect, therefore, some interesting and novel facts to be brought to light so soon as enterprising explorers have opportunity and chance to explore this terra incognita.

The successful docking of the Iron Duke in this remote dependency of the British Empire does not seem to have met with the attention which its importance publicly deserves,—not in its commercial aspect merely, or as it may effect the interests of the shareholders in the Hong Kong and Whampoa Dock, to whom the spacious Hope Dock at Aberdeen belongs. Under either of these heads the fact that efficient dock accommodation exists at Hong Kong for ships of 3,700 tons burden must be perfectly appreciated by all persons without any argument or illustration being required.

The captain of the ship Golden Dream, lately arrived from Liverpool, reports that in passing the Island of St. Paul's on the 14th of February, he saw a vessel at anchor off the island showing signals of distress, which proved to be the American ship Mantano, from Boston to Hong Kong, with a cargo of ice. On boarding her it was reported that the vessel had been on fire for eight days, and had only reached the island on that day; that all her stores had been landed; and that it was intended to open her out the next morning.

In consequence of continued drought we hear that the Viceroy of Canton has prohibited the slaughter of animals. The surrounding districts of Canton have had a great out-pouring of rain, but in the city itself none has fallen; the gods have thus far disregarded the Viceroy's prayer.

In Chung Sing a theatrical performance was recently given in honour of a female deity. While the performance was going on one night the bamboo structure caught fire from the careless burning of some joss-paper, and, there being a great number of female spectators present on the occasion there was the greatest confusion, and the number of dead and wounded were stated at something like 600 persons. In one case a whole family were killed, and all the gorgeous dresses of the actors were burnt.

Twenty-six gambling houses have been recently closed at Canton by order of the local authorities. It appears that the non-payment of the customary "fees" to the yamen underlings was the immediate cause of the enforcement of the gambling law.

We understand that the ten "Krupp" guns recently arrived by one of Mr. Holt's steamers are for the Viceroy of Canton, to arm a new fort which he is building below Canton. They will be transhipped into a junk or junks and convoyed by the Tienpo to their destination.

Rumour has long had it that the Rev. W. A. Russell, of Ningpo, was to be made Missionary Bishop of China and Japan. It is now stated positively that he is ordered home to be consecrated, and is expected to leave for England in the May steamer via San Francisco. Those to be affected by this measure are, the Courier thinks, to be highly congratulated. We hope his elevation will not lessen his enthusiasm for croquet or chess, for he is a skilful and genial companion at both.

A tramway company in Shanghai has been formed to run a tram to Hong Kew. Mr. JohnDent is one of the directors. The proposed capital is to be Tls. 120,000 in 1,200 shares of Tls. 100 each, with power to increase to Tls. 200,000.

SAIGON.

The late telegrams stating the possibility of another rupture between France and Germany has caused a little excitement. There is no doubt but that the Germans will be again expelled if the Powers come to blows—even although some of them consider safety has been ensured by the holding of Consulships.

A great improvement has taken place in the manner of reaching China-town from Saigon. An enterprising ship-captain has had several small steamboats built at Whampoa and sent here to ply on the creek. The charge for going four miles is only one franc; and really, if one has not to go on business, it's not dear in order to get a little fresh air without being choked by dust on the abominable roads.

There are sixty-five vessels to be loaded here. Freights are low, 40 to 42½ cents to Hong Kong.

The steamer La France has arrived from Rio Janeiro, bringing on the passengers of the French ship l'Orientd, which vessel had been burned at sea, off the mouth of the Rio de la Plata, on a voyage from Bordeaux to Tahiti and New Caledonia. The passengers, who left the ship in boats, were first taken on board the English ship Delta, and thence transferred to the steamer Charrua, which took them to Rio Janeiro, whence the French Consul forwarded them to Saigon.

BORNEO.

SARAWAK.

The Sarawak Gazette gives some interesting particulars of a visit paid by Rajah Brooke to the Sultan of Brunei. The Government steamers Royalist and Heartsease conveyed H.H. and staff, consisting of Messrs Paul, Houghton, Chapman, Sinclair, and Gueritz. Their arrival in the Brunei river seems to have created some little excitement amongst the inhabitants, who at first were disposed to look upon the expedition as a hostile demonstration. The Rajah landed in State under a royal salute from the Sultan's palace. This palace is described as scarcely to be compared with the worst sort of native hovel, and as shabby and squalid in the extreme. The Sultan is a fat, kind-faced old man of some eighty years of age. At the audience, which took place in a small and tolerably compact hall in the palace, his Majesty's ministers sat on one side of a table which stood in the centre of the hall, while the Rajah and his officers sat on the other side. After a short delay, back folding-doors were thrown open, and through them a throne became visible and the Sultan appeared in person. After cordially shaking hands, His Highness seated himself not on the throne, but on the door ledge or step, with his legs dangling in mid-air, as they were too short to reach the floor. After an interchange of courtesies and expressions of mutual good wishes between the Rajah and the Sultan's ministers, for His Highness spoke never a word, coffee and cigars were consumed, and the interview, which lasted half an hour, came to an end. Rajah Brooke touched on his return at Labaun, and was saluted with all honours on his arrival there and departure.

The following is the text of the Treaty concluded between the Sultan of Brunei and his Highness the Rajah of Sarawak:—1. That the Brunei Government agrees to open their coast and ports to Sarawak traders. 2. That no extortionate custom duties are to be demanded from their traders. 3. Should traders meet with improper and unjust treatment at the hands of the Brunei authorities, such cases are to be referred to Brunei for settlement; and in the event of the Brunei Government failing to bring about a settlement, a notice of such cases is to be sent to Sarawak.

JAVA.

BATAVIA.

We have advices to the 28th April; the outward mail of March 22 arrived April 25.

Opium consumption is increasing to a vast extent in Mid Java. In the residency of Samarang it amounts at present to sixty piculs a month amongst a population of 1,254,589 natives and Chinese, setting aside what the farmer further received from the stock held by the State, and that at one time the consumption amounted to 20 piculs in two days, and also the masses of opium smuggled. The Residency of Japara, with 671,618 natives and Chinese, consumed from the 23rd March to the 8th April, thus within barely half a month, 33 piculs, not taking into account the quantity smuggled.

The Governor-General of Netherlands India has refused to grant Varkevisser, the murderer's, application for a reprieve. After making false confession, and trying therein to implicate innocent persons, he has made a most complete and circumstantial confession, and has declared that he had committed the robbery and murder without assistance of any kind, either from Europeans or natives.

A supply of 8,035.73 piculs of Billiton tin had been sold by auction, realising an average price of f.99.40 per picul. The Billiton tin yield, which in 1864 amounted to only 11,670 piculs, reached 17,873 piculs in 1865, and the produce has so increased that in 1871 it amounted to almost 50 000 piculs, and would have been greater still had it not been for want of water. The produce is far from having reached its highest point; none of the mines lie more than about thirteen miles from the coast, so that the greater portion of the island has not been turned to account at all for mining purposes, and has, perhaps, not been properly examined.

The British steamer Vider, the first steamship which has made the passage from London to Batavia direct by way of the Suez Canal, had arrived.

It is announced that the Batavia Buitenzorg branch of the railway would be finished in four months.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

We have advices by this mail to the 3rd May; the French mail, with London dates March 29, arrived out April 30, and the following P. and O. mail of April 5 was expected to arrive the day this mail left. The next inward mail had arrived from Hong Kong, and would leave on the morning of the 5th May. The following items of news are from the Singapore Daily Times:—

It is rumoured that the Pluto has been ordered to be got ready to take his Excellency the Governor over to Labuan. We take it that the object of the trip is to see about the proposed union of Labuan with the Straits Settlements, and that the cost of the trip will be paid by the latter. We protest against this. The union, if it takes place at all, will be a favour to Labuan, and not a cent should be spent by the local Government here to bring it about. If the Imperial Government wish the union to take place, it is clearly their duty to pay for the measures necessary to be taken for that purpose. If the Governor goes over to Labuan in the Pluto at the colony's expense he should undoubtedly be arraigned for malversation of the public moneys, and we trust this will be done when the Legislative Council meets.

Among the notifications in the Government Gazette is one showing the number of officers and scale of pay for the police force, as sanctioned by the Secretary of State for the Colonies. The office of Assistant Superintendent of Police at Penang has not been allowed, nor has the increase of $800 in the salary of the Superintendent at Penang. The salary of the Superintendent at Malacca is $2,400, or $200 per month instead of $135 as formerly, while the Superintendent at Province Wellesley gets only $1,800, or $150 per month. The head inspector will receive $1,500, or $125 per month. There is a considerable increase in the number of inspectors, and three European sergeant-majors are to be permanently maintained. It is probable some changes will be made in the appointment to Malacca, the salary having now been made equal to that at Singapore and Penang; Mr. R. W. Maxwell comes from Penang to Singapore as acting superintendent until the return of Mr. Waller, and will then very likely go to Malacca; and Mr. Hayward, the present acting superintendent there, returns to Singapore as head inspector. The Governor has approved of the following changes in the station of the police magistrates and commissioners of the Courts of Requests:—Mr. W. E. Maxwell, from Malacca to Province Wellesley; Captain A. R. Ord, from Penang to Malacca; Captain D. T. Hatchell, from Province Wellesley to Penang.

The extreme sentence of the law has been carried out upon the two murderers—the convict Appoohanny, who killed the woman Mrs. Gleason, and the Chinaman Tan Ah Seng, who cut a man's throat at Kallang Pooden while committing a burglary to escape arrest. Both of the condemned men met their death with the greatest apparent indifference—the convict, by force of custom we presume, merely making a salaam to the officers and others present.

An all-comers' rifle match has been shot off at the rifle butts. There were 13 entries only. Mr. Robert Dunman shot exceedingly well, carrying off the prize, being 10 points ahead of all the competitors.

The amateurs of the 80th Regiment have given a very good theatrical entertainment at the Fort Canning Theatre.

The Russian steamer Tchihatchoff, Capt. Halberg, from Odessa March 24, via Suez Canal, arrived at Tanjong Pagar wharf, en route to Shanghai and Hankow.

Commercial Report.

(For dates see first page.)

IMPORTS.

YOKOHAMA.—The tone of the market was one of great depression. The demand for Cotton Yarn recently apparent had entirely ceased, and all other articles, both Cottons and Woollens, were dull and neglected, quotations generally being nominal.

CHEFOO.—Messrs. Cornabé and Co.'s report of April 1 says:—Our last circular advices were issued on the 1st ult., when we reported our market for Cotton Goods as active. The demand continued during the early half of the past month at advancing rates when fair sales and clearances were effected. Latterly, owing to unfavourable advices from the consuming districts, the inquiry slackened, and a decline of 5 candareens per piece on Grey Shirtings and 2 candareens on T-Cloths was submitted to by some weak holders; we close with a fair inquiry, and holders pretty firm. Woollens continue to be neglected, and we look for little inquiry for some time to come. Metals: Nail Rod and Bar Iron do not advance in sympathy with southern markets; there is no inquiry whatever at the moment. Stocks are light, however, and holders intend to be firm. Lead is in fair inquiry with moderate stocks.

HONG KONG and SINGAPORE.—No change of importance had occurred in the market at either port.

SAIGON.—There had been no alteration in the import market during the month. The current rates were—Grey Shirtings, 8¼ lbs, $2.73; 7 lbs., $2.30; Supers, No. 1, $2.20; No. 2, $2.25; T-Cloth, 7lbs., $1.95; 6 lbs., $1.75; 5 lbs., $1.52; 4½ lbs., $1.30; 4 lbs., $1.20; Irish Linen; No. 150, $1.85; No. 120, $1.72.

EXPORTS.

—o—

TEA.

YOKOHAMA.—The market remained without change; settlements since the date of last report being only 200 piculs, making the total for the month about 500 piculs, these had been made for the California market. Quotations in the absence of any business of importance were quite nominal. The weather continued favourable for vegetation, but no idea of the new crop could as yet be formed. There had been no further export.

NAGASAKI.—The current quotations were—common to medium, $13 to 16 per picul; medium to fine, $17 to 19; finest, $21 to 24.

SILK.

YOKOHAMA.—Since our last report about 250 bales had been settled, of which the greater proportion were Hank sorts, for which previous rates had been paid. A few transactions in Oshus and Taysaam descriptions had also been effected. Stock remained about the same, the arrivals balancing the settlements. In prices there had been no alteration, the amount of business passing being hardly sufficient to make any change.

A Voyage Round the World by the Marquis de Beauvoir. Translated by Agnes and Helen Stephenson. London: JOHN MURRAY.

The first and second volumes of this work were noticed by us in January, 1870. The author in a preface explains that the delay in the publication of this third volume is owing to that dreadful war which dislocated everything in France. The volume before us is well illustrated and deals with the author's visit, accompanied by the Duc de Penthievre, to the South of China, Peking, the Great Wall, Japan, the Pacific route, San Francisco, &c.

It is unfortunate that the translators have not adopted the English mode of spelling the names of the various places in China mentioned in the work, seeing that the translation is expressly intended for English readers. The spelling of some words, such as picol for picul, should also have been avoided. Care should have been taken not to repeat errors which may have appeared in the original, such as the pasage of the tea clipper Taiping from the Cape to the Lizard in ninety-nine days, instead of from Foochow. The aid of some old resident in China to read the proofs would have saved these unpleasant mistakes. It could hardly be expected that lady translators could master the mysteries which surround everything connected with China and its trade. Apart from this, however, the author has very much floundered in attempting to describe the mercantile operations of our trade in China; it is evidently worked up from information which the author had no practical knowledge of. It is singular, too, that the description of Shanghai is so very meagre. The chief feature—the foreign Settlements—are scarcely attempted to be noticed. In alluding to the allied operations of 1858-60 against Canton and Peking, there are unpardonable misrepresentations of what (our) the French forces did, which to persons conversant with the matter is simply ludicrous. Such vanity might go down on the other side of the Channel, but glaring misrepresentations like the following are simply ridiculous:—

Though the long tails of hair hanging down the backs of the natives proves that we are in China, we might almost fancy ourselves in a French camp on reading on the walls the traces of the passage of our troops, &c.

Again at page 29:—

Our cannon silenced the fire from their forts.

We are glad to see that in noticing the French officers who aided the Imperialists against the rebels the author has not omitted Colonel Gordon.

We now come to the more pleasing features in the volume. In describing the route and incidents of travel the author is charming. After making a tour through Peking he says:—

Whoever has not seen Peking does not know what decay means. Thebes, Memphis, Carthage, Rome, contain ruins which tell of a fall; Peking preys upon itself—it is a corpse falling day by day into dust. When from the height of the magnificent walls, still almost entire, which surround the Tartar city, I cast my eye over the Imperial city enclosed within them; when I saw the splendid perspective of bastions, of gateways surmounted by pagodas, of fortifications at the angles, of the walls, and looked at the conical shining roofs of the temples which rise up from the midst of an actual forest; when, turning to the other side, I glanced at the Chinese city and pictured it all to myself full of life and verdant freshness, traversed by limpid streams furnished with cannon, populous and noisy, I fancied that I could retrace in my imagination the Peking of a thousand years ago; and I stood overpowered with admiration of this wonder of the extreme East.

The author with his friend, the Duc de Penthievre, were entertained by Sir Rutherford Alcock, of whom and Lady Alcock he speaks in high terms, not forgetting a compliment to the daughter. But we are not told why the French Minister did not entertain them instead of the English. Sir Rutherford put the services of an interpreter, Mr. MacClatchie, at their disposal for a tour to the Ming tombs, in which expedition the party, six in all, were at tacked, stoned, robbed of their carts, mules, and money, and had to find their way back to Peking partly on foot, in a most painful condition. Alarming reports reached Peking and other places that they had been all murdered, and murdered they would certainly have been but for the advice of Sir Rutherford not to carry arms. As it was they got back safely, and the Chinese Government, on the demand of our Minister, made the villagers pay £3,000 for the outrage.

From this to Japan was a delightful change. The agreeable simplicity of the natives, the beautiful country, and interesting lakes, temples, cities, &c., are well described; but we must refer our readers to the volume itself for a description, as also of the passage on board the Colorado to San Francisco, all told in a most interesting manner.

The April number of the Phœnix again includes in its contents several articles of great interest to the student of Chinese and Japanese Literature.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS.

DENOON V. THE HOME AND COLONIAL MARINE INSURANCE COMPANY.

Mr. Justice Willes has delivered judgment in this case, which was argued in a previous term by Mr. Pollock, Q.C. (Mr. Cohen with him), for the plaintiff; and Sir G. Honyman, Q.C. (Mr. C. J. Mathew with him), for the defendants, and which had been standing over for judgment.

It was an action on a policy of insurance on freight which the defendants had underwritten for £1,000. For the voyage 360 coolies were shipped, and 12,000 bags of rice intended for their consumption, to be reckoned as freight. This, however, did not constitute a full cargo. The vessel was wrecked on the voyage, but the coolies were saved. The defendants paid into court £441 2s. as the proportion of the loss which, they contended, they were bound to contribute only. The main question argued was whether the passage money of the coolies could be legally treated as freight, and the Court held that it could not, and that the policy was to be treated as an open one, and that the defendants were not liable as for the loss of a full cargo. The proportion to which they were liable the Court estimated at £700, and therefore gave judgment for the plaintiff for £258 18s., which, together with the £441 2s. paid into court, made up £700.

COURT OF DIVORCE.

ARMITAGE V. ARMITAGE AND YOUNG.

In this case the husband sued for a divorce on the ground of his wife's adultery. The respondent and co-respondent answered and denied the adultery. The petitioner, Captain John Scott Armitage, is a gentleman of wealth and position, and was married to the respondent on the 20th March, 1861. After the marriage they resided at various places, but chiefly at Alderley Edge, Cheshire. The petitioner is a partner in a mercantile house at Ceylon, and in 1865 he went out on a visit there with his wife. While there they made the acquaintance of the co-respondent, Colonel George Samuel Young, who was on the staff there, and with whom they became very intimate. They returned to England in 1866, and in 1871 the co-respondent also left Ceylon and came to England. On his doing so the petitioner asked him to visit his family at Alderley Edge, and he did so. He was there at the end of July of that year. While he was there the petitioner had occasion to remonstrate with his wife as to the attention she allowed him to pay her, but she assured him there was nothing in it. Colonel Young left Alderley on Saturday, the 29th of July, and the respondent left on the Monday following to go on a visit to her mother, who resided at Fairfield, near Manchester, and the petitioner went to join his children at the Lakes. Somewhere about the 6th of August his wife joined him there. Soon after she came he received a letter from a friend, stating that instead of being at her mother's she had been in London. The petitioner taxed her with having been there, when she admitted that she had, and that she had seen Colonel Young, but that no impropriety had taken place between them. The petitioner, however, afterwards ascertained that on the night of the 1st of August the respondent had slept with Colonel Young in London, and on making himself sure of that he commenced the present suit.

The adultery was clearly proved, and the Court pronounced a decree nisi with costs.

A GERMAN CONSUL FOR AMOY.

A correspondent of the Allgemeine Zeitung at Amoy urges the necessity of appointing a German consul for that port. The number of German ships in Chinese waters, he says, is greater than that of the ships of any other nation, England not excepted; and at Amoy ninety-two German ships entered and left the harbour between March and December last. The interests of German subjects at Amoy are looked after by the English consul, who cannot speak German, while most of the German sailors, &c., who are constantly requiring consular assistance, cannot speak English. Moreover, "the well-known peaceful disposition of the present English Ministry, which at times is rather disposed to suffer injustice than to do justice when the latter requires a display of energy, must render the protection of an English consul not so effectual for the interests of German ships in China as might be desirable." "I fear," continues the correspondent, "that the evident unwillingness of the English authorities to do anything which might lead to a disturbance of their present friendly relations with the Chinese might prove rather a temptation to the latter to commit outrages on Europeans than a guarantee for the maintenance of peace." At the same time the correspondent admits that England has rendered many services to the Germans in China. "Whenever German ships have sought the protection of an English man-of-war this has always been given with the greatest readiness, and I have heard many a German captain speak gratefully of the friendliness and anxiety to be of service shown by English officers. . . . . The German press would do well to endeavour to make us independent of English assistance instead of talking of 'perfidious Albion' and the 'dirty shopkeepers.' It is humiliating for a German who loves his country to have to be told by an Englishman, 'You are always abusing England and her egotistical policy, and yet you can't do without us.'"

THE JAPANESE EMBASSY.

Mr. KINNAIRD asked the Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs whether the Government were preparing to take steps to receive the eminent Japanese statesman Iwakura and the other distinguished persons composing the Japanese Embassy, who were expected shortly to arrive in England, in a manner calculated to mark our appreciation of the policy of the Emperor and the efforts of his Government to establish cordial relations with foreign Powers.

Lord ENFIELD: Sir Harry Parkes, General Alexander, and Mr. Aston, interpreter to the Legation in Japan, have been appointed to attend to the Japanese Embassy on their arrival and during their stay in this country, but at present we have no intimation as to the probable time of their arrival.

BORNEO.

(Report of Consul General Pope Hennessy to Earl Granville.)

With reference to your lordship's circular despatch of the 26th August, 1871, I beg leave to subjoin the following brief report on Her Majesty's Consular Establishments in Borneo.

2. The Governor of Labuan is also Her Majesty's Consul-General in the Island of Borneo. As Consular salary he receives £300, together with an allowance for office expenses of £200 a year, out of which he pays a Malay writer. He generally resides at Labuan, the seat of his colonial government, about six miles from the nearest part of Borneo, and about thirty miles from the town of Brunei where the Sultan lives.

3. There is likewise at Sarawak an unpaid Vice-Consul. Mr. C. J. Brooke is one of the many rajahs (though the only European one) under the suzerainty of the Sultan of Borneo, and the Vice-Consul resides not far from Mr. Brooke's principal establishment.

4. Of these two officers, the position of the Consul-General is the only one of any real importance. Sarawak is little more than a trading post of the Borneo Company, and the benevolent attempt of the late Sir James Brooke to make it a place of political influence for the civilisation of the dyaks has not succeeded. However, in facilitating the operations of the Borneo Company, and in giving assistance to a zealous staff of able missionaries of the Church of England, the Vice-Consul is, no doubt a useful officer. For some years past the office has been held by the local agent of the Baroness Burdett Coutts. He obtains a small sum annually by means of fees, but I venture to think his services are deserving of a more substantial reward.

5. The Consul-General's post is of importance, more from his political than his commercial duties; as to the latter, though the trade of the town of Brunei has increased of late years, it is still only sufficient to give employment to one barque of about 500 tons burden, which sails regularly to Labuan and Singapore. This trade is altogether in the hands of the Anglo-Chinese. In the western district of Borneo the trade is chiefly at Pontianak and the other Dutch stations on the river Kapoas. This trade is partly with Singapore and partly with Java, and gives constant work to about fifteen large vessels in the year. Of the 24,000 Chinese who are on the river Kapoas a small proportion were born in the Straits Settlements and are British subjects. Of the Klings or British-born natives of India probably more than a thousand are settled on the river.

6. When in the year 1869 I went about five hundred miles up the Kapoas, I found that British goods had penetrated into the centre of Borneo. At the remote inland stations which the Dutch Government have been so successful in establishing, I saw that a large proportion of the articles offered for sale bore the marks of Birmingham, Manchester, and Sheffield houses. I ascertained that this consumption of English goods in the Dutch part of Borneo had been growing steadily since the year 1833, when the Netherlands Government proclaimed a free-trade policy on the Kapoas.

7. I was unable to visit the Dutch possessions on the southern and western parts of Borneo, but I understand that the number of British subjects trading either at Banjermassin or at Koti is not so large as upon the Kapoas.

8. The political business of the Consul-General mainly depends on the Treaty made in 1846 between Her Majesty the Queen and the Sultan of Borneo. The Consul-General is the medium of communication between the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs and the Sultan.

9. The immigration of Anglo-Chinese into the dominions of the Sultan seems to be the only practical means for developing the resources of that part of Borneo which is not under the useful administration of the Dutch. Within the last few years the Sultan has imitated the Dutch by creating Chinese captains—that is, giving two or three of the principal Chinese merchants the rank of Pangerans, and enabling them to protect their fellow countrymen and to regulate to some extent the system of local taxation. To foster and protect this immigration of Chinese, I regard as one of the main duties of the Consul-General.

10. From time to time the Sultan has been asked to cede portions of his territory, but he has not the power of doing so without the consent of the British Government; any negotiations of the kind are referred to the Consul-General.

11. There are some points bearing on the prosperity of the Colony of Labuan which also render the Consulate establishment of Brunei of value. Every day trading praubs pass from the Brunei river to Victoria Harbour; the sago manufacturers in Labuan have similar establishments in the Brunei, and depots for collecting the raw sago in various parts of the Sultan's dominions; the Scotch company that work the coal mines in the Island of Labuan are also the lessees of the coal field on the mainland. The existence of the convict establishment at Labuan makes it desirable to have constant and friendly means of communication with the Sultan, as it is almost altogether upon his Majesty's good offices that the Labuan Government must rely to recover escaped prisoners.

12. Finally, the Consul-General is the only medium for conducting the few communications that pass between the Sultan of Sooloo and Her Majesty's Government; though such communications are rare, yet the trade of Sooloo with Labuan is increasing of and promises to be of considerable value to the merchants Singapore.

SARAWAK.

(Report of Vice-Consul Marten to Earl Granville.)

The chief trade and industry of the country consists of the importation of British cotton, woollen, and silk goods, brass wire, earthenware, wines, spirits, and beer, provisions, salt, opium, &c., &c. And the export of gutta-percha, india-rubber, beeswax, dye woods, gums, antimony, quicksilver, gold dust, diamonds, sugar-flower, pepper, gambia, &c., &c.

British commercial interests were at a very low ebb prior to the establishment of a consulate in 1864. Since that date they gradually improved until the withdrawal of Mr. Consul Ricketts, in 1866, when they suffered a check, but again revived in 1868, and have continued steadily to improve in value and importance up to 1871.

In 1858 no Consulate existed, in 1864 G. T. Ricketts, Esq. became Consul on a salary of £500 or £600 per annum. I am unable to state the cost of his establishment. In 1867 I was appointed Vice-Consul, but have never received any salary, and have had to pay all expenses incidental to the Consulate out of my own means. The duties I am called upon to perform are—The rendering assistance to all wrecked seamen and to British subjects in distress.

The settlement of disputes and differences between British subjects, such being chiefly natives of Madras and Straits-born Malays and Chinese. Any political duties that may arise. All other duties required by the Foreign-office Regulations and the Instructions from the Board of Trade.

My office hours cannot be determined exactly, but I am supposed to be accessible at any hour. Owing to having to bear the expenses of the Consulate myself I do not rent an office, so that any person wishing to speak to me comes to my house.

My allowance for office expenses is nil. and the average amount of fees obtained has never been more than £10 per annum. The expenses incidental to the Consulate have amounted to about £200 per annum.

I enjoy no privileges by Treaty. By usage and by virtue of certain laws and regulations of the Sarawak Government I exercise all the judicial powers vested in a Consul by the Merchant Shipping Act, and moreover in any cases before the Sarawak criminal and civil courts in which a British subject is implicated, my presence is always requested by the Court. My position towards the Local Authorities is the same as that enjoyed by my predecessor, Mr. Consul Rickets.

My special jurisdiction is confined to mercantile marine matters as regulated by the Board of Trade, and to appeals from British Indian subjects against sentences of the local courts, which, though generally found frivolous, I am, of course, bound to receive and look into.

The only remark I have to offer in connection with the above is that, although I at present enjoy all the privileges of a Consul, it is obvious that so soon as another Power appoints a Consul at Sarawak he would take precedence of me as Vice-Consul.

In 1864 a British Consulate was established at Sarawak, and G. T. Ricketts, Esq., at present Her Majesty's Consul at Manila, was appointed Consul on a salary of £500 or £600 per annum. On Mr. Ricketts being sent to Manila in 1866 the Consulate remained closed until August, 1867, when I was appointed Vice-Consul unpaid, but with liberty to trade and to apply the Consular fees to defray the expenses of the Consulate. Of this liberty to trade I have not been able to avail myself, and the fees levied in accordance with Act 6 of George IV., cap. 87, and the Order in Council of May 1855, have never been sufficient to meet the expenses of the Consulate.

Judging from the above, and looking at the "Foreign-office List" and similar publications, it would appear as if Sarawak had, owing probably to its being a portion of the Island of Borneo, gradually and imperceptibly become merged into a Vice-Consulate under the Consul-General of Borneo. Such, however, is far from being its real position. The first Consul-General of Borneo was the late Sir James Brooke, Bart., who afterwards became Rajah of Sarawak. The title of Consul-General for Borneo was, however, continued to Sir James Brooke's successor as Governor of Labuan, and the same title has always been retained. The Consul-General of Borneo has no power beyond the territory of Brunei; having no exequatur from his Majesty the King of the Netherlands he is not acknowledged by the Dutch, who hold the greater part of Borneo, nor is he recognised in Sarawak, as he holds no exequatur from the Rajah. I possess the necessary exequatur and correspond direct with Her Majesty's Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, and conduct the business of the Consulate in the same manner as Mr. Consul Ricketts did.

The business is gradually increasing, owing to the increase of trade, and it will soon be out of my power to attend to it without some assistance. I would therefore submit for consideration that I be appointed Consul at Sarawak, and receive a similar salary as allowed to my predecessor.

GERMANY.

HAMBURG, May 28.

The Treaty of Commerce between China and Germany, concluded by Count Eulenburg for ten years, expires in the course of next month, and it is, therefore, high time to consider the question of its renewal, and in that case the possibility of obtaining some further concessions and advantages. Its chief importance for Germany lies in the clauses relating to navigation, as a large number of German vessels are now engaged in the carrying trade between the ports on the east coast of Asia. For some time past the German newspapers have been "ventilating" the subject, and, as might be expected, have expressed very different views according to the interests or ignorance of the writers. It is not very long since they were all ablaze with visions of establishing a colony in the Far East and dreams of impregnable fortresses in China or its vicinity. Now not a single voice is lifted up in favour of such a wild scheme of doubtful glory; in fact, I have good reason to believe that it was never really intended to be realised, but that the semi-official press received the mot de'ordre to put forth the idea as a feeler for the nation, and follow it up for a certain period; but finding that it fell on barren ground and elicited no feelings of enthusiasm, it was abandoned as impracticable. On the subject of the renewal of the Treaty the most healthy and practical views are expressed by the north of Germany, and especially the Chambers of Commerce of Hamburg, Bremen, Rostock, and Stettin, which all concur in wishing to see the number of China ports open to foreign trade greatly increased. In this respect the opening of a port on the island of Hainau would be very desirable, as European vessels from India mostly return to China in ballast; but might then load salt and other produce for Chinese continental ports. They also lay stress on the expediency of opening some places on the Yungtsee-Kiang, which would enable German shipowners to compete with British steamers on that great river flowing through the heart of the country. They further consider it highly desirable, if possible, to get rid of the double (export and import) duties now imposed on goods transhipped from one port to another; also a reduction and fair mode of levying port charges on vessels, as well as free admittance to the coal and other minerals of Formosa. In other respects and with more regard to trade and navigation, they recommend Germany to join and support the English endeavours to obtain a free communication and safety of life and property for European merchants in the interior of China, and the possibility of, according to foreigners, the right to purchase, sell, and inherit landed property and houses. The introduction of a general commercial code of laws and a mixed court of justice for the settlement of disputes and claims between natives and foreigners would be a great desideratum. Perhaps the question of a German naval station at some suitable spot might be ventilated, which was warmly supported by the Naval Minister in a late memorial sent in by him to the Emperor, but with unmitigated repudiation of the most distant idea of founding a colony.

The new Eastern Siberian Trading Company of this city gives notice in the local papers of the loss of a letter directed to them from Nicolayefsk on the Amoor, containing remittances for 50,000 roubles in six bills of Exchange drawn in their favour on two houses at St. Petersburg, and warning the public that steps have already been taken to prevent their being fraudulently made use of.

From Kiel we learn that an iron steamer of 1,500 tons was successfully launched last week from the yards of the Iron Shipbuilding and Engine Works in that town. It is the largest vessel as yet built there, and is intended to ply regularly under the German flag for Hamburg account between this port and China, via the Suez Canal, under the command of Captain Umlandt.

The Emperor has distributed several decorations to Hamburg gentlemen, in recognition of their services in voluntarily tending the sick and wounded during the late war. Among them I notice that Herr Johannes Mooyer has received the Order of the Crown, with the red cross on a white field, and Herr Osca Mooyer, the Prussian Order of the Red Eagle.

COMMERCIAL.

Tea is totally neglected, not a single sale by importers being reported, probably in consequence of the Whitsuntide holidays. The sales of cleaned Rice have been more satisfactory, and of rough 8,000 bags of Rangoon, per Teti, have been sold for arrival. Cassia Lignea is a shade lower, but there are buyers at 10⅜ sch. bco.; Flores may also be had a little cheaper. On the other hand, Cloves are in great demand, and rising rapidly. Pepper is firm, but without much alteration; Singapore sells at 7¼ to 7⅜, and Penang at 6¾ to 6⅞ sch. bco. In Spelter no transactions recorded.

ROTTERDAM, May 29.

The Second Chamber is still busy, but the discussions have been uninteresting. The budget of War was approved of by forty against fourteen votes, and amongst the other measures carried was that by which a credit is asked to grant a further advance of 1,000,000 to the unfortunate Amsterdam Canal Company. One of the worst results of the Ministerial crisis is that the revision of the East Indian Tariff will again be delayed. A Bill has been introduced by which the existing tariff, with all its injustices is maintained till the 1st of January 1874. Of course this Bill must be passed, there is no choice. But it is doubtful if even in 1874 the revision can take place. All must depend upon the Ministry, and if the Conservatives or the Clerical element preponderates there can be no hope of a liberal alteration.

The intention of the Suez Canal Company to charge steamers after 1st July with dues upon their gross tonnage, has made here a twofold impression. The owners of steamships are indignant, whilst the owners of sailing vessels approve of the change, because the freight by steamers must be raised to meet the increased expenses of passage through the canal. One of our shipping papers supplies the following illustration:—

Steamers.	Nett Tonnage.	Gross Tonnage.	Dues paid Now.	Dues after July 1.
Adonis... ...	290	481	f.2,900	f.4 810
Cordova ...	910	1,417	9,100	14,170
Bengal ..	1,009	1,503	10,090	15,030
City of Oxford	1,490	2,319	14,900	23,190
Arizona ...	1,664	2,479	16,640	24,790
Cambodge ...	1,682	2,791	16.820	27,910
Ava	1,902	3,157	19,020	31,570
Australia ...	2,287	3,648	22,870	36,480

It seems that the administration of the Canal intends to make it impossible for owners of steamers to compete with sailing vessels.

Amongst the Bills laid before the Second Chamber has been one by which the Department of the Colonies asks a further credit in order to cover the expenses of the voyage de retour of the ex-Governor-General, Mr. Myer. I should not have made any mention of this matter if the Minister van Bosse had not stated that he has made with the present Governor-General other arrangements, so that for the future these credits will not be required.

The latest news from the West Coast of Africa is that an officer named Lieutenant Joost has been wounded seriously by the natives, but in mistake for another person. The ball struck the lieutenant in the thigh, and he will not recover from the wound. This fact, however deplorable it may be, has no political significance.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

The Trading Company's May sales of Coffee and Sugar have both gone off at materially advanced rates, thus confirming the favourable opinion entertained of the same, and the advance established at these sales, for both articles, continues to be fully maintained. A speculative movement has developed itself in Cotton at improved prices, whilst a change for the better has taken place in the position of Tin, but regarding other articles of produce but little alteration is to be noticed.

COFFEE.—According to the general anticipations the Trading Company's May sale has been attended with a most satisfactory result. The large competition of buyers attracted by the same, caused the biddings to be very animated, and the prices paid exceed the valuations on an average by 1½c., good ordinary having been sold at 44¾c. to 45c. This favourable issue has been promoted by the circumstance that not only the inward duty is to be abolished on direct imports in the United States on the 1st July next, but also the differential duty of 10 per cent. ad valorem on direct imports, which, as a matter of course, will materially increase the export of Coffee from this country to America. The deficiency of the Coffee crops of 1871 begins also more and more to be brought to evidence, and will continue to be felt for some months to come, in view of which the article continues to be well thought of.

SUGAR.—The Trading Company's May sale held here last Friday went off very well at an advance of f.¼ above the valuations for yellow, and of f.½ for white sorts. The market continues to exhibit great firmness, but no further sales are reported. The following is the result of the Trading Company's public sale of 55,925 baskets Java in detail:—

JAVA TOBACCO.—Without transactions of any importance. Offers by secret tender are invited here on the 30th instant for several parcels.

SPICES.—With scarcely anything doing, prices are nominally supported. 1,046 bags Amboina Cloves, ex Vier Gebroeders, were sold at a price not named.

TIN.—A firmer tone has prevailed for this article. Banca has sold for public sales prompt at f.95½ to f.96, and for delivery, ex the next autumn sale, at f.91½ to f.92, at which advanced quotations a fair business has been doing.

RICE.—Sales have been closed of 1,082 bags white Java, ex Hoek van Holland, at f.8½, and 767 bags Java, ex Rosalie.

RATTANS.—Without anything doing, but prices keep firm.

KAPOK.—Sales have been closed of 120 bales at from 14c. to 21c., and 534 bales at 24c. to 26c.

HIDES.—The business done since my last has been confined to the sale of the parcels imported ex Hoek van Holland and Leucothea; 547 Macassar Buffaloes were sold at 27c.

INDIGO.—A quiet tone prevails in the market.

PRESERVED GINGER.—A public sale of 400 cases went off at 70c. to 75c. The quantity put up has been partly bought in.

LONDON: MONDAY, JUNE 3, 1872.

THE EX-GOVERNOR OF HONG KONG

SIR RICHARD MACDONNELL has once more returned from Hong Kong, having completed his term of office. His friends will be glad to know that his health has considerably improved on the voyage, and that he was able to be present at the dinner of the Royal Geographical Society last Monday. During his career the colony has experienced the most eventful part of its history. Assuming the government of the place in 1866, he found it a hotbed of piracy, bankruptcy, corruption, and wrangling. The vigorous manner in which he set to work to "straighten" out all these abuses was astounding. The whole staff of Government employes were speedily aroused from a comfortable not to say lethargic way of doing things. Most emphatically did the new Governor verify the old adage that "new brooms sweep clean." Before forty-eight hours had elapsed he had personally inspected the jail, which, by the way, is now one of the best kept in the Far East, and other public buildings in the colony; in less than a week he trod on the corns of nearly every official, and in less than a month he had set himself right or wrong with the whole community in true Irish fashion. Like the month of March, he began his career "like a lion and went out like a lamb." The energy, strategy, and cunning with which he set about reforms speedily showed that he knew how to meet even Chinese difficulties. His raid on the junkmen and the establishment of a system of registration scared away traders at first and alarmed the merchants; but "strong diseases require strong remedies," and no one can deny that the frequent piracies which at that time abounded in the harbour passages, and even in the harbour itself, were a national disgrace to our government of the colony. If the pirates had confined their attentions to English vessels, there would probably not have been so much uproar; but when German and other owners, felt these losses and published them on the various exchanges, they became the talk of Europe. The severe measures adopted by Sir RICHARD were therefore fully justified.

With the corruption and inefficiency of the Police Force he has not been so successful. Truly it is an Augæan stable. The difficulties are hydra-headed, and have beaten all the inventive powers of Sir RICHARD, who has even tried an importation from the West Indies. The raising of an increased revenue necessary to meet the high rate of expenditure was also a difficult problem. The introduction of a Stamp Act, which the mercantile community opposed very strongly, failed to produce the required sum, and all efforts in this direction seemed futile until Sir RICHARD hit on the expedient of "licensing the gambling houses" by means of a farm. This proved a perfect Eldorado, the competition for the farm producing a fabulous sum. Of course the introduction of such a tax could not be done openly under British authority, and the fertility of the Governor's genius was taxed how to accomplish it and satisfy the Home Government, which had distinctly said that the money could not be treated as ordinary revenue, or appropriated to the expenditure. He decided on the novel expedient of declaring that the large expenditure on the police was owing to the Chinese inhabitants, and this special tax should be devoted expressly for the suppression of vice. The fund however so far exceeded the requirements that, according to the last published account, a handsome balance remained in the Hong Kong Treasury. This is a nice little nest-egg for the new Governor. The tax, however, being now suppressed, the revenue for the year will have to be made more elastic or the expenditure reduced, and this will be the first difficulty with which Sir ARTHUR KENNEDY will have to contend. The figures for last year stand as follows:—Revenue, $844,417; expenditure, $894,208.

MANILA and Bangkok have not yet been provided with telegraphic communication. The land line scheme proposed appears to have been abandoned, and we can only look to the Submarine Companies to carry out the work. It would no doubt vastly facilitate the accomplishment of this object if the three companies—Indian Extension, China, and Australian—would amalgamate. As it is we believe that not one of them can undertake the matter, and it certainly will not pay any rival company to lay down these lines. The dividends and prices of shares in the existing companies must very materially increase before such a project would find favour. There has been a talk of a Spanish subsidy for Manila, but in the present condition of Spain it is idle to expect any such aid.

IT will be seen in our Hamburg correspondent's letter that the German merchants, through their Chambers of Commerce, are now discussing the requirements for their trade with China, necessary to be brought forward in the revision of the Treaty, which shortly expires.

THE P. and O. steamer Australian, appointed to take out the next India and China mails from Southampton on the 6th inst., will proceed on through the Suez Canal direct for Hong Kong and Shanghai, with a large cargo.

THE P. AND O. COMPANY'S REPORT.

The following is the report to be laid before the Proprietors of the P. and O. Company, at the half-yearly meteing on the 6th instant.

The Company's Fleet.

In the last annual report five vessels appeared on the list of "ships fitting out and building;" of these, the Peshawur has come into active service, this vessel having been despatched to Calcutta, via the Suez Canal, in January. The remaining four will probably be available in the following order:—The Cathay is to be delivered by Messrs. Denny Brothers, towards the end of June. The Hydaspes will be launched by the same firm in about a month, and handed over to the company in August; and the Malwa and Bokhara are to be completed by Messrs. Caird and Co. in December and February next.

The Directors are happy to report that the navigation of the company's numerous fleet has not been attended by any accident since the date of the last report. The Suez Canal has been made use of when the directors have been informed by the telegraph that particular vessels have left India with unusually large cargoes, and three ships inwards and a similar number outwards have passed through the Canal in the course of the last six months. The Indus and Australia are about to return to the East by the same route with full cargoes, and three or four of the company's large carrying steamers are expected to leave China immediately with cargoes of new teas, direct for England.

In the last Annual Report, the directors stated, with reference to the contracts they had then entered into for the construction of the four new ships, Cathay, Hydaspes, Malwa, and Bokhara, that additional measures in the same direction might shortly become necessary, and the proprietors will not therefore be unprepared to learn that contracts have been signed with Messrs. Denny Brothers for building four more vessels of about 2,500 tons register each, with engines of 450-horse power on the compound principle. It is proposed to call these ships the Venetia, Lombardy, Gwalior, and Nizam.

The directors have referred so frequently in their later reports to the changed conditions under which trade with the East is now carried on, and to the absolute necessity of meeting these altered circumstances by the employment of ships combining large cargo capacity with that superior class of accommodation for passengers which has ever been afforded by the company's steamers, that it will not now be requisite to repeat the reasons already given for reinforcing the fleet. It cannot fail, however, to inspire the proprietors with confidence in the ability of the company to keep pace with the existing competition, when they observe that sixteen new ships of this improved type, grossing 50,000 tons, have been contracted for during the last four years.

The Postal Contract with the Italian Government.

A very brief experience of the line to Brindisi was sufficient to demonstrate that, although that port was convenient for mail purposes, and, to a certain extent, for passengers, it was altogether ineligible for cargo traffic, owing to the great expense of forwarding goods by rail to and from the manufacturing districts of Italy and Central Europe. As regards cargo, the steamers on this line have therefore been running empty, while the company have been compelled to pay to opposing lines very considerable sums for conveying goods to and from Genoa, Marseilles, Venice, and Trieste, in connection with the company's steamers east of Suez. This disadvantage has not only caused a serious loss in working the Brindisi line, but it has also debarred the company from meeting in any adequate manner the increasing requirements of Eastern trade in connection with the Continent. It was therefore necessary to adopt some measures calculated to obviate these drawbacks, otherwise it appeared certain that the company must continue to lose by the Brindisi line, and at the same time have to encounter competition from ports more conveniently situated for the transport of goods.

The Italian Government had for some years subsidised a line of steamers belonging to the Adriatic and Oriental Steam Navigation Company, between Brindisi and Alexandria, with an extension for freight purposes to Ancona and Venice, and as from the time the line between Brindisi and Alexandria was occupied by this company's ships the Italian line became unnecessary for postal work, a position of affairs was created which afforded an opening for negotiations between the Italian Government, the Adriatic and Oriental Company, and this company, and these at length resulted in a convention, which only awaits the formal ratification of the Italian Parliament and the King of Italy. Under this convention the Adriatic Company are to receive from the Italian Government an indemnity in consideration of the abandonment of their contracts, which had to run until February, 1878; and this company are to receive an annual subsidy of 500,000 Italian lire (about £19,000) for the remaining term of that contract, in consideration of the extension of their line to Ancona and Venice. By this operation the best interests of the company will be served.

The position of Venice, since the completion of the Brenner and other lines of railway, is such as to confer advantages upon that port equal to those possessed by any other port in the Mediterranean for Eastern traffic, and the directors confidently look forward to the development of a remunerative business from this extension of the company's work. At the same time, the withdrawal of the Adriatic and Oriental Company will at once place this company in possession of a local traffic now carried by the former between Venice and Alexandria.

The Election of a New Director.

The board now consists of ten, being the minimum number provided for by the company's deed. This circumstance would not, however, of itself have led the directors to suggest the election of a new member, but they recommend that course for the following reasons:—In the early part of the present year Mr. James Allan, who was elected a director in 1849, and managing director shortly afterwards, communicated to the board his desire to be relieved wholly or partially from the duties of his office, placing his future position, with characteristic disinterestedness, entirely in the hands of his colleagues. An arrangement resulted under which Mr. Allan retains his seat at the board, and his post of managing director, but with a diminished amount of labour and a modified rate of remuneration; and the directors are persuaded that the proprietors will learn with satisfaction that a gentleman so long associated with the company will continue to afford the management the best advice his great experience may suggest.

The active duties assigned to the managing directors would thus in a great measure have devolved upon Mr. Bayley, and the directors consequently resolved to recommend the proprietors to place them in a position to strengthen this department, by electing Mr. Thomas Sutherland to a seat at the board, as necessary to his appointment as managing director. Mr. Sutherland commenced his career in the company's service about twenty years ago, and after filling the important post of superintendent at Hong Kong for some years, and paying visits of inspection to most of the company's foreign stations, was appointed an assistant-manager on the London establishment in 1868. He has always displayed an amount of zeal and ability in the discharge of his duties which enables the directors to recommend him with confidence for the appointment he now seeks at your hands.

It only remains for the directors to report that the financial result of the company's business for the six months ending 31st March enables them to recommend the declaration of an interim dividend of three per cent., free of income-tax, for the half-year.

Monetary and Commercial.

Telegrams received on Friday last report the opening of the Foochow tea market at rates considerably higher than last year.

The report of the P. and O. Company, to be presented at the meeting on Thursday next—which we publish in full in another column—states that under the recent convention with the Italian Government, extending the line to Ancona and Venice, the company will receive an annual subsidy until 1878 of about £19,000. Four steamers are now being built for the undertaking, making sixteen new ships contracted for during the last four years.

At the meeting of the Anglo-Mediterranean Telegraph Company (Limited) a dividend was declared at the rate of 15 per cent. per annum; at that of the Marseilles, Algiers, and Malta Telegraph Company a dividend at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum; at that of the Falmouth, Gibraltar, and Malta Telegraph Company (Limited), a dividend was declared of 2½ per cent. for the quarter ending March, making, with the interim dividend already paid, a total for the six months at the rate of 8½ per cent. per annum; at that of the British Indian Submarine Telegraph Company (Limited), a dividend of 2½ per cent. was declared for the quarter ending March, making, with the previous payment, a total distribution for the half-year at the rate of 9 per cent. per annum.

At a meeting of the Newcastle Chamber of Commerce some correspondence which had taken place between the Chamber and the Suez Canal Company was read, relating to the proposals of the company to charge dues on the gross tonnage instead of the net registered tonnage. In the opinion of the Chamber, the Canal Company were so restricted by the concessions which were made when it was opened as an international navigation route that it is not within their power to adopt the proposed regulations. A committee was appointed to draw up a letter to Earl Granville, stating the views of the Chamber on the subject.

We understand that the shipowners decline to make any concession from the practice they have introduced for the payment of freight inwards, and the negotiations for adjusting the terms for an inward Bill of Lading may therefore be considered at an end.

The following is the text of the Act repealing the duties upon Tea and Coffee in the United States as officially published:—

Be it enacted, by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled:—That on and after the first day of July next, Tea and Coffee shall be placed on the free list, and no further import duty shall be collected upon the same; and all Tea and Coffee which may be in the public stores or bonded warehouses on said first day of July shall be subject to no duty upon the entry thereof for consumption, and all Tea and Coffee remaining in bonded warehouses on said first day of July upon which the duties shall have been paid, shall be entitled to a refund of the duties paid.—Approved May 1, 1872. The foregoing is a correct copy of the Act as passed by Congress, and approved by the President.

EDWARD M'PHERSON, Clerk House of Representatives.

A useful table showing the cost of Grey and White Shirtings to China including all charges has been compiled by Mr. J. S. Ranken, of St. Mary Axe.

Bar Silver is not quite so firm, and the price may be considered as fractionally lower, the quotation being 60 1-16d. We have received about £45,000 from New York, £5,000 from the Brazils, and about £20,000 from the West Indies. Mexican Dollars remain as last quoted, having been sold at 62d. per oz. for the old, and 59⅜d. per oz. for the new coinage.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

There has been no improvement in the tone of the market during the past week. The earlier opening and large settlements of Tea at Hankow and the southern ports have caused a greater desire on the part of importers to realise upon old Teas before the arrival of the new; and the private contract demand being very small, resort has again been had to public sales without reserve, the result being a further decline in many kinds. Public sales took place on the 24th, 27th, and 28th ult., comprising 10,294 packages, and the whole sold without reserve. Further large sales are announced for the 6th inst. The deliveries for the week have amounted to 3,246,778 lbs., against 3,640,873 lbs. last year.

Black.—Red-leaf kinds: Siftings and broken-leaf kinds have sold rather in buyers' favour. Fair to good common show no change, but the demand is quiet. Fair to good Kaisows have been sold at rather lower rates. In fine to finest there has been nothing doing. Pak Lin kinds are without change. Black-leaf kinds: Low kinds remain in full supply, and prices still show weakness. Fair to good common have been neglected. Fair to good medium have been sold at a decline of ½d. to 1d. per lb.; fine also fully 1d. per lb. lower; finest remain firm, there being very few in first hands. Amoy kinds are without change. New-make Canton kinds: Sales made, at public auction, show a reduction of 1d. to 1½d. per lb. for fair to good kinds. Some parcels of low Tea, from Macao, have been offering without finding buyers. Oolongs: There has been some demand for export for kinds free from dust, and prices show an advance of 1d. per lb. In Souchongs and Flowery Pekoes transactions have been small, prices remaining unchanged. Scented Teas: Canton Capers have sold ½d. to 1d. per lb. lower for fair kinds, fine remaining firm. Foo Chow kinds have sold rather lower. Canton Orange Pekoes have been steady at former prices. Foo Chow kinds have sold rather lower for good medium quality. Uncoloured Japans have been firm at previous prices. Green: The market remains firm, and prices have been steady. Young Hysons are still in demand for export. Canton Gunpowders have sold rather lower at public sale for common kinds.

SILK.

During the past fortnight the market has been fairly active, and much business has been done in Japan and filature Bengals; Chinas have not been in so much demand, although during the last few days they have been inquired for, owing to the high cost at which the new season in Shanghai has opened. The reports of the European crops are not altogether satisfactory, especially in France. Deliveries from 1st to 29th ult.:—

COFFEE.

The activity noticed in our last report has increased during the present week, and a considerable business has been done at a further advance of 1s. per cwt. in both Plantation and Native Ceylon. The current rates at the public sales are as follows: Plantation, triage and ordinary 65s. 6d. to 74s., small grey to coloury, 73s. to 77s., low middling grey 77s. to 79s., middling 79s. 6d. to 83s., good middling to fine middling coloury 83s. 6d. to 91s., fine to superior bold coloury 95s. to 100s., peaberry 89s. 6d. to 93s. Native, ordinary 68s. to 68s. 6ds. fine ordinary 71s. to 71s. 6d., fine bold 73s. to 75s., peaberry 74s. to 75s., garblings 43s. 6d. to 52s. The quotation for Native to arrive has reached 72s. per cwt.; being an advance of 1s. 6d. The only sale of other East India has been 412 bags Singapore, dull to Pari Pari at 68s. 6d. to 70s. 6d.

SUGAR.

There has been a steady demand during the week, and the business done has been at fully last mail's quotations. The following are the details of the business done:—

Manila—At public sale 1,000 bags clayed (duty 4s. 9d.) at 31s. 6d., 100 tons Taal unclayed at 24s. 7½d., and 300 tons ditto at 25s. Privately 1,800 bags clayed (duty 4s. 9d.) at 31s. 3d. For arrival 700 tons superior Ilo Ilo distant shipment per Osaka at 30s. 6d. landed terms for London.

Penang.—In auction 306 bags 114 baskets date bought in at 25s. Privately 120 baskets low date sort sold at 23s. 6d.

China, Java, and Siam.—No sales.

CAMPHOR.—China: The market has been very quiet during the past fortnight, buyers holding off on the anticipation of a decline in price on the arrival of considerable supplies now due per Meteor and other vessels. The current quotation is £4 7s. 6d. per cwt., but few transactions have been effected. Japan: Nothing doing; prices nominal.

CHINA GRASS.—Scarcely any demand; a few bales very fine white have been quitted at £55.

CHINA ROOT.—Very dull; quotations nominal.

CINNAMON.—The periodical sales held on the 27th ult. offered an unusually small quantity, viz., 995 bales Ceylon and 188 bales Tellicherry, against a total of 3,439 bales at the February auctions, and 2,032 bales at this time last year. Although the supply was small the sales went off without spirit, and prices were barely equal to those recently paid by private contract, but compared to the previous quarterly sales prices of ordinary qualities and third sort show an advance of 1d. to 2d., the good and fine sorts selling at a frequent rise of 1d. per lb. At and after the sales about 670 bales Ceylon found buyers at the following rates:—First sort, a few lots very superior sold at 3s. 6d. to 3s. 9d.; good to superior, 3s. 3d. to 6s. 7d.; low medium to good medium, 2s. 10d. to 3s. 2d.; second sort, fine to superior, 3s. 2d. to 3s. 5s.; medium to good, 2s. 8d. to 3s. 1d.; ordinary 2s. 3d. to 2s. 7d.; third sort, good to superior, 2s. 8d. to 3s. 1d.; low to medium, 1s. 7d. to 2s. 7d.; fourth sort, ordinary to good 1s. 8d. to 2s. 3d. Of chips the offers were also limited in quantity comprising only 811 bales, of which about 400 bags found buyers at about previous rates, medium to good chips at 4¼d. to 6¼d., broken quill 1s. 1d. to 1s. 6d. per lb. The stock of Ceylon Cinnamon is about 6,851 bales, against 8,466 bales at the corresponding date last year, and of Chips 16,592 packages, against 20,222 packages. The next sales are fixed for the 26th August.

COLOMBO ROOT.—Market quiet at about last quoted rate, viz., 32s. for fair quality.

COCOA NUT OIL.—The market presents an unsettled appearance, owing to the fact of recent speculative purchasers of Ceylon having forced their stocks on the market. The current market price of Ceylon is £35 to £36, and of Cochin £40 to £41 per ton. At public sale of 535 casks Ceylon offered, 19 pipes sold, fair at £35 10s., brown £33 15s., one lot £34, the remainder being bought in at £35 5s. to £36. Stock, 7,168 tons, against 5,705 tons. Afloat, about 5,537 tons Cochin and Ceylon, against 2,056 tons Cochin and Ceylon same time last year.

COPRA.—The market is firmer, but there is no business to report in Penang.

CUBEBS.—Large arrivals and little demand; a few transactions effected at 25s. for average quality.

CUTCH is extremely dull, and to sell lower prices would have to be taken. At auction, 868 bags Calcutta were bought in at 23s. 6d. to 25s. per cwt.

DRAGON'S-BLOOD.—Market steady but quiet; quotations remain as last given, viz., good lump £8, common £4 17s. to £5, dust £3 10s. per cwt.

EBONY.—There is a good demand for Ceylon, but the supply is short, and transactions are limited in consequence.

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed has been very inactive, with only small trade done at 10s. 6d. to 10s. 9d. per lb., but at the close rather better rates are obtainable, and sales are reported at the higher figure. Cassia: Holders firm, with business at 6s. per oz. Nutmeg: Quiet; 4 cases retired; nominal quotation, 6½d. to 7½d. per oz. Cinnamon continues scarce, and fine is much wanted; common is difficult to sell, 10 cases retired at public sale. Citronelle: Rather better; 81 cases mostly sold at 2¼d. per oz.; large sales of Fisher's reported at 2¼d. per oz.; good enquiry for floating lots. Lemon Grass: Firm; a single case sold at 4⅛d.

GALLS.—China: The rates paid have been somewhat irregular, but on the whole show little alteration from last quotations; 187 cases have been sold at auction at 55s. to 57s. 6d., but some 300 cases sold since privately at 56s. to 56s. 6d., and 150 cases afloat at 55s. Japan: In fair demand but no supplies have been placed on offer.

GALANGAL ROOT.—No transactions during the fortnight.

GAMBIER.—A rather steadier feeling prevails, but the business doing is only moderate. At auction, 400 bales 4,450 mats Cubes partly sold at 24s. to 24s. 6d. for fine free pale, and 23s. 6d. for good; 575 bales block part sold at 21s. per cwt. Privately on the spot, 300 bales block at 21s. to 22s.; 25 tons, now landing, at 19s. 9d. ex ship; and for arrival, 150 tons May-June shipment at 18s. 6d. per cwt., ex ship.

GUTTA-PERCHA.—Market very quiet, and prices lower; 180 baskets and 4,280 blocks, &c., offered at sale, a few of the baskets only sold at 1s. 2¼d. to 1s. 3¼d. per lb. for middling white and reboiled.

GUMS.—Benjamin: Siam continues steady, but quiet; there is a large stock of common qualities. Sumatra is also steady; of 21 cases at auction a few only sold—good seconds £8 10s. to £8 12s. 6d., thirds 82s. 6d. Copal: Steady but inactive, 420 cases chiefly sold in auction at 32s. to 32s. 6d. for fair hard and little drossy, and 20s. to 25s. dark and yellow soft. Damar: Quiet and cheaper, of 106 cases offered one-third sold at 56s. to 56s. 6d. for good Batavian in sorts. Gamboge: Steady but quiet.

HEMP.—There has been less doing in Manila during the present week, but the prices quoted in our last report are maintained.

INDIA-RUBBER.—No business in East India descriptions.

ISINGLASS.—No transactions since the periodical sales reported on in our issue of the 20th ult.

JAPAN WAX.—The heavy supplies lately on the market having been to some extent cleared, a steadier tone has been manifested, and prices have become somewhat firmer. About 340 cases have been quitted at £4 5s. for good, and £4 7s. 6d. to £4 8s. 6d. for very fine saucers.

MUSK.—Market very firm; 61 caddies at auction, all sold at full figures, viz.:—41s. to 47s. per oz. for fair to very good selected well-shaped pods; 19s. 6d. to 24s. rough and bally; pickings 28s. 6d. to 29s. 6d. 2 tins Grain brought 60s.

PEPPER.—Black: A rather animated demand has been apparent, and some 3,000 to 4,000 bags have been sold at 5¾d. to 6d., at which latter figure the market is firm. About 2,000 bags are reported sold, for delivery in May to September at 5¼d. to 6d.; only 45 bags at auction sold at 5¾d. In Singapore sales have been retail at 6¾d., the previous value; 161 bags offered at auction and retired. White: Is dull, and selling slowly at late prices. Sales effected for delivery all this year at 11d. to 11¼d.

PLUMBAGO meets a fair demand, and good and fine lump is of ready sale at extreme rates. At auction, 1,272 barrels chiefly sold, common dull to fine bold bright lump 21s. to 35s. 6d., chips 17s. to 24s., dust 5s. to 12s. 6d. per cwt.

RHUBARB.—The market for China has been a little irregular, but about previous prices have, on the average, been maintained at the sales; and of 170 cases offered, nearly the whole was sold, bold selected good fracture and coat 3s. 6d. to 4s. 7d. per lb.; rather roughish and dull coat, but good pinky and grey fracture, 2s. 4d. to 2s. 11d.; medium and bold rather darker break, 1s. 11d. to 2s. 4d. per lb.

RICE.—Only a limited business has been transacted either on the spot or for arrival. On the spot, Bengal has sold as under—ordinary at 10s. 3d. to 10s. 9d., middling at 10s. 10½d. to 11s., good at 12s., fine pearly but damaged at 13s. 6d.; Askoolie at 10s. 7½d., and to arrive 10s. to 10s. 3d. quay terms; Ballam at 8s. 4½d. to 8s. 6d. quay terms, on the spot at 8s. 3d. to 8s. 7½d., fine at 8s. 9d. to 8s. 10½d.; Madras at 11s.; Rangoon on the spot at 8s. 7½d. to 9s. for fair to slight heated, February sailing at 10s., and April-May at 10s. 1½d., Continental terms or ex ship, London; Bassein at 9s. 4½d. ex ship; Necranzie at 9s. 3d. on the spot, and at 9s. 6d. to 9s. 7½d. open charter and ex ship terms, May sailing.

SAGO.—Remains steady, but quiet; of 270 bags at auction, part sold at 17s. to 17s. 6d. per cwt. for fair small. Flour steady; rather more inquiry at the close. About 1,500 bags sold privately at 15s. 6d.

SAPANWOOD.—Manila and Siam: The stock is small and holders are firm; in public sale 15 tons Manila and 7 tons Siam were bought in at £14; privately a small parcel of Manila has been quitted at £11 10s. Ceylon: Firm and good demand; of 45 tons at auction a portion sold at £9 2s. 6d. to £9 7s. 6d. per ton for the damaged portion.

SOY.—The prices continue to decline, and of 180 casks offered in the public sales only a few have found buyers at 2s. 1d. per gallon.

SPICES.—Cinnamon: The periodical sales are reported on above. Cassia Lignea: Quiet on the spot, but to arrive about 2,000 cases have been sold at about 90s. for distant sailing, unworked quality. On the spot pile 1 sells at 115s.; do. 2, 105s.; do. 3, 100s.; and unworked, 100s. Cassia Vera: No Padang or good Singapore offered. Japan: 40 boxes coarse sold at 35s. per cwt. Cassia Buds: Very quiet; nearest selling value for good bright genuine undrawn about £7 to £7 5s. Cloves: Very firm, 520 bags Amboyna sold at 4¾d. to 6¼d. per lb. for middling, and there are buyers now at higher figures, 1 case Penang sold at 1s. 3¼d. per lb. Nutmegs: Quiet; of 12 cases at public sale, part sold at 3s. per lb. for 107's. Mace: Very flat, and only moderate trade at previous value. 2 cases sold at auction at 3s. 7d. for good.

STAR ANISEEDS.—Owing to scarcity, small orders have been executed at the advanced price of £6 12s. 6d. per cwt.; 100 cases have lately arrived, and very large arrivals are looked for on the Continent—these will doubtless affect prices.

STICKLAC.—There is but little doing, and all parcels brought to auction have been withdrawn; the nominal value of fine free Siam is £4 8s. to £4 10s. per cwt.

TIN.—Immediately after our last report holders, who had previously been firm, gave way, and showed some disposition to press sales, and prices declined. At the close there is more firmness, and quotations have slightly recovered, but are still below those of last report. Straits, on the spot, stands at £152; afloat, £148 to £150; Banca, 158; Billiton £156 per ton.

TAPIOCA.—Steady, but very quiet.

TURMERIC.—China: Firm at the last quoted rates, viz., 16s. to 17s. per cwt. Java: Very dull.

VERMILION.—An offer of 40 boxes, newly arrived per Australia, has been sold at 4s. to 4s. 3d. per lb.

By steamers via S.C., or sailing vessels, f.p.a.:—To Yokohama, steamer 35s., ship 40s.; to Shanghai, steamer 30s., ship 40s.; to Hong Kong, steamer 25s., ship 35s.; to Singapore, steamer 20s., ship 25s. to 27s. 6d.

CASUALTIES.

The American ship Leucothia, acting Captain Frobete, from Sourabaya, for Amsterdam, which put into Plymouth Sound on 29th inst., short of provisions, and to provide new boats, reports having encountered a hurricane from the north-east on Feb. 2 in lat. 29 S., lon. 54 30 E., when a heavy sea struck the ship and washed overboard the late master (Crowell) and one man from the wheel, carrying away at the same time all four boats, the rails and skylights, doing considerable other damage, and throwing the ship on her beam ends.

Further advices from Cape Town, dated May 19 (? April), state that an additional quantity of cargo consisting of 571 bags coffee, 346 serons sugar, and 29 packages of tobacco, had been sold in a damaged condition, ex Anna Margaretha, v.d. Straaten, from Banjoewangie to Rotterdam, which vessel put into Table Bay, March 2, leaky.

The Mimi P. (Aust. barq.), Randich, from Formosa to London, with sugar, put into Mauritius April 27, for provisions and water, and was afterwards towed in the harbour to undergo repairs.

The Ada, Jones, which arrived at New York, May 14, from Yokoham, reports having encountered a severe cyclone, on Feb. 22, veering from N.W. to S.E., and lasting 19 hours, during which her bulwarks were stove, sails blown away, and decks swept.

The vessel reported from Hong Kong as totally lost on the Paracels is thought to be the Aline (Germ. ship), the master of which arrived at Hong Kong previous to March 20. The Aline, Hupper, from Macao to Hamburg, passed Anjer March 18.

Advices received from Manila, by telegram from Singapore, dated May 29, state that the Lorton (barque) had been totally lost on Goulou (? Sulu) Islands; the crew took to the boats, and landed at Cebu.

MISCELLANEOUS

At MAURITIUS.—April 14, Albion, Griffin, from Singapore.

At RIO JANEIRO.—April 30, Cavour, Evans, sailed for Galle.

The Mallard (barq.), from Java to Boston, with sugar, which was towed into Halifax, N.S., May 8, dismasted, &c., by the Nebraska (str.), had been seized on account of the latter vessel for salvage.

At TABLE BAY.—April 21, Wm. Fruing, Chevalier, and sailed for Hong Kong.

At ST. GEORGE D'ELMINA.—March 20, Robertus Hendrikus, Hagenaats, sailed for Batavia.

PATENTED S.G.D.G.

PREPARATIONS for the Toilet, and particularly Soaps; Powders, &c. for the Teeth; Toilet Washes, and Vinegars, have of late assumed an importance in proportion to the demand for them. Foremost amongst these is GLYCERINE, a remarkable unctuous substance, which softens the skin without greasing it; its valuable qualities were quickly recognised by the most eminent physicians. Experimented on by MM. Dumarquay and Sutom (See "Reports and Memoirs of the Biological Society, 1836," &c.).

GLYCERINE CREAM for the skin.
GLYCERINE TOILET WATER for baths and ablutions.
GLYCERINE ELIXIR for the mouth.
GLYCERINE POMADE against scurf.
GLYCERINE SOAP for chaps and chilblains.
GLYCERINE ANTIPELLICULAIRE to prevent the hair falling off.
DULCIFIED GLYCERINE CREAM SOAP for the beard.
